

Deep affection honey come back to me

Chapter: 881

Psychological Shadow

The sun was still shining on the second day. Michelle seemed to be in a better mood. She could smile and take the initiative to talk with other people. Even so, Leon was still worried about her and followed her everywhere.

She wandered around the community with her camera, and he followed her. He didn't disturb her but silently took out his phone.

Michelle was taking pictures of the flowers and grass in the community, while Leon was secretly taking pictures of her.

With a click, he took a picture of Michelle squatted down by the flower bed, like a cute little mushroom.

Hearing the voice, Michelle raised her head and looked into Leon's smiling eyes. His amber eyes were even brighter in the sunlight, and he was smiling. It seemed that he was in a good mood.

Michelle wanted to ask him if he was taking picture of her secretly, but she didn't. She stood up to take pictures of the wild oranges grew in the community, like a green lantern hanging on the branch.

After shooting the orange, she moved down the camera a little, and then she saw two more people in the camera, which could not be seen clearly from a distance.

Michelle lengthened the focal length, then the figures in the camera were magnified. They were Bryant and his cousin, Valerie.

She hadn't seen Valerie for a long time, and even hadn't heard a n forced a smile and said, "That's different."

The smile on James's face was all gone. He sighed gently and cursed, "I'm going to kill Tim right now."

"Can you?" Vicente asked seriously, "Can you defeat Tim?"

Then James cursed in a low voice. After a moment of silence, he was really angry. "Even if I can't do it, uncle can."

"I'm from C Island, and I have a special identity, so I can't do that." Leon said.

"Uncle John and Aunt Nina must can!" James sneered arrogantly, "Can he defeat Uncle John?"

Leon shook her head again. "We can't kill him. We don't have any evidence. We can only cause him trouble in the business field. This method has been used, and the Silverhall Nightclub is still closed for internal rectification."

"Isn't Mimi the evidence?" Said James angrily.

"She got hurt by herself. The people on the island know nothing and do things with money." Leon suppressed his anger gloomily, "They said that Michelle had a good time on the island and no one made things difficult for her. They were afraid that she would get hurt. If she got hurt, others would suffer as well."

Vicente glanced at Leon and asked, "Do you think that Tim looks like you seven years ago?"

Leon's heart skipped a beat.

'Is it?'

They were so familiar. They all kept the one they liked by their side in a tough way.

The Ambiguous Marks On Michelle

After a walk, Michelle came back with sweat on her forehead and her cheeks flushed like red apple.

Seeing this, Leon stood up and walked towards her. He took out a tissue and gently wiped the sweat off her forehead. Michelle gave him a sweet smile.

Leon also smiled, but the way he looked at Michelle was deep and unpredictable. The psychologist's words lingered in his ears, and he was unable to relax.

He even didn't know what to do.

Although she couldn't have contact with any other man except him and it satisfy his possessiveness, it was abnormal.

He wanted her to have a normal life.

Leon held her in his arms and rubbed his chin against her head.

"What's wrong, brother?" All of a sudden, Michelle felt that he was like an injured little fox and needed her comfort, so she raised her hand and gently patted his back.

Leon was silent for a while. He lowered his head and kissed her hair. "We've been playing for a long time. Do you want to change your clothes?"

"Ah!" Michelle remembered that she was sweating, so she must have smelled of sweat. She quickly got out of Leon's arms and said, "But the clothes are at home."

Leon gently pinched her chin and said with a smile, "Mrs. Lu, let me remind you that we are a legal couple. My home is also your home."

Yes, they had registered for marriage.

k. Standing behind her, Emma happened to see the red mark on the back of her neck.

It seemed that she was scratched by someone's finger. There was a time when she had sex with James, James accidentally left such an ambiguous mark on her body.

Emma frowned and thought, 'Mimi is still injured. How can she bear to have sex?'

When she was staring at the back of Michelle's neck, James also saw it by accident. He was thinking that his uncle was awesome, but he immediately understood when he saw his wife frown.

He silently took two steps back, turned around and strode to Leon. He put his arm around his shoulder, as if they were friends.

"What's wrong?" Leon looked at him curiously.

James said in a low voice, "Uncle, although you are my elder, you are just few years older than me. I treat you as my friend."

"Okay." Leon raised her eyebrows, letting him to go on.

