Chapter 1531 Hayan

Sivan looked at Cray who didn't even act as he heard him at all.

"I am talking to you Cray. Talk to me. What are you waiting for? I need you to attack as soon as you can."

Sivan said as he looked at the city.

There are twelve large spheres of light hovering over the city dome at various spots and beneath it was the massive yellow light that still occupied the city.

But if anyone sees it now, they will definitely notice that the glow has reduced a lot.

Sivan started panicking with every second and he looked at Cray. He wanted to push him and wake him up.

But as soon as he extended his arm, he was stopped by Avlyn.

"What do you think you are doing? He said it is a dangerous process. You can't disturb him now. A load of fifty thousand souls is too hard for him to bear if you do something stupid."

"He should launch the attack now. He didn't have a lot of time."

"I am sure he knows better in the current situation. He knows what to do. So, don't panic and just relax. If you are so worried. Go and pray to your god that everything should go well without any mishap."

"I am not a nuthouse like you guys to worship a god for every dispute.

You better pray that your friend here does what he promised and doesn't screw it up. Alright?"

"Keep your mouth in check young man. You don't know who you are doubting and who are you insulting. I thought you are not some ignorant bratty young master of a clan. Don't prove me wrong."

"Whatever."

Sivan just brushed her off and sat on the side. He doesn't know what is going to happen and if Sam is able to figure something out. But he hoped that Sam didn't.

At this moment, Sam who is sitting in the tower contacted Ma again.

"Are you done?"

"Yeah. What do you want me to do now?"

"Do you have a transference token that will bring Gail back to the clan grounds?"

"I have one that could lead him to the Enforcement team building. Why?"

"Give one of those also to Gail. Alright?"

"Sure."

"Okay go to the stray realm now. I will send Gail in a few minutes. I need to brief him on a few things."

Sam cut the call and called Gail.

"Okay Gail, all of the preparations are done. I need you to do something though.

First, you will go to the stray realm and meet Senior Elder Ma there. You will get two transference tokens. One of them is the token for you to go to the approximate location of the place where the device that projected this light beam on us is set up.

You need to destroy that as it is part of the core of the formation.

The second token will bring you back to the Enforcement department of the Gaja clan. He will explain what is what is in the stray realm.

After you reach the destination of the formation core, you might not be able to find it immediately. In fact, the location might be a bit off. I want you to search it quickly and come back as soon as possible."

"What is the error range? How far off could I appear with respect to that formation core part?"

"I don't know. I think two miles plus or minus. I hope you would be able to cover that distance quickly though. And I don't think you would be having a problem with your expertise in sound and the energy ripple combination.

Also, it has massive light elemental energy gathered there. So it wouldn't be that much of a problem for you to do it."

"Alright. Then what?"

"After destroying it, I want you to come back to the City instantly. After destroying one part of the core, things still wouldn't be resolved immediately. Everyone in the city is exhausted.

We will be in a vulnerable situation.

On top of that, there are some souls gathered on top of the formation. I don't know who is doing it, but they are gathered almost half of the souls together.

If they are able to control them even after the formation core was destroyed, things would be really chaotic.

They might be trying to pull off some big attack. So I want you to be quick and ready to fight at any moment.

Do you hear me?"

"Yes. What about Giyon, Grivon, and all of the others? I need you to go and check up on them I highly doubt they are unscathed with all of this massive damaging situation."

"I will take care of them. You can count me on it. I know just the way to make them recover. You just focus on this."

"Alright."

"You can leave now."

Sam said and as soon as his words left his mouth, Gail broke the transference token that sent him to the Stray realm.

There Ma is waiting for him with two transference tokens.

"This is the token for your destination and this is the token back to the clan. You knock yourself out."

Gail took both of the tokens and said.

"You go back to the clan. There might be an attack soon. So, get ready."

"Alright."

Ma didn't even hesitate before he broke another token and went back to the clan.

Gail took a deep breath as he took out the token and broke it. He disappeared from the stray realm.

He reappeared far away from the city. Within the mountain range at the foot of a cliff.

He looked around and slapped his hands together with energy.

PAK

A massive sound came as ripples expanded in all kinds of different directions. The sound waves laced with these energy waves reverberated in the surroundings. The birds and even some beasts ran away and the surrounding trees and rocks vibrated profusely.

Gail closed his eyes as he took in the reaction vibrations coming from various objects. He was focused to the extreme and all of a sudden, he turned around. There is a large mountain on which his gaze landed on.

He stepped into the air and started running at sonic speed.

SWISH SWISH

A whistling sound came as he kicked the air and ran on it while reaching the mountain.

When he was almost there, all of a sudden he sensed something and changed his direction.

SWOOSH

An arrow brushed past him and he looked in a direction far away.

Gail landed on a nearby tall tree as he looked in a certain direction.

Another arrow came in and this time, Gail just caught it with his bare hands.

"Come out Hayan," Gail said out loud.

"It seems like you still remember me. I am flattered."

A voice came from afar. It is almost impossible to find out who is speaking and from where.

"I said come out."

"Of course, I am not going to do that. Do you think I am stupid? I will die if I come face to face with the Sonic prince."

"Really? Do you still know that? Then why are you getting in my way?"

"Of course, it is because I am a member of the Divine league?"

"Stop kidding. You are a member of the Divine league just for the sake of it. There is not a single thing in your body that accepts the Divine league's principles.

It is a mutually beneficial relationship."

"Of course it is. As a part of that relationship, I am trying to stop you now."

"You know it is impossible to do that."

"Of course, it is impossible for me to stop you all by myself, but it is not impossible for me to stop you just for a while.

Just until other members come with the preparations that we left solely for you."

"Then try your luck."

As he said that, Gail extended his hands and a massive ball of energy gathered itself at the tip of his index fingers.

The large ball of energy is so bright and big that it looked like the sun in the sky.

With just a mere thought, the ball started shrinking into a smaller size and before they knew it, it turned into the size of a small marble.

"That looks dangerous. I can't let you do that now, can I?"

Hayan said and an arrow swished through the air. But before it could reach Gail, he snapped his finger with the marble in his hands.

SNAP

The energy in the ball collapsed as it propagated through the wind and it only moved to one particular side. Towards the mountain.

BOOM

It explosively took over the whole area and destroyed everything that is in its path. The trees and rocks turned into nothing but debris. Everything was destroyed.

But right before the wave hit the mountain, an arrow came out in a large parabola and exploded in front of it.

BOOM

Chapter 1532 Helping others

BOOM

The arrow exploded right in front of the energy wave and it created a massive energy curtain. Both of these clashed together and negated each other.

Gail felt the energy wave, but he didn't budge.

"So, the core is indeed inside that mountain."

"Yes, it is. There is no point in hiding it since I am already here and it is actually a trap."

"Of course, you would think so. But all I can see is that you just made my job a little harder."

Gail extended both of his hands and energy riled up in the surroundings.

Hayan who is hiding somewhere said out loud in a quivering tone.

"Come fast assholes, I won't be able to hold him off for too long."

Meanwhile, back in the Mari clan's camp.

"What the hell? Who went missing from the city all of a sudden? And a person of that high level?"

Sivan said it out loud in a panicked state. He almost wanted to connect to the formation to make sure he is not missing anything.

But Avlyn once again stopped him to not disturb Cray.

"Whoever it is, if they are really posing an immediate threat, we will know soon enough."

She said softly and within a few minutes, a subordinate of hers came running in to report.

"Madam, Gail was reported to be at the core on the west side. Hayan is holding him back for a moment."

"Gail came out of the city? So it is him that disappeared?" Sivan asked in shock.

"That is what it seems."

"Then what is the point of this attack? Even if you slow down the rest of the powerhouses, Gail is enough to make you guys stuff your tails between your legs."

He said it out loud in frustration.

Avlyn looked at him coldly.

"What are you looking at? You guys are pissing your pants while my father is just sweeping a glance at your face. Do you really want me to believe that you are not scared of Gail?"

Even my father doesn't dare talk down to that guy. "

"You know a lot of things, but you don't know when to shut up."

She raised her hand and almost made a move on Sivan, but one of her subordinates who is also part of the dozen people from Divine league stopped her.

