

CORRUPT CREATIONS

Chapter 327 - Trying New Things *

"What did I do wrong, my Queen?" Seth asked, while having his eyes glued on Arwen's body.

The Elf Queen felt something really hard poking one of her thighs and she reached one of her hands out in order to grab it, at the same time, she leaned forward, until her lips were right beside one of Seth's ears.

"You've been very naughty... Even daring to do it with that girl from before, right in front of your Queen..."

At that moment, Seth's eyes bulged. But it wasn't because of that revelation, but because he felt a hand heavenly gripping his rod and even though there was still the cloth of his pants separating their skin from making contact to each other, he was still able to feel the warmth and the smoothness of her royal hands.

"Now, you're going to stay put there and let this queen do whatever she wants." Just as Arwen said those words, she left from Seth's lap and actually knelt down on the floor. Her body was positioned right in the middle of Seth's legs and her face was brought dangerously close to his still hidden weapon.

Seth was suddenly amazed by seeing that a real empress, was actually kneeling down for him. It was totally unexpected and out of his wildest dreams that Arwen would do something like that, but just seeing her figure there, made his excitement increase a bit. However, it wasn't even closer yet, on how wild things were going to get.

Before Seth could recover from his amazement, the Elf Queen reached out for his pants and pulled them down, liberating the monster that was being sealed underneath that cloth.

Arwen looked at it with a strong gaze, almost gasping in admiration.

With a swift motion, the Elf Queen grabbed firmly on his cock, making Seth's body instinctively react with a strong sense of pleasure and fear, that appeared together. Any man would feel that sensation when having his dick getting that kind of rough treatment.

Even though she was in that submissive position, Arwen was being rough and dominating the situation to her liking and this brought the couple, a strong sense of lust.

Instead of moving her hands, Arwen just kept tightly gripping over his rod, until at a certain moment, she looked at him and said: "I hope you enjoy your punishment, since I won't release you until I'm satisfied."

Immediately after she said those words, her head moved forward and her mouth opened up.

Seth suddenly felt a hot breath hitting the tip of his lance, followed by the sensation of it entering a very wet and warm location. He felt his dick getting covered by this slippery substance and a very smooth and warm muscle, running all over around it.

Arwen had just put the thick tip of his lance inside her mouth and her tongue started licking it whole. It was like she wanted to imprint the taste it had inside her own mind. However, she wasn't content with just that, so when she felt it was slippery enough, she forced her head downwards, instantly making part of his shaft enter her mouth as well.

Seth was already thinking that he had won the lottery and had this very strange smile plastered all over his face, but suddenly, half of his dick instantly disappeared inside Arwen's mouth and his smiling lips parted so wide, that even an entire egg, would easily fit inside his mouth at that moment.

Arwen tried her best to fit everything she could inside her mouth and part of it had even touched her throat, but she was not experienced on that yet.

Actually, she hadn't done anything besides normal procedures before and this time, she decided she would try something new, since Seth was going to be her partner for life.

However, even though she was clumsy while doing that, she had this conviction that only an empress could have. It actually made her be really successful in her first attempt of doing a blowjob, since Seth had gone from zero to one hundred in a single moment.

Seth felt like her throat was trying to suck everything out of his body and he was able to feel it coming out through his dick. But in a lapse of enlightenment, Seth was able to contract his muscles and deny himself that quick pleasure, that fast relief. Seth didn't want to reach the apex so quickly, since he knew that if he held it in, it would be relatively stronger later on.

Arwen didn't know how successful she had been in her first attempt and even though she felt that rod twitching and pulsing right inside her mouth, she didn't think it was connected to an orgasm. So, shortly after she had swallowed half of it in her mouth, she moved her head backwards, until only the tip was left inside.

When it reached that point, she proceeded to move forward once again, repeating the process over and over again. With each repetition, her pace increased and her movements were getting better. It was like she was getting accustomed with it really quick; but nothing less could have been expected from a Mana Sovereign entity. It's just that the fact she was unconsciously using her fast-learning pace, acquired from years of diligently cultivating, to enhance that type of ability... It was kind of funny.

Seth was trying his all to remain silent, but at a certain point, it was just impossible. He let out a grunt of pleasure so loud, that he was sure that if Rina was still awake, it was certain that she was able to hear it.

"Argh!!!"

One of the reasons he was trying to remain silent, was because they were in three people and not two, in that house. But after having practically screamed like that, Seth felt like it didn't matter anymore and started to loudly praise the Elf Queen.

"Ah! This is so good! You're fucking great at this!"