"So I want to say," afraid of being heard by others, James lowered his voice and said frankly, "Can you stop being such a beast? Mimi is still injured, and you hurt her again. "

"My wife saw it just now. She must be sad and angry now. My wife felt bad, then I will also feel bad. Uncle, how can you make me feel bad? "

Leon looked at him strangely, and it took him a while to understand what he meant.

But... They did nothing last night.

Last night, after the kiss, they really couldn't help but wanting to have sex. Michelle became a little enthusiastic, but also shy, so she wanted to turn off the light.

As soon as the light was turned off, the room was dark. Leon accidentally touched the wound of Michelle. Her cry out of pain made Leon stopped.

Therefore, he simply held her in his arms and slept with her the whole night.

Then how came there were the marks left by Michelle's back neck? Those marks were similar to those left after having sex.

Leon had never thought that Michelle would have an affair with another man. Her amber eyes darkened. He remembered that it had taken Michelle nearly two hours to take a shower last night, and her neck was red.

He thought it was because the water was too hot, but it shouldn't be the reason.

Leon strode towards Michelle. Michelle just changed her shoes and stood straight, then he suddenly fell into his arms.

The hug came from behind. Michelle's body stiffened for a moment, and she gradually relaxed after smelling the familiar fragrance.

Noticing her stiffness, Leon's eyes darkened.

When the others saw this, they all went out, leaving only the two of them at the door to hug each other.

When Vicente went out, he gave a meaningful look at Michelle, which made her flushed. She raised her hand and patted the hand on iting for the elders' orders.

Grandma looked at his face and asked kindly, "Do you know Jacob Nangong?"

Vicente was stunned, and then he answered with a smile, "He is my father."

Grandma suddenly stopped talking. She looked at Vicente for a long time, and seemed to be able to see through his appearance that little Jacob was surrounding her and calling her aunt. Tears welled up in her eyes.

She sighed, "Even his son has grown up. How is your father? "

"My father passed away." Even though Vicente was still young when his father passed away, his father's imposing appearance was still vivid in his mind.

Obviously, grandma didn't expect that the child she looked after at that time had died at an early age. Although she had hidden her surname after she left C Island, she had always been thinking about Jacob.

Grandma couldn't control her sadness in the end. Her eyes were instantly filled with tears, and they rolled down immediately.

Everyone was frightened.

"Mom, what's wrong?" Elaine had never seen her strong mother cry, so she went to take the tissue immediately.

Michelle also hurried to hug her, "Grandma, grandma, don't cry."

Vicente, "Grandma, I'm sorry. Did I say something wrong?"

Grandma wiped her tears gently. She smiled and said, "Don't worry. It's nothing serious. Michelle, you should call him cousin. "

"Ah?" Michelle was surprised, "Grandma, how do you know I call him cousin? He is Berry's cousin, so I also call him cousin as Berry did. "

"Silly girl." Grandma gently pinched her face and said, "According to the seniority, he is your cousin."

Vicente suddenly stood up with his eyes wide open, "Grand... Grand..."

It was so unbelievable that he stuttered. Grandma continued with a smile, "You should call me grandaunt, your father called me aunt."

His grandaunt, who he thought has passed away, appeared in front of him. Vicente was stunned for a while before he answered, "Oh, grand..."

"Grandaunt." Grandma said with a smile.

"Grandaunt." Vicente blinked his eyes. It was not difficult to accept the fact since he already noticed that she looked like his deceased grandaunt.

"Grandaunt!" The joy of seeing his idol completely occupied his mind. Vicente sat back happily, held her hand and said, "Are you really my grandaunt? My father often mentioned you to my mother. You are Mona Nangong, the female count that thousands of people admired. Later, my mother often mentioned you to me. She hoped I could be..."

So Mona nodded and said, "Yes."

"....." Vicente was shocked, "The fate of our family is really... Surprisingly consistent. "

"What?" Mona didn't understand.

Leon couldn't help laughing, "My sister Nini ran away immediately when she heard that she was going to be engaged to Count Nangong when she was eighteen years old."

Vicente was speechless.

"Leon, don't mention that. I'm afraid you'll be the next one." Vicente smiled.

There were already two astonishingly similar history. Perhaps there would be a third one. What if the next person to escape from marriage was Michelle?