"There is a reason why you are getting so angry like this boss. He is saying the truth. And we cannot really go against his father.

You and I both know what will happen if Sin really goes on a rampage and we also know that there is a little chance that we can defeat Gail at all

That is why we have a plan and we need to stick to it. Let's go. We won't be getting this chance again and again. We need to make sure that we are there and Gail falls into our trap before he goes crazy angry and destroys everything."

Avlyn pushed the hand of his subordinate away, but she acknowledged his words and gave a cold look to Sivan.

She really wanted to smack some sense into him, but she knew if she did that, his father would come and smack some sense into her.

"Lucky Bastard."

Leaving those two words, she left the room along with the rest of the subordinates.

Cray and Sivan are the only ones in the room and he almost wanted to just push him off of the formation.

He is really anxious now that Gail is out of the city. Even if they really destroyed the whole city, things wouldn't be as easy as they planned.

As long as Gail escapes, they might as well not make any plan to destroy this city.

While Sivan is anxious, back inside the city, Sam is also getting anxious. He didn't know what happened. It has already been a few minutes since Gail left and there is no change in the formation. This is kind of making him feel a bit anxious.

He cannot help but overthink things at the moment.

But he still has to grit his teeth and let Gail handle stuff and move along. He controlled all of the souls around him as he moved around in the formation. The souls acted as a shield from the rest of the souls that are still glowing brightly and not letting them have a proper vision.

Sam remembered where Giyon, Grivon, and Jyon are placed and ran to their location.

When he reached Giyon, he is surprisingly holding up better.

She actually sat on the floor with her eyes closed and in a meditative state. There are some burn marks on her skin and there is a normal barrier around them.

But she is definitely composed and clear-headed.

Sam tried to wake her up, but when reached closer to her, she almost instinctively made a move and went on the defensive.

Sam sighed and called her.

"Giyon. It is me, Sam. This is not a hallucination. I am here to fetch you."

"Sam? What are you doing here?"

She asked in a surprised tone.

"Your father is out of the city, he is one of the ways to destroy the formation core. How are you doing?"

"I am alright."

"Why didn't you use your stray dimension token or something? You could have just escaped. What is the point of enduring this?"

"I don't know. I thought we would be attacked. What is the point of hiding then? I was just waiting for the enemies to come."

Sam didn't answer and that let her enter her divine dimension fragment before he carried that away along with him.

He went to meet Grivon. He is obviously in a much worse state. But he is also holding up, waiting for the enemy to attack. In fact, he even held his sword in his hands ready to attack anyone that comes near him.

Sam really felt that these siblings are way too stubborn for their own good.

After throwing him into the divine dimension fragment, he went on to Saran's estate. That is where Jyon is as well as the four kids.

As soon as he entered though, he didn't see anyone else other than Saran's wife. She is holding a ring in her hand tightly while she endured the burning sensation of light.

Sam went to meet her.

"How are you doing?"

"Sam? Is that you?"

"Yes, it is me. How are you? Are you alright?"

"Yes, I am fine. But kids. They almost fainted as soon as the souls came in. I sent them into divine dimension fragments. Jyon is also inside. Can you please check up on them?"

She said as she blindly extended her hand.

Sam held her hand and took the ring from her.

"Okay, but you also need to get into the fragment. You don't have to worry. I am pretty sure the kids are doing okay."

Saran's wife nodded her head and entered the fragment. Sam also entered the fragment, while he let Giyon take care of the surroundings. Even though she is a bit exhausted and injured, he didn't have much choice. There is no one else in the surroundings.

Inside the dimension, Sam saw Jyon take care of the children. The children are currently in an extremely exhaustive state. Their bodies are a bit burned and they are feeling extreme pain. But they couldn't even scream because of the lack of energy.

He gritted his teeth in frustration. There is one feature in the light chamber and that is to not attack any people that didn't awaken their spiritual core. It is pretty easy for the souls to distinguish. He thought that it is enough to do something like that to keep powerless out of harm.

But now he knew he is wrong.

The kids who didn't have any control of their strength but still have these special constitutions were also picked as awakened and they were attacked.

Which is obviously too much.

The only silver lining is that their mother immediately came back to her senses and didn't lose her cool before throwing them into the dimension fragment.

Sam checked up on her and immediately took some medicine to treat them.

Only after they calmed down and went to sleep, was he able to relax. Their mother also came to herself and stopped worrying overly as she gave them a kiss.

Sam came out and sent Giyon in before he walked out of that spot.

The formation is still on and he is worried about what would come from those balls that are created from gathered souls.

While he is thinking that, all of a sudden, he noticed that there is a fluctuation in the formation. All the bright yellow light has completely disappeared as if it never existed.

This made him completely shocked.

Because he should have been happy that the light is gone, but the balls of energy on top of the dome didn't go away. They are still present. That only means the other party is ready to attack which is not good news.

Sam looked at the situation and muttered.

"Do it fast Gail."

Chapter 1533 Powdered Mountain

Since the yellow light is gone, the powerhouse moved again. When they looked at the places they found themselves in, they couldn't help but feel frustrated.

Sam let the people out of the divine dimension fragments.

He contacted Gamin, Yuvana, and Saran. The clan's leader went on to calm down the chaos and also make sure that people are healed.

The team that was outside also started running back.

Within a few minutes, Sam is in a meeting with the powerhouses.

"Where is Gail?"

"He went out to deal with the core of the light chamber formation. But someone is using the formation to do something big. Almost half of the souls from within the formation are currently gathered and they are being compressed.

You guys better be careful and ready to tackle them."

"Alright, anything else?"

"No. I will take care of the healing process for the rest. I just want you guys to make sure that nothing bad happens to the formation. I will contact the dome operators of all of the domes in the city. We will add an extra layer of protection to the defense barrier dome.

It won't hold up of course, but it will just give you some resistance at least."

"Okay."

Sam then looked at Saran and said.

"Your kids and wife are safe. The kids are sleeping for now. But don't worry. Giyon and Grivon are with them currently."

"Thank you."

Saran said, but he didn't go away. He completely trusted Sam now and got ready to tackle the massive balls of energy that are within there.

Sam then left them with some more instructions as he took out a communication token while walking.

"Dome operators. Are you all okay? Is anyone really injured?"

"We are a good boss. We are just a bit exhausted. Both physically and mentally exhausted."

"Alright then, all of you listen to me now.

Within the emergency medical supplies, you have been given to take the vials numbered 15 and 18. Do it immediately. I will expel most of the effects from the yellow radiation and also ease your brains a bit.

Take any potion you have that is useful for mental energy exhaustion.

If you don't have any money, borrow from the friend next to you or any other person that is nearby. You can even contact the inventory of the clan and get it.

It is a special order and I already got permission from the Clan's leader. Do you understand?"

"Yes, sir."

"Do it within two minutes. We don't have much time. I need you guys to activate sequence 23 in the crystal dome formation."

"Boss, sequence 23 takes up too much energy from the formation. Are you sure you want to run that up?"

"Yeah, don't care about that for now. I want you guys to run it and use dark elemental energy as the core elemental energy. Do you understand?"

"Yes, Boss."

"Good, Stay strong."

As soon as he said those words and cut the call, the soldiers started moving. The operators are on full speed as they quickly injected the vials and started working on the domes.

They didn't even bother to wait for the whole thing to take effect.

Soon Sam ran to a specific place within the clan while talking to Ma on the call.

"I don't know what happened with Gail, but it is taking too much time. Do you have any secret formations lined up within the clan grounds?"

"There are some defensive ones, why?"

"I want you to activate them. All of them."

"Sure. On it."

"Also, send all of those people that you stopped from fighting, Make them go around and heal everyone. Many people are injured."

"I already did that. They are currently on their way."

"Great."

"What are you doing currently?"

"I am going to let our special guest come out. We need all the power we can get. I don't think it is easy to defeat the next attack if we have any less."

"Okay then. Looking forward to it."

Sam cut the call, he also reached his destination. It is one of the towers within the clan which also acts as a watch post. He climbed onto it quickly before making some changes on the top.

The tower shot a bright red light into the sky, like a flier.

Everyone from within the clan and outside the clan was surprised by this. The red light shot through the clouds brightly and it is clearly visible from very far away.

