Chapter 1111: Beasts for Students

Indra didn't reply and just sat there as he stared at Gambler angrily,

The gambler looked at the rest and said.

"I don't know how he found it, but I don't think there is anything wrong with what he did. After all, we can guess that he might have found out about it earlier, but he didn't get just threaten us directly. Even with the enmity he has with Hel who killed his friend, he didn't go after her organization out of the rules of the organization, so why would he do that now?"

It is because of Indra's overstepping of boundaries.

As for whether he understands what the places of worship are for and whether it is right for him to know, I don't think there is anything wrong with it either. They are going to learn it sooner or later. In a few years, and when they learn it, they will all think of us as cowards for not revealing such a thing. You can think about it. If you ask me, it is better to tell them beforehand. I don't want to be called a coward from a junior."

Everyone stayed silent. One of the gods then spoke.

"I don't think there is anything wrong with that, but we wouldn't give the answer without them asking, and even when they did, we would only answer when they pay a price for it."

The rest of the gods agreed to it as for Indra's situation, none of them bothered to help him out. They know how he does things, so they didn't want to support them.

After finishing off the deal, Gambler went back.

Two days later, Sam visited the store once again and the things he needed were delivered once again, but this time Ling Tian also arrived to speak.

"I want to know, how much do you know about the organizations and the worship towards gods."

Ling Tian asked directly.

Sam thought for a moment and said.

"To be honest, not much actually. I just thought that they are important, but I didn't know how much. But now that Indra caved in for this threat, it is fair to say that I have a new understanding about these organizations."

Ling Tian smiled and said.

"There is new information that can be bought through us. If you want to know, all you need to do is pay with a low-level heirloom."

"Really? What would that information be?"

"Something that might be useful in the future."

Sam thought for a second and nodded before paying the price.

"The organizations that you are destroying are called the Places of worship by the gods, they supply gods with a much-needed faith energy."

"Faith energy?"

Sam was surprised.

"Yes, the faith energy. I cannot go into too many details. But for gods the faith energy is important. And after reaching a certain level, it would make a large difference between the strengths of gods and their power levels. So, your threat did work. But do remember one thing, after you progress to a certain level in the game all the bets will be off, you wouldn't be able to protect your organization with just the rules.

So, even if you managed to protect your organization now and even got something out of it, you also made sure that Indra would attack your organization with all his might as soon as it is okay for him to do so."

Sam thought for a moment and nodded with a smile.

"I know what to do. Thanks for the info anyway."

With that Sam left with the cultivation techniques and the beast infants all stored in different beast pouches.

Sam brought them back to the students who are practicing their energy control.

"Okay guys, stop your practice a bit and come here. I have something to give you."

All the students came running to him.

Sam looked at them with a smile and said.

"I have some presents for you."

He took out one beast after another and gave them to the students.

For Ratri, he gave out a Dark Pegasus. Its elemental energy is similar to that of her, but the Pegasus energy focuses mostly on destruction while Ratri has destruction energy as well as devouring ability. But there is no beast that could compensate both energies for her and it is not possible for her to have two beasts. So, he chose the better companion.

For Arvi, he gave the Divine Pegasus or simply the Pegasus, it is completely opposite to the Dark Pegasus with light elemental energy. This is perfect for Arvi with her light elemental affinity.

For Mani, Sam found the Silver Winged Condor.

A bird-type beast with high-level metal affinity and an affinity with magnetic variance. This is a beast that is just below the Sky sovereign roc when it comes to the superiority in the bird-type beasts.

For Habi, it is a Two-legged Black Porcupine.

Even though it is not exactly the same level as the first three beasts when it comes to bloodline superiority, this beast has its own specialty when it comes to battle and it is not that low level either. It is right up there with the Forest bear that Sam has.

But it complements Habi and his weird body with high blade affinity.

Because the spikes on the porcupine are not only structured differently, they act like blades. As the porcupine also has two strong hind legs, it only uses them for walking and uses the front limbs as arms pretty much. It sometimes breaks its own spikes to use them as blades to fight. Its speed is also extremely high. This would be a perfect fit for Habi.

For Rin, the situation is a bit different. She has an ice elemental body and fire elemental core. This is actually a tricky combination, but after much search, Sam managed to find one beast that is suitable for her.

A Fire-Frost Serpent Dragon.

It is a serpent dragon that was born due to the union of a fire serpent dragon and a frost serpent dragon.

There are two cases the baby would have. One with the body of fire element and core of ice, while the second case would be with the body of ice and fire elemental core.

Sam picked the second one obviously. This beast can live in both fire and ice elemental environments, but the ice elemental body is mostly used for immunity against the ice elemental attacks. And it would be a complete immunity, even if it was attacked by some high-level being, the damage would be minuscule.

Sam wanted to develop Rin in the same way. A fire elemental user who has extreme immunity

For Madhu, he got a snake.

It is called the Myriad Flower Serpent. This is a wood elemental snake that could be considered as a fourth most powerful snake in terms of bloodline superiority.

For Rang it, the dwarf with both earth and fire elements, Sam got Earthen-Fire Dragon. This was the easiest choice Sam has to make as it was easiest to search.

Actually, he could find dragons for all the students for their elemental affinities as the dragons have a broader spectrum of elemental affinities. But he didn't want to do that because they are not the best match, but for Rangit, it is the best choice without any confusion.

For Bran the half-barbarian with a Berserker body constitution, Sam got the Divine blood ape.

This is one of the beasts that have a similar ability to the Berserker. It is of neutral energy just like the Golden Ape Sam has, but its bloodline is a little inferior to the Golden Ape.

For Vron, who is a Dragon Hawk tribe member with great purity and fire elemental energy, Sam got a Dragon Hawk. If the Earthen-fire dragon is the easiest choice, then for Vron, this is not even a choice at all.

He doesn't even have to think whether he should go for another beast.

The last one is Kasi.

The Half Demi-Giant who has Astral Soul constitution.

This is one of the toughest choices Sam has to make. He couldn't find any beast that has the same level of affinity with the soul and the body as Kasi, but after a great search, Sam managed to find one, but he was not sure whether he should give it to Kasi or not.

Even now, he is hesitating a bit.

He took a deep breath to calm himself down and gave it to Kasi.

This is a Devil Dragon.

The one beast that has the highest affinity with the souls.

Even though one might think that this beast has an affinity with dark elements, they couldn't be any more wrong.

The Devil dragon has a strong body with black scales and two horns with an eerie aura around it. It consumes and plays with the souls even though it could end the enemies with a single attack of its body.

It is not necessarily evil, but its nature is a bit sinister. In fact, the mentality of the Devil dragon is closest to that of a human and it is not really the best option for a beast cultivator if they don't have enough willpower. But he felt that as a teacher, it is his responsibility to not just give the best option to Kasi, but also make sure that he would be able to face any troubles that are caused by that option, so he took a leap of faith and gave it to him.

Chapter 1112: Training

The kids and the beasts are looking at each other curiously. All of them except Kasi and Devil dragon. The rest of the people are within Sam's organization's influence since they were born and didn't have to get introduced to violence from a young age. But Kasi is different, Sam knew that this guy killed a couple of people even before awakening.

And as he looked at the Devil dragon, he could see that there is a sense of rivalry within them. Both of them are staring at each other's eyes.

Sam couldn't help but smile wryly.

They are off to a rough start and it would be hard for Kasi to make a contract with it.

He shook his head and looked at the rest of them before saying.

"From now on, these beasts are you, companions, in life and death. You would be cultivating with them. I have cultivation techniques for all of you that are compatible with the beasts, but to cultivate, you already know the first condition. You need to fill the sphere with your energy.

Now, I am giving you the second condition. You need to make sure that you managed to befriend your beast companion and make them willingly make a contract with you.

You wouldn't get your cultivation technique until then. I have their favorite foods prepared in these spatial rings."

With that, he gave the rings to them and sent them back to the practice.

Everyone except Kasi of course.

"I need to tell you this. You must have already observed that the Devil Dragon is a bit troublesome. I will be honest with you. Your condition is a bit unique and there are almost no beasts that are compatible with you. The Devil Dragon is of a high-level bloodline even among the dragons.

But it is a bit competitive and cunning in its thinking. You need to win him over now since it is still a toddler.

