

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 1101: Preparations

Sam's plans didn't just stop there. While they are dealing with the organizations and the construction of the institutions are happening, he busied himself with one more thing.

Making new materials for the educational institutes.

But before he made the materials, he worked a few machines. The first one is a copier cum printer. He needs books for all the schools and he cannot copy all of them by hand and he would need hundreds of copies for all the schools he is establishing. So, he decided to make the machine and print all the textbooks regarding basic sciences.

Not only that he also decided to print the cultivation techniques. Not just the cultivation techniques that he has on the divine dimension, but he fished through all the memories of the souls he extracted until now.

After all, every person memories their cultivation techniques and that information would also be extracted from their soul. Most of the time Sam ignored it. But he didn't do so from now.

Every person they killed in that process from then on would have their memory extracted and their cultivation technique would be copied and printed into hundreds of copies before they will be distributed to all the academies that he is going to establish based on their level.

The second thing in the itinerary is a recording device that could be used to record things in a three-dimensional way and could project it using holographic technology. Along with that another machine that could copy the holographic projections and recordings from one display device to another display device and make many copies.

He would be using these things to create three-dimensional lessons that could be taught to the students. All kinds of lessons from the basic sciences, energy circulation, efficient energy usage, circulation for battle techniques, circulation for cultivation techniques, Sam wants to create three-dimensional holographic lessons for everything that would be taught in his academies.

For that, he would be using the simulation function in the second-floor divine dimension to simulate all the battles he has been in and witnessed and then capture all of them with the holographic recording device.

Along with that he went through the cultivation manuals and started simulating the body of the cultivator and simulate the cultivation technique's energy circulation and battle techniques' energy circulation along with the meridian networks and other factors.

He even let his body strengthening technique be made from ancient yoga and simulated it.

Along with that, he simulated formation lessons with different energy circulations and core principles on how the energy networks work, inscription lessons, the forging lessons.

How to take advantage of the environment in the battles. Everything he knew about battles was recorded.

But he must say that he had the hardest time with the cultivation techniques and battle techniques.

He has to read each cultivation technique, understand it, and simulate the meridian networks and circulations and he also needs to make the images of the circulation process one by one. He needs to make one model with a normal body, the second one with only an energy network, and the third one with the energy network and the body without the skin so that they could overlap.

The same for the battle techniques. He decided to completely eliminate the spell casting and hand signs.

He cracked every battle technique he came across, whether they are of divine dimension or that of the techniques he came across directly from the cultivators, he simulated each one of them and recorded everything.

In fact, he even bought off the cultivation techniques off of his teammates along with their battle techniques, except for their absolute trump cards.

He knew that these things would attract some greedy eyes, but that doesn't matter for now.

Currently, the priority is the primary education schools, the construction and design plans for the Planetary and the subsequent academies are complicated and they are going to be custom made based on the environment of the planet and the realm.

He gave the job to the Architecture and formation departments to come up with a proper plan.

As for the jobs of being administrators, he is going to give them to the personal force he raised by himself.

The same force that underwent his personal training and broke through to the Astral Plane.

The academic expansion plan wouldn't go at the same pace in every area. They are obviously going to start the plan in their own territory first and within this territory, Sam and his subordinates have a complete grasp of the situation and Sam has this loyal force.

He is going to make them the principals of the Planetary and subsequent academies. In that way, they can still fend off for themselves and he can be sure that the techniques and study materials are in good hands.

Anyway, he already decided to create a self-destruct mechanism in all holographic study material. He decided to place many restrictions that would make the material only useful within the academy premises and that too under some specific conditions. For example, the projection can only be made when it was placed within a certain formation and the formation would be integrated with a certain room.

And neither the room nor the device would be useful without the other.

If anyone tries to study it, he would make it so that they would explode.

He wouldn't let others steal his technology. It is too much of a trouble at the moment.

When the time is right and his organization has enough power with at least a bunch of Astral Plane Transcendent cultivators, then he would be able to relax a bit.

After he was done with these things, Sam started another set of plans from the side. It is about the beast squads. Although Dusk organization has a lot of squads and troops who use beasts as mounts and fighting partners, they are still far and few.

He wants to make it a general thing for every cultivator and student from the organization to select a beast and for their achievements and potential they would be awarded a different beast as well.

They would grow with it, take care of it and work with it at all times.

He started creating a holographic library of the beasts and their abilities. Since the academy and the organization are expanding they would be having an internal network within for them.

So, the students can consult experts on the beasts look through the holographic library, and decide on what beast they should raise and how to feed it, how to increase its growth to the maximum.

As he did these things, he also passed orders. He wants to take in a few students. Not disciple, just some students that he could raise.

It is not time for him to raise a personal disciple yet. He decided to only raise a few disciples after he crossed this Astral Plane cultivation.

Until then, he would take students.

He put the organization up for the task to search for ten students.

The requirements for their selection are pretty strict and lax at the same time. Because, Sam wanted to look for people's talents, constitutions, bloodlines, and special spiritual cores.

He wants ten of them and he also wants people that are just awakened.

As Sam did all of these things a year passed quickly and they are done with the Phase 3 organization. Along with that Sam achieved a breakthrough to the Peak stage Pre-transcendent realm and this time, the shadow mouse bloodline upgraded something Sam never expected.

It upgraded his shadow.

He is already familiar with one of the shadow mouse's bloodline arts. He actually used that before.

The Shadow transference used the user's shadow as an access point into the shadow world and moving him across and throws him out at a completely different point. It is a great escape technique and if one has enough control, it is a great technique for assassinating and transporting.

If one can reach a high enough level, they would be able to use the technique and travel through the shadow world, identify the shadow of the person they want to target and use that shadow as the exit point and come out, assassinate and use the same shadow as the door and travel the same path back to the initial location.

It is that precise.

The second ability is an ability that is good for close combat, scouting, and assassination as well.

It used the shadow elemental fusion and he can use his own shadow as armor which will take the form he wants and envelop his body in his elemental fusion form.

It is a great ability. In fact, only when shadow mice are strong enough to use this ability do they have any combat effectiveness.

But it is hard for them to survive without any combat ability up until this point.

Currently, Sam has ten shadow mice that are on the same level as him and with this breakthrough, more than half of them can use this technique. Now along with the scouting and information gathering, they would also be able to do assassinations.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 1102: Students

The first thing Sam did after finishing the Phase three organizations is to try and find where the rest of the players are.

It took a whole week to do that and he went to meet Arkiv.

"You came to me on your own initiative? Is something wrong?" This Arkiv's greeting as soon as they met.

"I am done with the Third Phase organizations of my share. How much longer would it take for you to do it?"

Arkiv was stunned and hurriedly opened the list on the wrist screen.

He went through the list rapidly and cursed loudly.

"Fuck. Just when I thought, you slowed down. What is wrong with you, man?"

Sam didn't mind this outburst and just smiled.

"Don't overreact alright. I need to talk to you about this."

"Okay, tell me."

"I asked, how long would it take for you and the rest of the players to finish all this?"

Arkiv roughly calculated a bit and said.

"Maybe a year and a half or it might even take two years."

Sam thought for a moment and nodded.

"It is okay then. I have a deal for, Noah and Akhil. In the next year and a half you will be meeting them once or twice, so discuss it with them. If you agree to meet me, come to the capital city of the first realm of the three puppet realms."

"What is the deal?"

"As you know, the fourth phase organizations are tough to deal with. There are also divided into four groups based on the cultivation of the heads of these organizations.

They are going to be difficult to deal with.

Even the Puppet which is the lowest of the organizations in Phase four is something difficult to deal with.

So, I want to know if you guys want to cooperate.

It is not that I cannot deal with them, but it would be easier and less dangerous for you guys to not tackle them directly.

In fact, even if we don't make an alliance like this, we would still be hard-pressed to deal with them and since we have limited choices, we wouldn't be able to avoid colliding with each other.

And the organizations from now are free for all. All the fourth-phase organizations are worshiping multiple gods, so there are no restrictions placed on them for the players. They could deal with any one of them.