Hearing that, Leon's face froze.

Seeing that his expression, Vicente laughed complacently, and so did everyone else. The embarrassment that Leon appeared in the home of Michelle disappeared.

Leon looked at Vicente with gratitude.

"Go with them." Adams looked at his daughter and said, "Go to C Island with your grandparents. You have to be responsible for your own choice."

Their children had their own fates, and they could not interfere too much.

Elaine sighed, "Go with them."

Adams and Elaine reluctantly agreed to their marriage.

Renewing The Bridal Bouquet Renewing Happiness

Although Michelle and Leon had registered for marriage and were legal couples, in Adams's eyes, Leon was just his future son-in-law.

In her parents' eyes, Michelle was still an unmarried daughter, so after dinner, Leon went back alone.

Of course, Vicente stayed overnight.

When they came, they were three people, but now he was the only one left.

Walking in the community, Leon lowered her head and saw his long shadow. He stayed with Michelle this afternoon, but now he was alone.

He sighed heavily in the bottom of his heart. He looked back at the home of Michelle, where the light was still on, and couldn't help laughing.

Leon took out her phone and called Tim, asking to see him. When he arrived at the appointed place, he saw the back of a woman from a distance, as if he had seen her somewhere.

After the two of them talked for a while, the woman stood up and left.

At night, Elaine came to Michelle's room and had a long conversation with her. She scolded Michelle for being angry with them.

How could a daughter threaten her parents with her marriage by not going home? It could be regarded as an unfilial behavior.

Michell

n thought this phrase was interesting. He chuckled and said, "Yes, it's me."

The bridal bouquet represented happiness, so renewing the bridal bouquet meant renewing happiness.

Michelle was so happy that she stood on tiptoe to kiss him, and then ran back with the flowers in her arms. "Brother, wait for me. I'll be right back!"

Obviously she was going back to put the flowers back in the vase. Seeing her running happily, Leon followed her unhurriedly with a smile on his face.

Seeing Michelle running back in a hurry, Elaine asked, "Didn't you go out for something? Why do you come back? And don't you throw that flowers away? "

"The flowers are from Leon. I can't throw them away." Michelle ran upstairs and repeated, "Leon ordered the flowers for me!"

"They are from Leon?" Looking at Michelle's back, Elaine murmured to herself, "If they are really from Leon, it seems that he has been having crush on Michelle since long time ago."

She had always thought that it was Michelle who had crush on Leon first.

In fact, it didn't matter who had crush on the other person first. What mattered was that they could always love each other.

When Leon took Michelle to the hospital to change the medicine for the wound, they met Gray who looked gaunt.

The two of them were stunned, and then asked in one voice, "What's wrong with you?"

"Mimi, were you also thrown into the cave?" Gray hurried to her and looked at her up and down. "After I fainted in the car that day, I woke up in the cave and didn't see you."

"Were you in a cave? I was not in a cave. " Said Michelle.

"Are you okay?"

"I am fine." Michelle deliberately avoided talking what happened on the island. She didn't want to mention the experience on the island at all, and she even hoped that she could forget that terrible memory.

It seemed to be a self-protection mechanism.

Gray breathed a sigh of relief. "That's good. I called the police and asked them what was going on with the Zheng family, but there was no clue. I woke up in the cave, and then I was back here when I woke up again. I don't know who took me there, and the police didn't know how to investigate about it."

He was not reconciled, but he was not hurt, so he had to give up.

Michelle didn't look well. Leon said to Gray, "We have to se

Tim's idea. It was his subordinate who did it secretly?

She hid herself into Leon's arms in fear, but pricked up her ears to listen to their conversation.

"Mr. Shen, please forgive me!" Fred cried out in pain.

Tim ignored him, looked at him condescendingly and gritted his teeth with hatred, "Do you know that because of what you had done, she hurt her wrist? I thought she wanted to commit suicide and threatened me to let her go. I didn't know it was because of what you had done to her until later."

The force on his foot was increased, and Fred was so painful that he kept crying for mercy.

"Does it hurt? Do you feel as painful as she? Do you feel as painful as me? " Tim scolded loudly, "That night as long as I got close to her, she was so scared that I couldn't even apply any medicine to her hand. She thought I was going to rape her. It was all your fucking fault!"