Once it grows, it will be harder. I know I am asking too much and it might seem a bit unfair when compared to other students, but I have no choice. I cannot simply waste your potential, just to make it a bit easier for you.

So, try your best to win him over and ask me for help if you need it."

Kasi bowed to Sam and said.

"You don't have to worry teacher. I know what to do. I will win him over for sure."

"Even after winning him over, you need to be careful a bit. You should never let him get hurt emotionally. Devil dragons are dangerous, whether they are allies or enemies. You need to trust him and you should make sure that he knows that.

If you cause it severe emotional pain, your soul could be devoured.

If you think it is too dangerous, I could take it back, but I am telling you that this is the best companion despite all the flaws."

"No need, teacher. I will keep him with me. I am sure we will get along fine."

He looked at the Devil dragon with a smirk that is not so pleasant.

Sam knew that some trouble is something he should be looking forward to.

After sending them away, Sam went back to build more cultivation chambers. Most of the crystal structure is created with the molded empty spirit stones and the structure is extremely demanding compared to anything he ever created when it comes to the structure.

He would take a long time even if he worked on it on the second floor on the divine dimension with the added time bonus he could have.

In the next month, he solely focused on making these devices. But he didn't create an extra table operator, because he designed it to be connected to multiple pods at the same time.

In that one month, a lot of things happened with the students. He regularly taught basics, he made them constantly use energy with extreme precision and made sure that they don't have any trouble with it and he also helped them get along with their beasts.

And to his surprise, the first one to get along with their beast is actually Kasi.

The Devil dragon which he thought would be more troublesome was actually won over by this guy.

Sam was surprised and shaken; he almost couldn't believe that something like that is possible.

But it happened and Kasi rode on that wave as he finished the task Sam gave him which is to finish the sphere by the twentieth day.

Sam appreciated him in front of the remaining students and then gave him his cultivation technique. He wanted him to get familiar with it.

Seeing this the rest of the students also got riled up and started increasing their practice amount. They are still in the Initiation stage so sleepless nights will still exhaust them a little, particularly when they are constantly using energies.

But soon one after the other they finished the tasks and by the twenty-eighth day, they are all done with both filling the sphere and befriending their beasts.

Sam already gave the cultivation techniques so that they could familiarize themselves with them.

After the month has ended, Sam then took out the body refining technique which he made with the Ancient yoga and made them practice it every day.

For the next month, he didn't take them to the cultivation chamber and only cultivate them naturally without any aid of the formation so that they would be able to get a clear picture of what they are doing and how the energy absorption works in normal conditions.

After one month of that training, he then took them to the cultivation chambers. He placed them all on his own floor within the tower and made them get inside as they cultivated. Their schedule slowly got packed with four hours of normal cultivation within the cultivation chamber, one and half hour body tempering function in the chamber and then another one and a half-hour body tempering outside, basic energy circulation for two hours, then the lesson on battle analysis for two hours, immunity training in the cultivation chamber for one hour. Training their beasts for another hour. The remaining time for resting, eating, and do whatever they wanted to do.

They are lucky that Sam didn't directly throw them into the schedule and made them gradually understand it.

Sam supervised everything closely while he cultivated himself.

It has been a while since he solely focused on his training without any research and deadlines.

After another month like this, the team returned with the first batch of forced recruits.

There are around two dozen, Astral Plane Pre-transcendent cultivators from initial stage to the Peak stage and there are another dozen Astral Plane Transcendent cultivators who are in the Initial stage.

This is a great harvest. Sam threw them all on the chessboard and went through the reports.

They are all-powerful in their realms but most of them are tyrants and criminals. Some of them are assassins, some are rapists, some are leaders of the underground organizations, they don't have anything good in the report.

Apart from this harvest, the team had brought around fifty cultivation techniques for which he was surprised. Along with the cultivation techniques, he would get from the people inside the chessboard after they are completely brainwashed, there are a total of eighty cultivation techniques at the moment.

That is a great addition to him.

After sending them back on their conquest.

Sam went back to training the students and training himself again.

They broke through the Acolyte stage in no time and are progressing levels faster than Sam.

Provided that he doesn't have the same facilities and a proper training regiment and such, they are still faster than he was by a large margin.

After they broke through, Sam started teaching formations to them.

Even though he didn't want them all to be the formation masters if they don't want to be one, he wanted to teach the basics principles of the formations because they would be facing some serious formations that could simply kill them, and the more knowledge they have about formations the better.

Along with the formations, Sam started teaching some secondary things for the students. He picked a student one day and started training them in an aspect that could help their specialty. For Rangit the dwarf who is good at earth and fire element, Sam started the lessons at golem making and weapon smithy.

For Madhu, he started teaching healing and botany with the focus on understanding various plants and herbs along with genetic modifications so that she could create different kinds of seeds that could be grown into the kind of plants that could help her in the battle.

The modified soul-devouring vines he used in the realm of undead are a perfect example of the feats the seed modification can create.

For Arvi, he focused on healing as well as attacking. She already has partial fusion, so he started teaching how she could change the frequency and create different kinds of lasers that can cause different kinds of damage.

Like that, he focused on everyone so that they could focus on what they are good at as well as the basic training.

Chapter 1113: Talk with Students

Another month passed and everything is going well in the training. But one day, Sam called off the training.

"Today is your rest day."

When they heard this, the group of students was stunned. They are actually enjoying the training. The feeling of getting strong and increasing strength is something they couldn't get enough of.

They are all a bit disappointed and didn't know what to do. They wanted to ask Sam if they could continue, but they couldn't dare to bring themselves to.

In the past few months, even though Sam is smiling and friendly towards them, they also learned some stories about him. These stories only circulate throughout the executives and administrators along with some high-level combat teams.

Even though some of the stories are old, they are great nonetheless and fearful too. Now that they were Sam's students they came across these stories many times and often they couldn't relate the smiling young man in front of them to those stories, but they knew better than just striking them off and became more cautious with the way they talked with Sam.

So, they didn't dare take his kindness for granted. But they are also not willing to go on for a day without training.

Sam looked at them with a smile. He clearly understood what they are thinking. They are having trouble because they are breaking through at an incredible rate. It has only been a few months and they are already on their way to the late stages of Acolyte.

And Sam is sure that they would break through the Novice stage in no time and then proceed at the same pace to the Great realm and Grand realm cultivation stages.

But this rapid rate is what made him take them a break.

"You will be taking a break from your cultivation. Because tomorrow, you will be going through some practical examination.

You will be fighting against all the students of the schools who are at the same level."

The students who are contemplating on how to convince Sam to let them train for a while were all stunned and looked at him in surprise.

"Not just the students from this school, we have many schools and most of them are connected through space gates to the feathered planet. One by one each school will send people here from today onwards.

By tomorrow morning, everyone will arrive and all of you will be sent to the central continent where a special arena was built.

You will be injected with a special device I made. If your body receives a certain level of damage, you will be taken out of the Arena and sent outside.

The competition will only be over when only ten people are left out of more than a thousand people. I want it to be your ten."

When they heard Sam's explanation they are all excited. Even though they are going through combat training every day with Sam, they did lack practical combat experience. They are unable to utilize it properly.

But now that they have a chance they are really excited.

"Don't get too excited yet. I am not done.

You will not be allowed to take off the restriction bracelets. They will be kept on. In fact, I decided that they will be on you until you reach Astral Plane of cultivation, you are only allowed to remove them when you are in a life or death situation."

The students were stunned and Kasi asked.

"Teacher, wouldn't it be unfair to us to fight against that large group of people without using our full strength."

"Your bracelets don't limit your strength, it only limits your energy usage. It makes it harder for you to circulate the energy. That is it. This way you will learn to conserve your energy.

As for being unfair. How unfair do you think it is for my students to fight against the students who only studied basic curriculum."

Kasi didn't say anything and became silent. But Rangit raised his hand and asked.

"Teacher, then why wouldn't let us practice now? I think we are on verge of breaking through to the Late stage of Acolyte, so we would have a better chance at winning."

"Well, you need to learn how to beat stronger opponents. This is a way for you to do so. Anyway, you guys prepared enough, so it is always better to rest well before a big test. So, today we will just talk. Ask whatever you want to know. Not about the cultivation of course. You can ask me about everything else.

I am pretty sure that you heard a lot of nonsensical things about me around the city, so you can ask me about them if you want to know."