It is inevitable to cross one another while dealing with the organizations.

We would clash and we would also clash with the organization. There is a good chance that there would be casualties this time.

We would be safer if we have an alliance."

Arkiv thought for a moment and said.

"I will try and see. But if we make an alliance with you, your contribution will be higher and your share will also be higher. And I highly doubt that you would be satisfied with taking an equal share with us as you have such a large organization to feed."

Sam didn't know what to say. It is indeed the case. He needs a lot of resources. Way too many, in fact. And he is sure that he would be the one making the highest contributions of them all. So there is a need to draw the line.

But it would be hard to decide who gets what at the moment.

"We can discuss it at that time. Just think about it for now and keep it on the down-low, don't let the other players know. And if I am not wrong, they would probably ask you guys for an alliance as well. After all, it has always been me versus everybody else. And if they have the same plans as before, tell them this time, I wouldn't be holding back."

With that Sam left the place and went back to desolate.

In the past eight months, the organization managed to bring the ten students he requested. They are currently waiting for him on the desolate planet.

First, he checked the reports on the progress of the construction of the Primary schools.

More than half of the schools are finished with the basic structural construction while the rest of them are done with the foundation.

After going through the report, Sam went to meet with the ten students he got. Out of ten, four of them are girls and the rest are boys.

He went through their profiles and was surprised to see the constitutions. With how large their range of search it is a little surprise for them to gather ten people with different constitutions and spiritual cores.

The first candidate's name is Ratri. A girl. She looked haggard, to say the least. She just awakened a year ago, but she is still in the Initiation stage without any progress. The basic cultivation is not working for her and she has a different core. Even though the team couldn't identify what her core is, they believed that she is especially based on the events that came across surrounding her.

During her awakening when the initial surge of spiritual energy touched the surroundings, all the grass and vegetation started corroding. It is not even simple withering and dying it, they became grey while still retaining their original shape and after touching, they simply disintegrated into powder and disappeared completely after touching.

Many people and even her parents believed that she was cursed. Whenever she tried to feel a bit of spiritual energy, whatever she touched cracked and turned grey making it disintegrated into powder.

What surprised Sam, even more, is that she belonged to the Desolate Planet. She belonged to a village and they abandoned her when they saw her destroying everything.

When the people from the Dusk organization found her, she was actually sitting in the middle of a grey patch of soil within the forest with nothing in the surroundings, from what they saw even the patch of soil turned a bit different and didn't have the same consistency of the soil in the surroundings.

They even brought some soil with them.

When Sam looked at her with scrutinizing gaze, she became nervous. Since the time of awakening, she was having a hard time. It is really surprising for her to even live in the wilderness for such a long time without dying with her current strength.

Sam extended his hand to place it on her head, she flinched and almost tripped backward. But all of a sudden she felt like something held her from falling and pushing her forwards. But when she turned back nothing was there. It was Sam who used the wind to stop her fall. He placed his hand on her head and used observation ability.

Even though there is a method to identify the core, it is limited. People cannot directly see the core even with their spiritual sense. Generally, cores are identified with the nature of the energy it is emitting, the description of the cultivator who can see the core and all the other factors and reactions of the energy.

But Sam can see it with his observation ability.

When he observed the spiritual core, he could see dark elemental energy with a grey hue.

He then took out the grey soil and tested it for a minute, before he picked up some items like rocks, branches, and leaves all of the lowest quality before placing them in front of her.

"Channel your energy into them."

She hesitated a bit, but she did it anyway.

Sam saw as all the items turned into grey dust and almost blew away with the wind, but he controlled the wind and collected them all to examine separately.

He was surprised again. All the different things are turning into the same grey dust. There is nothing special in any of them.

He thought of something and looked at her, he felt like there is some change in her.

Sam took out some low-quality spiritual herbs of different elements and asked her to do the same with them.

When she used her energy on different elemental herbs, it took a long time for her to destroy them. Initially, she became exhausted, but as the herbs started disintegrating into grey dust, the energy in her increased. Sam could clearly sense it.

He immediately understood what her spiritual core is.

It is a variant spiritual core of dark elemental energy. Just like how shadow mice have variant cores with shadow energy, this core is of devouring energy.

The energy of this core has one simple property, it would devour any other energy and try to absorb it for its own leaving only some grey particle dust. When devouring the dark elemental energy herb, even that grey dust was very small, it is like only the roots of the herb were turned into the grey dust and the rest of it disappeared into thin air.

Sam couldn't help but smile and took out some dark elemental fruit juice and gave it to her.

"Drink this first. Someone will come here and will take you to your new home. You can take a bath and they will send some food. You can relax. You are my student now. We will start your classes tomorrow."

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 1103: Students II

Sam called for an attendant who is at the gate of the ground they are in and said.

"Bring her to one of the high level rooms with decent defenses in the school dorms."

The attendant nodded and respectfully took her away. Now that Ratri is the direct student of Sam, her status within the city and the whole of the dusk organization is something that nobody could fathom. Maybe only Sam's three friends would be of higher status than them and the rest of the organization is completely below them.

Sam then focused his attention on the next person in the list.

A feathered race boy. But it seemed like he is a bit different from normal feathered race member. His wings are a bit different than normal. His name is Mani.

Sam looked through his profile. His situation is not as bad as Ratri's, but his parents and the rest of the tribe don't know what to do with him at all. From the report, he seemed to have activated metal elemental affinity which is not bad for them, but seemed to have a problem. Because as soon as he started releasing energy, instead of conjuring metal on his skin, he is attracting metal towards him.

Sam could easily guess, what the problem is and he is sure that it is not even a problem at all. He has a special constitution called Magnetic Divine Body.

It gives an ability to control magnetism. His whole body is like a giant magnet and more spiritual energy he uses, the more powerful the attraction of the magnet it. A person who has this body needs a delicate control over their energy. Otherwise, they would be bringing harm to themselves rather than their enemies.

Sam checked the purity of the constitution and then checked the wings of the boy. The wings seemed to have undergone a mutation due to the constitution activation. The feathers of the wings looked like they are made of metal, even for the touch they felt the same way.

Sam was really impressed and intrigued by this constitution. He is really looking forward what this boy can achieve.

Sam gave him some fruit juice too and called for another attendant before specifying what kind of room the boy should be in and moved to the next person on the list.

Arvi, another girl. She had blonde hair and one of the most beautiful pair of eyes Sam has ever seen. But when he saw those eyes, he couldn't help but a feel a bit sad. She has most lifeless eyes he has ever seen. There is no life, no joy, no innocence. She looked like she was lost and abandoned. It is almost like she lost all hope on the world and the life.

Sam knew those eyes, he has seen them before. In a mirror. He extended his hand, but Arvi flinched and stepped back hurriedly. She tripped and fell and Sam once again caught her with the wind energy and let her stand.

"No problem. I won't do anything. Nothing is going to happen to you. Do you feel any pain anywhere?"

He spoke in an extremely gentle way and carefully caressed her hand. She looked at him, but she still didn't speak.

Sam used the observation ability to check up on her. He didn't check for constitutions and cores, rather he checked her physical body to see if he was okay and what he saw made his bloodboil for a second.

He ground his teeth as he tried his best to control his anger.

He shook his head for a second and called for the attendant.

"Bring the person who brought her here, I want him to be here in five minutes."

Then he proceeded to check for the constitution and the body. Sam was surprised once again. This is a body with light elemental affinity. Not just in terms of constitution but also the spiritual core.

She has the partial fusion body.

As long as he injects the elemental energy into her body, she would be having partial elemental fusion. For her, comprehending elemental fusion would be easy.

Looking at her shivering body when he held her hand, Sam felt like someone is gripping his throat. Unwanted memories are rushing back.

He simply made her fall asleep and called for a female attendant from the orphanage.

"Bathe her cleanly. Make a female healer erase any traces of filth that were left on her body and make her sleep in a room with these requirements."

"Give this to an attendant and tell them to go to the formation department to finish the room instantly. I don't want any delay. Do you understand?"