Michelle, who buried herself in Leon's chest, suddenly raised her head, and her pupils shrank in shock.

'What did he mean?

What did Tim mean?

Tim didn't want to rape me and just wanted to apply medicine to my wound?

Did I misunderstand him?'

Noticing that the girl in his arms trembled, Leon rubbed the back of her head and said, "Let's go somewhere else."

"Okay." Michelle replied in a low voice.

After they went far away, Tim stopped beating Fred He turned his head, and there was a bruise on the corner of his mouth. It was from Leon.

He knew that he had done something to hurt Michelle, so he was punched hard by Leon.

Leon's punching brought him back to reality. Michelle would rather hurt herself than let him touch her. He even saw disgust in her eyes.

He couldn't have her, which had already made him feel pain, and he couldn't make her hate him anymore.

Therefore, when Leon decided to put on a show last night, Tim agreed happily. That was why this scene was happening just now.

He hoped that this simple play could dispel the shadow in Michelle's heart. That night, Tim really didn't want to rape her. He just wanted to apply medicine to her.

He just wanted to apply medicine to her.

Looking at the two people, one tall and the other short, hand in hand, walking away, the feeling of emptiness in his heart was like ripples on the lake, which was expanding ped until an hour later.

Leon covered her with his clothes and let her sleep soundly on his legs.

He put his bony fingers around Michelle's sweating hair, called the driver Charles over, and then opened the window to disperse the smell.

If Leon was not in Lexingport City, Charles didn't need to drive but still got paid, which made him have a feeling of unease, so he rushed here as soon as he received the phone call.

When he saw Leon, he was about to say hello, but Leon hushed him.

Charles saw the sleeping woman lying on Leon's leg. Even if he didn't see her face, he knew it must be Michelle.

Sitting on the driver's seat, Charles said gently, "Mr. Leon, I heard that you and Michelle are going to hold the wedding. Congratulations!"

"Thank you." Leon smiled from the bottom of his heart.

While driving, Charles asked, "Leon, will your wedding be held in C Island?"

"We will hold two weddings, one in Lexingport City and the other in C Island." Leon looked down at the girl in his arms and raised his hand to gently touch her cheek. Suddenly, Michelle grabbed his hand and held it in her arms. Leon smiled dotingly.

As soon as they returned to the C Mansion, Michelle opened her eyes in a daze.

"Did I wake you up?" Leon stopped.

The crystal lamp hanging from the ceiling was a little dazzling. Michelle rubbed her eyes. When she saw Leon's face, she suddenly thought of the romance in the car, and her face suddenly flushed.

At first, she had never thought that she would have sex on any place other than the bed. Later, she had never thought she would have sex on any place other than the bedroom. Now they had had sex on a place other than the home.

And she was very active.

Thinking of that, her cheeks flushed. She felt so ashamed.

Michelle shook her feet and said, "Leon, put me down."

"Aren't you sleepy?" Leon asked.

"No, I'm not sleepy." Michelle couldn't wait to come down, "I want to sit for a while."

"Okay, I'll carry you to the sofa." Leon put her on the sofa. Seeing that Michelle gently rubbed her knees, he asked, "What's wrong with your knees?"

"Nothing!" Michelle retracted her hand in horror.

Her reaction was a little abnormal. Leon directly rolled up her trouser legs and saw a slight bruise on her knees.

Michelle's skin was too delicate and fair, so it could be easily scratched.

'There is no if in the world, which means if there is, I may have a chance to win her heart.' A smile appeared on Tim's face.

The next second, his unrealistic fantasy was broken by Michelle.

"No, I won't." Said Michelle.

In the end, she didn't leave any fantasy to Tim. Tim left with heavy steps.

Leon raised Michelle's chin and kissed her. "You did a good job. It'd a reward to you."

Michelle didn't expect the kiss, and Barbie was still in the room. She was so shy that she patted him. However, she was so weak that it seemed to tickle him. Leon caught her hand and bit her finger.

In fact, Leon knew very well that if there was really a possibility, the probability of their being together might be much bigger if Michelle met Tim first.

The reason why Michelle said so was that she wanted to disillusion Tim.

He could only start a new life if he gave up completely

Although Michelle was a soft and sweet girl, she was actually hardhearted. which could be told from that she left without a word three years ago, and after three years, no matter how much Tim liked her, she didn't have the same feeling towards him.