"Teacher, is it true that you made a throne out of the arm bones of the people that targeted you and your friends. I also heard that there are two arms of a prince in the chair."

It is Vron who asked this with an exciting look.

Sam shook his head and said with a wry smile.

"Yes, I did."

Everyone looked at him in awe.

"Teacher, how can you be so sure that you wouldn't be killed by the emperor of such disrespect?"

"Information, Kids. Information can let you do many things. I was a part of the competition and I cut off their arms within the competition rules. The competition is conducted by Thundergod temple. You must have heard about it too. The Palace of inheritance is done every three years. Many people from our organization go there too.

Thunder god temple is selecting candidates, so the emperor cannot interfere.

Since I knew of that, I used that to my advantage and cut their arms off. But escaping after that mostly depended on my luck and some things that I obtained in the Palace of Inheritance."

Students went on and asked a lot of questions about Sam, they wanted him to tell stories about his feats on his journey across realms, stories about the opponents, who is the toughest, who is the most cunning, most frustrating battle he has ever been in and so on.

Sam patiently explained everything with a smile.

He really liked this. The peaceful and cheerful smiles of children and their innocent curiosity about what he has gone through and their excited expressions because they imagined themselves in his shoes, really felt great.

This unknown feeling is something he couldn't get enough of.

After some time, Kasi raised his hand and asked once again.

"Teacher, how did you become so formidable?"

Sam smiled as he looked at the anticipation in the kids' eyes for that question. He didn't answer immediately and instead asked.

"What do you guys think would make a person formidable?"

The kids fell into deep thought immediately. They are all speculating different things.

One of them raised their hand and said.

"To not be afraid of death. If one person is not even afraid of death, they would become formidable."

Sam chuckled at the answer and when he saw that the rest of the students all seemed to agree with it, he couldn't help but think how innocent these kids are to believe that.

"Before we talk about death, let us talk about life first. Do you guys think life has any value?"

"Yes, every life is valuable." Kids almost answered in unison.

Sam shook his head and said.

"A life's value is what you wanted it to be. A life's worth is what you believe it is worth."

When he looked at their confused expressions, Sam smiled and said.

"You ate some fowls yesterday night. What do you think the worth of a fowl's life is? For you, it is worth a night's dinner for the fowl itself, that is all it had.

Your enemies' lives are always worthless in your eyes and your life along with the lives of your family are always worth more than the others. Denying it is pure idiocy.

And death makes all the lives worth less than they actually are. For it, every life is equal and worthless. If you start being afraid of it, then that means, you are proving that your life is worthless.

You should be accepting of death, you should be ready to embrace it, but you should always carry a level of healthy respect and fear towards death.

Fear of death will help you grow strong, force you to do things to improve yourselves that are not exactly the things you wouldn't do normally.

That fear will drive you to become something that you would never become.

That doesn't mean you should cower at any possibility of your death. You shouldn't, you should dance with the death like it was your friend and you would see the improvement you have never seen. You would feel more alive than you ever were."

"Does that mean, we should always fear death?"

"No, there will be times where you shouldn't fear death at all.

When you are fighting for something more important and valuable than your life."

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 1114: Two years

After that little talk, Sam got closer with the kids.

He sent them away to relax, as he is sure that they wouldn't be able to relax after the competition ended.

And his guess was right.

The competition went on for over a week inside the forest patch as everyone tried their best to survive and to be the last one to leave.

Even though the students managed to stay until the last day, not all of them managed to become top ten.

Seven of them lost while the three of them only managed to luck out. They cannot use the beasts of their full power at the moment, so they are already troubled from all the pressure they are facing and they are only middle stage acolytes. The late-stage acolyte particularly the peak stage ones are extremely problematic to deal with.

They lost.

Sam met with them the very night after he rewarded the top ten and sent the schools away.

He looked at his students who are feeling down. Even the three who managed to score a position are feeling a bit down.

"So, how are you feeling?"

They didn't reply. They wanted to, but they couldn't find any words.

"I know you are probably feeling that you would have won if you managed to use the energy without restrictions. If your bracelets are off, you would have managed to gain a win over them. Right?"

They nodded heavily when they heard Sam's words.

Sam just smiled and said.

"That is the mentality you have to let go of. That is the thought process I wanted to eliminate in your mind from the start. In fact, I made this whole competition up for this.

The biggest mistake all the cultivators do is training to be the best among their peers. It is a mistake because it is not enough. If we look at the competitors, everyone who managed to win is a peak stage cultivator of the Acolyte stage which constitutes seven of the top ten.

Only the three from your group are middle stage cultivators. You managed to subvert two sub-stages and won three places.

That is the only thing the rest of the school administrators are doing and you did that with direct combats.

Every one of you focused on fighting your opponents head-on, you used your environment to your advantage but not the best of it.

You are so fixated on winning head-on and the glory of the winning, you forgot the most basic lessons I always taught you.

Only Rangit and Madhu utilized traps. Why did only two of them do that? What happened to the rest of you? You could have lured the others, worked together with each other, made others clash with each other by setting them up. Why didn't you do any of it? There is barely any cunning in that battle you have done.

Everyone thinks that there needs to be fairness in fighting. But it is not true. It is good enough that there is fairness in duels and some competitions. There is no need to ask for fairness in every battle.

Because the world is made of unfair things. It has only one job and that is to bring you down to your knees and slam your head to the ground while placing a foot on your neck until you die.

If you look for things like honor and glory in every single battle you face, you will die a meaningless death.

All of you worked alone even when you met each other. You could have had a better chance if you worked together. Only Ratri and Arvi managed to work together. But they were soon overwhelmed by the alliance of your competitors.

All of you wanted to win this alone, defeat more enemies and get the first place all by yourselves.

Go back and rest for the whole day and think what you did wrong and how you could and should have gone about it."

After that, he sent them away.

This is a big blow for the students, but Sam wanted them to experience it. They are Sam's students, after all, if they didn't win in a competition solely created for them, it is not a disgrace to them, but to Sam.

They already heard several skeptical voices focused on them. They are even questioning Sam's decision of choosing them as their students. There are even sentences speculating that Sam might not be as good of a teacher as he was a fighter and inventor.

This made them feel ashamed.

After the break is over, Sam once again started their training and he could see the change. They are a lot more determined and they didn't just only focus on the breakthroughs. In fact, they didn't even focus on them at all. They started focusing on the combat abilities, how to work together and how to increase their chances of winning.

Everyone is also focusing on the traps in their free time.

They are not wasting any time.

Days passed, Sam saw their rapid progress and felt extremely satisfied. He couldn't help but get drunk in this feeling. Helping the students grow is a lot more satisfying than creating a large organization. He could feel it.

And along with his training and stabilizing the organizational expansion, everything is going way too fast.

While progressing in the cultivation, Sam also started moving towards his next project. This is also mainly focused on helping his students and would become revolutionary things in the future.

He could imagine thousands of years later after the inevitable fall of all the organizations and powers he built, people would still be talking about his legends and the technology he is creating would be the symbol of that.

Even though Sam is not exactly so drunk of being glorified, it is still a great feeling when he thought of what kind of impact his technology would bring to others.

Sam started making plans for the future. And one of the plans is regarding the Place of worship. Since he understood that faith energy is something essential for anyone who wants to become a god, and from what he observed the gods when summoned to the places of worship using the ritual, they would be able to help their followers.

All the gods had a hint of contempt towards their followers as they merely looked at them as livestock for their faith energy. Maybe not all gods, at least the ones that Sam came across.

But Sam's case would be different. His places of worship would be at most constructed in the branches of his organization which is already big enough. At least these would be fixed and permanent places.

Some places might be added in the future. He cannot act and behave like the other gods and from what he could guess after he became a godly being, there is little chance for him to come back and as soon as he became one, the other gods particularly, Indra, Hou Yi, and Hel would let all their organizations go after his own.

So, Sam has to make his places of worship more accessible and more useful for the followers and the next generations of his place.

Even though it seemed a bit narcissistic, he cannot avoid it, if he wants to protect all his hard work and pass it on to his students and descendants.

As he planned all these things, while his team is collecting new followers and students progressing rapidly, two years passed.

In these two years, the team managed to gather eight hundred members along with seven hundred and twenty beasts.

Out of which eight hundred and thirty are of the Pre-transcendent stage and the rest are of the transcendent stage, ranging from the initial to the peak stage in both cultivation realms.

