Chapter 1561 Clash with Sivan

Gail panted as he ran across the wall and leapt into the air before punching out.

A large fist conjured with pure spiritual energy blasted through the air as it punched a grand elder who is already running away.

Since he was already walking to the different side, he managed to use the barrier he created at the point of impact to crash into the ground and escape vital damage.

Gail wanted to follow up and finish him off. But that didn't happen. He couldn't do that no matter what. Because another grand elder tried to attack from the side and it is a woman that is causing the most trouble to him in this whole scenario.

Most of her attacks are stealthy. There are no signs of it whatsoever no matter how much he tried and he could only see them at the last minute.

They are attacks of the earth element and he is trying to shake off the nodes at the edge of the city which Gail is taking so much effort to save with all he got.

Things have been like this for over an hour.

Sonic cat is also dealing with the same situation on the other side. All of the grand elders are on perfect sync. One person attacks an open spot on the wall and another person attacks Gail or sonic cat at the same time.

They have to dodge their attack and also block the attack against the city. Before they could pursue the attacker, another attack will be launched by a different persona and they have to move around and block those attacks.

It is like a never-ending process.

But the more time passed, the more nervous the grand elders are getting.

Because their plan is to just make Gail and the cat exhausted and let other peak stage cultivators come and take their place.

But no matter how much they tried, they are unable to do that. Gail and Sonic cat almost acted like they have unlimited energy.

Not a single attack went past them and not a single moment where they left faltered.

They were also not injured at all.

This made the grand elders scared shitless.

While the peak stage cultivators are keeping the situation at this stalemate, the regular soldiers are fighting like crazy.

This time the energy beams from the sphere are at full power and they are also more consistent than ever.

They are attacking the soldiers constantly and Sam didn't shy away while using all kinds of poison weapons. Grenades, poison spheres through the spear cannons, poison vials and ranged attacks from the wall.

Along with that, the cursed undead creatures, and the cursed liquid attacks, Sam managed to keep this one hour in check with just those things and he has also been very generous with the white crystal shards he used.

He managed to convert at least a hundred soldiers into complete white crystals and then he exploded and broke those white crystals so that they will attack other people around.

But now, most of the undead creatures are gone. Sam even used liquid energy cells trapped inside the remaining ones and exploded in traps making the soldiers suffer severe losses.

Sivan was actually surprised by how generous Sam is with his attacks.

It is almost like he doesn't care anymore.

He has two speculations as he thought about this. One of them is that Sam doesn't care anymore and is going all out with a proper plan and the second one is that the Gaja clan knows that they are fucked and they are just using up everything they have in their hands.

Either way, it is bad news for him.

Whether the Gaja clan is losing and they are dumping everything or they have the plan, Sivan is going to suffer some severe consequences.

"What is your next plan? My soldiers are dying here?" Sivan asked Avlyn.

"We don't need to care much about the soldiers. You can play that battle as you like. We only need to care about the peak stage cultivators for now. Alright, but you better inform me, when you want to fight the peak stage cultivators.

I don't want to use up all of my soldiers."

"Of course, we don't want those pain in the asses when we are launching an attack either. They are just going to be in our way."

"But there is one problem. What if they escape in this situation?"

"We already blocked off all of the exits of the space gates from the Gaja clan. Even the other sides of those wormholes are blocked. We also managed to clear a bunch of stray realms from the memories of the people we killed.

I would say there are not many exit points for the Gaja clan. Anyway, we already made some arrangements to know if they are escaping."

"Whatever. As long as you have everything under your control. So, when do you want me to bring my soldiers back? I think Sam is about to send the soldiers of Gaja clan again. My side even though has more numbers is also suffering more losses."

"Fifteen minutes more and tell your grand elders to use everything they have. Tell them to not bother to store even a tiny bit of energy. They can exhaust themselves completely."

"That will put them in danger."

"Then use your escape transference tokens. The ones that you linked up to the camp here."

Sivan frowned upon hearing this. He didn't even speak.

"One of my colleagues just looked at a buried pillar under the campgrounds right in your tent. I mean, it is pretty stealthy. Whatever technique you used to make it blend in and appear as the soil is really great, but the spatial fluctuations, you didn't mask properly.

So, use those tokens and send the Peak stage cultivators away. I am pretty sure you don't have any other uses for them.

And don't worry, I will not call you out on the fact that With all the righteous bullshit you spewed about yourself not wanting your soldiers to die and all that shit, you kept an escape plan out just for you.

It is not weird at all."

Avlyn cut the call immediately.

Sam soon sent all of the soldiers from within the Gaja clan. Surprisingly, he didn't keep anyone else in the city.

He went all out without leaving any spares. This is almost like a final showdown.

Sam also jumped down the wall and joined the battle. Of course, he currently stationed himself at the edge of the wall with the cannon aimed at the enemies as he sniped and provided cover for many people more efficiently.

But he is also ready to get into a hand to hand combat if needed.

Sivan who saw this was very tempted to go against Sam and fight it out with him.

As he was hesitating, he looked at his own self now. He loved the current body he is in. He is not crippled. It has myriad elemental energies. He is immune to poison and is dexterous, agile, strong and tall. A perfect warrior body.

He has treasures like a coat made of Golden crow feathers and the hoverboard under his feet that made him fly all over like wind.

Along with all of that, all the things that he gained because of the knowledge inside his current head.

He really didn't want to lose it out and looking at Sam still standing there with that crippled body with the same unwavering confidence and strength made him feel like a failure.

"Are you guys sure that this is going to be the final attack?"

He once again contacted Avlyn just to confirm.

"Yes. I am pretty sure. Because once Gail and that stupid cat are exhausted, it will be pretty hard for any of them to step up with the Divine blood tokens we have at our hands. We can directly barge in to the city and deal with them."

"Okay, then I will also settle my business by then."

As soon as he said that, harbinger dashed through the crowd and made its way towards Sam.

Wind blades circled around the board as they aimed at Sam who is standing there with his cannon shooting a bunch of soldiers.

He noticed Sivan coming toward him, but he didn't bother too much with them.

He even gave a passing glance and went back to dealing with the soldiers.

Sivan got angry and swung the wind blades at Sam, but to his surprise, just when they were about to be released, the harbinger acted on its own as it diverted the wind blades to the ball.

Sam smirked at this. He looked at Sivan's confusion and aimed the cannon at him.

The harbinger saved him before he could react.

Sivan once again started attacking Sam with the wind blades from the harbinger, but they are diverted.

Sam shook his head and said.

"Don't bother you dumb fuck. Harbinger won't let you attack me. It is just you and me now. You can just store it away so that I can use it later."

Chapter 1562 Clash with Sivan II

Sivan looked at Sam hatefully and tried it again. But Harbinger is indeed resisting and throwing the wind blades off.

"Don't you get it? It cannot harm the soul that it was connected to, you idiot. The spirit that was generated in that board is way too smart. It is carrying you on pretty well even though you don't know how to ride that board properly isn't it?"

You got all that knowledge from my soul. Put it to some use dumbass."

"Don't look down on me. You bastard."

Sivan said as he leaped down from the harbinger. He stored the board away and took out the executioner sword.

He started swinging it at Sam. Sam blocked the sword with the reaper sword.

He only has one proper leg and one peg leg. As for arms, he only had one, but he still managed to keep up with Sivan who is obviously not very skilled at using the sword like Sam.

As they clashed and Sam played along, Sivan noticed that something is wrong with the sword.

"They also have spirits. Don't tell you don't know that."