Even Gail who is far away from the city could see it.

And he immediately reacted. He frowned and looked in different directions around him. Everything in the surroundings is destroyed by the energy explosion.

There is almost no place for Hayan to hide except for the mountain that is straight ahead.

"I didn't want to use excessive force when dealing with punks like you. But you leave me no choice."

Gail said coldly and all of a sudden, energy riled up around him. It almost hit the whole area like a storm. The debris and rocks moved around crazily and the energy manifested into visible form as it moved close to his body.

The surroundings were dried up of spiritual energy as if he vacuumed it to himself.

But even more energy from within him is coming as both of his hands were extended out in the open. Within a few seconds, all of the energy that gathered around him came to his hands and he took a deep breath.

Hayan who is in the hiding started shooting arrows from different directions. Even though he is only supposed to be in one spot, the arrows even came from Gail's rear.

But this time, Gail didn't bother to defend himself.

SLAP

A loud slapping sound came as both palms met.

BOOM

An energy ripple came along with a booming sound and everything that is within the surroundings came to a standstill before an energy wave emerged from the hands.

GRRRR...

A rumbling sound came as the massive energy destroyed everything that is within the site. Hayan desperately used all of the arrows he can and this time they didn't come from anywhere else. Hayan popped out of the mountain that he was hiding in and used all of his trump cards.

But the energy waves instantly swept past him and the mountain he was standing on as it went straight ahead.

He didn't feel anything for a moment, but a moment later.

BOOM

The intense rumbling made the whole mountain collapse.

It didn't even explode normally. Every molecule of the stony mountain was completely vibrating as the bond was destroyed between them and it crashed into a bunch of powder.

Along with that, there is a small and faint spot that turned into a bloody mist that was covered with the rest of the powder and then there is also a small explosion that occurred with light elemental energy.

But all of them were very minute compared to the destruction that was caused by the whole thing.

The energy wave went past the mountain and destroyed the forest, it almost reached a mile away where Avlyn who is leading her team suddenly stopped in her tracks.

She took a deep breath and was almost hyperventilated.

"What happened? Why is energy so chaotic?"

One of her subordinates asked as he looked around.

"Gail, he already got serious. It is definitely his attack. We need to make our move right now. Quick let's go."

They immediately rose to the sky and started running towards the origin of the energy wave. As they ran in the air they saw everything beneath them was destroyed. It looked like a vast wasteland that is completely destroyed by a typhoon. A mile area of that is completely inconceivable.

Gail is currently looking through the powder of the debris of the mountain just to make sure that he didn't miss anything.

After making sure that nothing was left intact, he turned to look at the team that came. His eyes are burning with anger and Avlyn had already taken her weapon and got ready to defend herself.

"I will destroy you all one day. If you survive this war, I will come and knock on the doors of Divine league and drag every one of you out of there by your tongues and tear you apart one by one.

You better be ready."

He took out the transference token and moved away.

Meanwhile, a few moments ago. Back in the clan ground.

After the red light was shot out, on the other side, a large white cat that is currently going through a very comfortable massage in a large water tub made in the middle of a forest looked into the sky.

Its expression changed to one of anger and frustration. But it came out of the water stretched before disappearing from the spot with a whistling sound.

It reached the clan grounds within a few minutes and entered the estate. Went straight to Sam.

Sam pointed at the white balls in the sky and said.

"Get ready to tackle. We need you to take in the impact."

Chapter 1534 Clash

The sonic cat looked at the white energy balls in the sky.

It has noticed them from far away, while it is on the way to the city. But now that it looked closely, all the confusion and frustration on why Sam called it here is gone.

"Gail is supposed to stop the by destroying the core of the formation that is supporting their souls, but he is being delayed. So, I want your help in dealing it."

"MEEEEOW"

Sam just shrugged at its cry and just moved away. He knew that the Sonic cat wouldn't just sit idly on the side. His problem, at least the most part of it is definitely solved.

All of the powerhouses got ready to tackle it.

As they are all thinking, all of a sudden, one of the energy balls in the sky moved. In fact it is a bit understatement to call it an energy ball as it is full of souls within. It zoomed to the clan grounds like a meteor.

Its target happened to be Gamin who is standing there with his sword out.

He smirked as soon as he saw that he is the first target. He gripped his sword tighter and all of the energy in the surroundings suddenly riled up. It all gathered into his hands and then into his sword.

CRACK

The ball touched the crystal dome and the dome started cracking bit by bit. Gamin leapt into the air and swung his sword. It connected with the energy ball and...

BOOM

A massive explosion of energy happened. The souls that are gathered together started disappearing as they got separated.

The energy explosion caused the crystal dome formation to crack all over the place and Gamin who was in the air to cut the thing down, crashed down into the ground with a loud thud.

He felt his mind go blur as if something had invaded his head while he spat out a mouthful of blood. His arm is shaking and things are blurred. The impact of the energy is so much that even him, a person at the peak of the power in the realms is feeling the shaking.

He stood up with difficulty as he held the sword and looked at the sky.

His mind cleared a bit. Some of the souls that are dispersed from the large explosion are trying to surround him and occupy his head, but they are dead as soon as he focused on his mental energy and even his whole situation got a little better.

At this moment, back in the camp Sivan is shaking in excitement.

He used a telescope to see what happened. He clearly couldn't see what Gamin has gone through in that short span of time. But he sure saw the sword and the ball clashing. Even though the ball lost from the exchange the whole city's crystal dome is also very damaged.

He wanted to see something like this and he is very happy that it happened now.

He is also glad that he took the advice of Avlyn and didn't disturb Cray.

He turned to look at Cray with enthusiasm to see what he is doing.

Cray has a big frown on his face and he looked like he is carrying the weight of a mountain. The veins on his forehead bulged and almost looked like they are ready to pop.

With great difficulty, he made some hand gestures that made another ball move.

Gamin who is standing there looked at him and jumped into the sky again with the sword. As his sword clashed with the ball, all of a sudden, he felt like the burden on his has lessened a lot.

He turned to the side as Saran came into assist him.

Both of them landed the blow at the same time and with just the initial impact half of the souls were dispersed but the other half obviously blew up and the two of them hit the ground once again.

The dome started cracking more and more. Its recovery no matter how amplified it is, is not working as they wanted. They cannot just recover the dome no matter how hard they tried.

Yuvana is also holding her weapon as she looked at the remaining ten balls.

She looked at Gamin and got ready to deal with the next one.

Gamin looked at her with a smile that is covered with blood.

He is not severely injured, but it is also hard for them to escape unscathed at such a large amount of energy gathering.

Back in the camp, Cray opened his eyes all of a sudden and cursed under his breath.

"What happened? Is something wrong?"

Sivan asked anxiously.

"They are countering the attacks. I want the attack to completely metamorphosise, but they are cutting down in the middle. I need to find a way to send the attack before they could destroy it."

"How about you land multiple attacks at the same time?"

"That is my plan as well, but the burden on my body and mind will be too much. I am trying to figure out a way.

Did Avlyn and others really go after Gail?"

"Yeah, they went. I highly doubt they will be able to do something though."

"Of course they wouldn't be able to. Gail's reputation is not just there for a show or joke. I really wish he was within the city. If we couldn't use this to deal with them, I couldn't see a method to really cause him any damage that could help us defeat him."

"Who knows? Your team is very confident in themselves."

"That doesn't say anything other than them being delusional."

As he was thinking all of a sudden, he noticed something in the formation.

A dot in the middle of the city.

"Did Gail really leave the city?"

He asked in surprise.

"Yes, why?"

Sivan also asked and looked at the formation. A frown appeared on his face too. The dot is big indicating that its power is definitely of higher level.

In fact it is way too big for them and they are actually a bit scared.

The problem is, they only knew Gail to have that much power and strength. They didn't know or rather, they knew for sure that the Gaja clan didn't have anyone with that much power.

"I am pretty sure that is what your subordinates reported. Gail left the city and appeared near a core."

"Then he must have come back. There is no way there is another person at the same level in the Gaja clan.

I need to use my full power. We cannot hold back. With Gail also in the mix, we won't be able to deal any damage at all."

Cray said as he closed his and tried to connect with all of the energy balls.