This is a considerable force. Particularly when considering the fact that they were dealing with forces led by Peak stage Transcendent cultivators and now they have over a hundred Peak stage, transcendent cultivators, under him.

Sam threw them all into the chessboard in batches as he released the previous batches who were brainwashed and made soul contracts with him. He sent them to look over the schools and new branches of the organizations.

As for the gains regarding the cultivation techniques and the battle techniques, he managed to get around thirteen hundred cultivation techniques on top of the cultivation techniques handed over by the people he forcefully subdued.

As for battle techniques, there are more than two thousand.

Sam used the printing machine to copy them again and again and sent them to all the Realm academies.

Now Sam's academies became the biggest schools across the realms and the Dusk organization also acquired the name of the superpower.

Along with that the Raiju tribe inside the tempest valley was reduced by a bit as they were all sent to different realms to either train themselves or to assist Sam's organization.

Sam got ready to depart to the location to continue the next phase of the journey, but there are some talks he needs to do, with the students, with the administrators, and with the Old Beast.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 1115: Alliance

Sam's first choice is obviously the administrators. The expansion of the organization was done properly and it is perfectly stable now.

He gave orders to the organization members to develop in a different sector. The Medicine and Health care.

He has plans for the expansion in this area and he is going to open a clinic in every branch of the Dusk organization.

He needs to do this for the future plans. After giving out the orders, he went meet with the Old Beast.

In these two years, he occasionally met with the Old Beast and they talked a lot, but Old Beast didn't reveal anything about the next plane of cultivation. He only said one thing, whenever he asked and that is 'you are not ready'.

Sam doesn't know what requirements he needs to fulfil to be considered ready, but he couldn't push him too far. Others might be afraid of him, but Old Beast might even spank the shit out of him if he pushed him too far.

When Sam arrived, Old Beast looked at him and said.

"Give me a cup of that wine."

"Old Man, aren't you a little too unfeeling? I am leaving and you don't even know when I would come back and all you care about is wine?"

"What is the point of feeling emotional? Are you still a little kid that I need to think before sending you off? You are grown ass man. Go and die for all I care."

This is the regular banter they had. After drinking the Heavenly wine for a while, Sam asked.

"I am getting closer to the goal. Even if you don't want to tell me the details of Divine Plane of cultivation, just tell me how to get you out of here. Is it possible for me to just take you out with the dimensional drifter?"

"Like that is possible. The Dimensional drifter cannot do anything. Anyway, you don't need to worry. As I said, I am not being oppressed by anything. All I need to do is wait for a while and I would be able to get out of here by myself."

"Really? Are you sure?"

"Do I need a brat like you worry about me?"

"Okay."

"Didn't you say that you are going to the first puppet realm?"

"Yes, why?"

"A thousand kilometers from the capital of the first puppet realm, there is small valley. Inside that small valley there is a hidden creak that leads to a divine dimension that can only be accessed by a creature with Raiju bloodline.

No one in that area knows about it as they couldn't perceive without Raiju Bloodline. Inside the divine dimension, there is a pool of blood which you can consume.

You will directly breakthrough to the Middle stage of Astral Plane transcendence.

But to digest all the blood you need at least one week to digest and once you consume that blood, the divine dimension might be perceived by others. So, be careful. Since you have a team of people with you, I think you can manage."

Sam was stunned upon hearing this.

"How do you know that there is one?"

"I am the one who kept it there. I killed a Thunder Phoenix in that realm and collected the blood of the Phoenix in the divine dimension of the Phoenix itself and placed it there. I wanted to leave to my descendants with a decent talent, but before long I became a god and my descendants never lacked resources.

So, it has been there like that. I am pretty sure the seal I placed is still there and no one would be able to crack it, at least not the people of that realm. So, go there and take it. It would just be a waste to leave it there."

Sam really didn't know what to say for a second. He just nodded and before he could speak again, the Old Beast said.

"Now, pour me another cup and get lost from here."

Sam nodded and left after pouring a cup which is the in the size of a barrel and left.

He then went to his students.

Students are a bit sad for Sam leaving them like that.

They knew that they are not ready to go with him, they wouldn't even be able to endure the shockwaves of the battle.

Sam looked at them and said.

"It will take a while before I could come back. Do not neglect your training. The next time I come back, I will give you a gift. I left a bunch of assignments for you to complete before I come back. I am pretty sure that you wouldn't be able to finish them, but the person who finishes the most will get a reward.

Every now and then, the administrators will conduct competitions. Participate in them regularly, they are also part of the assignments.

I already gave the instructions to the administrators. Vron's father will take care of your necessities and he will taking you around to other realms based on the schedule I gave him."

When he looked at their gloomy expressions, he smiled and said.

"I want you guys to grow faster. Because there is a task that I want you guys to take lead on.

There will come a day, the whole organization will be targeted by many people from outside. There will be many organizations with strong people trying to conquer and destroy us. I want you guys to be ready for that time and lead the organization for the victory, because I wouldn't be here."

The students were surprised and shocked by his words and looked at him.

"Don't worry, I will not be dead. But I wouldn't be here either. As soon as I am gone, those people will think that the rest of the organization is easy to take over. This is built with a lot of effort and hundreds of thousands of lives are dependent on it, so I want you guys to protect it."

After coaxing them a bit, Sam left went to the terrace where his team gathered.

Currently no one in the team is in Pre-transcendent stage. In fact, everyone grew leaps and bounds in the past two years.

Night Ghost is on the verge of breaking through to the Astral Plane Consummation. Vidyut and Paras are in late stage of Astral Plane transcendence and are about to breakthrough to the Peak stage.

Saber Monarch is right on their heels as he broke through to the Late stage recently.

Five elemental King, Kiran, Sia, Gran, Jwala and Tamas are all on Middle stage of Astral Plane transcendence and Agar and Argan who the weakest are also on verge of breakthrough to middle stage of Astral Plane transcendence. There is a great chance that they would breakthrough in a couple of days.

They are trying to not to be surpassed by Sam, whose cultivation growth is too fast for them to handle.

But they are bound to be disappointed as he has a direct ticket to Middle stage of Astral Plane Transcendence.

He took out the dimensional drifter and all of them arrived near the First realm of the three Puppet Realms.

The organization they are dealing with next have three realms as their core. There are three branches with three people leading the organization.

The organization is also called the Puppet organization. As the name implies, every direct member of the organization controls at least one puppet.

Sam knew from the start that this is going to be a pain in the ass. But before he delved any deeper into this, he went to the meeting spot, where he previously agreed on meeting Arkiv.

In fact, six months before, he already came here, but Arkiv who came here only said that he would need more time and fixed that day as the meeting day.

When he went there, Sam was surprised to find that only Arkiv was here.

Sam already let the rest of the team inside the Ice divine dimension and went to meet Arkiv alone.

Arkiv looked at Sam and said with a wry smile.

"The alliance didn't go through. Akhil and Noah refused."

Sam didn't ask any reasons and said.

"Well, that is alright. I am sure they would be doing fine."

"So, what is the plan?" Arkiv asked casually.

"I have something to do here first. So after I am done with that, we will be starting our operation. I will send my team for scouting the capital first.

The Puppet Organization worships three gods and all three branches worship them together. From what I know there is not much of rivalry between the three leaders either. They are quite harmonious. So, we need to do some ground work to find where the heirloom is and how to get to that heirloom.

It would be great if we could avoid fighting, but I don't think it is possible."

"That is alright. What about the alliance share?"

Sam thought for a moment and said. "Are the rest of the players at the same cultivation level as yours?"

"Yes, pretty much."

"Okay then, for the fourth phase organizations we don't have any choice and all of us have to target the Puppet organization first as it is too vast and too powerful. I am pretty sure everyone follows the list and in fact, they might even be here.

So, let us divide the tasks based on the situation. Most of the time you and I will be fighting against the players while my team deals with the organization, of course, that might change based on the situation.

As for the loot, the resources of the organization would be divided into four shares and I will get three, you will get one.

As for the heirlooms, in the first three of the phase four organizations, you will get the first one while I get the remaining two.

If you are okay with that, we can proceed."

Arkiv just smiled and shook Sam's hand.