Sam's voice is a bit cold and that made the attendant feel a bit afraid, but she nodded her head and carefully took the girl back.

Looking at the scene the rest of the kids are feeling a bit afraid and tense.

Sam calmly said. "There is nothing to be afraid, she is a bit sick and I am sending her to get treatment. Now, Habi, come forward."

This time it is a boy and he is alright. He didn't show any weird signs like the other three. He is also a bit cheerful.

"You are from the city?"

Sam asked with a surprise. He didn't expect that there would be this many people with special abilities in desolate planet and one of them is even from the city.

"Yes, Sir. I have seen you so many times." He said with a smile and his eyes are full admiration and Sam smiled. He felt a little refreshed and asked.

"So, what is your speciality?"

"I don't know exactly what it is, but my teacher said that my spiritual energy is too sharp and I might have affinity for using blades. Even my punches cut like blades."

He said and threw a stone upwards and punched it lightly.

The stone was sliced into two as the spiritual energy took the form of a blade.

Sam checked his body and was surprised. The core is normal. It is just a pure warrior core. But his meridian network is a bit different. Some of his meridians are clogged. But that didn't give him a problem, instead it gave him an advantage, depending on how one uses it. His energy circulation was forced to go in a special way due to the clogged meridians which makes the energy sharp when it was finally out.

"Indeed, you have an affinity with blades."

Sam said with a smile and asked.

"So, what would you want to learn? Sword? Saber? Dagger?"

"I want to learn them all."

Sam raised an eyebrow and asked.

"Really? That would be difficult you know?"

"Yes, my mom said so too. But I will definitely learn all of them."

Sam rubbed his head and sent him to his room.

Then he turned towards the remaining people. Two more girls and the rest of them are boys.

One of the girls is wearing a special seal on her body which makes her unable to use spiritual energy. Sam looked at her and said.

"So you are Rin. Can I remove that seal?"

"It will hurt me."

She said with a flustered expression.

"I will be careful don't worry, I am here. So, nothing will hurt you."

She nodded lightly and let Sam take the seal off.

As soon as he took off the seal, she gave out a pain expression. Sam placed his hand on her head and checked used the observation and he immediately understood what is wrong with her.

She has two different conditions at the same time. Her body is of Ice elemental energy. She has a constitution. The Frost Constitution and the core is of fire elemental energy. The two conflicting energies are affecting her.

Sam thought for a moment and changed the formation on the seal. The conflict stopped and she felt relieved.

"Now try to use the spiritual energy."

She did. It didn't hurt, but she couldn't make energy full move out of her body.

"Your body has an affinity with ice elemental energy. If you manage to cultivate ice elemental energy, you would be able to become a good Ice elemental Warrior-mage. But your spiritual core is of fire elemental energy. This is challenging, but I think we can make it beneficial to you. We will meet tomorrow, today just relax and roam around the city if you want."

Sam sent her away and moved to the next girl.

Madhu; she is a half-elf.

Sam observed her and the situation is quite direct. She has a wood elemental affinity like any normal half-elf. But her affinity is too high and her healing ability is off the charts even for her cultivation level. Sam cut her arm a little and it actually healed back just with some spiritual energy circulation.

The Healing Wood Constitution.

He sent her to a special room and by now the person who brought Arvi arrived.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 1104: Students III

Sam looked at the guy who just came and asked.

"Are you the only one who brought Arvi here?"

"No, Sir. There are a bunch of people who came with me. We were sent in teams."

"So, how was she when you guys found her?" That guy became a bit confused and asked.

"I don't understand, Sir."

"How was her mental state, when you took her?"

"She is silent and lifeless sir."

"Did you force her to come here? Did she resist?"

"No Sir. Actually, we didn't find her by ourselves. After we got the order, we sent news to different city lords to find people with special abilities before going to search by ourselves. When we arrived at a particular city, the city lord gave her to us. He said that he found her in slums and she was resting after healing. We took her back. Pretty much most of the journey, she just kept on sleeping or stayed silent."

Sam thought for a moment and said.

"Call for the rest of the team. Tell them to come here as fast as possible."

After that, he turned back to examining the new students.

Now, all that left are four boys and one of them is a dwarf. His name is Rangit and he has a special body constitution.

Earthen Fire constitution. The constitution of fire and earth elements combined. Even though it is quite common compared to the rest, it is actually a great constitution for a dwarf who is a natural-born artisan.

He would become a great golem or puppet maker if he tries. After all. Puppets are not just made by metals and not all stones and rocks are weaker than metals. And his fire can even make use of stones just like metals. He can melt them and solidify them again and again.

He doesn't have any problems at home and he is a decent kid. In fact, his parents were exchange students that came from the Banished Realm.

The next boy, Bran.

He is a Half-Barbarian.

When Sam checked his body, he was surprised. His muscle structure is a lot different than a normal barbarian. As we already know, that barbarians are offspring of some high-level demons and it seems like Bran managed to embrace the demonic side a bit more. At least in biological terms.

His body constitution is called the Berserker Body constitution. He will be Warrior who can burn his blood to increase his strength exponentially for a short time.

Sam sent him away to his room.

Now only two boys are left. One of them is actually a Dragon Hawk tribe kid. Sam was surprised when he saw this.

He checked his body and bloodline and he was even more surprised. The bloodline purity is off the charts. The merger of the Dragon Hawk bloodline with the rest of the body is as stable as Sam's own merger with his bloodlines.

After reading the report he understood how this came to happen. This guy is offspring one of the Dragon hawk tribe members that followed Sam for conquering of the Unconquered Beast realm. It seems like he hunted down a few descendant beasts of the dragon hawks and fed the flesh and blood to his wife while she was pregnant.

He got this idea from the books he read from the library that Sam arranged for the regular access of organization members. He put his blind faith in and the results really surprised him.

His son might even be the hope for the ascendance of the Dragon Hawk tribe to the higher realms.

Sam looked at the name once again. Vron.

He sent the guy back to his home which is located in the city itself.

He finally moved to the last boy.

Sam is interested in this guy the most. He has his eyes closed. And with just one look, Sam could guess that he is a descendant of a Demi-Giant.

He seems to be the offspring of a Demi Giant and a human. He is not as tall and large as a Demi-Giant, but he is not exactly as small as a human. He is around six feet and four inches. Since he is only fifteen he would definitely grow. But from the looks of it, he would at most grow another four to five inches.

Simply put, he would be like an NBA player back on the earth but with a lot more muscle and a lot more strength.

Sam looked at the profile and his name is Kasi.

He looked through the anomalies and asked.

"So, you can see the souls of people?"

Kasi opened his eyes nodded, but he didn't speak.

"Let me check."

Sam placed his hand on his head and used observation ability when the examination was done. Sam was a bit confused.

This guy has a great physique. Even without any form of constitution of special core, he would be a great warrior, his body condition is nothing short of having a constitution.

Other than that, there is nothing special about his body. Sam couldn't identify what is so different about him.

His spiritual core is also normal. Sam thought for a moment and let Specter out. Specter is currently in his invisible form.

As soon as specter came, Kasi flinched and huddled in fear.

Sam was shocked and the specter is the same. Both of them didn't expect that someone who just barely awakened a few months ago managed to see Specter when he is in this form.

"Boss, check his brain and the sea of consciousness."

Specter said from the side.

Sam thought for a moment and then realized.

Most of the time, the souls are always linked to the dark elemental energy. But Sam forgot there is another way to access soul. And that is the mental energy.

If one's mental energy is strong enough, then they would be able to sense the presence of the souls around them and there is a chance that there is a variation or anomaly in the brain or the sea of consciousness or even the soul of a person that made him able to see the souls around.

There are some constitutions that allow people to do so. But Sam never even considered those constitutions because he felt it is almost impossible for someone with such a constitution to appear in front of them.

They belong to higher realms.

Sam placed his hand on Kasi's head and focused all the observation ability on the head to check the brain.

After noticing some difference in the nerve structure, he used his mental energy to pry into the sea of consciousness of Kasi.

Inside the sea of consciousness, Sam saw something that he never expected.