Sivan frowned and looked at the dot suspiciously. He doesn't know whether or not Gail came back, The first case is the best case scenario because they don't need to worry about someone who is as powerful as Gail being present in Gaja clan.

This will throw their plans and morale into disarray.

Meanwhile back in the Gaja clan, the Sonic cat is looked at the energy balls through the cracked formation as it scratched its own head.

In fact it is in the exact spot where Cray and Sivan found the dot that indicated a powerful being. They just mistook the sonic cat for Gail's presence.

But that confusion made Cray to take the risk that he would have never taken if Gail was not really present in the city.

He connected with all of the energy balls at the same time and slowly moved them towards the city.

Even though they are not moving as fast as the previous ones and they are definitely not metamorphosing as fast as before, it is certainly more intimidating and more dangerous.

Sam was surprised by the sudden change in the attack pattern. He looked at the Sonic cat and said.

"It is time for you to make a move. Are you sure you can handle this?"

The cat shook its head as if it is not confident.

"Then try your best."

Sam just left those words and looked at the sky.

He took out the communication token and called Grivon and Giyon.

"Get ready with your transference tokens. The attack from the enemy is of way too high caliber. If things don't work out with the defensive measures, we are going to escape. Do you understand?"

"What happened?"

Giyon asked in surprise. She was busy taking care of the kids and Saran's wife that she didn't care much about the massive explosions outside.

"No time to explain. Just make sure that things don't go wrong with the escape if things go wrong with this place."

While he was speaking, all of the powerhouses within the clan immediately made the move.

Gamin, Yuvana, Saran, the Clan's leader, the leader of the Elite team, and finally the sonic cat.

All of them made a move at ten of these objects and they attacked simultaneously.

Chapter 1535 Clash II

All the attacks were aimed at the ten energy balls in the air.

But out of all of those attacks, Sonic cat stood out. It first ran deeper into the estate to find the central point of all these ten balls.

As it riled its energy up, it looked at the sky and leaped upwards.

A large ripple of energy escaped its body with whistling sounds as it spread like a large circular ring.

It froze after it spread until it covered all of the ten balls and moved upwards along with the cat.

The ring clashed with the ten energy balls before they could even touch the crystal dome. But even with that impact between them, the crystal dome was destroyed just from the sheer aftershock.

The remaining powerhouses used all of their strength to combat the energy balls.

Cray who is sitting in the camp felt his veins popping. His nose started bleeding and his face turned red all at the same time.

His brain felt like it is being pounded by a thousand artisans and their sledgehammers all at the same time. Breathing became harder. The blood circulation of his body is not going on properly.

His brain function is completely occupied by the attack that the rest of the body is not working properly. His brain is not passing commands to the rest of the organs to make them do their work properly.

But he just gritted his teeth and went on to push the attack.

The clash of the ring aided by the attacks of the other powerhouses made the energy balls slowly disperse some of the souls from it.

They moved toward the people in the clan. But the soldiers and elders that are all already beaten down with the light energy until now, brought themselves up as they attacked the stray souls coming at them.

Almost all of the clan is clashing with these attacks and only then did they see some chance of destroying it.

The only problem is the collateral damage that is happening.

The collateral damage of the crystal dome formation that is. The formation started collapsing as the clash continued for a certain amount of time. The operators inside immediately contacted Sam.

"Boss, the formation is not stable anymore. The crystal dome nodes are going down. We cannot hold it up for now."

"Let it collapse. But don't disable it until the last minute."

"Sam decisively answered.

"But what about the defense later? We won't have any other defensive measure if the crystal dome goes away. The other party powerhouses might just directly attack us."

"You let me worry about it. Currently, all you have to do is make sure that the crystal dome does the best it can in this precarious situation."

The crystal dome is operated at full power.

The clan continuously pushed the attacks back.

Cray who is operating the souls from the other side started feeling the burden. The mechanism of the formation within the light chamber is not enough to maintain the attack with just his soul and mental energy anymore.

The burden is becoming too much for him to bear and the fact that he had to use ten attacks all at the same time, is extremely tough in itself.

Cray's fingers suddenly moved and a crystal bottle came out of the spatial storage. He opened the bottle slowly with shaky hands a small dark orb appeared out of it.

The orb wanted to escape immediately. But with just a wave of his hand, some runes activated and made sure that the orb stayed in his hand.

Cray opened his mouth with the utmost difficulty. As soon as he swallowed that, the veins eased upon his forehead a bit and excessive soul energy surged through his body before entering his head.

Sivan who is sitting in the room was dumbfounded by the sudden change.

But he also noticed that the attacks are going against the city with new vigor.

The sonic cat pushed the attack back as it kicked in the air.

But the new surge of energy made it hard for him to keep his cool anymore.

It opened its mouth in frustration and anger as it coldly looked at the ten attacks.

Energy surged wildly and the powerhouses who are also pushing the attacks back were stunned by this new surge of energy.

The energy ring started changing bit by bit, but the cat seemed to be going through some very highly stressful change.

"Is it really necessary? Did it come to this?"

Sam asked as he looked at the cat. He is reluctant and unwilling to let this go this far. This is way too much of a price and he is sure that Gail will regret it for the rest of their life if Cat went through this step.

"Please do it, Gail. Do it quick. You won't be able to forgive yourself."

Sam muttered and all of a sudden. All of the energy balls in the air disappeared. All the powerhouse felt like they woke up from a dream. The energy balls that are supposed to be there were suddenly gone leaving behind a single energy ripple.

It clashed with the dome and destroyed the formation before it also disappeared.

The cat immediately stopped the attack and landed on the ground. It felt relieved and the next second it also felt a bit exhausting. It sat on the ground normally as it looked in the direction of the Mari clan's camp calmly.

The other powerhouses also landed in disbelief. They didn't even know what happened. But they are definitely relieved by this sudden progression.

"Are you all okay?"

All of a sudden, Sam's communication token was alerted and Gail's voice came in.

Sam came out his surprise and spoke in delight.

"Yes, we are all okay. We are saved by you. Great job."

"Sorry for the delay."

"You were right on time."

Sam said with excitement as he turned to the cat.

"Gail is back. Thank you for your contribution. Thank you so much. You can rest for now."

He turned around and started running while he contacted the operators.

"All operators of the domes. The crystal dome collapsed. From now on we are going offensive. Get the puppets ready. Activate the energy domes. We will be launching an attack soon. Get ready."

"Yes, Sir."

He then contacted Ma again.

"Senior elder Ma, how is the medicine distribution going on?"

"We covered half of the clan. That is good. Please speed it up if you can though. We will be going to offensive now."

"So, you are finally sick of tackling your own abominations that you call inventions?"

"In a way, yes."

"Good, let's see how your inventions in the Gaja clan will fare against the ones that were done before. I am really looking forward to it."

"I am sure you will be excited by the outcome."

Sam cut the call and contacted the guards on the wall. He started passing orders. Meanwhile, at the same time.

In the camp of the Mari clan.

Cray was stuck on the spot. His body is not moving and he even stopped breathing. Sivan started panicking as he looked at him. He also looked at the remote formation in front of them and noticed something.

The formation core is not active.

He immediately understood what happened.

Currently, Cray's soul which is connected to the formation must have taken the backlash of the attack that was supposed to land on the city.

He made some changes in the remote formation and immediately kicked Cray on the side.

Cray flew across the room like a ragdoll. He crashed into the wall and opened his eyes.

"COUGH COUGH

He coughed up blood and could barely see. His eyes and nose started bleeding and he felt dead tired because of the headache.

He looked at Sivan and didn't even know what he is doing for now.

But all of a sudden it hit him and tried to sit up.

Sivan walked up to him and helped him sit.

"How are you feeling?"

"I.. I.."

"You are saved by the formation mechanism. You shouldn't have pushed it too far."

Sivan said as he gave him something to drink before he looked at the remote formation.

"It seems like your friends have failed. The formation core is destroyed."

"Of course they did. It is not easy to destroy Gail, but who is that other entity that stopped our the attack. Did you see it?"

"No, I didn't it is way too bright to be visible. But that person really did save the Gaja clan in a way. We need to be wary now."

"Of course, we need to be. The massive crystal dome is destroyed though. You can launch your next attack immediately.

