

CORRUPT CREATIONS

Chapter 330 - Princess And Queen *

Seth's excitement instantly diminished, and instead of putting the Elf Queen down in a passionate way, he simply carefully placed her in that couch, before sitting beside her.

Arwen immediately picked something was off and she already knew what it was.

"Did she see us?"

"Sigh... I guess so."

Seth felt like a storm was approaching; however, Arwen didn't seem to be that much troubled. She slowly stood up and wore a towel that was inside one of the wardrobes scattered around that huge room, before deciding to leave.

"Give me a few minutes." After saying those words, the Elf Queen simply walked out of Seth's room and disappeared inside the house.

Seth didn't even try to see what was happening with his Soul Sense, since his mind was racing, trying to find a solution for everything. Even though Rina knew Arwen was his woman, it was probably still hard for her to accept it. At least it was what he thought.

While he was slumping over that couch, thinking about the things he could say to Rina and that would eventually soothe her worries, he heard the sound of the door opening once again.

Arwen entered back into the room and Seth looked at her, waiting for her response. It had only been a bit less than ten minutes and Seth felt it was highly improbable that something good would come out of such a brief conversation with her daughter. But his worries vanished in a single second, after he saw the second silhouette that entered inside the room.

Seth's mind almost exploded with the visual stimulus he abruptly received.

In less than ten minutes, Arwen had gone to her daughter's bedroom and convinced her to come over to Seth's room. However, she was not wearing her normal clothes, but some very thin straps of cloth, that formed a very appealing lingerie. Certainly, it was not an outfit Rina possessed, but something her mother made her wear in the last minute.

Rina's face was totally dyed in red and out of shame, she couldn't even look directly towards Seth.

As for the beast himself, he felt completely absorbed. Rina's delicate figure and heavenly-like appearance were in total contrast to what she was wearing, and that almost hypnotized Seth. His eyes were fixed on her, like she was the sole shining star in the darkest night.

Arwen saw that both of them were completely entrapped in their own world and she decided to pull some strings by herself, so the show could keep moving on. Else, they would be stranded there forever.

"Then... What do you think?" Arwen broke the silence and made Seth come back to himself. He immediately stood up from the couch and walked towards them.

Seth had a bit of difficulty forming a proper phrase to express how enchanted he was, but after a few seconds, he was finally able to say something.

"It's just perfect. Rina, you are way more beautiful than an angel and what you're wearing could not be more perfect than this."

Rina was trying to cover her almost exposed parts with her hands, dying out of shame. Her problem was not Seth, but the fact that her mother was watching.

Seth extended his arm and held Rina's hand and with a swift motion, he turned her around to admire every single part of her.

With his actions and words, Rina was feeling that part of her shyness was vanishing and slowly, she was getting into the mood of that situation.

"Did you like it?" Arwen asked him, since she saw his words were helping a lot.

"I loved it. Rina, you are incredibly beautiful. Now, come here." Seth didn't take his eyes off of Rina while he was speaking. He was in love with her naughty but angelic appearance.

He didn't even stop for a second to ask Arwen about how she was able to pull that miracle. He was so entranced by Rina, that he immediately wanted to enjoy her presence a bit closer.

That couch where Arwen would get to have her second round, was now going to be taken by Seth and Rina. After they sat down, Seth immediately started to run his hands all over her delicate body, feeling how supple her skin was. Occasionally, his hands would slip under one of those thin straps of cloth, teasing Rina in various different places.

However, the princess of the elves was having a real hard time controlling herself. Ever since she entered the room, she was embarrassed and excited at the same time. Part of her excitement, was due to the fact that Seth was buck naked. When her eyes went down, she was even able to spot that fearsome rod, that seemed to always be pointing towards her.

She had seen Seth naked many times before, but this time, was a bit different. Right by her side, her mom was watching everything.

Arwen decided to stay out of that second round, but it didn't mean she would permanently leave. On the contrary, she kept observing everything, enjoying her daughter's embarrassments. Inside her head, she was thinking about how longer it would take until Rina had forgotten about her presence.

Seth realized how stiff Rina was acting and he decided to ease her feelings by completely kidnapping her attention. The method he chose in order to do that, was of course, the one he enjoyed the most.

Seth's face went dangerously close to Rina's face and almost as if it was automatic, he stole a kiss from her. While she was distracted, enjoying how their mouths connected together, his hands started to quickly work, removing those thin pieces of cloth she was wearing.

"Hmmm!!!"

Seth was being very passionate on his actions and Rina was only able to relieve some of the pleasure she felt at that moment, by letting out some muffled sounds.

However, little by little, her mind was being able to forget her mom was there and focus more and more, on enjoying Seth's touches and caresses.