Chapter 1116: Thunder Phoenix Valley

Sam sent the team and Arkiv to the city so that they could investigate. He also let the shadow mice go. Arkiv is mostly concerned about the rest of the players. He communicated with other players the most, every just thinks that he is sociable, but what they don't know is that he has a keen observation towards the behavior, habits and the nature of people.

That is the reason Sam wants to work with him. After all, he doesn't need any sociable people with him, his beasts are a better company than any other creature could give him.

Arkiv's special understanding towards the other players is the reason why Sam made an alliance with him and another reason is that they became a bit closer with time. He is the best person to see if there is any activity of other players nearby.

He could pick up subtle clues and track them back to their estimated locations and hiding spots.

Sam kept Night Ghost with him as they went towards the location that Old Beast told about.

Sam used the dimensional drifter to arrive at the valley so that he doesn't have to waste any time.

He arrived a hundred meters away from the valley, along with Night Ghost, as soon as they arrived, they were shocked. Because there are a lot of people at the mouth of the valley, Sam was worried that they would have been noticed, but from the looks of it, no one paid any heed.

Sam and Night Ghost slipped from the spot and took a high vantage point nearby and looked at the valley only to feel another surprise. Inside the valley, there is a large skeleton.

It is the skeleton of the Thunder Phoenix. Sam didn't expect that something like this to be present here. Even the Old beast didn't mention it. There are many people around the Thunder Phoenix skeleton and it is giving off some ferocious aura of lightning energy.

When looking at it, Sam was reminded of the Hydra skeleton he had in his divine dimension. Even though Mia's mother agreed with him to do whatever he wanted with the Skeleton, he didn't want to tinker with it.

After all, since he and Mia are like family now, it is beyond his bottom line. He kept the skeleton with him for now and decided to bury it in the Hydra grave in higher realms about which he learned directly from the Old Beast.

Since Mia needs to take revenge for her mother, the hydra beasts would have face him sooner or later, then he would be able to dig through the graveyard of other hydras and use those skeletons to do whatever he wanted.

Sam looked at the valley full of youngsters. All of them are lightning elemental users and they are all meditating at various places near the skeleton and some of them even sat in the middle of the rib cage.

There are also some people who seemed to be guarding these youngsters.

Sam felt the aura of the skeleton and felt that it is not as strong as the aura of the Hydra skeleton, the difference is almost as vast as the strength between an Initiation cultivator of Mortal Plane and the Initiation cultivator of the Astral Plane.

But there are this many people to gain comprehension from such a skeleton. Now only Sam understood what kind of resource he held.

But that is not bothered him now. He needs to find the location of the hidden entrance to the divine dimension the Old Beast mentioned.

With the number of people here, it would be almost impossible to go unnoticed.

Luckily the strongest is only at Late stage Transcendence of Astral Plane which is a bit of a relief.

Sam wanted to find more information about the whole situation and sent out some insect type puppets to see if he can hear anything from the people that are at the mouth of the valley.

Everyone is talking a lot of nonsense, but finally there is someone who is speaking something that has some useful information.

"So, how many days the valley is going to be open for us this time?" An elderly man in a luxurious robe asked a middle aged man who is standing behind all the crowd.

The middle aged man smiled and said.

"Why are you so worried Elder? I heard you have been asking this question to everyone."

The Elderly man smiled and said.

"It is just that my grandson is on verge of breaking through the Astral Plane. As you know he is quite talented. But he might need some time for the comprehension. I just want to be prepared."

"Oh? Your grandson is already on verge of the breakthrough. I thought it would take some time. It is no problem. This time our Puppet Organization is going to hold the valley open for fifteen days. You don't need to worry. Tell your grandson to focus on just comprehension and the breakthrough inside."

The elderly man beamed with joy and said.

"That is a relief. I am really thankful for the Puppet organization."

"Haha, what are you saying? Your lightning swan sect is one of the loyal subordinates of the Puppet Organization, and you have every right to use this. If your grandson has any problem tell me, I will try my best to help him."

As the two of them started flattering Sam brought the puppets back.

From this talk and the rest of the miscellaneous talks around, he understood what is going on.

As the Old Beast completely ignored this skeleton as it is worthless in his eyes, the situation is different for the Puppet organization.

They used the aura of the skeleton as a commodity through which they reward their subordinate members.

They would give access to other occasionally and this time they are going to let other enjoy the facility for fifteen days.

So, Sam should either cause a commotion by revealing this place while all these people are here or he can just wait for fifteen days to come back when there is a relatively a smaller number of people are here.

He chose the second option and left with Night Ghost and this time they travelled by foot.

He wanted to study the terrain in the path between the City and the valley. After a few hours they are back at the capital and they entered the inn where they decided to meet.

Arkiv's face is quite serious as he waited for Sam and as soon as he saw him, he sprung on his feet and said to Sam.

"The rest of the players are all near the capital and it seems they have company."

Sam was quite surprised by the sudden outburst and wanted him to calm down.

"We need to get out of the city first."

Sam frowned but nodded. All of them started getting out of the city one by one and when they reached a certain place, Sam took them into the Ice divine dimension and found a hidden location to place it. They didn't come out and held their meeting there.

"So, what is the trouble you are talking about?"

"All the remaining players are here now and they seemed to have planned something big."

"So, they already formed an alliance? Is that why Akhil and Noah rejected the proposal?"

"I don't know if they are working together. But from what I could see each of them have company of someone powerful. In fact, Dayus is currently in touch with one of the young masters of the Puppet organization. He is roaming around the city like he is not afraid of anything."

"Did they find out about you?"

"Yes, they saw me and they also know about each other's presence. They knew about your presence too. I don't know what each of them are planning but it is about to turn chaotic.

But one thing is for sure. Dayus is planning this for a long time and so is Kumar. I overheard their conversations with other people and that is also the time they spotted me.

I couldn't get a hold of what they are planning but it seems like they are doing something big. We need to be careful.

Sam nodded and took out a shadow mice before giving it some orders and sending it to the city. Now that the shadow mice finally had his combat ability, he can now roam around the forest without any problem.

He sent the shadow mouse to inform the rest of the shadow mice to target the players and keep an eye on them.

At the same time, he let the surveillance equipment out and they made a camp to have a proper look.

Since they are not far from the city, they got the live feed instantly. That night nothing happened.

The next morning though, something caught Sam's attention, two large groups arrived at the city through the wormholes and went to headquarters of the First branch of the Puppet Organization.

By afternoon some of the shadow mice returned with some information.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 1117: Plans of the Players

The shadow mice gave some information regarding the players as well as the two large groups that arrived in the city.

The first information is that the players are indeed planning something and Kumar who is in company with some unknown group is trying to do something at the Thunder Phoenix valley.

As for Dayus, the information is not much valuable, because Dayus refused to talk about the plan and he even directly said to the young master he is accompanying that some is listening their conversation.

Even though young master repeatedly assured that there is no one, he still insisted that someone is listening and if that person listens to their plan, they would be back to square one.

They only communicated through writing and that too in a cipher.

Sam suspected that Dayus might be implying about him, but there is no way to know at the moment.

As for the information regarding the two groups, they are from the remaining two puppet branches of the Puppet organization and they are here for some kind of internal competition between the youngsters of the organization.

Apart from that information the rest of it is not that important. The remaining players are no where to be seen and only one of them was caught by one of the shadow mice.

It is Noah. But she managed to disappear after she entered the forest.

Sam doesn't know what they are planning.

But it didn't take long for them to figure out Dayu's plan.

That afternoon.

In the city.

Many people are visiting the city to witness the Internal competition of the Puppet organization. A large arena was also prepared for this.

Dayus is currently sitting in a bar along with the young master he made friends with.

He is currently holding a communication token and spoke.

"Are all units in position?"

"Yes."

"Yes."

A bunch of voices sounded from the other side.

"Report to me when the target is fifty meters away from the location."

They waited for a few minutes and soon someone spoke from the otherside.

"Target reached the hundred meter point."

"Good."

Dayus said and looked at the young master before him.

"It is your turn."

The young master nodded and ran off. He ran quickly towards one of the groups who are making their way to the arena.

The group consisted of the young master from the second branch of the puppet organization and his personal entourage. He caught up with them and talking with the young master with a smile.

"Hey, Brother two. You are already going to practice in the arena? You didn't even meet me after coming to the capital yet. Come on, let us go and have a meal. You can practice later. I hired a new chef for my restaurant, he makes the best wyvern stew that you ever tasted."