I think you will gain some advantage now."

"Knowing Sam, I highly doubt it. I might have even prompted that guy to attack.

He might just go offensive now."

"Then you can try and use that cunning brain of yours and try to make it advantageous to you."

Chapter 1536 Golems and Puppets clash

"When it comes to brains and deceptions, that guy is better than me as well,"

Sivan said in a lamenting tone.

Cray straightened up a bit and sat against the wall as he looked at Sivan.

"Why are you giving so much credit to your enemy? I mean, it is a good thing in a way. But I have seen too many people who are fighting against an enemy who is in a much more advantageous position than them, but are still in a rigid denial.

They always thought they stood a chance of winning and they are superior themselves.

You are exactly the opposite of them. You already won once at Sam, albeit in an ambush situation. But it is still a victory nonetheless. Why are you so generous with your compliments towards him?"

Sivan looked at Cray and hesitated a bit, but soon he just shook his head and said.

"They are not complements; they are facts. In this soul exchange process, I got all of his memories. If I had known all of these memories, not even completely, just some of them, a small glimpse, I highly doubt I would have made a move on Sam at all."

"Really? Is he that scary? He didn't even come across clans like yours until then. You wielded much more power than him."

"Yeah, I did. But that's about it. He has this scarily high endurance towards the mishaps and misfortunes that regularly plague him throughout his life."

"So, you are shaken just by that?"

"No, I am shaken because I am sure that he won't be bothered by the trouble I caused him too. He is way too focused on the end goal and doesn't care how much trouble he is going through at the present.

Because all he cares about is trying and find a way through the current struggle and in the process he wouldn't care about the damage he is creating.

He might not be heartless enough to collect 100,000 souls just to make a formation. But that only applies when he is considering 100,000 innocent people. For 100,000 enemies though, that is not something he would blink an eye while killing.

He is just a messed-up character with contradicting but clear principles. Some of his principles appear hypocritical to me, but he doesn't care. He just follows them blindly and stands by them too much.

The whole conflict between me and him is a mess. I won his body at the start, but that is about it. He destroyed many of my subordinate organizations. Created a mess in the Mari clan, now he is fighting a war against my clan.

With this body, I got everything I ever dreamed of, but I couldn't rest freely for a single day. I even feel like this is all a big mistake sometimes."

"So, that is why you want to kill him so desperately?"

"One of the reasons, yes."

"What are the other reasons then?"

"The benefits that come from killing him of course. If he dies I get a lot of things."

"What would that be?"

Even before Sivan could answer, the group of people that left came back.

Sivan stood up and walked past them, completely ignoring them.

Avlyn frowned as she looked at Cray and ran over to make sure that he is okay.

"How are you feeling?"

"Alive. I knew this is risky, but I must say I was saved by the mechanism of the formation."

"Yeah?"

"Of course, the only reason that I survived is because of the mechanism. Fifty thousand souls is too much for a head to bear in such a massive attack. I even had to use my soul pill because of this."

"And?"

"And I still lost it as soon as the core was destroyed. The formation mechanism is designed with the user's safety in mind. Sam would have never thought that his enemies would be using it. Otherwise, he would have definitely not made that set up and I am glad he did.

How are things on your side?"

"It seems like Gail clearly didn't like the way Hayan annoyed him. He just destroyed the guy in a single attack after some stalling and left using a transference token."

"Expected. What is the next plan?"

Avlyn turned to Sivan who is standing at the door talking to one of his subordinates.

He has a deep frown on his face.

"What happened?"

"Our next plan is decided. It is defense."

All of them walked out of the tent to take a look far away.

The whole area is surrounded by the Golems of the Lava worms. The remaining Lava worms are completely occupying the surroundings of the camp.

But that is not all. The undead creatures are among the golems as they marched forward along with them.

All of the undead creatures are equipped.

Along with these creatures. There are a bunch of puppets that are flying out of the city.

The small puppets that are used for shooting the bullets acted as beacons for attracting the energy beam attacks from the dome formations in the city.

But their function is a bit different this time.

They are just here to shoot stuff and nothing else.

Avlyn looked at the vast number of undead and golems coming at them and was surprised. Her surprise turned into shock when she saw some of the undead creatures which emitted an aura that is extremely dangerous and chaotic.

"Why are they so powerful?"

She muttered it out loud and one of her subordinates looked at the creatures and said.

"They are the bodies of the members of the different clans and organizations. This is surprising. It seems like the Gaja clan collected the dead bodies and used them too while they are taking revenge.

They are all pretty powerful people in their own right."

"Really? Gaja clan did this? I thought this is not their style."

"Well, it is Sam's style," Sivan answered before Avlyn's subordinate responded and took out a communication token.

"Everyone, get the energy beams and ranged attacks ready. Kill every creature that is coming. All of the puppet legions can be engaged.

Also, use the rest of the energy crackers in the city. Use all three launchers.

The liquid energy cell missiles go next..."

He kept on giving out orders and immediately the subordinates started moving. The first thing they did was energy beams were being shot out of the massive cannons they mounted.

Along with that, the puppets are let out. Both humanoid and beast puppets ran out as they attacked the golems and the undead creatures.

The puppets have energy blades and shot small energy bullets. The battle finally became chaotic. It became chaotic and extremely direct.

The golems were being destroyed at an extremely fast pace. But they were also being brought back instantly because of the Lava worms.

While all of this is going on the ground, in the air, the small flying puppets started shooting bullets at the shooters of the energy cannons.

But they didn't make it. They looked like normal bullets and they were shot down by the archer guards on the wall.

The fragments of the bullets are all over the ground among the undead creatures and the golems. Some of them even merged with the soil that is being formed from the golems.

As the battle progressed the small puppets are being shot down one by one and the bullets that are stored in the space jade and fell all over the place

Inside the Gaja city, people on the city wall watched the whole thing turn out.

The battle is going on closer to the camp. It is way too far away from the city, but they are currently enjoying this.

The golems and undead even though didn't have much of an upper hand, they can be sure that they will be able to take a breath for a while.

Inside the city, Sam is also looking at the battle through his telescope, and in the process, he noticed the movements of people who are setting up tripods in an elevated spot. He frowned and called out to Gail.

"Are you alright to battle?"

"Yes. Why?"

"Energy crackers are coming. I want you to intercept them before they reach the vicinity of the city."

"Ranged attacks?"

"Yeah, don't go near them."

"Alright."

Gail ran over to the front of the city and stood on the city wall to tackle the energy crackers.

Sam just watched the scene through his telescope and he waited.

"So, what is our next move going to be?"

Giyon asked as she stood beside him and watched the battle through another telescope.

"I don't know currently. It depends on Sivan's next move honestly."

"Really? You are leaving it to someone else's decisions?"

"Of course not. He is a variable. Let him figure out how he is going to bring up the extra trouble to himself. That is the least I can do to him, after all, he has done to me."

Chapter 1537 Troubles I

"So are there any speculations and guesses on what is going to happen?" Giyon asked Sam as they looked at the battle.

"I don't know what kind of steps he will take. But I am pretty sure, whatever it is, he will be out of those puppets soon.

Then he has to go use the real soldiers and then the real problem will start for him."

"So, your plan is to bulldoze him until he loses his resources."

"In a way. But I don't have to put too much effort into it. The Lava worms are enough trouble for them. Meanwhile, I can work on something that can bring them more trouble."

Sam said as he put down the telescope and took out the core mechanisms of the wolf puppets that they managed to acquire.

He went to check up on them one more time before giving some orders to the artisans who are constantly working on creating some more puppets.

"How long do you need to make eight of those things?"

"It will take two hours sir. Currently, most of us are working on other things, it wouldn't be easy for us to do this any faster."

"Alright. Two hours. You can't take any more time than that."

"Okay, sir. We will call you after we are done."

"Yes, please."

After the call was done, Sam started drawing inscriptions on the core mechanisms. He worked for two hours when the call from the artisans came.

One of the subordinates was given the task to go and bring the things while Sam kept on working on the inscriptions.

By the time the things came, he was already done with the inscriptions. He started assembling the parts.

The things that the artisans make makeshift portable sphere cannons. He brought some of the parts from the sphere cannons that are mounted on the city walls and used them along with the new parts the artisans just made.

