

CORRUPT CREATIONS

Chapter 337 - Omen

"Seth... I have no words to than..."

"Stop! There is absolutely no need to thank me. You are my woman; my family and I am your man. There is no need for such words between us."

Arwen's heart melted after hearing his words. She licked her lips and was about to jump on him in order to eat him right there, when suddenly Seth told her that there was more.

"Now were going to the second part..."

"Second part?"

"I didn't plan on doing this for now, but you are a Mana Sovereign middle-stage Realm cultivator and I can only test it safely with you. So, you better get ready, since what I'm going to teach you now, is going to literally explode your mind and soul."

"Wha..."

Seth didn't give Arwen time to prepare herself properly, before he used his soul powers to pull her soul inside his soul space. Since she believed on him, she didn't resist it. When they arrived there, he started to teach her the basics of what he knew about soul cultivation, teaching her from the very beginning and building her soul space from scratch.

A beautiful girl with an elegant and youthful purple hair was kneeling down on the floor, totally dejected, feeling like she had absolutely zero energy and couldn't even lift a finger. Her graceful appearance, was totally the opposite of the scene playing in front of her.

All she could see through her brownish purple eyes, were the endless crimson waves of destruction that were taking over the entire universe. There was a mountain of mangled corpses piled on the ground, forming a crimson crystalized blood area around them and the terrain could barely be recognized.

When the girl looked at that direction, she wasn't even able to focus on that horrible scene, since the tears coming out of her eye sockets, were not permitting that. In fact, she only had eyes for a single image; the image of a man that was standing in the middle of that crimson world; a man that had annihilated everything.

With the last bits of strength that she could muster, the girl gathered all the energy for one last scream.

"SETH!!!"

The man turned around and looked towards her with his blood-red eyes and she felt a bone-chilling fear.

Suddenly, Chun Meiyi opened her eyes.

"Huff!" "Huff!" "Huff!" "Huff!"

Meiyi suddenly woke up, heavily panting. Her body was drenched in cold sweat and she was uncontrollably shaking.

Chun Meihui was sleeping while leaning her body over Meiyi's bed and when her body felt the bed sheets moving, she awakened from her induced sleep as well.

When her eyes were finally able to clearly see the figure of her daughter that was already seating on the bed, she started to tremble in excitement and wasn't able to stop her tears from pouring out of her eyes.

"Ah! Meiyi, my daughter! You're awake!"

Meihui almost jumped on top of Meiyi, hugging her body while constantly crying. However, differently from Chun Meihui, Meiyi was not understanding anything. Her mind was being taken over by this bad feeling and what she wanted to know at that moment, was actually about Seth's situation.

"Ahhh! You're finally awake! Finally!"

"Mom, where is Seth? Where is he?" Meiyi tried to move in order to stand up, but her mother was holding her down.

"Meiyi, don't move. Your body must be weak..."

"Mom, please... Where is he?"

Chun Meihui was stunned that Meiyi was preoccupied with Seth that much and she told her the truth.

"He is not here right now. I don't know where he is, but I'm sure he will come back to see you soon."

"No... I need to see him!"

Suddenly, Chun Meiyi finally noticed her mother's tears and realized there was something off.

"Mom..."

"My daughter, you can't..." Chun Meihui was right in the middle of her phrase, when suddenly her eyes started to get heavy.

The same thing happened to Chun Meiyi and both of them feel asleep once again. They had barely been able to see each other for a few minutes, before falling asleep once again.

"Sigh... I hate to do this, but it's about to begin... And unfortunately, you can't be together during that time." The Lake Goddess suddenly appeared inside that room together with Darya.

"Master, this..."

"Darya, I fear we won't be able to protect the young lady, since she has that bloodline. However, nothing must happen to her mother. That's why I want you to create a barrier in a separate room for her."

"Alright, Master."

Darya went forward and used a water tunnel to transport Chun Meihui's body to another bedroom, where she built a strong barrier that isolated everything from coming inside. Be it people or energy, nothing could penetrate that barrier so easily.

The Lake Goddess returned to the forbidden areas inside the Glazed Lake Sect, where she reunited with her disciple. She left Chun Meiyi alone, resting in her bedroom.

Caizhi had already returned to the sect together with her master, but she was denied leaving the forbidden area. Their trip to the outside world had been very successful, but unfortunately, the Lake Goddess had decided to come back earlier than what she had initially thought.

"Master..."

"Caizhi, you're going to stay by my side. Something big is going to take place and I want you to learn from what is about to happen. After observing this, I'm certain that the road for you to become a very wise and capable Sect Master, will get very clear in your eyes."

The Lake Goddess moved her right hand lightly and a water screen formed in front of them. When Caizhi looked at the image being reflected in the water, she got shocked.

At the other side of the screen there was practically a small army of practitioners, moving towards one of the Glazed Lake Sect entrances.

Under the Lake Goddess tutelage, Caizhi had already cultivated to the Mana Perception late-stage Realm and her powers only kept growing, so she had a very strong sense of reliance in her teacher.. Because of that, she was looking at that scene and trying to extract all the knowledge, in order to learn whatever she could.