The young master of the second branch looked at the young master of the first branch with a startled expression as he didn't expect him here.

He smiled and said.

"Brother One. I am not going for the practice. There are many people in our branch who never came to the competition and they are completely unfamiliar with the arena. I just want to show them so that they wouldn't be confused during the competition."

"Come on brother. It has been a long time since we met. Some of our hunters caught a fire wyvern, bring your juniors too, we can have a feast, then I will give you a tour through the Arena myself."

As they spoke, Dayus listened to the whole conversation carefully and when the group was about to turn around, he gave a command in the communication token.

"Activate the setup."

At this moment, within the arena, there are a bunch of people who slammed some formation flags on the walls of the arena and ran outside through a secret entrance.

A large amount of fire elemental energy gathered

*BOOM***

The main entrance of the arena suddenly exploded with golden flames.

Sam watched the whole scene through the surveillance and was stunned and so were the rest of the team and Arkiv.

Before long something even more surprising happened. A bunch of people started running off through the streets of the city with a bunch of city guards and the puppet organization members chasing them.

When the team and Sam looked at the attires of the people who are running away, they felt like beating the crap out of Dayus, because they are wearing the attires that are similar to that of Sam and his team.

Sam more or less understood their plan and as he expected the group of people managed to escape the chase of the city guards.

Meanwhile, the Brother two looked at the entrance in shock after the explosion. He could estimate the time and if Brother one didn't come, then he would be under that explosion. Even if he managed to survive the explosion, the rest of the juniors wouldn't be able to.

As he thought of this, his heart ran cold.

A city guard member ran towards Brother one and whispered something.

"Brother two, a group of city guards spotted some suspects escaping the city. I also have some suspicions on someone, a friend of mine said that someone has eyes on our Puppet organization. Let us go and see if they are the same. If they are, you can count on me to give you a proper explanation.

Let us go to my restaurant and we will talk there."

With that he led the group to the restaurant. All of a sudden, Dayus also appeared there while panting and said.

"Brother One. My guess is right. It is indeed that guy."

Looking at Dayus' ragged state, no one would believe that he was sitting in the restaurant a while ago.

Brother two looked at him with a frown, but when he saw that Brother One let Dayus sit beside him and even pour some water, his frown was gone and looked at him in anticipation.

Dayus drank some water and said.

"It is indeed that guy, Sam. He is the one who did this. He really is after your organization."

"Who is this Sam? Why is he after the organization?" Brother two asked coldly.

"Sam is a powerful guy from my native place. He takes on mercenary jobs and someone might have given him a job to take down your organization.

At least that is what he told us. He destroyed the Night Demon family, the Phoenix tail sect, the Black Curtain and many other organizations. At first we really thought that he is just a mercenary, but one of his companions who cannot take on his evil ways betrayed him and only managed to let out some information before dying.

He said that Sam is doing this as a task from some devilish forces. He is going after some specific gods' followers..."

Sam looked at the whole scene with a cold smirk. He didn't expect that Dayus has such creativity in him. He really created a proper plan to make Sam an enemy. It was always Sam who does the damage first and reveals himself later, but this time, the situation changed. Even before he finished his scouting, the other party already marked him.

As Sam looked at this situation, something else is happening at another location which is being recorded by the shadow mice and some of the recording puppets he gave the mice.

Kumar arrived at the Thunder Phoenix valley along with his own companions.

They stood a few hundred meters away from the valley and the companions stood in a formation to activate something.

A vine appeared and drilled into the ground. It rapidly travelled underground towards the valley and came out slightly in the middle of the rib cage of the skeleton.

The vine immediately started growing a flower which gave out some invisible gas which spread throughout the valley rapidly and forced the kids inside to faint.

The vine buried back into the hole after the flower wilted, withered and disappeared, before turning to stone mysteriously.

The guardians who came with their kids were stunned by what they saw.

The shadow mice that got the video collected the puppets and started moving away.

But on their way to Sam who is five hundred kilometers away, in the middle of a dense tree patch a woman suddenly appeared and used vines to catch the shadow mice.

"Sorry, little ones you cannot go and show them to Sam. If he is added to the mix, things would grow complicated. Particularly if he knew about the incident immediately. Let it blow up a bit. I will let you go after our plan is done."

It is Noah. The shadow mice continuously struggled in the trap. Soon Kumar and his companions arrived.

Kumar looked at Noah and captured shadow mice as he frowned.

"Did Sam already know?" Kumar asked.

"I don't think so. It seems like these mice recorded things but didn't deliver."

"Why don't we finish them off then?" One of the companions of Kumar asked. They heard of this person named Sam a lot of times from Kumar and Noah. But they felt like their stories are a bit exaggerated.

Kumar looked at him and said.

"It is not that simple. Sam would know which mouse is which and he would definitely know we killed it, then we can forget about peace. We don't have any enmity with him and it is better to not start one now."

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 1118: Labeled

"But he is looking into our matters, doesn't that mean, he doesn't share the same sentiment as you."

One of their companions replied to Kumar.

Kumar shook his head and sighed as he looked at Noah. Gesturing her to explain to them.

"It is different. We knew him for a long time, so don't worry too much. Even if he knew the information, we are not worried that he would do something to us. It is just that he would make use of it to concoct a bigger plan and get away with the heirloom by himself. He is skilled and he has a very competent team. His means are beyond ours. So, it is better to not let him know about this. At least, he shouldn't know how we did this and what our plan is."

"Whatever, if you ask me, it is better to kill them. After all, it is not like he would be sure that we are the ones who killed them. And the shadow mice don't have many abilities. Any reason could have applied for their deaths, he couldn't just pin them on us."

Another companion said from the side.

The shadow mice that were caught in the vines suddenly activated shadow elemental fusion and their shadows turned into armors as they covered the mice.

Their small claws turned sharper than ever as they spun and cut down the vines, they looked at the two companions with anger burning in their eyes and made their move.

The black shadows danced from one side to another as they left deep and long scratches on the companions.

They didn't kill them though, they just stood on a tree branch as they looked at Kumar and Noah. A large amount of shadow elemental energy gathered around them as they disappeared from the spot. This is the shadow transverse ability.

The shadow mice reappeared in the hiding spot of Sam.

Sam frowned when he looked at the shadow mice that appeared out of nowhere.

He is already pissed at the moment and now that he could guess that someone must have messed with his mice, he wouldn't let them off easily.

The shadow mice recovered a bit after taking a few sips of the Heavenly wine and explained the situation to Sam.

Sam understood what happened. He didn't expect that Kumar and Noah would be working together and they even had company.

And when he thought of the plan they had, he couldn't understand what they wanted to do, but from what he could speculate, the most probable plan would be turning the subordinate organizations against the Puppet organization.

That is a plausible situation that could cause chaos in the Puppet organization.

When all the subordinate organizations, rebel together particularly since their younger generations are involved, the Puppet organization is bound to make some concessions and they would need to give some explanation which couldn't be just given by anyone.

They would have to send some important members which essentially splits up the core members separately, giving them chance to deal with them and also a chance to concoct and execute many plans. Some of them could be used to cause a conflict between Puppet organization and their rivals and so on.

But these are speculations. Even though there is a great chance that it would be true, it is on the basis that Noah and Kumar are not working together with Dayus.

Meanwhile, Kumar and Noah were stunned by the shadow mice's sudden escape. They immediately had one thought in their minds.

Return to the Capital.

Since the information is bound to reach Sam, they could only execute it as fast as they could.

But as soon as they returned to the capital, even at their fastest speed, they were stunned by what they saw.

Sam and his team's posters are circulating around the city at the moment.

They hit a random bar and got the information on how Sam and his team became fugitives.

They went to their hiding spot and discussed.

Both of them knew that Sam is not silly enough to get caught by doing something like this, so they could guess whose plan is this. Dayus is the only one who didn't bother trying to hide his presence and all the players are sure that he concocting something like this.

But none of them expected that he would be insane enough to play with Sam. The hidden players are waiting for a good show.

Soon, the news about what happened in the valley came to the city along with the angry guardians who are carrying their youngsters with them.

They all arrived at the Puppet organization's headquarters demanding explanations.