He combined all of them with the core mechanism to create these portable sphere cannons.

After that was done, he sent some more subordinates to bring as many spare spheres that are manufactured at the domes as they can currently and placed them in all eight space jades.

Each of the space jades went into all eight cannons.

Finally, the cannons are done.

Sam couldn't help but smile as he looked at them. They are big and definitely very heavy to carry. But for the cultivators that he is going to use to shoot these things wouldn't be feeling that heavy with this at all.

All they would be feeling is the slight inconvenience of the size.

"What are these things going to do?"

Giyon was surprised as she looked at him in such a focused and gleeful state.

"I can demonstrate."

Sam said with the same wide smile as he aimed one of the cannons at the nearby large rock.

HUMMMMM BOOM

A humming sound came as the energy gathered at the cannon. The sphere was shot out with an explosion.

But that didn't stop there.

The wind elemental energy present in the sphere exploded and created massive ripples in all of the directions. Each ripple contained explosive energy and within an instance, the ripples exploded with Void style.

The whole area turned into a large energy void and then...

BOOM

Another explosion happened, creating that energy void.

BOOM

The Rock completely disappeared along with a patch of land. The area is corroded with wind elemental energy and dangerous wind currents are attacking the area.

Giyon was stunned.

"How did this happen?"

"The wolf puppets use this mechanism to make their energy use ripple and Void styles as they focus on the city formations. Since their range is big and it is only supported by one mechanism, their attack is not as immediate.

But they do their jobs as they fail the whole formation at the same time.

"Now, go and hand over one of these things to your father."

Sam said as he passed one to Giyon.

"Really? What will my father need this for? This would be better in the hands of someone weak."

"Well, he will have less trouble if he used this instead of his own ranged attacks. The energy crackers and the large liquid energy cell explosions are an extremely tough thing to do and if he gets caught up in one, he might even have to take harm for that.

But this will reduce all of the troubles for him in that case."

"Alright. What about the rest of them?"

"They are for the other soldiers that are going to join the battle in a while. The range is pretty far, so as long as they cover half the distance to the battlefield they can fire easily. We are going to send the cultivators first into the battle. On the flying beasts that we gathered."

"Okay, good luck."

Sam just nodded and started calling people. Soon, six bird-type beasts all of them in their late stage of Astral Plane Consummation started flying in from outside of the city.

They landed around Sam and some middle-stage and Late-stage Astral Plane Consummate cultivators started flying on the beasts while carrying the portable cannons.

They reached a halfway point between them and the battlefield as they started shooting the spheres.

BOOM

BOOM

BOOM

Their targets are all the puppets that are within the area. The Mari clan has many puppets. In fact, they didn't even send all of their puppets out yet. Only half of them are out.

So, the focus was completely on them, and in-process even if the undead creatures and golems are destroyed, Sam didn't care.

The sudden addition of these cannons immediately caused a rapid reduction in the number of puppets on the field.

Sivan saw this and panicked a bit. But he couldn't do much. He can only send in more puppets and think of ways to destroy the beasts and the cannons that are attacking him.

The only problem is, that Gail is also flying over the battlefield as he intercepted the energy crackers and the Liquid energy missiles.

With him in the sky, it is futile for them to even try and do any damage to these beasts and the people riding on them.

"Can you guys do something? If You don't mind that is? After all, you are here to relax aren't you?"

Sivan said sarcastically as he looked at the Divine league members.

"Gail is angry, we can't take him on now," Avlyn said decisively.

"Really? What are you think of doing to him? Talk about a business deal? You are here to fucking kill him. Go and kill him now. Engage, battle, or at least try to defend. He is destroying all of our ranged attacks targeted at the city.

This is way too fucking devastating."

"Then tell your grand elders to intercept."

"If you are not doing anything, that is what I am going to do anyway. But if you are really not doing anything, what the fuck is the meaning of your presence here? To be the glorified spectators of this shit show?"

"If you like to think of it that way, knock yourselves out."

Sivan gritted his teeth and looked at Cray who is resting.

Then he looked at the rest of them and said.

"You guys didn't even join the battle, and the two people who joined, one of them is dead and the other one is in no state to battle in the rest of the war.

So much for your bragging and divine league's name. You better prove useful, otherwise, I bet you are pretty sure that I am not afraid of any of you.

I will take it up with you and your superiors and make your life a living hell. Even if I didn't like my father and hate him to the guts, I am pretty sure I can tolerate him enough to take his help you settle scores with you."

He said in frustration and went out.

"Alright, We can't just let the puppets go to waste continuously. Bring them in. Take the Glider team and the ambush team. Sneak up on the beasts from the side. Tell them to use the small energy pistols to their limit.

Takedown these beasts as fast as you can."

"Sir, what if Gail attacks. With him in the sky, it is way too much for us to combat."

"Don't worry too much. Gail is a principled man, He won't break the unspoken rules of the warlike us. He will not attack you.

You can just go and clash with those people by yourself."

"Okay, sir. We will make a move immediately."

"Yes. Do it now."

Chapter 1538 Troubles II

Sivan is feeling a bit tense. The glide team and the ambush team left the camp gates.

As soon as they stepped onto the battlefield. The glide team members who are all wearing a set of armor stood on the ground in an inclined posture.

On the back of their armor, a pair of collapsible wings opened up. The parts of the armor on the leg opened up what looked like mini thrusters as they shot heavily compressed wind cannons.

BOOM* *SWOOSH

They flew up into the air with a whistling sound and started gliding over the battlefield. Their wings opened up and they wore helmets that covered their faces. The thrusters opened up on the back of the armor as well as the legs as they kept them in the air as much as they can.

When they started gliding down, the thrusters shot compressed wind cannons again to keep the boost. They are moving toward the beasts at a rapid pace and when they looked at Gail's look that swept past them, they felt chills run down their spines.

Meanwhile, the ambush team took a few detours on normal flying beasts as they moved to the secret spots where they want to set up their shooting equipment.

But Gail didn't attack. He just aimed the portable cannon at the liquid energy missile that flew from the camp. He shot it down. Not only did the missile explode on top of the battlefield that was on Camp's side, but the aftereffects also left the people in the camp feeling dread.

The gliders went past him and felt relieved.

They focused on the beasts now. There are six beasts flying and on every beast, there is one shooter holding the portable cannon and shooting at the puppets. When the gliding team is surrounding them, they immediately shifted the targets and started attacking them.

The gliding team on the other hand is very hard to reach. They are agile and dexter as they maneuvered in the air as they owned it.

They took out some attachments that looked like handguns and started shooting at the beasts.

The energy pistols shot energy bullets of wind elemental energy. The bullets created explosive wind elemental attacks on the beasts and the shooters which they barely managed to escape.

Even though both sides are dodging each other's attacks, Sivan's problem is temporarily solved.

The puppets are saved.

He heaved a sigh of relief and looked at the list of remaining things he had at hand.

There is not much equipment left. He is done with more than half of them and in particular the light chamber one of the trump cards is removed.

Now all he does have is the equipment they could use to destroy the city in a large scale. It won't help much in the field battle. They need to make sure that the Gaja city doesn't have anything to send and can only defend within the city.

Only then would these things would be of any use as they need some effort to install.

If not, they would waste a lot of resources and so much energy will go to waste if they are used in field directly.

He then turned to the list of the special troops he had.

"The thunder eagle squad is done for. One of the gliding squads is on the roll. We only have four more of them.

We still have eight Meteor squads, Six ambush teams while two of them are currently set up to assist the Gliding squad.

We still have the basic armored troops. Eighteen archer squads. The Earthen armor regiment. The thunder wolf squad, the grasshopper squad, and the Ice hawk squad."

Sivan listened to his subordinate giving out the names of the squads.

"Okay, these are all our personal troops. What about the troops given to us by the Mari clan.

We have eight regiments full of them. There are mercenary groups too. Do you want to march them forward?"

"Yes. We are going to march them first. We cannot let them sit around and consume resources here. Stop sending the puppets. We are going to use these excessive forces first to see what the Gaja clan has in store for us."

"Yes, boss."

"But wait till the beasts are taken down or the Gliding squad is destroyed."