Kasi's sea of consciousness is actually vaster than it should be. Maybe only a Nascent Soul cultivator would be able to rival in terms of it. This means his spiritual sense range his eye. He has an impeccable brain and intelligence and finally, there is something that is extremely powerful than both of them.

A small silhouette is sitting cross-legged in the middle of the sea.

That is the duplicate image of Kasi himself. That duplicate is staring at something.

Sam ordered Specter to go back into the divine dimension.

The duplicate immediately closed his eyes and when specter came out once again, the duplicate opened his eyes.

Sam took his mental energy back and looked at Kasi with a smile.

This is the Astral Soul constitution. Even among the special constitutions, this one stands on top of it all.

His smile slowly turned into a wide grin.

"Keep a peaceful mind and don't think too much. The attendant will lead you to your accommodation. We will talk the rest tomorrow."

After sending all of them away. Sam shifted his focus to the people that just arrived.

The team that fetched Arvi.

Sam looked at them coldly and the smile and tenderness he had while inspecting those kids were completely gone.

"I will be asking some questions. I want you all to answer me truthfully. If by any chance you lie. You do know what your consequences are. I will put you in a cell with flames that will burn you for a whole day and a formation that would heal you and freeze for the next day.

The cycle repeats on for a month and you wouldn't even be able to kill yourself if you want.

So, you guys should understand the depth of the matter."

All the members of the group gulped nervously.

"Now, let us talk. Did any one of you force yourself on Arvi?"

"No, Sir. No."

Everyone immediately shook their heads.

Even though Sam is not the actual ruler and the lawmaker of the desolate, there is one rule for all the Dusk organization people. If anyone ever tries to force themselves on a woman, he would be forcefully castrated and he would be thrown into a bunch of horny apes that would take them from behind.

This rule was extremely specific and even though the punishment is vulgar, it is still written directly in black and white.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 1105: Students IV

Sam looked at the group and waved his hand indicating them to get lost. But before they could get out of the area, he yelled.

"Day after tomorrow, you guys are coming with me to the place where Arvi was found. If I find anything fishy, you know the consequences. So, stay in the city until then. No missions, no tasks and no excuses."

With that, Sam went back to his own room.

All the way through, he kept on thinking about how lifeless Arvi is and how much she had suffered.

When he used the observation ability on her, he could see that she is violated and repeatedly at that. Even in that ragged state, she looked so beautiful, he could imagine how she looked when she was cheerful and happy.

Someone forced themselves on her repeatedly and they behaved like an animal.

Her body suffered abuse that anyone else of her age would have died of.

Even though he doesn't concern himself too much with the situation of the western continent and the government, he is very clear to Ark about what the ruling should be like. He wanted a fair and transparent government with responsible nobles so that he doesn't have to worry about someone just pestering his branches.

And he is particularly strict about the orphans. He doesn't want the nobles and others to take advantage of them. He even constructed the schools for them with all the facilities necessary for their life. All he asked the government to do is deliver the orphans at the doorsteps of any facility of the organization.

From the profile he saw, Arvi is an orphan and she was not sent to the organization even though she is fifteen years old. Even though the noble reported she was from the slums, he felt like something is fishy.

He shook his head and to put these thoughts at the back of his head for now and started making preparations for the basic classes for the students.

Vron, who is a dragon hawk tribe member attended the schools since he was a little kid and so did Rangit who is a dwarf. So, they have an edge over the rest of the players regarding the lessons and other things.

He needs to make the rest of the people catch up with them.

It is not a bad idea to let them go through the new holographic lessons first.

Sam started preparing the formation discs for it.

By the next day, he was already done with these lessons and he assembled them in one of the training halls within the tower.

"From today onwards this is the place you would be gathering in this room at sunrise. We would decide on what to do after we met here.

Since you guys are my students, you will be getting some privileges in the city and the rest of the organization.

You can take advantage as much as you want. No matter what line you cross. Nobody will do anything. They will be all be afraid of me.

But there is one more thing you should keep in mind before doing anything. You should also be afraid of me. They might not do anything to you. But I will beat the crap out of you, if you ever take advantage of your status.

Because, the status you have is not what you have earned, it was given to you. Until you have earned the status and you genuinely feel like you deserve it, then you can flaunt it as much as you want.

Next, in your free time, I don't care what you do. But there is one thing I want you to be aware of. Until you are eighteen you are not allowed to have any romantic relationship. Even after that, before you commit to the relationship, I want you to bring your spouse to me.

I might accept it or not. I might give you my blessing or completely ignore it. But whatever decision you make after that, I will not stop you from doing it.

You might think, I am being tyrannical and intruding too much into your life. But the status of being my student comes with a price and that includes the fact that many people with ulterior motives will approach you. They will entice you with romantic partners, power, privileges, gifts, pleasures and many more.

You should think thrice before greeting anyone. You are almost like a royal descendant. Every decision you make and every relationship you maintain should all be seen and examined with vigilance.

Now that we got that out of our way. Today, you will be going through some basic lessons. There are special rooms constructed for these things on the new floor constructed at the academy. Take a room each and they will be your exclusive. You will go there and look at the lessons. For the next few days, you can go through them.

Every day, you note down the doubts you might have and asked me the next day.

But I will not be available for the next two days. So, for now try to get through the material and note down your doubts.

We will talk how your cultivation goes after I come back.

With that he gave few spatial rings with various holographic formation discs and continued.

"There are some metal cards inside the spatial rings. They are the identity cards of you and you can show them to any shop or restaurant in the city. Go and eat, drink do whatever you want. But you have to finish the lessons I marked as today's quota in the schedules which were also in the spatial ring.

Now, before you go. Let me reintroduce myself to you.

My name Sam. I was born in a remote village named Lava rock village of this continent. I started my journey when I was fifteen and moved to the starwood city, falcon cliff city and moved until I came to the capital. I was invited for some sort of competition at the Thunder god temple and had conflicts with the emperor Orion.

You might have heard some stories about me. But whatever you heard, I am not as glorified as they made me out to be.

I am a cruel guy and I built all of this on hundreds of thousands and might even be millions of lives. But one things is true. I worked for this. I learned relentlessly and found ways to utilize what I learned to my advantage. I created deadly weapons, helpful things, gadgets that could save lives, trinkets that could help the lives of the people.

I destroyed regimes, established new ones, slaughtered families, took care of orphans. I roamed around the realms unhindered by anyone facing enemies always, bigger and stronger than me. But every time I won. Because, I learned and I prepared. I got ready to face everything that came to me.

I met with people that you cannot possibly fathom now.

But I am telling you now. As a teacher, I would wholeheartedly teach you what you need. If I am unable to do it, I will find someone who can do that for you. I don't know if you have any responsibilities that you should definitely fulfil. Vengeance, paying back or whatever it is, I will help you achieve them and fulfill those responsibilities and much more.

You can come to me with any problem that you might face. A problem with your parents, your home, your health, your work or anything that you could imagine.

I wouldn't solve everything that comes at your face. But I will be there to make sure you don't fail in solving that problem and I will make sure that you wouldn't give up the problem and I will teach you everything you need to face that problem head on.

You can treat me like your teacher, parent, friend and a guardian.

Whatever your identity is until now, whatever your identity might be in the future. You are going to be students of Sam from now on."

With that Sam left. He just jumped off the window and took off on harbinger.

He arrived at the city gate in no time and looked at the group waiting for him.

With just a wave of his hand, he threw them in the Ice divine dimension and took off on harbinger. With the speed of harbinger, it only took a couple of hours to reach the city they were supposed to go.

He let the group out and they all went to the Marquis mansion. Only Sam separated from them and went to the slums.

Even though they are called slums, they are decent houses, it is just that they don't have too many appliances that are popular now-a-days in the continent and they don't have a bunch of defensive formations.

He looked around and asked for information while showing Arvi's picture. But every result came out negative. Nobody has seen her. But he went deeper and deeper as he searched and he observed a sudden surprise of a woman who was shocked after seeing the picture from the side and immediately left the place.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 1106: Scheme

Sam looked at the woman running away silently and took a step forward, he disappeared from the spot and reappeared in front of her a few hundred meters away.