Sam said sarcastically. Even though weapon spirits are much more simple and they are not as smart as the one in harbinger and the feather coat, they still offer some resistance when they are attacking the soul they are linked to.

Currently, weapons accepted Sivan's soul that merged with Sam's dormant soul. But there is a connection with Sam's soul too. So, they are extremely resistant to landing lethal blows on Sam.

In fact, Sam already noticed this when he clashed with Sivan last time. That is how he managed to take back reaper's sword pretty easily.

It was not working according to Sivan's wishes and Sam's superior skills easily allowed him to take the sword away.

Now as both swords are clashing again, they could both feel the resistance. But Sam is not worried about it. Even if the reaper sword is not really allowing him to kill and attack Sivan lethally, he can still play it around.

Sivan who got pissed off by this though immediately changed weapons. He took out the shadow sword.

Sam blocked the slash as he saw Sivan activate partial shadow fusion.

"How are you doing?" Sam asked with a smile.

The shadow sword suddenly started glowing and it threw Sivan off to the back. He felt like his arms are being cut apart by something.

This even canceled his partial shadow fusion and stunned him on the spot.

"You are not really worthy to use shadow sword against me. Don't even try it."

Sam said casually before taking a step back. He stored the reaper sword away and said.

"let's settle this normally. There is no use in keeping those weapons."

Sivan looked at him hatefully, but still stored his weapon away before making a move.

His body turned to a glowing blue and then into slight purple. He is using water elemental fusion along with the poison.

"Good thinking. You didn't go for direct firepower. That is unexpected. It seems like you have some brain cells after all."

Sam said calmly as stood still and waited for Sivan to attack.

Sivan extended his arms and two large water spears that are colored with purple poison were shot out of them.

Sam just stood there and let the water spears come at him. An energy shield appeared in front of him at the last moment and diverted the water spears.

But before they could be deflected completely, the spears collapsed completely and splashed all over the shield.

Sam didn't react at first, but even after two seconds, the water didn't go away. Then only he noticed that the water is completely encompassing the energy shield because of Sivan's control and trying to bypass it.

Sam didn't let it happen though. The energy barrier expanded all over and covered him like a sphere. The water tried to enter but wasn't able to.

Sivan lunged forward and threw a punch with void style.

The punch filled with water elemental energy spread across the barrier and exploded.

BOOM

The barrier cracked and broke open, but Sam already jumped backward and escaped the impact. Not just that, he directly threw an energy bullet at Sivan who reacted quick enough to intercept it with a large water sphere.

The water splashed and rained down. Sam had to cover himself with the energy barrier again to avoid the poison seeping into his body.

Sivan took this chance to throw a water sphere at Sam, which was blocked again.

The battle continued. Sivan focused on the poison too much and wanted to make Sam suffer with it, but Sam didn't bother too much with the attacking and focused on blocking most of the time.

And whenever he got the chance he threw energy bullets which were intercepted by the water sphere.

While the battle is going on like this, the whole area around them started changing. The water that contained potent hydra poison destroyed the vegetation around them and the soil started corroding because of it.

The other people are avoiding the place like a plague.

They looked at the two main characters of this war.

Even though it is a war between the Gaja clan and the Mari clan, it is also a war between Sivan and Sam. They are also part of the trigger that this war is happening.

Sivan threw a bunch of water spears at Sam and went straight after them to land a punch on Sam's barrier.

The spears were blocked and Sam was ready to block the punch as well, but before he could do that, he was caught off guard by the earth under his feet.

Sivan's body turned from the purple water to that earth element.

The soil under him turned into quicksand and swallowed his foot along with the peg leg.

Sam was surprised by this, but he was also impressed.

This is actually his own move. He used it a lot of times in close combat and to think he fell victim to it is rather amusing.

But he didn't worry. He just stood still and blocked Sivan's punch before shooting an energy bullet at a close range.

Sivan dodged it and let it go past him before making his move. He grabbed Sam's hand and pulled him closer to hold him in a chokehold.

Sam resisted of course, but he felt that something else is happening under his feet. He suddenly sensed something at his feet and before he could realize it, a vine coiled out and wrapped around his normal leg and the peg leg.

Thorns popped up and dug into Sam's leg.

He instantly reacted and used an energy beam attack from his mouth at Sivan who stepped back immediately.

Then he used ripple energy to disturb the quicksand effect before kicking himself out of it. He rolled back to the ground and used his observation ability to check his own leg.

When he realized that there is no poison he sighed in relief and then looked at Sivan in disappointment.

Sivan couldn't even stand that disappointing look and immediately made a move.

Earthen spikes came up behind Sam as Sivan attacked him from the front. An energy wall appeared behind Sam stopping the spikes from attacking him while he tackled Sivan's punch.

He caught it with his own palm and used the force to bend Sivan's arm at the elbow joint making the distance closer.

Then energy solidified around Sam's peg leg as he took that support and his right leg went straight ahead to deal a blow behind Sivan's knee, making his footing unstable.

Sam then used the chance to twist Sivan's arm while he is falling downwards and used that to hold Sivan in a chokehold before pinning him to the ground.

But Sivan didn't panic. Instead, he simply released himself from earth elemental fusion and shifted to the metal before creating spikes from his back.

Sam felt the changes in the energy and understood things wouldn't go well.

But he was already prepared, instead of directly leaving, he injected a small strand of energy into the back of Sivan and exploded it with ripple energy.

Sivan's fusion process was disrupted, but the impact is a little higher than Sam expected, which made the hand take some recoil loosening his grip.

Sivan took the chance and made his move. He first escaped and threw another punch at Sam's peg leg with void style.

The leg exploded and Sam was thrown off.

"The void style is pretty cool Sam. I must really thank you for teaching me this. Even though you didn't teach it to me directly, your body is pretty used to it and constant replaying of the memories of how you destroyed yourself while practicing it, really helped.

You are an excellent teacher for a bastard.

After all, as a bastard, all the lessons in your life should have been taught by some pricks who beat the crap out of you, for someone like you to have such an amazing teaching affinity. It is rare, isn't it?"

Chapter 1563 Tied Beasts

Sam looked at Sivan coldly.

Anger is bubbling inside his heart. He wanted to strangle Sivan's neck right at the moment. He has to use a lot of self-control to suppress the urge of making a rash move.

He sat up and waved his hand to get the staff from the storage. He used that to stand up. Now he only has one leg and one arm. The peg leg is also gone, but he is not at all worried as he held the staff with one hand and leaned on it to get the support.

Sivan looked at him with a smirk. He believed that he would be able to beat Sam easily in the current state. Because he is sure that he cannot pull off anything in that crippled body if it is in Sam's shoes.

Sam took a deep breath as he looked at Sivan changing his body once again. It changed from a metal element to a fire element. Golden flames enveloped him as he looked at Sam who just stood there.

"Since you won't be able to jump around as you did previously, let's finish this quickly."

As he spoke, his lungs started expanding as he took in deep breaths. The surrounding energy is being sucked in as he aimed at Sam.

It is one of the Golden Sun crow's bloodline techniques. Sam tapped the staff on the ground and a large sphere made of pure energy enveloped him and a few feet radius around him.

The sphere started expanding as new layers over layers of spiritual energy started occupying it.

He constantly reinforced the barrier as he waited for the impact to come.

BOOM

A large streak of golden flames surrounded him and the barrier.

Sam felt the heat reaching his face even though there is a few feet gap between him and the flames. He also felt that it is really hard to maintain the barrier as it is.

But he gritted his teeth and tried his best.

That trial only lasted for a minute though. The barrier almost reacted like metal being melted over the flames. When Sam noticed this, he immediately thought of something and made the barrier disperse into energy ripples away from him and made them explode through void style.