Sam looked at the whole scene without any reactions, he wants to see how the puppet organization will react to this situation first, and then he will show what his reaction is to them. He would make the Brother One vomit a bucket of blood just from the sheer destruction he brought upon his sect by framing Sam for his own motives.

While Sam is looking at the city for further development, in a place where he couldn't watch, a meeting is being currently held.

Along with the head of the first branch of the organization and the elders, the brother one, the two groups that came from the other two branches are also here.

Apart from the members there is one person who is currently being pressured by the elders and the head of the branch to speak the truth.

It is none other than Dayus.

"Are you telling the truth? Are you saying that the two incidents are done by a single person?" The head asked once again.

Dayus decisively nodded his head and said.

"It is indeed him. He is the only one who has such means to use something to make people faint without any traces. In fact, he is an expert at various poisons. He must have wanted to cause chaos on both ends, by causing trouble between the branches and also causing trouble with the external subordinate powers."

Dayus' explanation sounded logical and he is calm. But only he knew that inside he is cursing Noah and her eighteen generations of ancestors.

He knew that Noah is in the city, he doesn't know if she is working by herself or if she is in alliance with others, but she and Sam are the only ones who can use wood element in players, the elders already identified that what made these kids unconscious is of the wood element.

He knew that Noah must have been the one who did it, but he decisively threw the responsibility on Sam as he doesn't want the organization to divert their manpower towards Noah. He wanted Sam to fall as soon as possible.

He is his biggest competition. He felt like he could handle everyone else. At least those are his feelings and he is that confident about his abilities. But no matter in terms of individual strength, manpower or resources, he is far behind Sam. As long as Sam is eliminated, he would be able to progress further.

For that he has been planning this for over a year and because of some encounters he managed to gain more resources from an external party and planned this perfectly, he cannot let others ruin this.

And thus the blame for this was also placed on Sam because of Dayus.

When the announcement was made, the whole city was in turmoil, in the minds of citizens, Sam is now an insane individual who doesn't know the difference between heaven and earth. Not only did he plan to kill the juniors of the puppet organization, he even planned something with the external organizations under the puppet organization and tried to sow discord between them.

He is really trying to reach for the stars with this.

Kumar and Noah were stunned and immediately panicked. Now, these two are also cursing Dayus and his eighteen generations of ancestors. They would rather take the blame directly and ruin their plan than let Sam take the fall for them. They knew the consequences would be dire.

Now they are thinking of ways to make sure that Sam doesn't misunderstand that they are in on Dayus' plan. They really hoped that Shadow mice reported everything they talked about so that Sam could deduce that they are innocent of this.

Meanwhile.

Sam smiled coldly when he saw and heard the whole situation.

There was a time when Orion emperor labeled him as a terrorist, then he showed them what the real terror feels like.

Now that these people also did something similar, Sam decided to show them how it feels to be targeted by him.

He is thinking whether Noah and Kumar are involved in this when they saw something.

Noah and Kumar ran towards the slums of the city and started calling out for the shadow mice to talk, they even placed some scrolls down and walked away so that the shadow mice could take them away.

Sam sent a shadow mouse to collect the information and bring it to him.

After getting the information, he smiled.

Noah and Kumar completely denied any involvement in the blame that was placed on Sam and they even briefly explained their original plan which is similar to that of what Sam speculated.

He sent back a message saying no problem to them through the shadow mouse.

After dealing with that, Sam then called his team and said.

"We are about to get busy. So, get ready."

With that, he directly selected the Puppet organization from the list.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 1119: Action

The gods that are worshipped by the Puppet organization are all Hindu Gods. Indra, Agni, and Kartikeya, and all three of them are involved in the game. When Sam selected the organization in the list all three of them got alerted.

Since all they need to do is give out information, only one of them decided to go and since Indra who has a grudge against Sam cannot go and Kartikeya who has a player still it could be biased, Agni decided to take the job. Since they have a choice, they could take it.

Since all three branches worship all three gods, the statues of Agni lit up in all three branch organizations at the same time.

The one in the First branch was visited by the leader of the first branch and the elders that came for the competition early on from the other two branches.

Agni gave gist and said straightforwardly.

"A person named Sam would come for your heirloom due to certain reasons. Try your best to stop him from taking it away and defend it until he loses all the hope of getting the heirloom. If you are capable you can kill him, but check whether you are able to do so or not. You wouldn't be getting any help from me or the other two when you are fighting with this guy. So, be careful."

His words were concise and without any bullshit.

The leader of the first branch recovered first from the shock and asked.

"Lord, are you telling me that there might be a possibility that we might not be able to defend against him and would need to ask you for help?"

"Yes. Because of some circumstances we are currently shackled against him and couldn't help. This warning is the only help we can give you. My personal advice does not go after him actively and focus on defense."

With that Agni disappeared.

The branch leader fell into deep contemplation with Agni's concise words, the story Dayus told only became more reliable.

They need to get more information before they could proceed. So, the branch leader sent someone to summon Dayus to have a talk.

Meanwhile, the rest of the players are looking at the list as Sam selected the organization. Since the Phase four organizations are limited, multiple players can select a single organization. But no one wanted to select the organization at the moment. After all, the Phase four organizations are a whole different ball game for them.

Sam is the only one with enough measures to take this step.

They also knew that with what Dayus did, Sam wouldn't just stay idle. Dayus who looked at the situation is also a bit nervous and excited.

While he was going to meet the First branch leader, Sam is having a meeting of his own with his team.

"As you can see, we are branded as wanted men here. So, do you have any ideas on how to proceed?"

"Come on, boss. You obviously thought of something. Why waste our time?" Saber Monarch asked impatiently.

Sam smiled and said.

"I really didn't think of anything. I have my plans with the people but how we do is totally up to you. I am guessing you also want some revenge after being labeled for something you didn't do right?"

Night Ghost replied immediately.

"Boss, let us target the Brother one first. We need to gather information on him. Let us make him feel the aftermath of trusting Dayus. Clearly, he is the bridge between Dayus and the Puppet organization. Let us see how Dayus would react after the bridge is burned."

Sam nodded and said.

"So, we need to collect information. But too bad, the shadow mice could only do too much with the level disparity. That leaves us only one option."

Sam and the rest of the team all looked at Kiran.

Kiran sighed and knew that he couldn't escape once again.

He has to gather the information like everyone else.

Sam started making a small plan and used the shadow mouse to send something to the Brother one.

The said Brother one is currently feeling nervous by the fact that Dayus was called by the leader of the branch.

After an hour or two, Dayus came back and when he noticed the nervous expression of Brother one, he smiled and said.

"Don't worry, brother. Everything is alright. The branch leader decided to call back all the troops that are outside. From the looks of it, the remaining two branch leaders are also preparing. They would be busy and you can use your tricks to do what you want."

Brother one grinned and said.

"This calls for a celebration."

"Yes, it does. And called the Brother two and Brother three over."

Dayus said with a smile.

"Why are they needed for a celebration wouldn't they feel suspicious?"

"Of course, we are not going to call it a celebration openly, we will call them for a 'meeting' so that your younger generation can discuss the plans to help the higher-ups. Luckily, the incident at the valley also happened, there is a need for some key people to go to some important subordinates. It is advantageous to us."

Brother one smiled brightly and immediately sent invitations.

He booked the special room in his inn and met with the remaining two young masters.

While their entourage is eating together in another place.

Sam who got the gist of the whole plan is currently looking at the surveillance that was given by the shadow mouse.

Currently, the video was focused on one of the closer lackeys of the Brother One.

At this moment, a waiter arrived with a large tray filled with wine jars. He placed one by one at both the lackey table and the young master table.

As soon as they drank the wine, everyone is having different effects. Dayus and Brother one are still talking with the rest of the young masters. The lackeys are dead drunk and fell on the table.

But the lackey Sam is targetting felt that his stomach is upset and went to the restroom of the restaurant.

When he entered the restroom, the waiter who served the wine followed and knocked him out instantly before waving his hand and making the person disappear.

The waiter's face changed to someone else and went out of the restaurant and disappeared into the crowd.

Kiran carefully exited the city and brought the young man in the Ice divine dimension safely to the hidden location.

Sam woke the lackey up and when the lackey looked at Sam's face, he was stunned.

He was very familiar with the face. In fact, it could be said that he was way too familiar with the face. He is the one in charge of copying the posters and placing them all over the city.