Looking at Sam's sudden appearance, she was stunned and fell on her back.

She tried to stand up and run away once again.

Sam looked at her coldly and the pressure in surrounding areas increased. It is just his spiritual energy, but that felt like she is carrying hundreds of tons on her back as she was stuck to the ground.

Sam once again took out the picture and asked.

"I want to know everything you know about her."

The woman looked at Sam fearfully and hatefully as she spoke through gritted teeth.

"Let me go."

Sam increased the pressure on her and looked into her eyes.

"You don't seem to understand what kind of situation you are in. I have a hundred ways to make you open your mouth. So, you better start speaking before I decide to use any of them."

By now, many people from within a few streets surrounding them came running to see what is happening. When they saw a familiar woman being pressed against the ground, they all wondered what happened and they are also a bit hostile towards Sam.

He didn't care and increased the pressure. The people didn't want to come forward and just started yelling.

"Who are you?"

"Let go of her."

"Do you think that guard wouldn't care if something happens in the slums?"

Sam didn't even bother with them at the start. He just let them yell at him. But as time went on it became annoying and Sam snapped his finger.

The houses and the street in the surroundings turned into rubble in an instant and the yelling stopped immediately.

He crouched down and looked at the woman before asking.

"This is the last time, I am going to ask you. If you don't answer me, I will kill you and extract your soul to read the memories from it. The only reason I am giving you a chance until now is that I felt that you might be an innocent person involved in this, but from the looks of it and your friends that are trying to observe the situation from the surrounding streets are giving me a different idea."

As soon as he spoke, he waved his hand and the wind became turbulent.

"ARGH."

"SHIT."

"DAMNIT."

All kinds of painful groans are coming from the two sides of the street and many people fell out from hidden spots.

Even though Sam broke through to Astral Plane a long time ago and can do large-scale attacks that could span for hundreds of meters, they are not useful in the fights he was in.

Even if he could large-scale attacks, when facing an equal opponent, those are not useful. To hurt the opponents, he needs to focus and concentrate that large-scale energy into a small space.

But when dealing with people like this who are so weak that even if he let them kill him they would be incapable of it, these attacks that could cover a large scale works pretty well.

And with this action, the woman who is trying her best to resist speaking, broke down. She understood that Sam is too powerful for her and decided to cave in. But there is one last straw that she is clutching on. If that straw doesn't come to use at this moment, she would definitely give up.

As she was thinking, a young man wearing luxurious robes came running towards the slums with a bunch of city guards and yelled.

"Who are you? How dare you be impudent in this city like this?"

When Sam saw him, he frowned. From the city guards and the robes, he is definitely of higher level and as he heard the whispers of the citizens, he immediately understood who he was.

He is the son of the Marquis.

Sam ignored him completely and looked at the woman.

"Are you tell me or not?"

She widened her eyes in disbelief. When she didn't speak, Sam just waved his hand and her head was separated from her neck. With another wave of his hand, her soul was extracted and he closed his eyes to absorb the memories.

As soon as he saw this, Sam's eyes became colder and he turned to look at the son of Marquis who is standing a few feet away.

When the young man looked at Sam, he felt like he was being stared at by death itself.

He became nervous and commanded.

"How dare you kill someone in front of me? Guards, arrest him."

But as soon as he finished his words, the guards who were about to make a move were plastered to the ground with a lot of pressure bearing on their backs and Sam disappeared from the spot before reappearing in front of the young man and caught him by his neck.

Sam really wanted to rip his head off, right that moment, but he controlled his urge and let the shadow undead out. They ran to different sides of the slum to do something.

Meanwhile, Sam disappeared from the spot along with the Marquis's son and reappeared in the city square. He threw the guy on the floor and sat at the edge of the city fountain.

He waved his hand and Sky came out.

"Go and fetch Ark here, go as fast as you can."

Sky left instantly. The city guards who saw the young master of the city being thrown like a ragdoll wanted to deal with the criminal, but anyone who came a few feet near Sam is all being pinned down unable to move.

Soon one of the city guards ran towards the Marquis mansion.

Meanwhile, inside the Marquis mansion, the team that came with Sam is all sitting at a table with tea and snacks served for them.

The team leader had a frown on his face and said.

"Marquis, it seems like you are not getting what I say or you are deliberately ignoring it. I said I want to know the full details about the origin of the girl."

Marquis has a flattering smile on his face as he looked at the team and said.

"Sir, we can discuss that later. I will ask the city guards to search around and see if they can find it. But as far as I know, she is just an orphan with no family whatsoever."

This is the only thing the Marquis kept on repeating and stalled as the team asked questions.

As the team leader was about lose his cool, the attendant ran inside and reported the situation of Marquis' son.

The team leader overheard it and was shocked.

"What did the man look like?"

"He is a handsome young man who looked to be in his twenties. He is wearing black all over."

The attendant explained.

The team leader clearly understood who it was and immediately ran towards the city square, followed by the Marquis.

When Marquis saw his son's situation, he became extremely angry and yelled.

"WHO THE FUCK ARE YOU? YOU..."

PAK

But before he could finish the sentence a slap landed straight on his face. It is the team leader who did this.

Sam looked at the team leader and said.

"Call the representative over."

The team leader ran by himself and brought back the representative of the dusk organization in two minutes.

When the representative saw Sam, his knees felt weak and he immediately bowed with respect.

"I am sorry, Lord. I didn't know you are arriving. Otherwise, I would have received you myself."

Even though the small-time nobles and some people of this time, didn't remember or know of Sam's appearance, even if they knew his name, the organization members are sure to know about it. Because they don't dare to forget the big boss above him.

Sam didn't care for his greetings and said.

"Come forward and stand in front of me."

The representative looked at the young master and nervously walked to the front.

"What did I say about the situation regarding orphans."

Sam asked in a cold voice.

The representative immediately started sweating profusely.

Sam didn't repeat his question and just waited. In ten minutes, the shadow appeared, and along with them are a bunch of young kids. All girls. Within the age of ten to fifteen.

When the marquis, his son, and the representative saw this, they were stunned.

They knew what is happening clearly and they also understood who the person currently they are dealing with.

Sam looked at the representative and said.

"When I started the organization, I repeatedly gave you instructions regarding the orphans and women. But you just have to go on and ignore what I said."

"I... I..." The representative wanted to say something, but he couldn't and stuttered. Sam looked at the team leader and said.

"I want to know whoever that is involved in this. Whether they are members of our organization, nobles, commoners, government officials, I want to know every single name right now."

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 1107: Ploy

In the city and the surroundings, the Marquis and his son are collecting little girls who are orphans, and sometimes they are even killing the parents and kidnapped the children to hide them in the slums.

The policy of the Dusk organization for adopting the orphans was established a long long time ago and from then on, it has become rare for orphans to exist in the slums. But every day many hunters with families go into the forest and the orphans are bound to exist no matter what.

The Marquis and his son happened to have a fetish regarding the girls between ages ten to fifteen and they kept these girls for their personal pleasures.

They would just kill them after they cross fifteen years old and wouldn't bother with them anymore.

This time Arvi is also some who was supposed to be killed. But from what Sam could guess, Arvi who cannot take the abuse accidentally used her energy which resulted in the activation of the partial fusion of her light elemental body.

As the light element is soothing in its natural form, these scum bags must have just enjoyed her more and when they found out the dusk organization is looking for special kids and the reward is extremely high for whoever could give information on them, Marquis figured that the reward would be higher when he handed over the kid directly.

The representatives of the organization didn't announce earlier that the kids are for Sam's students as they didn't want the desperate and greedy assholes who might fake the reports to just get a chance of getting in.

So, these guys assumed it is nothing important and just gave her away. They indeed got a great reward that is almost as much as their whole family fortune. Now they are enjoying it.

The woman, Sam killed at the start is actually one of the key players of this whole scheme and she is in charge of luring the kids and taking care of them.