BOOM* *BOOM

A series of explosions happened as the flames dispersed one by one.

Sam just stood there and still didn't move. Another sphere formed around him even before Sivan could get ahold of himself from the dispersed bloodline attack.

Sam calmly stared at him while creating a small energy orb within the sphere.

The orb looked like a normal energy bullet, but a lot denser and it was much more stable. The orb flew out of the barrier like it was penetrating a soap bubble.

Sivan was ready to defend himself, but instead of going for him, the orb just flew past him into the air and hovered there.

Sivan frowned and was looking at the orb, but the next moment, he had to focus on Sam again, because he got ready with a bunch of energy bullets that are being shot from the end of the staff.

BOOM* *BOOM

A series of explosions happened and Sivan used the light elemental fusion to dodge them. He then looked at Sam again and wanted to use another bloodline art.

He could see that Sam is panting a bit and with the energy vision, he can see that Sam's energy is not as abundant as before.

So, he wanted to exhaust Sam with the bloodline arts.

If Sam had heard these thoughts, he would have definitely scoffed. Because no matter how much of an overwhelming advantage Sam has over his opponent, he definitely wouldn't use bloodline arts left and right which would exhaust his energy.

That is plain stupid.

And he is right. Even though Sivan justified these thoughts as his way of exhausting Sam and using his abundant energy to his advantage, the real reason is he just wanted to show off against Sam.

He wanted to show Sam that his invincible body is completely under Sivan's control and there is nothing Sam can do about it while being attacked by the best attacks possible by this body.

He wanted to show Sam that he can do whatever he wants with the body. He wanted to make him feel jealous.

He changed the fusion element and started attacking Sam with different elemental energy first.

The lightning elemental energy.

He is covered with silver lightning as he punched the spherical barrier.

The barrier vibrated with every punch and fluctuated. Sam let him land those barrage of hits and he tried his best to hold the barrier up.

When it was about to break, he once again let the energy of the barrier ripple away and explodes at the same time.

BOOM* BOOM *BOOM

A series of explosions occurred once again. But this time Sivan managed to react quickly enough to not be caught off guard because of that and jumped backward out of the blast zone.

He then activated another bloodline art. His windpipe compressed itself as he looked at the sky and howled like a wolf.

HOWWWLL

With a single howl, a large bolt of silver lightning shot off from his body into the sky and created a massive cloud from which a bunch of lightning bolts was shot toward Sam.

Sivan looked at Sam to see if he had nailed the timing.

Since he took the first attack on Sam exploding the barrier and there is a small interval he noticed in creating the first barrier and creating the second one, he wanted to use that small interval to kill Sam and bombard him with the attacks.

But he was disappointed with the results.

Sam used the energy barrier shields he made for Grivon's business.

He used a bunch of them at the same time while making the barrier with his own staff and he also shot a bunch of energy bullets at the lightning that is coming at him.

Sivan is frustrated and confused at the same time.

The bloodline attacks are the strongest attacks there are. They are very powerful for people of the same level to even consider blocking. But Sam is managing to block it every time. He couldn't help but feel confused.

He looked at the sky and howled again making the lightning strike Sam again, before closing his eyes in that gap and letting his consciousness go into the Divine dimension.

Within the Divine dimension, in the fields of different elemental energies. The beasts are currently tied up.

All of them. Yanwu, Sky, Mia, Raiju, Forrest Bear, the shadow mouse, and even the Void hopper, are all tied up within different elemental energy zones that are not compatible with them.

Yanwu is currently tied in the ice elemental energy zone.

Sivan did this after he got the major portion of Sam's memories. Within those things, there are details regarding the Myriad Beast bloodline cultivation technique that Sam's body is cultivating. The details that he got made him realize that Yanwu and the rest of the beasts have a contract of equality with him.

But he also realized that their lives are pretty much tied together. Beasts are too much in love with Sam and the only reason that they are even tolerating the contract currently is because they are sure that Sam will be back and also the familiarity they are gaining with Sivan as he absorbed Sam's soul bit by bit.

There is something else that led him to tie these beasts up though.

As the beasts felt the familiarity increasing with Sam and particularly when they realized there is only a small portion of the soul fragment that he couldn't absorb and it will be dissolved as soon as he killed Sam, they wanted to commit suicide to weaken him.

Even though he might not be killed by it, a good portion of his soul will be damaged. They wanted to weaken him with the battle with Sam and they also made a collective plan that if by any chance Sivan wins the battle, the very next moment, they will all kill themselves in a collective suicide which will make Sivan die as well.

This is to make sure that they won't end up in Sivan's control.

They don't want to be his beasts. They don't want to be in a contract with them. They are very adamant about this situation.

Because as soon as Sivan absorbs the last part of the soul, they will be unable to distinguish between Sivan and Sam, in fact, they might not even be different people. They would be completely bound by the contract.

So, because of this Sivan immediately tied them up as soon as he realized. He is waiting for the soul to be fully merged and so that he can release them.

He used the Divine dimension's powers. Since the person who owns that dimension is like a literal god there and can control anything, he tied them all up and occasionally tried to squeeze out some info from them.

Chapter 1564 Bloodline Arts

Sivan's consciousness reached Yanwu who is chained up by the Divine dimension in the icy mountains.

[What do you want you prick?]

Yanwu crowed angrily.

"I want to know why the bloodline attacks are being defended by Sam."

[You are fighting with him already? So, I can finally be free from this cold place.]

"You tell me what I want to know, then I will let the cold go from your body right now."

[I am not going to tell you anything. I would rather die. Anyway, I don't know anything related to that to begin with. So, no point in asking me.]

"I highly doubt that. From the memories, I clearly know that you are the one who has the most knowledge about this cultivation technique. You definitely have something related to this. Your sole job for the first fifteen years of life without any cultivation is to prepare to assist Sam with the knowledge.

You tell me now."

[You dumb bastard. The bloodline attacks are being blocked by Sam. How would I know what he is thinking? Because of his soul is out of the body and the dormant soul's presence in this body, we are unable to communicate.

Can't you even understand that logic?

As for knowing whether he is blocking it because of being linked to the body with the small fragment of his soul? I don't know.]

"I won't take that for an answer. Does the soul connect to have an effect or not?"

Yanwu just stayed silent without answering. He is completely tired of this bullshit.

"If you don't tell me now, I will torture that Void Hopper."

[You can't do anything to the little guy. He is way too fast for you. At least pick a better target if you want to threaten me.]

"Of course I know I can't do much to him even in this Divine dimension, because of his weird unique situation.

But this time I am going big with him. I cannot deal with the rest of the beasts as they would be too adamant and wouldn't break because of Sam's presence right outside.

Which I assume is already shared by you to them through the connection you guys have.

But you do know that I can emotionally torture that Void hopper right?

I have all the memories of Sam being tortured by the world. He had a tough childhood. You all treated that void hopper very tenderly as it was just a kid and didn't let it experience all of this.

I will forcefully inject every harsh memory Sam ever had into his head and see if the Void hopper will change its mentality.

[YOU BASTARD] Yanwu crowed crazily as it looked at Sivan.

"Anyway, what will happen if I send the torturing image to Sam? Will he be able to keep his cool after..."

[No.]

"What do you mean, no?"

[Sam is not dealing with the bloodline attacks because of the soul connection. He is doing it all on his own.]

"Why is it so hard to believe you?"

[Think whatever you want. But lying is an act that is completely beneath my pride. Don't you dare insult it.]

"Okay then, tell me why he is able to deal with the bloodline arts."