Sivan sighed as he looked at the list of remaining resources he had.

He felt extremely troubled. He doesn't know how long this war will go on but he knew for sure that the longer this goes on, the more troubling the situation is going to be for him.

He then looked at the Divine league members and felt even more frustrated. He suddenly felt like these people are useless. If they are really that afraid of Gail, then what is the point of even coming here?

It is not like their presence makes any difference at this point if they are acting like this.

He doesn't know what to do. He is really tempted to call the clan leader and ask him to send his father so that he would beat some sense into these people. At least his presence will intimidate them enough and then these people will have to think whether they should break the deal they made with Sin's son or fight Gail.

Even if they didn't make a decision, he would still have a show that he felt like he deserved.

Shaking these thoughts off, he focused back on the battle.

While he is doing that, back in the Mari clan things are getting chaotic.

The Clan leader of the Mari clan is currently sitting in his vast office.

The large office is carved out of a black stone and in the middle is a black stone table. It looked cool and intimidating a bit grand as well.

But there is no such majesty and grandeur in the posture of the clan leader. He is sulking in his chair with his hands supporting his face while his elbows are placed on the table.

He almost wanted to cry.

His wife is sitting opposite him as she looked at the documents.

"What the fuck? How did this all happen in two fucking days?"

She said it out loud with a horrified expression.

"The Dusk did this. All by themselves. They did it so fast and so precisely.

All of our cities and towns that are on the seashore are gone and the cities that are on the bank of the rivers of these cities are also done. Most of the forces are deprived of these places because of the war and they are taken down.

These weird creatures that are looking blue and red and some kind of gel-like material just moved through the rivers, canals, and any stream and took over a whole planet that is completely under our control.

The planet is filled with one of the most fertile lands. They just occupied it whole. Not just that, They are driving the people out of the planet and to the neighboring planets through the wormholes and space gates.

They numbered millions.

The rest are camping in different forests building villages. They took a lot of time and sacrifice to send these messages to me. They are waiting for me to send forces and free them.

These creatures are eating the land animals away. For some reason, they are dragging everything away into the sea.

We don't know what is happening.

If that isn't already enough. There are more troubles.

Our business is being taken down like crazy. They are eating at the businesses like maggots on a corpse.

One-third of our businesses are gone. The resource points we hold in those areas, the underground arenas and labs we are running, the fields, and the mines. Everything is being destroyed as we speak.

If that is not enough, the smaller organizations under the other organizations in the alliance to defeat the Gaja clan are adding fuel to the flames.

They are trying to create trouble for us and are occupying whatever is left behind by the dusk organization.

Things are going really bad. The soldier gathering is stopped midway. I need to send forces to the Gaja city to aid Sivan in his battle."

"Why? Did he ask for them?"

"Not at the moment, but before he left, he said that he would need people. He insisted that he needs a lot of soldiers and half of them might just go as fodder in the battle.

Things are really going bad here."

"Half of these people are going to die? Do you know just how many people that make? That is way too many people. Way too many.

You are letting them all die?"

"What do you want me to do honey? They are mostly mercenaries. We are dealing with the Gaja clan. So there is no way I am losing this opportunity over the lives of these people."

His wife looked at him and asked.

"Are you really okay with this? This is way too many people dying in a war being led by a kid. This is going to be a great loss of faith and power in the clan. We are going to have trouble with the gods."

Chapter 1539 Plans

"I don't care. We have already took the steps. There is no point in bothering about the spilled milk. Anyway, we also made a deal with the Divine league, so they are going to help with our faith.

Even if they cannot they can be the mediators with the gods."

"And you are basing that trust on what exactly? On Sivan being a good kid and asking them for help on behalf of the clan? Or the Divine league being generous enough to directly offer their help?"

The clan leader didn't have an answer for that and stayed silent.

"You idiot. If you are paying this much price, isn't it a basic sense to check if you are getting something of equal value?

And the worst part is, you didn't even factor in how much the Dusk organization is going to impact you with this.

You told Sivan that you will deal with the dusk organization and send the rest of the troops to the war. But this is not happening any time soon.

They are everywhere. All over our properties across the realms and we don't even know how to deal with them.

Just amazing."

"I don't know what to do. Can you just give me some advice and not berate me like this? I am already stressed."

She sighed after listening to his words and said.

"I am also frustrated as much as you. You brought all of this trouble onto the clan. We are spreading ourselves way too thin here. We won't be able to deal with our current problems at this rate.

We need to make some deals to make it easy on ourselves."

"What do you suggest?"

"Blood Iron league. You have some contacts in the league right? We can ask them to deal with the dusk organization. Even if it is not possible for them to directly deal with the whole thing, you can at least ask them to take care of some of the properties and kill some of their members.

We cannot move too many powerful people around as they are prone to be watched and trapped, but Blood Iron league is an unexpected factor."

"But the relationship between us and the league is not a pleasant one at the moment. Butler Si who is quite reputable in the circle of Blood Iron league is missing for a few months now.

Nobody knows where he is and some even say that he is dead.

They also suffered quite a few losses at the hands of the Gaja clan. From then on, they didn't open a shop for anyone.

They are closed and locked."

"Try using your connections from the past. The connections you think didn't exist. You might think that your clan is all that. But we all know the Blood Iron league and Divine league takes the cream of the crop.

They just don't work with the organizations directly that is it.

You can even offer them territory in the form of payback. If the price is right enough even if you don't use the connections they will still work.

Do you understand?"

"Alright, I will try to contact the Blood Iron league. What else can we do?"

"Contact some of the organizations that are part of the alliance in dealing with the Gaja clan. Some organizations are in a really deep pickle.

The organizations currently don't know much about Sam and his connections with the Dusk organization and in turn the Dusk's connection with the current war.

Just paint them as some kind of new organization trying to spread their wings a bit by using the Mari clan's current precarious situation as a springboard.

After you paint them like that, offer the other organizations to help you deal with them. Offer them generous payback. You can lose some resource points. As long as they can bring back some lost property, you can even give away fifty percent of it."

"Alright."

The clan's head agreed readily. He didn't even doubt or question his wife's idea for a second. In fact, it could be said that the very reason he became the head of the clan is because of his wife.

He is not very smart in this kind of role that has too many political schemes and management duties.

He is good at battle strategies and battling himself, but he was not a suitable candidate to be the head of the clan until he married his wife that is.

She is the brains behind everything that needs a political scheme and a managerial position which he needs help with.

He is not ashamed to ask her things and she is not bothered with helping him.

She did it so many times before and she is doing it now also.

"You can contact the remaining two sects other than the Star eye sects that are involved in the whole alliance thing.

Since they are the main instigators, they are the ones that have too much to lose if the Gaja clan wins.

You can play it so that the Dusk organization is impacting your war with the Gaja clan and you need their help to win. They also lost a lot of properties because of the rest of the organizations and Gail's flexing his muscles in their territory.

I also heard that Gamin straight up demolished their morale as he beat up every grand elder he could find.

They are in a desperate time to find some people to lean on.

They need some wins to get their heads straight and get back into this game.

We are going to provide that assistance by offering some of the properties they are going to recover."

"Okay, I will do that."

"But that is not enough. Spread false info regarding the war. Don't make your meeting with the other sects secretive. Spread the rumors that they are helping you out to take care of Sam, not the Gaja clan itself."

"That would never fly. Why would they take care of the young man who played little part in the whole plan?"

"Just makeup stories. Exaggerate his contribution. Make it so that the sects are now taking revenge on Sam instead of the Gaja clan because of the losses they suffered.

You don't need it to be completely logical. You just need to spread the word and the people are going to bend the story in the most believable way they want.

If the story really works well, the Dusk organization will have to change its focus a bit against the sects. Do you understand where I am going with this?"

"So, you are not counting on Dusk organization being eliminated by them?"

"Like hell, it is going to happen. If they can really do that, we could have done it a long time ago. These assholes are going to be tough to kill and even tougher to catch.

So, we are just going to use these sects as bait and make the Dusk organization focus on them while we proceed with our own damage control and countermeasures. This will buy us some time."

"Alright."

The Clan's head immediately moved to give the instructions to his subordinates to get in touch with the people he needs to meet. He is also trying to contact the people he had that has connections to the Blood Iron League.