She knew that there is a strict policy against anything that is harmful to the children, so she is very much afraid when Sam showed that picture and wanted to inform the rest of the group. But Sam noticed and everything blew to this.

The Marquis, the son, and the representative are all kneeling down in front of Sam and slowly the numbers started increasing as the three of them spilled one name after another.

There are not many people involved in the organization. The representative is actually the son of one of the executives of a park in the Duke city nearby and managed to tone this matter down with the help of his father and only a few of his close attendants are involved in the whole scheme.

But as for the government, almost a dozen, village heads, city lords, counts, and a bunch of other administrators are involved in the scenario.

Sam sent shadows to various places that were told by these three people and made each and every one of them appear here within a few hours.

Even the executive from the Duke city came here and he also knelt beside his son as he pleaded his innocence.

But Sam didn't care. He just waited for Ark to arrive and an hour later, Sky returned in full size as he held Ark with his talons.

He dropped Ark and returned back to his original size. Sam let him back inside the divine dimension and looked at Ark with a frown.

Ark looked at Sam and said.

"Sam, I know you are stronger than me and you have more influence. But I am still the emperor of the western continent. You should at least show some respect."

Sam didn't reply immediately and just raised his aura which put pressure on Ark who knelt on the ground.

"Where is Ark?"

Sam's question stunned everyone. And the biggest shock could be seen on 'Ark's' face.

"It seems like I have been too lax in my administration since I am not around much. Everyone became so complacent thinking that I would completely ignore this place."

As Sam spoke, the earthen spikes appeared under 'Ark' who is currently laying flat on the ground and all his limbs were pierced.

"So, who are you? Where is Ark?"

Sam asked the question as he walked towards the guy calmly.

'Ark' has a horrified expression on his face as he could see Sam's devilish smirk before he cut his head off.

Sam returned to the city after extracting the memories. He let the team he took there to deal with the Marquis and temporarily handle the government there.

After reaching the city, Sam didn't wait there and directly went to the Thunder god temple through the space gate.

The people in charge of monitoring the space gate were stunned by Sam's arrival.

But as soon as he appeared there, Sam took off on the harbinger as he went to the main island of the thunder god temple.

When he arrived outside the temple, he was quite high profile and attracted the elders and the head of the temple.

Sam looked at the head of the temple and smiled. It turned out to be Arthur.

Looking at Sam, Arthur was horrified. Sam is still as young as ever. He looked to be in his mid-twenties. But Arthur looked like he was in his late thirties.

Sam landed in front of him and spoke.

"I wondered who has the balls to try and harm my organization, it seems like you are way in over your head after Arman left this place. You guys will never learn your lesson, do you? The only reason you managed to survive this long is because of Arman, but you are taking it for granted.

Go and called for that Astral Plane cultivator hiding inside the temple."

Sam spoke calmly. Arthur was shocked as soon as he heard Sam's words.

Arthur didn't even know what to say as they didn't think that they would be exposed this fast.

Sam looked at him and smiled once again, but this time it looked a lot colder.

The whole scenario is a chain reaction from this place. Sam managed to deal with many of Indra's organizations, but he forgot there is one right here. The thunder god temple is the organization that worship's Indra and since Sam ignored it and he is not staying much in the desolate, he tried to take advantage of this and wanted to destroy the core of the Dusk organization.

Indra helped the grand elders to break through to the Astral Plane and one of them disguised as Ark to enter the western continent as the emperor. He deliberately promoted shitty nobles and made it so that they would disrupt the system Sam established. The kidnapping of girls is just one of them. After all, Indra figured that the main source of fighters for the organization are orphans and poor kids.

He wanted to stop them and also sent some people to the school in the disguise orphans to steal the knowledge as well as grow in ranks.

The son of the executive who is a representative in the Marquis city is one of the people who was bought out by them.

Sam didn't expect that the pursuit regarding Arvi's incident will lead to such a large plan hatching under his nose.

Arthur didn't react and Sam just stepped forward and disappeared from the spot as he reappeared in the temple.

He stomped his feet with earth elemental energy making the whole temple quake and everyone started running out.

Soon an old man came out and looked at Sam. This is the grand elder who used butterflies to keep track of the others.

"You are as impudent as ever. But this time, we don't have to be afraid of you. We have the thunder god's blessings."

But as soon as he finished his speed, Sam stepped forward and reappeared in front of the old man and threw a punch with void style.

The punch landed on the chest squarely and the old man exploded with bloody mist.

Sam then walked towards the core area of the temple where currently another old man is meditating in front of Indra's statue.

Sensing Sam's presence, he opened his eyes and said with a tired voice. "It seems like we indeed made a wrong choice. Will you at least leave our younger generation alone?"

Sam just killed the guy without even speaking.

The Old men are in Astral Plane initiation at best.

Sam performed the ritual and summoned Indra. When Indra saw Sam, he was shocked.

"How many times do you need to be taught a lesson to stay put. You are really pissing me off."

Sam destroyed the statue and left.

He looked at Arthur and said.

"Ark should be back in his imperial palace in an hour. Forget about everyone that was sent. The thunder god temple will be in seclusion for three decades without any contact with the outside world. The only other choice is death. I need an answer sent to the city by tomorrow morning."

With that, Sam returned to the city and gave the orders for the major clean-up.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 1108: Teaching

Luckily the infiltration is not deep and there are barely any members that actually managed to enter the organization. Most of them are in the position of nobility. He left the rest for the executives to deal with.

That night, he called for Ling Tian to have another talk through the exchange store. He described the situation with Indra and asked him to take care of it.

The next day, Sam went back to the room to meet with his students.

He let them take a seat and asked.

"So, how did the study go? Did you not understand anything in it?"

Kasi raised his hand and Sam gestured him to speak.

"Teacher, I understood the concepts, but what I don't understand is why we have to study all the other elemental energies. Even though it would be good for us to understand how to counter the attacks, I don't believe this much of a detailed study is necessary."

Sam smiled and said.

"Of course, you wouldn't find it necessary. Particularly when you think of an opponent of your age and strength. But what about a person with more experience? A person who is stronger than you? What would you do then?"

You need to find ways to utilize the environment around you, the weather, any external factors that may appear and disappear at any moment. You need to find out even a minute thing that could help you in that situation.

And to be able to utilize them effectively, you need more than average knowledge.

You need to understand the possible energy circulation of the attack of the opponent. You need to understand the very basic principle of the elemental energy the opponent is using and think of every single factor that might influence that elemental energy.

If you are familiar with the meridian network and have a basic knowledge of formations and energy circulation you can do wonders.

I will explain that to you later and you would understand."

Kasi nodded and stayed put.

Sam then looked at the students and said.

We will still be focusing on the theory along with training on efficient energy circulation. As for the cultivation, we can do that after a month. I can assure you that you wouldn't be left behind. Anyway, you would not only catch up with your peers, you would even be able to surpass them.

With that, Sam started explaining some theoretical lessons until afternoon, and then he took out some seals shaped in bracelets and gave them to them.

These are the energy suppression bracelets. This will not allow them to circulate more than the permitted energy and even the energy circulation will be different.

That day, he only made them practice the energy circulation until evening and let them all go. Everyone except Arvi.

Sam took Arvi who is still lifeless to the Marquis territory on the back of Yanwu. Yanwu's light elemental affinity gave some sense of familiarity to the little girl.

They went to the Marquis city by night, where the Marquis and his son along with everyone that are involved in the issue regarding Arvi were hung on the arch of the city.

Sam bent a little to match Arvi's height and said slowly.

"I told you yesterday, that I will be looking after you and that is the truth. These are the people that harmed you. They are the people that killed your parents. Now their lives are at your disposal. You don't have to do anything. I will be punishing them in my own way. When you think they suffered enough, tell me to stop and I will give them a swift death. No matter how long it takes, we will both be here."

Sam then started their torture. He only used light elements and made them suffer from the laser beams.

He observed Arvi's situation while doing so. As she heard their screams, he could see her eyes watering.

It is as if a large ice block is finally melting.