[I don't know the exact reason. But from what I have seen before when my tribe members sparred with each other or seriously fought, they used to attack each other with bloodline arts, but others always managed to find a way to block it.

And most of the blocks are made, not with sheer power but rather with their knowledge of the art itself.

Every bloodline art has some weaknesses within it. As long as one knows the weak points and knows how to use them, one can just escape them. Sam must be doing it.]

"Was that too hard, you dumb crow?"

Sivan's consciousness went back to his body. He looked at Sam who is still struggling with the lightning strikes from the sky.

The barrier is about to crack once again.

Sivan activated energy vision to take a look at the barrier at the moment and saw something amazing.

The barrier's energy right before it broke became a bit unstable, but it is divided into parts. All of those parts of energy created ripples as they moved towards the sky.

They traveled in a weird path that as the ripples touched the lightning at a certain point, the bolts are disappearing instantly with their energy dispersed and finally the energy hit the clouds and dispersed.

During the whole process, Sivan saw what is happening at the basic level.

In simple words, Sam is just attacking the bloodline art with high precision at its weakest points. The points where if attacked the attack could disperse.

He was already surprised by the sheer power each bloodline art carried. Now to think that there is someone who can deal with such a powerful attack without breaking a sweat, he felt insignificant once again.

He instantly shook those thoughts off of his head and made his move. He understood that Sam is dealing with these bloodline arts because he knows them like the back of his hand.

But there are some arts that he obviously doesn't know and he can utilize that to his own benefit.

As he was thinking that, he also noticed Sam is panting slightly. He is clearly exhausting his energy at a faster pace because of his defense against the bloodline arts.

He suddenly had a few thoughts in his mind and he is very tempted to test them out.

In this excitement, what Sivan failed to notice is that apart from the first orb Sam created which is hovering around there are two more orbs that appeared out of nowhere.

They are also hovering around in the air without attracting much attention.

Sivan just focused on changing the elemental fusion again. The silver lightning disappeared and the body started emitting both earth and metal elemental energies. After they changed bodies, the next bloodline that Sivan activated is of Dia when he reached the peak stage of transcendence in the Astral Plane.

And this happened to be something that Sam has no idea about. Even if he has a slight idea about what the bloodline art is, that is only from the point of view of Dia herself.

Sam definitely never tried this before and he is also sure that Sam would have no idea on how the attack will come from a human's body.

Sivan's currently went through the combined fusion of metal and earth elements.

He looked at Sam with a smile.

Sam still has that spherical barrier around as he shot some energy bullets at Sivan.

A few rock fragments rose from the soil around and they shot straight ahead at the energy bullets, intercepting them.

BOOM* BOOM BOOM *BOOM

Amidst the series of explosions, Sivan closed his eyes and started gathering earth elemental energy into his palms. The energy compressed itself into several layers over his palm and after gathering enough of it, he slammed the two palms to the ground.

The earth elemental energy exploded and spread all across the ground surrounding Sam.

Cracks appeared and massive pieces of rock and soil came out of the ground leaving large pits.

Sivan still had his eyes closed.

Sam looked at the rocks surrounding him and had a bad feeling about this. He not only reinforced his barrier once again, he also created a bunch of energy bullets that are shot in different directions.

The rocks and the soil that is hovering all over were hit by the energy bullets and exploded, but there is not much of a change in the situation because, the blocks of rocks and soil are reinforced with earth elemental energy and even after they are hit by the energy bullets, they just broke into some smaller pieces.

They didn't just disappear into thin air or collapse back onto the ground.

Sivan smirked at Sam's useless attack and proceeded with the attack.

All of a sudden, Sam felt like a massive amount of crushing force pressing him onto the ground.

Because he is holding the staff with only one hand and balancing the body that has only one leg with it, he slipped and fell onto his knee before he could use the staff and stay still again.

But it was already too late. He felt the gravitational force attracting all of the rocks and soil blocks around him. As they moved towards him, they started glowing with earth elemental energy and came at him with full force.

Sam gritted his teeth as he tried to reinforce the barrier even more.

But he realized soon that is mostly futile.

BANG

All the rocks hit the sphere at the same time and Sam could see the cracks appearing instantly.

Fighting against the force pulling him to the ground along with the force that is pushing these rocks to him, is extremely tough. Sam almost felt like his whole head is about to explode as he tried his best to defend himself.

Chapter 1565 Metal Spikes

Sivan looked at Sam struggling to keep the barrier intact.

This gave him weird pleasure. The pleasure that he craved more and more.

So as Sam struggled with the earth completely covering him from all sides, Sivan made another motion just like before and slammed the earth once again.

This time, even more rocks and blocks of soil started coming toward the sphere. The force increased and the barrier almost broke, no matter how much Sam reinforced it. After some thought, he took a deep breath and changed the energy within the barrier with the repel style.

The energy tried to slip the rocks away into different directions and in fact, it worked for a bit, but as soon as they went off track a bit, they turned back and slammed against Sam once again.

The gravitational pull was focused on Sam and he became a direct victim of that. In a desperate attempt, Sam used the ripple and void style combined to release as many energy waves as he can to destroy as many rocks as he possibly can.

BOOM* *CRASH

The explosion occurred with the rocks crashing into each other with Sam in the middle. Sivan kept on controlling the pull as he made the crushing force increase with every passing second.

Sam felt suffocated in the middle and soon he started feeling sharp spikes popping up from the rocks and the soil that is constricting him.

It seems like Sivan wanted to just skewer him without any chance to fight back. Of course, Sam didn't plan to just stay there and be pierced like this.

The middle section of the staff opened as a large energy beam was shot out of it.

A large hole opened in the middle of the rock and it exploded.

The severe explosion even impacted Sam who has locked in the middle also, but he didn't care about that and just focused on getting out.

As soon as the explosion occurred, the rocks were thrown off because of the force. Sam used this chance to just slip off from the gaps along with his staff.

He then slammed the staff on the ground creating another massive ripple and explosion at the same time and jumped away using the recoil.

The rocks and soil crashed together once again.

Sam rolled on the ground before finally stopping and standing up. He panted like crazy. He didn't expect that Sivan could get used to his body this much.

This is definitely unexpected and unnatural in a way. Even he had to take some time to adapt to the bloodline arts. For Sivan to get used to them and be this fluid about using them, is definitely something that caught him off guard.

He became extra cautious as he looked at Sivan.

He cannot let it slip by.

Sivan watched as the attack crashed into itself and negated itself.

He stopped the attack and looked at Sam who already prepared another barrier. Along with the barrier, there are two more orbs that flew into the air which he also noticed.

By now there are five orbs that attracted his attention. Once again, before he could take action a myriad of energy bullets came at him.

Sivan dodged them with ease and blocked the rest with earth elements as he asked.

"Is it really the only thing you are left with?"

With these bullets and the crippled body, you really thought you could take me down? Just how much do you underestimate me?"

As he spoke, metal elemental energy started spreading across his body as spikes appeared from various parts.

Elbows, knees, and particularly the back.

The metal spikes just protruded out until they are very thin before they separated themselves from his body and hovered around him.

The spikes kept on multiplying with every second as Sivan looked at Sam casually.

At the same time, all of the weapons in the few dozen-meter radii started moving. The weapons and armor that were with the dead bodies on the battlefield.

They all moved towards Sivan. The armors tore themselves apart as they turned into a bunch of sharp shards of metal as they revolved around.

Sam looked at the whole thing in confusion. His energy vision is clearly showing that the metal energy is attracting them, but it is also linking them all together within an invisible force.

