

CORRUPT CREATIONS

Chapter 323 - Conversation

As he watched those two fiery and beautiful figures departing, leaving trails of flames behind, Seth finally started to take notice of the things that were around him. When he looked at where he was, he found out that he was staying right inside one of the Allakiir family's guest areas.

Those similarities he picked up in the room he had woken up, were related to him staying in a very similar room at the time he was a guest in this mansion before. When he looked at the distance, he was even able to see the main building, where most likely Elyra was at that exact moment.

It turns out that after he fell unconscious, they brought him from the Human Territory, to the center of the Elven Kingdom.

Realizing all that, Seth decided to pay Elyra a quick visit. There were many things they needed to talk and that was a really good moment for that.

As Seth walked his way towards the main building, he used his Soul Sense to identify where Elyra's bedroom was and very quickly, he spotted her figure in one of the big bedrooms upstairs. His Soul Sense was able to pick some random people from that huge family, talking about the humans that were currently visiting them. Their topic was centered around Lilian and Yuyin's beauty.

Other than that, he was able to see Arel doing her maid work inside the building as well. She seemed to be doing just fine and it seemed like she had gotten a relatively more important work inside the mansion. Seth had even seen Arel commanding other maids, guiding them to their work.

Arel was a really competent servant and Seth realized that Thellor and Theod must have noticed that as well, giving her a more important position.

'Well... Hope Elyra isn't mad as well.' Seth suddenly vanished, merging with the shadows and entering the mansion without anyone noticing.

When he reappeared, he was already standing right in front of Elyra's room and absolutely no one had seen him. Thellor had recently entered the Profound Mana initial-stage Realm of cultivation, but even a practitioner of his level, could not feel Seth's presence.

Knock! Knock! Knock!

Elyra suddenly noticed that someone was knocking on the door of her bedroom, but she didn't use her energy scan to feel the aura of that individual, that was not a normal thing for her to do inside her own house. But since she was inside the Allakiir Mansion, other than her father, only Arel was allowed to do that.

So, Elyra stood up and went to open the door, but right as she opened it, she realized it was none of the two people she expected.

"Seth? What are you doing here?"

"Elyra... Haven't you missed your boyfriend?" Seth wore his thick skin once again and started a nonchalant interaction with her.

"Missed my boyfriend? After you left at that time, you didn't even bother to come back for all this time... Why should I care about you? Is that how a relationship is supposed to be?" Elyra wasn't planning to say all that, but after seeing his stance, she decided to let everything out.

Instead of getting shocked, Seth actually was hoping that something like this would happen.

"Sigh... I'm really sorry. So many things have happened around me that it was really hard to return here during all this time. I know I was not a good boyfriend, heck maybe I was not even a good partner when we worked together and I don't have any excuses for that."

"..." Elyra stood silent. She knew how hard it must have been for him, just by the magnitude of that battle she had taken part in. After realizing his status within the Demonic Shadow Royal Clan, she instantly knew Seth's life was very complicated.

Seth suddenly stepped forward and lightly held her hand. He looked at her eyes and said: "However, I'm here now and I want to compensate you for all that time we weren't able to see each other."

"Compensate me? How are you going to compensate me?"

Seth smiled and said: "You can choose whatever you want."

Elyra paused and thought for a bit before saying: "What if I were to ask for to stay here forever?"

Seth smiled and replied: "I know you wouldn't choose something like that."

Elyra gave up continuing with her hard stance and stated her real wishes.

"At that time, we were talking about a date. And as strange as it may seem, I want you to go somewhere with me, is that fine?"

"Go somewhere with you? Of course."

"Then that's good. But father asked me to deal with some things related to the family situation, so I can't leave the house for some days. Three days... Three days later I'll be free."

"Good. Three days later, no matter what, I will spend the whole day by your side."

.

.

.

After talking with Elyra and marking a date for their private encounter, Seth decided it was time to go meet with Arwen and Rina. Before going to meet them, Seth went back to his room, to check on the devil princess.

Serene was peacefully sleeping and he didn't want to wake her up, so he wrote a note for her.

In that note, he wrote that he was going to take a leave, but she didn't need to worry, since he would be back in the morning. He also wrote that if she needed something, she could ask it from Elyra, since he had already told that elven lady to take good care of his devil princess.

Truth be told, after looking at Serene, he doubted she would wake up before he arrived back. Actually, one of the reasons Seth decided to go, was that he wanted to find Serene a permanent and good place to live.

Who would be better to ask for something like that, than the Elf Queen herself.. She owned the whole Elven Territory after all.