Sam took out a dagger and said with a smile.

"Hello, you must have already heard of me. I am Sam. Let us get to know each other."

Sam activated a noise-canceling formation and began extracting information from the guy.

For this mission, Kiran needs the body language, words, accent, slang everything on point when he imitates this guy.

There is a large demand for the task, so he needs to keep this guy alive and he also needs to know how this guy acts when he was in pain and was being tortured for the information.

When Kiran looked at the requirements of the task he had an idea and immediately put up objections only to shut his mouth after he got his hands on a pitcher of Heavenly wine. That was his main target anyway.

But Sam already decided to squeeze every bit of Kiran's ability into this task.

By dawn, Sam was done with the guy and managed to gain a lot of information. Even though he knew he would eventually get it after killing the guy, he didn't want to waste his time and made some preparations throughout the night.

Kiran disguised himself and entered the city secretly after getting the memories extracted from the dead lackey.

Now his name is Prash and he is the most loyal lackey of the young master. The young master who would even doubt his lovers never doubted Prash.

This is a great advantage for them.

'Prash' went to Brother One's house while holding the stomach with a painful expression.

Brother One is currently talking with Dayus about how they should proceed.

Prash just stood outside the room without intruding. In fact, there is not much to hear even if he intruded.

The Plan is simple, Brother one of this generation failed to muster the same level of harmony as his predecessor and wanted all the puppet organization to himself.

But his intelligence in puppet making didn't come in handy with the scheming and plotting as he believed that even he has to damage the foundation of the remaining two branches, he would weaken them and take over.

Dayus arrived at the perfect time and took over a year to befriend this guy and gain this level of trust and plan everything for him. Almost like he is spoon-feeding the guy.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 1120: Blasting the Mines

Dayus took advantage of this Idiot with no brains but big ambition and planned the whole thing. He knew that this place would be Sam's first target, so he wanted to deal with him using the Puppet organization and since Sam wouldn't go down without a fight, the puppet organization would be damaged and he would deal with it from inside.

He thought that since Sam needs time to prepare and it is those preparations that make it possible to attack the organizations, he wanted to eliminate the preparation phase by placing him under the eyes of the organization heads from the start.

He thought he would win. He felt that since Sam wouldn't be able to take any kind of humiliation would create trouble for the organization left and right. In his opinion as intelligent as Sam is, he is impulsive.

If only Dayus knew how wrong he was and how Sam usually dealt with the organizations on his way to his current situation, he would have thought of a completely different plan and knew this wouldn't work.

And Dayus is only a little aware of Sam's abilities, he clearly forgot to factor in the possible technological development of Sam.

Currently, Sam dropped his teammates in different realms surrounding the First Puppet realm they are currently in.

Since this Brother One dearly gave Sam that much credit, Sam decided he should repay. From the information he got from Prash, they can leave a lot of presents for the young master.

Kiran who is disguised as Prash entered the room after they stopped discussing. Brother one looked at Prash and asked.

"Where have you been the whole night?"

"I felt dizzy when we drank young master. It seems like the liquor is too strong for me and later it caused some ache in the stomach. I had to leave to expel the excess energy."

"Oh, are you okay now?"

"Yes, young master. I am already. So, what should I do today?"

"The competition is temporarily put on halt. The two groups from the remaining two branches are leaving now.

I already talked with the remaining two young masters and divided the subordinate powers under us which we should visit.

This is the order of the places they are going to visit. Send squad 1 and squad 3 after them and tell them to deal with them. Also, commission Squad 2 to launch fake attacks on me while I was on my tour. This is the list of my tour."

He gave two lists and Prash memorized everything carefully.

The list for Brother One is full of subordinate organizations with which he had great relationships.

In fact, the first young master has a great network of businesses spread along with all these areas.

Kiran instantly sent the information to Sam through a special device. All he has to do is scan the scroll once and the information would be sent through the surveillance system.

While Kiran is looking through the list, Brother One continued.

"You will not be coming with me to the tour. Squad two that feigns attacks on me will retreat to this capital after every attack along with the two remaining squads, you need to take care of their needs and you also take care of the business in this realm. My herb business, restaurant, and the weapon business shouldn't have any setbacks."

After receiving every instruction, Kiran nodded and left to do what he needs to do as Prash.

The three squads are the secret forces nurtured by Brother one and he is using them to achieve his goals.

When Sam received the routes of the three young masters, he started formulating his own plans.

The journey will start for a week and this week his team will gather as much information about Brother One's business and subordinate organizations as they can.

Sam would facilitate the plan like that.

Meanwhile, he and Kiran planned to deal with the businesses that are present in the realm.

Brother One has eight fields on different planets growing herbs belonging to eight different elements. His business is one of the biggest income sources of the Puppet organization.

Along with that, he has a large armory in the realm which is second only to the main armory of the Puppet organization.

The Puppet Organization's armory only makes high-level equipment and the equipment needed by their subordinates they are also responsible for most casual repairs of the puppets.

But Brother One's armory is a lucrative business as he uses the resources of the Puppet organization to procure the low-quality metals as well as the scraps remaining from the high-quality metals in the main armory and made alloy weapons that are both low grade and above average.

If the Puppet organization focused on the quality of their products and gaining more money by making masterpieces, his armory focused on monetizing the quantity.

The third most profitable businesses are inns and restaurants that spanned across the realms.

He needs all the money he could get to nurture his forces and he did a pretty good job until now. Sam is really impressed by Brother One. But his personality is too straightforward and he doesn't have a good understanding of the emotions and behaviors of others which makes him really bad at scheming. Sam thought that he is just a guy with no brains, but it is just that he doesn't have the right kind of brain.

This one week he started making preparations while Kiran familiarized himself with Prash's position.

He started creating curses, but not in a normal way. He created liters of energy liquid of different elemental energies and started cursing them and even the curses he left are dormant ones that would only activate when a certain time has passed.

For the next week, he mainly focused on that and as soon as the journey of the Brother One started, the team also returned to the Capital.

Kiran sent the three squads according to the requirements of Brother One.

After that, he took the cursed energy liquids and started visiting one business after another.

The liquid mixture of metal and fire elements was used in the alloy factory as Kiran poured every drop of it into different alloys.

Then different elemental energy liquids were poured into different herb fields, as for the restaurants, Sam left them for now as the effect would be immediate for the restaurants.

Kiran finished all his tasks in three days and Sam is ready to start the next step of the plan.

He just waited for the squads that were sent to attack the two young masters of the other branches and the remaining squad that went to feign the attack to return.

They took another two days to return and reported to Kiran about the status of their job. The feigning attack was successful and extremely believable. As for the two attacks on the other young masters, they are not aimed to kill them, instead, their goal is to give them a probing attack making sure that they knew that are being targeted. They only killed one subordinate in each team.

Kiran sent the report back to Sam who finally made his move.

He left Vidyut and Tamas so that they could help Kiran if necessary along with a set of surveillance equipment and even an energy bazooka just in case, and took the rest of the team to the first target.

The realm they are going to is under the organization named the Lightning Swan sect. the organization that Sam heard about in the Thunder Phoenix valley.

They have a close relationship with Brother One.

Brother one has a few businesses here. A chain of restaurants in partnership with the sect, a few branches of his weapon business, and a few mines in partnership with the sect.

He obtained these businesses with his skill in puppet making. Almost half of the spirit stone mines and the metal mines under the Lightning Swan sect were only extracted because of the special puppets Brother one made which made the extraction possible.

That is why he managed to obtain that much business.

Sam didn't want to bother with the restaurant chain here. It is hard as the ingredients of the restaurants mostly come from the local produce.

So, it would be hard to sabotage them. But he is sure that after he was done there, Brother One wouldn't be able to keep the restaurant share.

His immediate target is the location of the mines and Prash the ultimate lackey has all of this committed to his memory, so Sam knew of these locations too and arrived at the place in no time.

He didn't even shy away from using his dimensional drifter repeatedly as he decided to get compensated for this task from the pockets of the Puppet organization.

As soon as they arrived at the mines, Sam used a special drug to make all the miners go to slumber while the team knocked down the guards before entering the mine.

He let out a bunch of puppets that started mining while he collected all the mined spirit stones. They stayed inside the mine for half a day and mined as much as they can.

Sam then modified the excavation puppets a bit and sent them towards the vein of the mine.
