

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 461: Subduing

Arc moved to the imperial capital of the Adrian empire to control the situation. He has to handle it and must gain the recognition of the people.

The first thing he did after entering the imperial capital is to send back the Flatfish puppet troops and one-third of the Mercenary troops back to the Western continent.

They will be having new mission soon.

As for the invasion of the next empire, he would deal with at the start of the next year. It has been nine months in the first year and his plan has finally kicked into full motion. He should take a cooldown period.

After sending the troops back, Arc went on to do some more things Sam asked. The first one is to send the death row inmates to the western continent, they will be forcefully fed the pills of servitude and added to troops.

Sam didn't want to do this at first, but he decided he would force them mentally not physically. Since they are going to die anyway, they might as well be of some use and get a new lease on their lives.

But the exception being, the sexual assaulters, rapists, child traffickers, and such. More than three thousand death row inmates are taken out from the prison. This is something they didn't expect. But Arc is not extremely surprised. He knew that Adrian has a weird hobby of performing executions on his birthday. So, the local authorities also followed the same.

They were also sent in the warships, after all, wasting too much of the spirit stones is not a good thing. Anyway, there is still a lot of time.

Apart from that, even the prisoners of the dungeons in Adrian are also given some chance. The prisoners are accounted for more than ten thousand. And almost all of them accepted. Who cares about what they have to do? It would still be better than staying in the prison.

These thirteen thousand people are almost enough to form three regiments. This is why Sam decided to accumulate the empires first. Not only would he have a chance to get the resources of these empires, the scarcer of the resources, but the trusted manpower also is not adequate.

No matter, how many times he posted recruitment notices, he wouldn't be able to recruit so many people from normal citizens.

But he is not going to use all of them as troops. Most of them would be appointed in odd jobs. After all, new territory means, more market, more demand, more work which would need more workers.

Out of these guys, half of them would definitely be factory workers and those will be of the lower cultivation levels with no potential.

If they do have potential, he would send them to mercenary groups and train there before throwing them in school.

Anyway, after deciding on these two things, there are some other things he had to do and that is to send the orphans and also some other poor people who are interested in going to the school.

There is no way Sam would lose such an opportunity.

By the time, he could go to the upper realms, he might leave these major powers intact without completely eradicating them, but he is definitely going to make some major changes to the whole planet.

The first thing is his organization which would span all over the world, would be the only organization without a specific region. Just like the four associations. Then his organization would be the strongest of all.

The last thing is that his organization is the most populated of all.

He has to recruit new people with talents.

The orphans and the people will easily come to the school, but the professionals are different. He has to establish the park and reduce the influence of the associations before recruiting them just like the Western continent.

For that, he just left the duty to Arc. Because he is busy. Arc thought of a crude but effective way to spread this.

He decided to take screens from Sam and display the school, the parks, the professional working environment, the benefits, the knowledge, and the opportunities. All of them would be played continuously for the next three months in every city.

He decided to not even leave a small city. Not even a city like Starwood city would be spared. He doesn't know if he would be able to reach the corners of the nation, but he has to get this thing going.

While the situation is completely stable but active in Adrian, the situation on the Usaine sect's side is extremely interesting.

The major powerheads seemed to have gone crazy. They are pushing the Usaine sect head with full force.

Usaine sect head is actually feeling like dying. He doesn't know why these things happened, but he is feeling extremely frustrated.

Even after the war ended in Adrian, this guy doesn't have any peace at all.

Arkiv at this time has holed up inside the sect and didn't dare to go out. He knew that when he goes out, he would definitely die. The disciples of the other major powers are like hungry dogs, he even got the news that there are bounties on the heads of the core disciples of the Usaine sect.

He remembered Sam's words that day. The Usaine sect seemed to be in big trouble and no one seemed to be going to cut any slack for the sect.

He wanted to see how long it will take for the sect head to control this. After all, the sect has more than a thousand years of heritage, it is not easy for it crumbles for some stupid reason. He was wondering if Sam is behind this chaos and if yes, why?

And that answer is to achieve one of Sam's purposes and it is happening right at this moment.

Sam wanted to divert the sect's attention towards the major powers and the Arsin should be the last thing they should worry about. Even if they did worry about that, they have to do so only about the parks, the rest of the matters should be completely ignored and their goal was achieved.

At this moment, no one noticed that half of the empire's officials are missing. That is mostly because, from the past month they are not in their duties, they went to have that wine in the imperial capital and didn't return.

But they are not having wine at this moment, Because, their hands are not in a movable condition as they are locked by some metallic clamps locking them to their chairs.

Their faces looked pale and their eyes are completely surrounded by dark circles and looked lifeless.

Their bodies are not looking like a cultivator body, they are like some old men, who are half dead.

Sirona and Philip are looking at them as all of them sat in the darkroom and every official is asking for the wine.

This is the effect of one of the nasty pills Old One made.

This is like some cocaine or heroin. They shouldn't touch it, because once they took it in, they wouldn't get enough of it.

Sam made sure that his wine is strong enough to eliminate any signs of that pill's properties when mixed with it.

Simply put, he turned them all into junkies. Now, they couldn't control their spiritual energy at all, they are almost like some normal citizens with the only difference being their bodies leaking the spiritual energy continuously.

Sirona looked at them coldly and gestured to Philip. He walked towards them and started asking some questions.

This is what their plan is, they have to interrogate for some days, to get as much information as they can get. The government of the Arsin is completely infested by these Usaine sect members, they will directly report to the Usaine sect.

They would definitely have some serious secrets in their minds. But more importantly, Sam also wanted to know what their positions are within the sect and what places they can access to.

