

You Can Run But You Can't Hide My Contractual Wife Chapter 55

Working in Sky Corporation as Bill's secretary, Sharon had the biggest compensation among the other secretaries in the company and even in the other companies. So, she considered herself lucky to get into her position even if it meant serving the most domineering boss, Bill Sky.

"Please give a chance to live. I have a son. My son needs me." Sharon added trembling and sobbing when she saw Bill was staring at her without any emotion on his face. His look was not angry, but he was not happy as well. He was like contemplating on what could be her best punishment.

Suddenly, Bill squinted and his eyebrows furrowed. He took off his leg from Sharon in one snapped and Sharon was hardly pushed to the ground.

"You already missed your chance." Bill said with a mocking smile while crossing his arms up his chest.

After hearing it, Sharon trembled with fright. The glint of hope in her eyes instantly vanished. She knew exactly her boss didn't give any second chances, but still she tried to persuade him with a small drop of hope that he could forgive her.

Bearing a powerful aura, Bill strode his way out without giving Sharon any glance, but he suddenly stopped in the middle.

"Kill her!" His ruthless voice echoed in the room like thunder, then he went straight out elegantly like nothing happened leaving Sharon awfully shocked.

Back to Capital Z Medical Hospital.

"Hi, May I know who brought me here?" Backed to her vigor, Arabella asked the hospital information. She didn't want to leave the hospital without knowing who's her great savior.

"I'm sorry ma'am, but there's no information about what you're asking in our record." With a puzzled face, the staff replied. It's impossible that they don't have any record with one of their patients.

Upon hearing it, Arabella was quite disappointed. She just wanted to find out who brought her there so she could express her gratitude to the person. Too bad, she could not do it as there were no any records of the person.

"There you are." A man's voice came out from behind her.

Arabella instantly turned around to see the owner of the familiar voice.

"You are here?" It baffled her to see Jayson in the hospital.

"Why not?" Jayson smiled at her. At this time, his handsome face didn't look like exhausted, unlike the last time she had met him. He looked fresh and lax.

"How did you know?" Arabella furrowed her brows in confusion.

"How did I know?" Jayson just repeated her question with a smile then walked closer to her. "I know because I brought you here." He declared with confidence.

Hearing Jayson, Arabella was stunned. It was Jayson, who saved her? Her eyes widened in disbelief.

"I know you want to thank me, but just save it. For now, let me drive you home." Jayson said when he saw Arabella was rooted in her spot and couldn't even say anything due to what she just heard.

"But how? How did you..." Puzzled Arabella uttered, but she was cut.

"Come on. You don't want us to stand here for a long time. I will explain everything inside the car." Jayson blinked at her and he quickly got her bag and strode ahead, leaving her with no choice to follow him.

When they were inside Jayson's car, Arabella was silent. Back in the hospital, she was very eager to know who brought her there now that Jayson had claimed it, why she felt so awkward? Why can't she even say thank you?

"Do you have something to say?" To broke the silence, Jayson calmly asked the girl who was sitting in the passenger seat and was obviously lost in her thoughts.

"How did you save me?" Arabella couldn't withstand her curiosity. If Jayson was really her savior, she would definitely thank him everyday for risking his life for her.

"I happened to be in the bank that morning. I saw you so I followed you. When I sensed that there's something bad would happen, I called up for back-up and thanks God! I rescued you just in time." Jayson replied with a proud voice and with a gentle smile.

Upon hearing his explanation, Arabella had felt very guilty for doubting Jayson. How dare her to doubt her savior? If not for him, then maybe she was already dead right now.

"Thank you, Jayson. Thank you for saving me." With still a guilty look and teary eyes, she uttered.

Jayson stopped the car on the road side. He then took off his seatbelt and gently lifted Arabella's chin to face him. He held her delicate face and wiped her tears that were starting to assemble in her eyes with his two thumbs.

"Shhhh...You know I can do anything for you. I don't mind giving my life to the one I love the most." He divulged sincerely. His eyes were full of love for her.

Hearing the confession of Jayson, her heart froze. What happened to her? Why can't he love Jayson back? He was always good for her and he was willing to risk everything for her.

"Should I don't deserve a hug for what I have done?" Seeing Arabella was stuck in her thoughts, Jayson vigorously said to catch her attention.

Though, Arabella felt awkward, but she could not say no to her savior at the moment. After all it was just a hug. No big deal!

"Come on!" Arabella then loosened her seatbelt and open her arms wide for Jayson.

"Thank you, Jayson." She uttered again, but this time, her words came from her heart. If not for Jayson, Bill would have been happily laughing right now. Bill would have succeeded in his plan and there was no Arabella alive now. Thinking of Bill made her want to punch him until he would knock-out to the ground and she couldn't wait to see him again to execute her plan. She would never forgive and forget his evil deeds to her. Giving him her revenge, would be the only thing that could satisfy her.

"Are you okay?" Jayson asked her while still hugging Arabella.

"Yeah! I'm Okay." She replied and when she was about to detach herself from him, Jayson brought herself again to his hug.