Sam wanted to see this reaction. All this while, Arvi is completely stuck in a spot where she couldn't see any hope. All this while she was completely suffering from the physical and mental trauma forcefully inflicted on her.

Her parents' death, her abduction, the constant violation all made her believe that she is helpless and there is no hope in asking for help from anyone.

The Marquis and his son were in a position of invincibility within her mind, making the whole world dark and cold.

Sam understood her position all too well. He went through the same thing but he was a bit younger than her. So he knew what to do to make her have hope again. Even if she doesn't recover completely, she would still be able to recover a little after he made her believe that the Marquis and his son are not invincible and they are not even that strong.

They can be killed easily, they can also suffer and the person who can inflict such suffering on them is now her teacher and she can rest assured that something like that wouldn't happen to her again.

He made her look through the whole torture. No matter how much they screamed and suffered, how much they bled, she didn't even flinch. She just looked at them as she wept like the little girl she was.

From what Sam gathered, she was like this since she was ten. Five years of suffering is not something she can overcome easily.

Sam tortured them until dawn. They begged for death many times, they tried to plead, beg and even provoke Arvi since they understood that she is the decision-maker of their fate.

But until dawn the next day, the whole city heard the screams of the group and Sam completely destroyed their wills and bodies.

Only then did Arvi spoke.

"Enough."

Her voice is melodious and beautiful just like her. But it was filled with sorrow and grief.

Sam finished them off and except for their skeletons, nothing else remained on the spot.

He went back to Arvi and looked into her eyes. She broke down once again and started weeping uncontrollably before hugging him.

Sam didn't push her away and let her hold him. After more than fifteen minutes, she finally let go.

Sam wiped her tears with a smile and said.

"From now on, you are not alone. I am here for you, so are your fellow students and so does the organization that has thousands of people. Nobody would even dare to lay their hands on you and even if they tried, you will be able to defend yourself. I will make you strong. Stronger than you ever imagine and stronger than anyone else that wants to harm you."

This is the last time you are ever going to be afraid. From today onwards, you don't have to fear anything. Anything and everything in this world shall be and will be afraid of you."

After consoling her a bit, they took off on Sky.

They reached the City in a few hours. They are a bit later for the class. But the students are already practicing.

Sam let them practice first and continued the theory class in the afternoon.

By evening he gave them a break and called them back to a special room where a simulated battle was played.

This is one of Sam's battles while he was still in his early stages of cultivation.

The battle simulation was analyzed in great detail to the point that Sam even explained the energy circulation process of both Sam and his opponents.

Most of Sam's battles were against multiple opponents and some are of even higher level. He is currently showing the battle for the admission of the Starwood academy where he fought against the seniors.

He only used fire elemental energy at that time.

He gave a detailed explanation of the battle. How he used the dark wind wolves, the pits, the abilities of his teammates at that time, grass, and the beasts in the forest.

He showed them everything.

He even simulated the dark wind wolves' reaction after inhaling the liquid. He simulated the biological reactions of different organs and why they became like that.

The whole thing looked so magical for the kids.

After everything was over, Sam gave them some devices.

It is a transparent sphere trapped in a cube of which the top and bottom faces are made of metal with formation engraved.

"Take these and with the bracelets on, try to inject the energy. When you can inject the energy inside the sphere and fill it completely in a single attempt, we will start your cultivation immediately."

"But, you said you will start the cultivation after a month."

"I wanted to do that too. But now I think that a little competition is great. So, work hard and practice whenever you have time. I have a lot going on myself, but we will have lessons every day. Classes might be a bit random at times."

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 1109: Threatening the Gods

For the past few days, they are resting in the city. After all, Sam is constantly making them move around and all the killing and fighting is bound exhaust them mentally. But now that they rested for few days, they felt like they are as good as new.

So they came back to get their next task from Sam.

Their initial contract with Sam is only a decade after all and even Sam is sure that they wouldn't leave him after that, it is still better for him to be cautious and use them well while he still can.

"I need more people."

Sam said as soon as he entered the room.

The team didn't speak and just let him continue.

"We would be here for at least another year and a half. So, I want you guys to do something for me in the meantime.

I want you to move across all the territories we have covered. Every realm that is under the fourth phase organizations can be visited. I want you to get in touch with the leader there and try to get the death row inmates, criminals or whoever that is. I want people in Astral Pre-transcendence and transcendence and in a lot of them.

If you can, you can even capture the beasts of that level."

The team was a bit surprised by this, but Night Ghost asked.

"Boss, how many do you want exactly? If we can get an estimation of the number, we can try to recruit them."

"No, I don't want people that can be recruited. I want people that are impossible to recruit. Just go through the realms and find powerful people with bad reputations. There would be many organizations like Black Curtain, even if they are not at that scale, there will many organizations and powers and even some individuals, that are prey on other people for their lives.

Try to find them, beat the crap out of them, make them unconscious and throw them into the Ice divine dimension.

For every three months, come back here and I will send you back to the place where you came from after a few days of rest and I will deal with the people you captured.

Take all the riches and rewards you gain in the process for yourself. All I need is people. I don't care what race they belong to. All I need is manpower.

With the current expansion of the schools and academies, I need powerful people to be in charge of them. Even if my administrators are competent, there is no way I could just leave everything for them and they are bound to have difficulty when dealing with some local strong people.

So, I will station these guys there to take care of them. They will even act as a deterrent for the administrators who have different ideas.

If you kill anyone, don't forget to copy their cultivation technique through their memory."

The team left immediately after Sam gave his order and he even gave them a lift with the dimensional drifter to their first location.

The team is even a bit excited as this is a great way to increase their combat experience which also aid them in cultivation. Sam's cultivation speed made them feel a bit afraid, so they don't dare dilly dally and relax. And when they were separate, they were geniuses in the surroundings as they didn't have any peers that could threaten them.

But now, the rest of the peers are as disgustingly talented as themselves, which made them even more competitive. So, they are not going to let this opportunity go.

After dropping them off, Sam focused on his chess board.

There are around a dozen members inside who are playing at least ten games per day.

In fact, there is no time for them to rest as Sam just set them to fight each other again and again. By now, each of them died hundreds of times and they are losing their will slowly making them colder and colder.

In two more days at least, Sam would be able to force them to sign a soul contract with him and he can utilize them for his own use.

After he was done with that, Sam continued with the lessons for the kids while he worked on somethings.

First one is to find the beasts suitable for the kids.

He is a beast cultivator and has a bunch of beasts that could rule over realms in their prime. So, it is only natural that he would encourage his students to be beast cultivators as well. And since the beast cultivation methods don't restrict them too much and they will even get more freedom and a companion fight with, it is in fact a great way of cultivation.

But every single one of them is unique and Sam must find a proper beast for each of them.

After much research he narrowed it down to a few beasts, but it would be difficult to gain them. He could use the heirlooms to exchange for them, but it would be too big of a price.

At first Sam just wanted to endure the pinch and buy them off with Ling Tian's help, but now that Indra intervened, he would be able to get some discount.

He also needs some cultivation techniques for them that would be suitable for them and the beast companion they would have.

At first, Sam wanted to create them himself, but he doesn't have any knowledge of Divine Plane of cultivation and how they would proceed there, so he finally decided on asking Ling Tian for these cultivation techniques as well.

So he immediately made a visit to the store and contacted Ling Tian.

When he finally managed to get in touch with the man, Ling Tian was stunned as he looked at the list.

"You want these beasts and that too when they are at Initiation stage?"

"Yes."

"Do you know how valuable they are?"

"I do know. Since Indra owes me something, ask him to give me half the beasts and half the cultivation techniques suitable according to the requirements.

After he gave them, make sure that Gambler double checked them and there are no problems whatsoever. Those are for my students, if something happens to them, I will destroy every organization that worships both Indra and Gambler without caring about your game.

I don't know why they need these organizations and people worshipping them, but I am sure that they have their own uses, so tell them to be careful."

"Really, Sam? You are threatening while asking for a favor at the same time?"