It didn't take a lot of thought to figure out that it is magnetic force. But he couldn't understand why Sivan is collecting all of these all of a sudden when he was going with the flow of bloodline arts.

Dia's bloodline arts are of two kinds. One is the earth element one, which Sivan just used the other one is metal element one which is actually a very complicated one and is mostly related to the flesh-eating habit of the Mare.

It actually focuses on the blood of the target. The iron within the blood is targeted by the intense and delicate magnetic force. The limbs, organs, and other parts within the body are forcefully torn apart and minced into a paste.

That is how that skill actually works. So, he is very confused about what Sivan is doing.

But Sam took this chance of Sivan preparing to make his own preparations. He created three more orbs that flew away from him while he reinforced the barrier like crazy.

Since he got a few more minutes, he decided to prepare for Dia's bloodline attack.

He created eight small spheres of energy that are layered upon his already existing barrier and created a small formation that created continuous ripples. This is to remove the magnetic force effect that might be directed toward him.

Even if it can't negate, Sam is sure that it can reduce it by a large amount.

While he is thinking like that, Sivan finally made his move.

All of these sharp metallic objects started roaming around his sphere and circled Sam.

They kept on hovering while moving around slightly.

Sam became cautious, but he still kept on creating more and more orbs. And as he made them continuously, the time consumption is reducing with every attempt. This made it much easier for him to do this while still observing Sivan's movements.

Sivan's body once again started glowing metal elemental energy and Sam finally felt the effect on his barriers.

He could feel that the blood inside his body is being riled up because of the magnetic force. Even though some of it is being toned down from the formation, it is still not working as he wanted it to be.

He gritted his teeth and tried his best to use his energy to resist that. He even went as far as closing his eyes to have better concentration.

Sivan smirked at this and all of a sudden made a move with the sharp objects. They all started gathering metal elemental energy at their tip as they shot towards the sphere.

Sam looked at those and expected them to come at him like that. So, he tapped the staff on the ground and the outermost layer of the barrier dispersed into energy ripples to stop their advance.

But to his surprise, the pointy ends of the sharp metal objects penetrated through the ripples and advanced forward.

Sam immediately made the ripples explode after watching this, but he was too late. Some weapons already made their way to the barriers.

When they stabbed themselves into the barrier, Sam felt the energy moving away from that point. The formation around the barrier started fluctuating. Sam looked at Sivan hatefully as he instantly dispersed the whole barrier and jumped away with the help of the explosive recoil.

While he was still in the air, the metal spikes started coming at him which Sam blocked with energy bullets.

He landed on the ground clumsily as he panted heavily.

Buy now there are ten orbs in the air and Sam is still making them.

Sivan who is watching and observing them, finally couldn't ignore them anymore.

He looked at them and thought hard about what could Sam be thinking, but he couldn't imagine anything.

Even though he got all of the memories from Sam, there is one thing he couldn't figure out. The thought process.

He could never understand what Sam is thinking in any situation. Because for every situation, it is almost like Sam's thought process is tailor-made to resolve that one situation.

Nothing more, nothing less.

Just that one particular situation.

And it is completely changed for a different situation.

With all of those memories and incidents, Sivan only understood one thing.

Sam's thought process for solving anything is to only use the variables that he has at hand at that moment. It doesn't depend on any fixed objects or techniques or even people.

He only deals with variable factors at that time and calculates things.

This made Sivan look at other variables that might affect their fight. But he couldn't think of anything.

Chapter 1566 Orbs

While Sivan is thinking about what Sam could be doing next, Sam is also thinking about what Sivan would be throwing next.

He felt a slight stabbing pain in his leg and he is sure why it is coming. One of the metal shards was not blocked completely and it stabbed his leg.

He could feel the warm blood slowly dripping down.

Sam is already having trouble with the movement because of the massive handicap he had. Now even the one leg he had is damaged slightly. The situation is only getting worse.

Even while thinking that, Sam didn't stop making the orbs.

He just took advantage of the time that he got because of Sivan's slight confusion.

But it didn't last long. As he was creating one orb after another, Sivan came back to his senses, and instead of attacking Sam, he finally focused on the energy orbs.

He withdrew the elemental fusion and shot a fireball at the nearest orb. But Sam just made the energy ball move away from that spot. He didn't let it get hit.

Apart from that, he even shot a few energy bullets at Sivan which made his focus shift back to Sam, albeit for a moment.

Sivan knew that Sam is not creating these orbs for no reason. There is definitely something important going on with them. But he just couldn't understand what it is.

After a few tries of different attacks, his futile attempts to mess with the energy orbs finally stopped. He looked at Sam who is slightly exhausted and said hatefully.

"Do what you want with them. You need to be alive and capable of using them for whatever you are planning to do. I will kill you before that and will see if your dead body can use them."

He lunged forward and threw a punch with void style at Sam.

Sam activated an energy barrier and blocked the punch. He took the recoil of the explosion and jumped backward trying not to get the full brunt of that explosion.

But Sivan didn't stop, in fact, he sped up and reached the spot where Sivan was about to land and threw a roundhouse kick to Sam's face.

Sam barely blocked with the staff covered with an energy shield, but still took the major part of the force as he crashed into the ground on the side.

Sam never felt so weak in his life.

He suddenly felt like he should have taken the clan's leader's offer to get the new mechanical limbs, even if they are going to be mediocre.

It could be said that he became too cocky and thought that Sivan wouldn't be this good with his body. But now there is no time for regrets. All he can do is see through this with whatever he has at hand.

He shot energy bullets at Sivan who is coming at him from different directions. They are the best means to stop Sivan.

Sam noticed that he is trying to imitate his movements from the memory. Which made it easier for him. As time passed, he managed to grasp the movements and anticipated them which made it easier for him to block them or even stop them with energy bullets.

The battle went on like that and Sam is stuck in the defensive. Of course, he is still making energy orbs and Sivan is occasionally using the bloodline arts.

The whole area turned into a chaotic mess because of their battle and Sam kept on hopping around and surrounding himself with barriers throughout.

After a few minutes, he finally stopped.

He panted heavily as he wiped the sweat off of his forehead.

He has several injuries all over his body. Burns, slashes, stabs, there are all kinds of injuries. But he started smiling instead of feeling the pain.

He looked at Sivan who is walking toward him with a smirk on his face.

"What are you smiling at, you bastard? Did you finally come to terms with your stupid fate?"

Sivan asked arrogantly. He finally felt like he really lived after a long time. All this while even with the new body, new memories, new authority, and the new riches he obtained, he didn't feel alive, because they belonged to someone else.

There was still a chance that someone else would just take them away.

He was insecure and felt inadequate to hold them. But in the last few months, he managed to master so much of this body. He should really thank his lucky stars for that.

"I never come into terms with my fate. I always fight it."

"Fate is decided by the heavens and from your memories, they never favored you much. What is the point of fighting it again and again? It is your fate to end up like this. Defeated, lost, exhausted, and dead."

Sivan said as he started light elemental fusion. His body turned into a golden light mass. He decided to activate the second bloodline art of the Golden sun crow.

"Since you are going to die now, let me just use the golden sun crow's bloodline that you have used so much in this life.

Don't worry though. I will take your place and take great care of your beasts and I will also take your place in the game that was created by the gods and achieve the results that you wanted and much more.

Once again, thank you for leaving everything to me."

As he spoke, his body emitted massive light rays to the surroundings destroying everything in their path. But as soon as they spread out, he forcefully compressed them all to the front and aimed them at Sam.

At this moment, Sam used the energy barrier once again and this time he almost used up all of his energy and used an energy bullet and explosion and jump from the line of fire.