"Please don't move. Let us just stay like this a little bit longer." Jayson said with a begging and gentle tone.

The warmth from his hug was telling her that he missed her so much. Then Arabella remembered Margaret's words. Jayson left Margaret and his baby just for her. She felt pity of the man who captured her heart before. Arabella was sure that the love she had for Jayson before was more like a family. She realized it after they broke up and that said, she was definite that she could not love him back romantically.

He saved her and loved her deeply even if she couldn't love him back. How could she not agree with a simple request from him?

Arabella didn't move. She let him hug her then she gently tapped his back. This was the only way she could repay him for everything and for loving her.

Suddenly, a screeching sound from another car was heard and banged their car in front. They strongly wobbled inside that made them separated from each other. Jayson became irate not because of his car was bumped but with the distraction.

He quickly went out angrily followed by Arabella. Who dared to bump his car? But just right after he stepped on the ground, a furious man attacked him like a flash and gave him a heavy blow that made him toss directly to the ground.

When Arabella saw Jayson on the ground hurt with blood on the side of his mouth, she quickly ran to help him get up. Her instinct pushed her to help him without any care of who was the attacker or if the attacker would attack her too. At that moment, if Jayson could risk his life for her, she could also do that for him.

"Are you alright?" Arabella asked Jayson nervously with mixed of fright. Her knees were on the ground as she held Jayson's arm to assist him.

"Get up!" An angry voice ordered behind her.

After hearing that voice, Arabella instantly stopped by what she was about to do. That voice was very familiar to her. That voice! She cursed.

Quickly, Arabella turned her head to the owner of the voice. Surely, it was none other than Bill Sky. Then, that was the only time she realized that the attacker was Bill, her mortal enemy and the man he cursed in this world.

Arabella then clenched her hands into fists. Her eyes were like sharp knives that were ready to stab him anytime. She waited for this time to see him again and to get her revenge. She was about to stand up, but Jayson's hand grabbed her.

"No. Don't do this. He might hurt you." Seeing Arabella's killer expression, Jayson stopped her worriedly.

"Don't worry, I can handle myself." No one could stop her because her anger with him was up to the sky. She would not miss this chance to kill him. First, he planned to kill her. He schemed her using her father's case because he knew she would really bite the bait when her father's case was involved. And now, he wanted to kill Jayson in his own hand. Arabella felt, she had all the reason to kill him now.

"No!" Jayson struggled to stand up to stopped Arabella, but Arabella was quick to move forward aiming to punch Bill's face.

Seeing Arabella's quickly approaching wearing extremely angry face, Bill just gave her a mocking smile.

With great intention, he went to the hospital to pick her up since today, was her scheduled for release. He called up Gab before hand to get Farrah out of the picture so he could pick up Arabella himself. He usually visited her late at night in the hospital after his work and sleep with her in the same bed. He didn't know what he's doing, but he just didn't want to feel the uneasiness in his sleep. Undeniably, with her, his mind was relaxed and he could sleep fast by just hugging her. In the morning, George picked him up and drove him to his office.

When he arrived at the hospital earlier, he was about to park in front but then he saw Jayson coming out followed by Arabella. For all he knew, he was the calmest person in the world because he knew how to control his anger, but seeing them made him want to blow the whole hospital. First time in his life he tailed someone driving his own car. He was also amazed of himself that he had patience over this matter.

When he saw their car stopped, he could clearly see what they were doing inside. Bill's anger heightened then he drove furiously at the highest speed and intentionally bumped their car in front. He was satisfied when he saw Jayson's car front was wrecked.

"You! You evil!" Arabella was enraged giving Bill a punch aimed to target his face, but her wrist was caught by Bill's strong hand. She struggled, and used her other fist but still he just grasped it effortlessly. She used all her strength for him, but he was just playing with her and didn't take her seriously. Holding her two fists, Bill hugged her on the back for him to stop struggling.

"Let me go! You evil!" Arabella exclaimed.

"Not a chance my dear!" Bill replied.

"Let her go!" Jayson forcefully grabbed Arabella's hand and dragged her to his side, but Bill didn't let go of her other hand. In the business world, Bill was his greatest competitor. Though his company was successful through the years, but still didn't get the chance to get the 1st rank because of Sky Corporation which lead by Bill Sky. They knew each other by face, but they never had a chance to talk. Who could imagine that their first meeting was a violent fight scene because of a girl? Two successful and famous billionaires were fighting over one girl. Now, they are not only competitors in business, but also in Arabella's heart. Who's gonna win?

"You better stay out of this!" Bill said with a threat in his tone. He sounded just like ordering his employee in spite Jayson was also a billionaire like him.

"No! You stay out of our life!" Jayson angrily retorted dragging Arabella's one hand to his side.

"Who are you to say that?" Bill said with full of sarcasm.

"I'm..." Jayson was at a loss. He didn't know how to answer Bill's question. "I am his boyfriend." Then Jayson claimed.

"And you?" Jayson added mockingly.

"Me?" Bill's eyebrows met in the center. "I am her husband!" Then he added deliberately and smiled arrogantly.