After the conversation, Michelle gradually returned to her normal life and returned to her lively and lovely state.

On C Island.

The first one who knew that Mona was still alive was Anne. Anne had heard that Mona was a famous female count.

When Mona was in power, she was supported by many people. The Nangong family was on a par with Yin family in status. They were the representatives of highly placed people and powerful clans in that era. The Nangong family was famous in business circle, while the Yin family had great reputation in the political circle.

Lyndon and Mona were the most popular figures in the two clans when they were young. The two of them grew up together since childhood and were very close to each other. They were a perfect match in other people's eyes.

At that time, the Nangong family and the Yin family had a close relationship. However, after Mona died of illness, the two clans had been alienated.

Vicente's grandfather was in power, and the Nangong family declined gradually.

It was not until Vicente's father took over the throne and Vicente worked hard that the Nangong family became what it was now. Although Nangong family's status was no longer as high as that of the Yin family, it was still one of the top clans in the C Island.

Mona had a lot of friends, and she had helped a lot of people in the past, who were now senior elders of various clans.

Nina smiled brightly at them and her words sounded like a threat.

She didn't want to hurt her parents, but she had to remind them that both sides would suffer losses if they fought against each other head-on. Why didn't they all make a concession?

Bruce didn't say anything again. He felt guilty for his children.

Anne said worriedly, "Your father is worried about the Yin family."

The implication was that they had agreed to Leon's marriage.

Leon who was sitting not far away from Nina raised his eyebrows, and he couldn't help but raise the corners of his mouth. Nina also smiled.

"Dad, mom, you don't need to worry about it. Leon will take care of it. He is going to marry Mimi. He will take care of everything. You guys should think about how to make up for your honeymoon if you don't need to deal with political affairs."

This was also a regret in Bruce's heart.

He took office as soon as he got married and never gave his wife a honeymoon trip. Although they had visited different countries over the years, it was still different.

Bruce took a look at his daughter, and he looked at his wife, who had been pretending to be an onlooker. He then sighed, "I can see that you are all helping Leon to persuade me."

Everyone looked at each other and smiled.

Chapter: 890

Gossip Behind Michelle

Moon was at the top of the tree and stars were scattered in the sky. Starlight at night blended with the bright lights of the castle.

Outside the luxurious castle, there were all kinds of luxurious cars. The Nangong family held a dinner party to welcome the former female count of their family.

Generally speaking, the people who attended the party were young people, but the people who came to the dinner tonight were all elders. They were all dignified figures in the C Island.

Even Mr. Qin, who didn't like parties, came with a pleasant face.

In the upper class, people would bond in every dinner party, especially the party held by Count Nangong. There were many big shots.

The elders would definitely bring their juniors here.

The elders were all fond of quietness, so they were arranged to sit comfortably in the room, and the younger generation stayed outside for fun.

There were swimming pool, fountain, wine and music, and people were all toasting to each other.

The party hadn't started yet. It was Mona's party tonight, and she had already greeted every elders in the hall with Michelle.

Michelle had a pure baby face. Even though she was 25 years old, people would not feel strange even if she dressed up as a high school student of seventeen or eighteen years old. His smile

Livia asked, "I haven't seen you before. Which family are you from?"

Michelle smiled at them and said, "My name is Michelle, and I'm the relative of Nangong family you mentioned."

Michelle had heard all the bad words they said behind her back.

Everyone's smile froze on their faces, including Livia and Addie. The two of them were the most embarrassed.

They mocked that Michelle was just a country girl who had never seen much of the world, and just a second ago, Livia even asked Michelle which family she was from.

It was a deep embarrassment for them.

Addie forced a smile. In fact, she had never seen Michelle before. She was just a little angry when her cousin often mentioned Michelle recently.

She and Leda were Vicente's cousins, but Michelle suddenly appeared in the family.

The Xuan family didn't have a good family background in the C Island. They were able to freely attend all kinds of dinner parties in the upper class because their aunt was the mother of Count Nangong, and they were the cousins of the Nangong family.

"My parents are scientific researchers. Our family is not as rich as yours, but people in my family are knowledgeable." Michelle kept smiling, her eyes were pure and cute.

From head to toe, Michelle didn't look like a rustic as they had imagined.