But the light beam just kept on following him as he moved from one spot to another clumsily.

After dodging it so much, Sam finally felt his leg give in, so he turned to the side and used the staff to shoot out a large energy beam to directly intercept the attack.

BOOM

The energy beam exploded and most of the effectiveness of the light beam is gone as it came at Sam crazily.

Sam took the light beam that hit him squarely on the chest and crashed to the ground while spitting out blood.

His body is completely corroded with the light elemental energy and he felt like he is burning up. It is almost like he is being cooked alive.

The dust settled and Sivan looked at Sam with walking toward him.

"Why are you so persistent Sam, give in."

Sivan said as he aimed another light beam at Sam ready to shoot.

"Don't."

Sam said out loud.

Sivan frowned and stopped for a moment.

"What? You have something to say now?"

"No to you, you asshole. I am talking to someone else."

Sam said as he showed his communication token. Sivan frowned and looked around. He saw that Giyon is currently standing on the wall and is ready to make a move on him.

He frowned and before he could react, all the orbs that Sam controlled until now suddenly came and surrounded him.

Sivan looked at the orbs and then at Sam.

"Do you really think you can do something with them in your current state?"

"You can find that out yourself."

"Too bad, you don't have the time."

Sivan shot the light beam, but the orbs that are hovering over him suddenly created a barrier around Sivan trapping the light beam inside. It was deflected and sent back directly at Sivan who caught it with his hand by instinct.

He was stunned by what he saw.

The barrier felt completely unfamiliar and yet eerily dangerous to him. Sam sat up with the help of his staff and leaned against the rock.

He spat out the blood that seeped into his mouth and he looked at Sivan.

"It is my turn, you wannabe prick."

As he said those words orbs started moving once again, but the barrier didn't disappear, instead it started twisting itself and trying to trap Sivan like a blanket coiling around him all over.

Sivan started swinging his arms around and tried to destroy the energy coils that are coming at him.

But his punches felt like they are hitting clouds. He couldn't even feel any impact. He shifted to ripple and void style immediately to see if he could do any damage.

The energy coil was broken with the punch, but to his surprise, it reformed again.

Sivan felt confused and afraid.

As he tried to get out of this, one of the fabrics of the coiled energy brushed past his palm.

"HISSSSS."

Sivan hissed in pain with gritted teeth. He could see the blood dripping from the palm. The flesh was cleanly removed from the spot and it is so clean that it looked like someone carved it with a very sharp knife.

Chapter 1567 Escape

Sivan instantly activated the space element. He wanted to use the spatial blink to escape from the spot.

But as soon as he activated the element, he suddenly felt that something is wrong. The energy orbs disconnected the coils and went back to keeping a barrier around him.

And the very next moment right when the blink was about to be activated, energy needles came out of the orbs and stabbed Sivan in various spots.

The spatial energy stopped in the middle. His blinking was halted and he was stuck in that place. Sivan was shocked instantly. He looked at Sam in horror and used his observation ability on himself.

The needles are puncturing him at the meridian points that leaked the spatial energy out of his body making it impossible for him to use the blink.

The needles went back and the orbs once again created those coils of energy that started harassing Sivan again.

Sivan desperately started throwing flame attacks, lightning attacks, and metal attacks, he even tried to cut the coils off with the sword and saber, but it didn't work out.

The coils acted like they are made of some extremely elastic fabric, it is almost impossible for him to tear it in an instant, and even if he managed to break it somehow, it is just regenerating.

The coils started sanding off of his skin at every spot possible. If not for the feather coat being there, his whole body would have been flayed by now.

Sivan thought of something and immediately activated fire elemental fusion. His body turned into a mass of golden flames and even the feather coat reacted well with that as the black feathers turned into golden color.

As the coils went past his exposed parts now, it didn't cause as much pain, but it is still affecting his fusion body.

He wanted to manipulate the body into a small ball of flames and escape through the gaps. But as soon as the transformation started, the orbs once again created a barrier and a bunch of needles are shot out of them.

All the needles once again stabbed him at various points over his body. The needles are thin enough to ignore the feather coat and go in through the gaps. And Sam is quick enough to not let the coat's spirit reduce the gaps forcefully and managed to penetrate into his body.

The needles started creating energy ripples consistently. This made Sivan feel a different kind of pain he never experienced. And the whole experience is like a flame being extinguished. Before he could even try to make sense of what is happening, he felt his fire elemental fusion disappearing completely.

He is back to normal and the pain only continued to become harsher and more severe.

Sam looked at Sivan who is struggling and sighed.

This time this is a sigh of relief.

This is over. He won.

Sivan looked at Sam who is clearly not cautious anymore and became angrier. He wanted to scream, but he couldn't. Because a needle is focused on the throat and it is sending the energy ripples which makes it impossible for him to let out a single sound.

Sam looked at Sivan with a smile. It is a smile or intrigue.

He wants to see Sivan's genuine reaction regarding all of this. He wanted to see if he will despair or feel angry or if it will self-disappointment.

But the first reaction he got is actually confusion. It almost feels like Sivan is unable to comprehend the fact that he lost.

And Sam could actually understand his confusion. It is impossible for someone who has had the upper hand since the start of the battle to end up in a situation like this as soon as Sam took the initiative.

It is almost like he has been played since the start.

But that wouldn't exactly be accurate.

Sam stood up with the help of the staff and spoke.

"You really did great Sivan. You acted better than I could have ever imagined. All the information I got from your soul only made me see you as a scheming person whose competence lies in manipulating and using others.

But today, I am really convinced. You are a worthy foe. You managed to find a way to create things that I never thought you could, you managed to master the techniques that I never thought you would even understand.

And you even managed to utilize back-to-back bloodline arts. That is very impressive.

You even tried to think things from my shoes while dealing with me, that is much more impressive.

But there is one thing you didn't account for. I know that body better than you. I know its strengths and I know its weaknesses.

You might think that it is invincible among my peers and it is true, but only when I am the one utilizing it.

And since I know how to utilize it, I just need to think about how to stop it. And right now I just did it.

No matter what kind of damage you make to that body, I can absolutely recover it after I take it back from you. So, do your worst and try to struggle as much as possible. But do remember that this is your defeat."

Sam's words felt like swords slicing him to his bone. Sivan felt embarrassment, anger, despair, and rage all mixed together.

He wanted to escape, but he cannot bring himself to move around at all.

He felt like a trapped animal.

At this moment, he heard something from his communication token.

"Sivan, you need to withdraw the troops. We are about to make our move."

Sivan heard this and wanted to reply, but the sound didn't come out of his throat. His words are stuck.

Sam walked forward and the needles from the orbs started penetrating the flesh more and more. Sivan started bleeding profusely and he felt like he is about to lose consciousness.

But at this moment, Sam sensed an immense danger which made him escape instantly.

BOOM

A massive explosive flame landed somewhere near them and all that hit the two of them is the aftershock, but even that appeared tyrannical and destructive. Sam felt like his life was being sucked out of him and crashed into a rock. He even made a massive shield in front of him with what was left of his power, but he couldn't help but feel like he was being crushed.

Sivan was also broken out of the barrier made of orbs and crashed into the ground. He felt his bones being crushed and the blood still draining out of his body.

He is barely conscious. But he didn't dare let this chance go. He instantly took out a transference token and activated it.

While he was transferring, he turned to the soldiers and yelled with all of the energy he was left with.

"ALL OF YOU RETREAT TO THE CAMP. RIGHT NOW."

He disappeared from the spot and all the team leaders the soldiers started leading their troops back to the camp.