"What? You are the only ones who can threaten me? Indra is getting on my nerves anyway. I will just go on and destroy everything that is related to him and I will also go and destroy rest of the organizations under Hindu Gods and I will make sure that they understand it is because of their King that they are suffering.

So, tell him to give half of them for free and for the rest, I will only give one heirloom for a set of beast and the cultivation technique. So, I want everything for five heirlooms and those heirlooms are of the third phase organizations."

"The higher end of the third phase?"

"No, the lowest end."

"Sam, you are practically ripping his flesh off."

"Of course, that is the whole idea. Do you think that I am that easy to provoke. Let this be a message to others, I will make sure that they will pay an even terrible price if this repeats again. And until now, it was only a speculation that these organizations are useful, but from your reaction I am sure that they are useful and might even be necessary.

Tell him to make a wise choice. After all, my new toys are created for mass destruction."

"You are essentially making him an archenemy by doing this. Your toys might be good for now, but there would come a time where you wouldn't be able to utilize them as you want and that is also the time you would be facing these gods head on. Are you sure you want to push him into a corner now?

And at that time, your protection for being a player would be revoked and your organization could be attacked."

Sam just smiled without replying and just looked at him calmly.

Ling Tian sighed and said.

"Okay then. Your wish. I am sure that they will comply, but you better be careful from now on."

"Alright."

With that Sam left.

Now that one task is out of his way, he started focusing on the second one.

Creating something that could help his students with the cultivation.

He has been working on this for some time now. This is the most revolutionary thing that he made after he managed to learn the liquefaction of energy.

But it is in its final stages and now that he took his students, he has to finish making it now.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 1110: Cultivation Chambers

Sam is currently inside the second floor of the divine dimension as he looked at the large egg shaped pod.

It is completely transparent and looked like it was made of crystal. There is a small seating platform inside the pod which is also made of crystal.

There are some circular holes all over the pod and Sam is currently placing some metallic hollow cylinders that are in the size of a small battery.

After that, he took out some flexible tubes made of black meteorite sand fibers and connected them to these small hollow metallic cylinders at one end.

The other end of each pipe is connected to various large cylinders that were placed on four different sides.

He lifted the pod and placed it on a platform which has hollow bottom from which he could gain access to the bottom hole of the pod which is larger in the diameter than the rest of the holes.

He took out a tube of large diameter and connected it there.

The other end is connected to a crystal table. The table top is translucent. He took out another small tube and connected the table top to another cylinder with liquid energy which prompted the table top to glow.

A bunch of icons and buttons appeared on the table top. It is like a touch screen keyboard.

Sam smiled as he looked at it.

He then went to the four cylinders that are connected to the pods. The cylinders are also made of the same material as the pod and inside there is another cylinder with much smaller diameter.

Sam checked if everything was set in place and went back to the table.

He clicked on the 'CYLINDER' button on the table. The rest of the buttons disappeared and on the top left corner an arrow mark indicating the 'BACK' option appeared on it. The 'CYLINDER' tab was magnified and was placed on the left side, four lines branched out from it connecting to four more tabs with "CYLINDER 1' to 'CYLINDER 4'.

He pressed on the first one and ten more tabs branched out, the first was named 'NEUTRAL' but the rest of them are empty.

He selected the 'NEUTRAL' tab and clicked on the second cylinder, similarly, ten more tabs appeared with the first NEUTRAL and the rest of them empty. He did the same for it and then continued on to do the same for the third and fourth cylinders.

After selecting the four, he clicked on enter button which is in the bottom right corner.

As soon as he pressed it, the cylinder tab was closed and everything went back to normal with a bunch of icons and buttons.

At the same time, the four cylinders started glowing as liquified neutral spiritual energy started filling all four of them.

After they are filled to the brim four-cylinder icons appeared on the top right corner. They are small and could easily go unnoticed. When Sam pressed one of them, a tab branched out showing the percentage of the cylinder that was filled, and currently, it is a hundred percent.

He closed that tab and shifted his attention back to the original icons. There is an icon that indicated the pod. He clicked on it and a bunch of tabs opened up.

He selected the one with 'RECOVERY' on it and the meteorite sand tubes started glowing a bit which soon made the pod glow.

Sam pressed another button beside the icon which opened the pod. Sam walked to the pod and sat inside before pressing a button inside the pod which closed it.

Sam closed his eyes.

Soon, he could feel the smooth energy being thrown at him. Even the natural absorption of his body managed to absorb multiple times worth of energy in just a few minutes.

After those few minutes as soon as his energy reached the peak the pod opened by itself as he came out.

He went to the table and looked at the cylinder icons which are now half empty.

Sam smiled widely as he looked at this.

This is the cultivation chamber and this is the best thing he created recently.

This is a device that is used for taking full advantage of the properties of the liquified energy and makes it easier for cultivation.

The problem with liquified energy is that it is too pure. As much as it can be absorbed easily when it was absorbed there is a high chance of energy overdose happening which will tear down the body of the cultivator if they couldn't control it properly.

But this Cultivation chamber not only eliminates those problems but also provides many other things that could help the cultivators.

The first function is obviously cultivation. Any cultivation technique can be entered into the data storage section of the chamber and it will make it easier for the cultivator inside to absorb the energy as well as with the circulation of the energy making it impossible for any cultivation deviation and such.

The second function is the recovery that Sam just underwent.

The third function is Immunizing.

This function is to increase the immunity of a cultivator to certain elemental energy or even some substances.

For example, for a fire elemental cultivator, the ice element is detrimental. Even though the final result of a battle still depends on their competence, it can be said that the fire elemental cultivator will definitely hold some disadvantages.

But in this chamber, the fire elemental cultivator will be forced to face the ice elemental energy in a controlled way so that he could gain a certain level of immunity. Even though it is impossible to have complete immunity, it is still beneficial to a certain extent and as the cultivation level of the cultivator increases, they can increase the dose to increase their immunity too.

The fourth function is to regulate energy efficiency. This will make it harder for the cultivators inside to absorb energy. The energy will be a lot denser for them to absorb and will not be able to ingest it as they liked.

It would be hard for them to absorb and they would have put more effort.

This is to modify the bodies of the cultivators a bit to get used to the scarcity of energy which will in turn force the body to absorb it more efficiently. When they were placed in a situation where energy is abundant, their cultivation speed, absorption speed, energy recovery will all be better than any of their peers.

Even though it doesn't look like much as their cultivation increases, this will be able to make a large difference in large-scale battles.

The next function is healing with the light element or wood element, and they can even combine.

Any form of flesh wound can be healed.

A detoxification process would suck any toxin from the body.

Like this, there are many functions.

Sam believed that this thing would revolutionize the cultivation world. Not only can this pod help with the cultivation, it can also help with creating some simulated atmosphere for the cultivation.

For example, it will be hard for the fire elemental cultivator to absorb energy in an environment filled with ice elemental energy, he can simulate that to increase the familiarity of the cultivator with such an environment. With enough training like that, they can even absorb energy even when they were in the Tundra region.

His students will be the first batch of people to ever use this cultivation chamber.

He put a lot of effort into it and there are more than five hundred spirits working to make the whole thing work properly.

While Sam is in delight at the fruits of his labor, someone is feeling frustrated because of his threats.

Gambler is sitting in front of Indra, but this time they are not alone, the rest of the gods are also there.

Indra had an expression full of anger on his face.

He looked at Gambler and said.

"How dare you say the information regarding the places of worship to a mere mortal? Now look at him, he is threatening me like this. What if all the players do the same? Should we give everything to them? I say that we eliminate him from the game and from the world."

"Yeah, right. Do you think everyone is so stupid to not realize what the function of these so-called places of worship is? I bet that every cultivator might have already realized that even though we are far away, we have some use for these places of worship.

Do you really think they wouldn't think about why we are responding to some low-level cultivators just because of a stupid ritual?

Even if we didn't say anything, they would realize it sooner or later and even if we say it out loud, what does it matter? It was you who pissed him off too much. You can just try and send spies into the organization he built by himself even though it is against the rules, but he cannot retaliate with a threat? Just how self-centered are you Indra?"