While the Mari clan is also getting into some deep troubles, back in the Gaja clan. Sam is working on the portable cannon he kept for himself.

He is drawing a series of inscriptions for hours as the battle outside went on. Soon, the Mari clan is out of their energy crackers. At least they didn't shoot. But the glider and Ambush team are gaining on them.

Out of the six shooters one of them is taken down along with the beast as he didn't shoot it from a proper range and took some aftershock effects from the explosion. That gave the chance for the Gliders to deal with him instantly.

Luckily, the gliders didn't manage to take the cannon away with them.

It just fell off far away from the battle because of an air cannon explosion.

Sam sent another shooter and a beast to take over the position while he worked on the cannon he has on hand to help them out.

The portable cannons that work on the core mechanism of the wolf puppets have one major quality.

They can modify the attacks and the energy within the attacks with the ripple style and void style.

They can be used for anything. So, Sam decided to use it with the cannon and modify it a bit to help out the shooters in dealing with the gliders.

After making the necessary modifications to the inscriptions, he took out a new muzzle attachment that he made an artisan create.

He attached that to the large sphere cannon's muzzle. Now the end of this muzzle is narrow and much smaller. It definitely doesn't work for a sphere.

After he was done with all of this, he stepped onto the city and held the cannon in his hands with a smile.

"This is going to be fun."

He muttered as he looked at the gliders and aimed at a specific spot.

Chapter 1540 Shooting

Sam stood with the cannon his hand as he smiled from ear to ear.

Giyon and Grivon quickly came running.

"You are having fun without us?" Grivon asked as he looked at him with a frown.

"It is not like you guys are going to participate anyway. It is mostly me shooting down and it doesn't matter if there are spectators or not."

"Well, we are getting bored. So, doing something like this is fun. Your toys are sucking the joy out of the battle for us."

"No, they are saving the already scarce offspring of Gaja clan. You are welcome."

"Yeah, whatever you can take your credit. So, how about we talk about this cannon in your hands? Why is it different than the others?"

Giyon asked as she looked at it hungrily. She is very intrigued about the cannon. And since she can see what these things can do, she is even more intrigued by this.

"Well, if you guys shut up and let me do what I wanted to do, you will see."

After saying those words, he aimed the cannon at the gliders that are moving around.

They are like eagles in the sky as they used the thrusters and the wings to maneuver themselves with extreme agility and dexterity.

It would be hard for a person to move on the land like that and it is impossible to have that much control over the limbs even on normal ground battle.

But currently they are dancing in the air.

"That is so cool." Grivon said casually. He really liked how those wings worked and how that armour is supporting them.

But the next second, he felt some energy gathering beside him. The cannon started glowing as the energy gathered in the chamber.

BAM

A small explosion was heard as they an energy bullet was shot.

The energy bullet hit one of the wings of a glider.

BOOM

The glider who is currently moving with his wings shining and about to cut a beast with wind blades suddenly lost his balance.

He looked at his left wing.

Even though there is an explosive sound, actually the wing didn't break completely, instead the energy stuck to the wing and expanded all over it through the ripples and then exploded with the void styles.

The armour started cracking down and the person crashed down into the ground.

*AAHHHHH...."

The glider started screaming.

But soon he started controlling the fall and tried to cushion the impact, but before he could do that, he saw an energy bullet zooming at his face.

BAM

His screams stopped and the face cracked open with blood. The facial muscles were exposed along with the skull and the void style explosion of the ripples are happening inside the skull cracking it open.

A Middle-stage Consummate cultivator was crashed into the earth just like that and left a large crater.

But he didn't move.

He couldn't feel his surroundings. He didn't see anything. His sense of touch is gone. His vision is gone. His hearing is gone. And finally he felt his whole body going limp and his organs failing one after the other.

Soon, even the internal pain is gone.

"Holy shit."

Grivon said out loud as he looked at the target through the telescope to get a clearer vision.

"What the fuck is that?"

"Pure energy and a clean headshot. That's what it is."

Sam said as he aimed the cannon at another glider and shot the bullet.

The gliders already saw one of their comrades falling down and noticed Sam's presence. The second target already changed directions and moved towards Sam. Since the dome is gone, he became more daring and he is also confident that the soldiers wouldn't use the wall sphere cannons because their members are there in the range as well.

The only reason he didn't go there is because he didn't want to be a target. But since Sam is attacking and he knew how big of a target is in this whole war, he became a bit tempted and wanted to take his chance.

But as he moved forward, a few more energy bullets were shot from Sam's cannon. He avoided two of them cleanly and one of them brushed past him. At least he thought it brushed past him, but it exploded right after it went past his chest.

BOOM

He was blown to the side and felt his whole body being jerked off. He lost his balance and he had to focus on his thrusters and the glider wings to get his balance back.

But before he could do that.

BOOM

The bullet landed on his thruster of the leg. The leg exploded along with the thruster and the wind elemental energy mechanism that was used to create that thrust backfired big time and destroyed the leg until the hip.

The balance was off again and this time, Sam landed another headshot.

Two of the people were down.

"Damn, this is fun."

Giyon said with a smile as she looked at the cultivators who are on par with her and way stronger than Sam completely being destroyed like this.

"Of course it is."

Sam said casually as he shot another glider.

The gliders realized that their real trouble is not from the shooters on the beasts, but from the Sam standing on the freaking wall.

They didn't even know how to tackle him. Other than the long range attacks. No matter what they will do will impact them severely.

They could either fall target for Sam's shooting, the shooters can shoot them from behind or both. If it is the worst case scenario, they will have even more trouble with them being destroyed by the people from within the clan.

"I want to shoot it."

Giyon asked all of a sudden and Sam raised an eyebrow.

"You are not skilled in long range attacks. Aiming and shooting are not your forte."

"My dad is not that good too, but he is firing well. And I am not really that bad at aiming. Who at our level is actually bad at aiming? Tell me?"

"Well, in a way it makes sense. But he is your father. You are just you. It could be dangerous if you mess out, do you know that?"

"I still want to try."

Sam thought for a moment and fired another shot. He shot down another glider.

Now, the pressure is gone from the people that are attacking the shooters and only ambush team remaining.

"Now, can you guys handle the gliders yourselves?"

Sam asked the shooters.

"yes, boss. We are good."

The shooters replied and Sam looked at Giyon.

"Since you want to try, let's do it with stationary targets."

Giyon shrugged and Sam pointed at a direction.

"There is an ambush team there. They are the ones sneakily attacking the shooters and aiding the gliders. You need to calculate their location and kill them at the same time."

He said and started tweaking the inscriptions on the cannon a bit.

"Here, I changed the explosion range a bit more. It is not as concentrated as before, but the probability of you attacking them increases a lot and the damage will also increase more."

Sam said and handed over the cannon to her.

Giyon took the cannon and aimed it at the spot Sam pointed at. She looked for a spear to be shot out of that place and as soon as it did, she aimed at a certain spot and shot.

BOOM

An explosive sound came and a large energy bullet was sent out.

"How am I able to use energy bullets?"

"Well, the mechanism does much more than just infusing the ripple and void style. It also gathers the energy. It is mostly for amateurs though. If you are good at gathering energy into the bullet, it will be much more effective."

As they are casually speaking, the energy bullet reached its destination.

"BOOM"

BOOOOM

Two explosions occurred.

One of them is the explosion of energy bullet and a few trees and rocks were blown apart, which is something Sam already expected.

But what followed that was completely new to them. It is completely uncalled for.

Sam looked at the type of explosion that happened and frowned.

"What the hell is that?"

He muttered and looked at it closely with the telescope and frown turned deeper. He immediately took the cannon and started shooting at a different spot.

BOOM

BOOM

A few explosions occurred, but unlike before there is no massive explosion. Sam immediately took out his communication device and contacted Clan's leader.

"I need two squads to make a move. An urgent matter."

"What is it about?"

"I need them to go and collect somethings from the place where the ambush teams of the Mari clan are present."

"Is it really that important? The spots are way too far away from the clan grounds."

"Yeah. If I am not wrong. There is another dangerous thing awaiting in the hands of Sivan. I want to be sure before I could think of any countermeasures."