None of them dared to slack off and they even acted instantly to the point of leaving some enemies that are on verge of death without killing them.

Sam came back to his senses and looked into the horizon from where the attack came.

A grand elder from the Mari clan is the one that attacked him.

It is an old man hovering in the air looking at Sam coldly. But at this moment, a fist came from behind him and went through his heart. He is dead in an instant.

Gail threw the old man's body and looked at the Sonic cat. The cat nodded and went after the other people within the grand elder group as they are escaping.

Gail made his way to Sam and carried him towards the wall.

Sam took out his communication token while he is still on Gail's shoulder to contact senior elder Ma.

"Use the final attack sequences in the exact order. The enemies are retreating right now."

"Alright."

"After that, use the contingency plan 8."

"Really? Plan 8?"

"Yes. It is necessary. Sivan is out. If he is the person I know he is, then he is going to use that one weapon out of spite. So, you need to use that plan."

"Then, I will inform everyone. You called the clan's leader."

"Sure."

Sam cut the line and contacted the clan's leader.

"Sivan escaped. Activate Contingency Plan 8."

"Alright. Activating it immediately."

Unlike Ma, the clan leader didn't ask any more questions.

He just immediately passed orders and before Sam even reached the wall, every single one of the soldiers already got a notification from their superiors. They all started running into the city and they all moved to different corners.

Sam was left on the wall for a moment as he looked into the horizon towards the camp.

"I am not going to let you go.

This shall be the final confrontation with all our cards on the table. Let's see who wins this war."

Chapter 1568 Escape

Sivan instantly activated the space element. He wanted to use the spatial blink to escape from the spot.

But as soon as he activated the element, he suddenly felt that something is wrong. The energy orbs disconnected the coils and went back to keeping a barrier around him.

"I am not going to let you go.

This shall be the final confrontation with all our cards on the table. Let's see who wins this war."

Chapter 1569 Attack

The soldiers of the Mari clan along with the Grand elders retreated.

The grand elders guarded the rear as they are worried that the sphere cannons and energy beams will be attacking them. More than that, they are worried that a peak stage cultivator from the Gaja clan will attack them.

After all, one of the grand elders just broke the unspoken rules again.

He attacked Sam to release Sivan.

The only silver lining for that situation is that the Grand elder knew that his attack would be too much and there is a chance that Sivan might also die, and toned it down.

This helped Sam escape with some injuries.

But still an attack is an attack nevertheless.

Even though the grand elders of the Mari clan are extremely reluctant to make such a move, they just couldn't let Sivan die. He is way too valuable as an asset to the clan for them to let him die in the battlefield.

So, they are extremely cautious, as they awaited the consequences of their actions.

But the consequences didn't come in the way that they thought they would. As they are moving forward a rift appeared in the space above the soldiers and a large crystal came out.

It is the rhombohedral poison crystal. One of the cores of the poison tower.

It fell freely towards the soldiers and one of the grand elders tried to attack it and destroy it before that could happen.

But that is his biggest mistake. Even before he could land the blow, just the wind pressure that was created by that attack made the crystal unstable and made it explode.

BOOM

A large green poisonous cloud covered the grand elders who are walking in the air as well as the soldiers below them. Some of the injured soldiers instantly fell to the ground. The poison just seeped into their body and they couldn't even resist it.

It is so potent and powerful.

Even the soldiers who are completely unscathed fell victim. They felt like their lungs were set on fire as they ran forward to be out of that zone.

As for Grand elders, the effect is not as severe as the rest of the soldiers, but it is extremely potent and they also felt the effects of it.

But even if they felt the effects of it, they don't have any choice other than moving forward.

As soon as they covered few more meters, the situation changed again. Another rift opened in the air and this time a dark black crystal with black fumes dropped from it.

Another grand elder decided to take the lead and blocked the crystal with an energy barrier, but to his back luck, the crystal exploded as soon as it met with the barrier and even broke it down completely.

The black smoke spread amongst all the soldiers and the Grand elders as they felt the curses spreading through all of them. They felt like their blood is burning and the bones are being subjected to immense heat.

Their flesh felt like it is being pricked by millions of needles all at the same time.

But that is not the end. The rift didn't close and two special undead creatures dropped from it. The undead creatures directly went for the grand elders while glowing with weird energy.

BOOM* *BOOM

Massive explosions occurred as the grand elders took the full force of it. Two grand elders fell from the sky instantly and as they hit the ground white crystals started spreading from their wounds.

Another grand elder took the lead and led them soldiers to move forward even though more than half of them are suffering severely. But as they moved forward, the ground felt weird. They couldn't put their finger on it.

But soon they managed to point it out.

It is the white crystal shards on the ground. They just stabbed themselves into their feet and started spreading in their legs. Of course, not all of them are that unlucky.

The unluckiest ones are the ones that are already injured and are heavily affected by the poison. Their bodies' natural resistance has decreased by a lot and they are in an extremely weakened state which led the immediate growth of the white crystal.

It didn't even take that much time before it made them unable to move.

The group could only move forward though.

As they moved closer to the camp, the attacks kept on increasing. The rifts opened and either the undead with special explosions or the crystals are popping out making it impossible for them to escape unscathed.

While the Mari clan's troops are suffering more than they did in the entire war combined, Sivan who arrived at the Mari clan is also currently struggling.

At this moment, he has multiple fractures and too many physical injuries that are bleeding profusely. He has way too many injuries and it is even hard for him to breath properly.

He took out some potions and pills as he swallowed them. It hurt his throat to do it, but he forced them down and let them do their work.

He stayed on the ground for over ten minutes, before he could even breath properly. At least the pain is somewhat bearable now.

He took some more medicine and used his light elemental energy as well as the natural regeneration to increase his recovery speed.

He toiled and struggled on the floor for a few minutes, before he could even stand up properly. After finally standing up, he looked around the room.

This is the special tent that Avlyn was talking about. Apart from the hidden pillar under the ground that acted as a beacon for his transference, there are some other pieces of equipment around the tent that are specially prepared for this moment. He was about to activate them.

But at this moment, Avlyn and her team members came in.

"You are back? It seems like you are beaten black and blue. Your soldiers are suffering. Do you have any plan to save them?"

Sivan looked surprised. He walked out and used a telescope to take a look. He felt troubled. There is only one way he could think of and he was going to use it anyway. But the destruction it causes is making hesitate a bit.

"Are you guys going to make your move? You said you are about to make a move right?"

"Of course we are doing it. But our spatial elemental user said that the current attacks might be traps of Gaja clan. Waiting for your forces to retreat is actually helpful."

"Bastards, you are using my soldiers as bait again?"

"We have to do what we have to do. Anyway, if you have no plan, then let them come. We will take our sweet time while dealing with them. Since Gail and Sonic cat are exhausted, we still have a good chance of dealing with them.

Thanks for your help."

With that, the Divine league members left.

Sivan gritted his teeth in anger and with all of the pent up injuries he had, his body couldn't take it and spat out a mouthful of blood.

"You bastards. How dare you use me and my soldiers like this. Divine league, my father told me not to trust you guys and you have proven his words right time and again. There is no way I will let you guys win though.

You came for something from Gaja clan, I will destroy that. I will destroy all of the Gaja clan and wouldn't let you have anything."

After he spoke, he went on to assemble the equipment.

They are six turrets that are aimed at the sky and all of them are pointing towards the Gaja city. They are placed in certain positions creating a hexagon. Sivan started loading them with the crystal cylinders full of spiritual energy poison.

After loading them, he sat down in the middle of the formation and closed his eyes. He prepared the turrets to shoot.

He would have felt better if they can be shot in an instant. But too bad, his strength is not there yet. He is too weak to activate it instantly in his current state.

His troops are nearing the camp while he is preparing for the attack.

But at the same time, Senior Elder Ma is also doing something else. He took out one last space jade and smiled.

"To think that you will put the most dangerous weapon in a mere space jade. You have no fear whatsoever."

He smiled as he directed the space jade to the formation nearby. He carefully operated the space jade remotely as it threw out small missiles out of it one by one that hovered over the formation.

As he was doing it, he looked at his subordinates.

"Is the evacuation done?"

"It is almost done sir. Ninety percent of soldiers are done. All the clan members are gone. The kids are moved to the stray dimension."

"That is good. You guys also start your process. I need the timing to be perfect. Not a single person should be hurt in this exchange. Do you understand?"

"Yes, Sir."

Chapter 1570 Final Move

Ma closed his eyes as one by one his subordinates all left the room. He took a deep breath before sending the missiles into the formation that is connected to another spatial rift.

By now the soldiers and the grand elders almost reached the camp and this is the perfect timing to attack.

At the same moment, Sivan also made a move and the six turrets launched six attacks at the same time.

As soon as they came out, they are connected with an energy thread and formed a single hexagon in the air as they moved towards the city in the parabolic path.

Sam who is standing on the wall saw this and immediately made a call.

"We have ten seconds. Everyone one leave.

Elder Ma, make the final move."

After that he took a transference token and crushed it. Not just him, many of the core fighters did the same as him and used the transference tokens to disappear from the wall and the city.

By the time the hexagon reached the city, everyone is gone. Senior Elder Ma who is sitting in the formation is the last one to leave the city.

He crushed the token and disappeared from the spot. He reappeared again at a completely different place other than the rest of the citizens.

He appeared in a mountain range far away from the city. After he reached that spot, he took out a telescope and looked at the city.

At this exact moment, in the camp of Mari clan, Avlyn who is about to lead their teammates was surprised by the news her subordinate gave her.

"Boss, it seems like a massive usage of spatial gates has occurred. They are completely dormant until now. It is almost like they are created just now instantly. People might be escaping from the Gaja clan."

"Escaping? Really? We need to make a move instantly then. We cannot let them all disappear just like that."

"Yes, but the attack..."

He said as he pointed at the hexagon that reached the top of the city.

As they spectated, the hexagon suddenly expanded and a large web of energy threads is created in the middle of it. The energy became extremely unstable as all of the spiritual energy poison spread across the city and when the web is enough to cover the whole estate and the energy residue spread enough to cover almost all of the city within just a few minutes, it exploded.

BOOOM

The peak stage cultivators in the Mari clan could feel the aftershock of the explosion. The earth quaked and they could even sense the massive fluctuation of energy that was a result of this explosion from this far away.

"How is that possible?"

Avlyn was shocked by this, but at this moment, her subordinate who reported the spatial gate usage warned her again.

"Boss, a rift is opening again. And this one is different. The space is not stable. I think it is better if we move out now."

Avlyn nodded and commanded her subordinates to leave the camp, but right when they were about to leave, something else happened.

The spatial rifts appeared at three more spots within the camp grounds and all of them are formed a small formation but this one is not solely based on energy, rather it is based on the spatial turbulence that expanded all four of them.

And from those four holes came down over a dozen missiles that Senior Elder Ma sent into the tunnel.

As if that is not enough, some kind of explosive force came out of those spatial holes and it appeared to be very similar to the explosion that occurred over the city.

The peak stage cultivators immediately recognized that and there is some other person who recognized it too, in fact he recognized it even better and it is much more accurate.

"Fucking hell."

Sivan cursed as he looked into the sky above his camp. His subordinates barely managed to retreat to the camp and something like this appeared over his head. He is sure that this is going to be difficult.

He wanted to contact the divine league members, but Avlyn rejected the connection. He walked out of the tent only to see the Divine league members leaving the camp grounds.

Sivan thought for a moment and after some conflicting thoughts he finally gritted his teeth and made a harsh decision. He took out a different transference token and used it. As it worked and his body was covered with spatial energy, he looked at the soldiers who halted in their tracks while still being exhausted.

The missiles were all connected while they glowed furiously and they all zoomed down into the camp.

BOOM

The explosion this time is different from the one on the city, because this one made the spiritual energy poison ripple to the surroundings and every ripple once again exploded separately and all of this happened in a weird formation in a controlled manner.

This is derived from Sam's past controlled explosion experiments.

Even the peak stage cultivators who escaped the camp with their extreme speed were not exempt from the feeling of helplessness that came from the effects of the explosion.

They felt like they are weak and have no strength to resist. But they did with all of their means and even then they were blown away.

As for the soldiers that are already severely injured and are suffering from the attacks throughout their path, they cannot even think of dodging, blocking or even surviving the attack.

Even the grand elders are caught in the explosion and they were swept under the waves and waves of explosions.

The two explosions are done. The dust settled on both sides. Exactly at the mid point between the both explosions, there are a bunch of people that are coughing profusely.

Avlyn stood up with a lot of difficulty as she looked at both sites in horror. The camp is completely gone and everything within the surroundings turned into complete waste. She could feel the spiritual energy poison residue completely.

There is not a single thing in that place that looked normal. All the vegetation is gone. Rocks are gone, people are gone and there are not even skeletons left behind.

Meanwhile, on the city's side, the situation is similar. But there are at least signs of city structure and construction.

The structures are extremely corroded, and they are collapsing just by a passing wind.

She looked at her subordinates. They are barely alive and some of them are even dead.

"Boss... Boss. Are you alright?"

Cray who is on the side asked her in a weak voice. From the looks of it, he looked least damaged of them all.

"Are you alright Cray?"

"Divine energy. It saved me from this. But I used up almost all of it. I can barely survive if I go back to that place. This explosion definitely hindered my progress for months if not a couple of years."

"You are alive, that is enough for now. Isn't it? But it seems like it ended in a massive mutual destruction. Do you think anyone could have escaped?"

Avlyn asked.

But as soon as she asked that question, she felt something coming from afar. At first it was not clear with all of that in her vision, but soon she managed to see it clearly. It is Gamin and Yuvana coming as they ran through the wind.

They are dashing towards them at an incredible speed.

Not just them, when they looked to the side, they saw Gail and Sonic cat along with the clan's leader coming at them following right behind Gamin and Yuvana.

They are shocked.

They didn't expect that all of the elite to not just survive, they just seemed to escaped from the explosion completely.

"So, all of this effort for nothing? All this explosion did is kill our targets and the other weaklings of the Gaja clan?"

No, it can't be."

She turned to the subordinate who informed her of the spatial fluctuations to ask him something, but he is completely unconscious.

"Boss, we need to escape."

"Escape to where? All our transference tokens are linked to Divine league. Do you think God father will let us live if we go back like this? We lost too much and too many people. We are going to be in big trouble. I might as well die right here."

"I have a place to escape. Come with me."

"You leave now Cray. I shouldn't have dragged you guys in to this in the first place. Particularly, you. You are reluctant to come here since the start. I am really sorry. Now please leave. I will hold them back."

"But Boss..."

"I told you to leave. Think of it as my dying wish. It is my fate to die here. Too bad, I really wanted to see our growth in the Divine realms. I thought I would have gotten there with the help of these kids.

What a pity. At least stay alive and live my dreams too."

With that, even before Cray could try to convince her, Avlyn jumped away to face the enemies who she has no chance of defeating.