He would decide to keep the people who have more access and their privileges which are suitable for him. As for the rest, they wouldn't die, but they would wallow in this addiction and would act as reserves for him.

After getting all the information they needed and recording them into the recording crystals, Philip went back to Sam's city to hand this over to Sam.

While Sirona will keep them in this state until Philip returned with the results.

The next day Philip came back and gave the list to Sirona.

She looked at it and started taking out pills from the ring Sam gave her.

She took three types of pills from her storage. One of them is the Pill of servitude.

The other one is the pill that would cure the addiction permanently and the last one is the one that would cure the addiction temporarily. The first type of pill is common for everyone and the second type and third type distinguish the people from the needed ones and the reserves.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 462: War between top dogs

After the pills are fed, the officials slowly became sober and their senses came back to them. Then only they understood what happened to their bodies. They started having cold sweats. This is not something they experienced before and they sure as hell don't want to experience this again.

Then they remembered to owners of the wine tavern and felt a faint shudder in their hearts. This time, the Usaine sect is screwed. That is the only thought in their mind.

They understood that from now on their life is sealed. There is nothing they can do about it but go with the flow.

Slowly, the officials started coming back to the duties and they didn't complain about the wine anymore. In fact, they decided to quit drinking.

The wine tavern still went on running just like that. And everybody still talked about it just like before.

By the end of the ninth month, the officials almost caught up with their duties and the empire seemed to have to come to a normal state.

But everyone in the Usaine sect is completely frustrated. They are not leaving from the sect and this made them frustrated. Half of them were already outside before and came to the sect running for their lives. They almost gave a kiss to death god many times on their way.

They don't know the exact reason for their predicament, but they do know that it has something to do with the Parks and they are cursing the guy who caused it.

As the situation is already worse as it is, there is something that made the Usaine sect vigilant and that is the parks blasted one after the other

All the parks that are activated are around the Imperial capital and all those activated parks are now in complete ruins. Not even a single structure was saved and everything either broke or turned into powder.

Even the other major powers felt that something definitely wrong with this. Usaine sect head and the three associations lost a significant amount of resources, but at least Usaine sect got some breathing space because of this incident.

Usaine sect head took the chance and held a meeting with the rest of them except for the three associations.

"I don't why you are so sure that I have the method. But as you have seen all the parks that are activated are exploded by now.

You guys, really think that I would explode the parks than sharing the method with you? Particularly, when all of you are breathing down my necks, do you think I would just let the sect go to this stage, just for the parks? Don't you think that is inconceivable?"

The Usaine sect head didn't stop there and started overwhelming the six major powers with all the questions and finally, he managed to convince them that it is not his greed and the parks are indeed a conspiracy.

"I will let bygones be bygones. From now on, we have no enmity between us."

He finally made this statement with a lot of reluctance in his heart.

I mean, who would take this lying down?

They just ganged up on him without giving him a chance and even nonsensically believing in their own speculation.

But he has to let go because he doesn't have the strength to battle all six of them.

All the major power heads are still a bit suspicious. Looking at this, the Usaine sect head became extremely angry and said.

"I would take the Judgement test." He said this with gritted teeth. The other heads are stunned, they didn't expect that he would take this decision. The test which already happened once and the formation is still intact in their meeting place, so it is not too bothersome to take the test.

The thing is, they are contemplating if they should let him take the test or not. Because, they knew that if he really took the test, then there is no turning back.

He would definitely take revenge in one way or another.

"No need." Old thunder said at this moment. He could see that Usaine sect head is truly pissed at this moment.

The rest of them also started rejecting him. the sect head stood up and said before leaving.

"I am waging a war on the Three associations; I hope you wouldn't interfere. Then, we will really have all of the bygones be bygones"

Nobody said anything. It is understandable that the Usaine sect head is pissed off at the current situation.

The three associations completely pushed the Usaine sect into the firing range of the major powers and they took the back seat when the major powers are dealing with the disciples and the elders who are outside the sect.

There is no way the Usaine sect head will let go.

Anyway, they do believe that if they did interfere, a world war would be triggered. Because, even though they are on the same page in the current situation, once the war began, they would remember they are pathetic humans even with that high cultivation, their greed and lust towards their own goals will act up and the results would be disastrous.

Anyway, they wouldn't be at a complete loss, even one of them is completely eradicated, the remaining party would establish the new associations.

There is no need for them to worry at the moment. All they have to do is keep the associations they have for themselves.

Soon, the news about the Usaine sect getting ready to wage a war against the three associations caused some uproar in the core disciples and even the minor powers of the central continent.

When Arman brought this news to Sam, even he was shocked. He clearly thought that the situation will play out exactly like this. The Usaine sect will absolve the blame but will still have some suspicions attached to them.

That is what he thought, but from the looks of it, the Usaine sect head seemed to have gone crazy from all the pressure they received.

But this change didn't make Sam disappointed, in fact, he is too happy that he couldn't take a grin off of his face,

Because this is going to be a recruitment drive for him. He has an excellent plan at this moment.

But before that, he has to deal with another matter at hand.

He is in an underground secret room in the city. There a human silhouette is sitting on a chair with his body all charred black. There is no single inch of his skin that is devoid of damage.

His hair is completely gone and blood is slowly oozing out of the cracks of his skin. He is barely alive. In fact, he is a living example of the term barely alive.

This is none other than Adrian emperor. The person who was supposed to die in Arc's hands.

In fact, in the eyes of the world, he is really dead. He was killed by an arc in a single blow and his body fell into the ocean and buried underwater.

This is all Sam's plan. He wanted to fool the world by making the scene play out like that. He wants this guy. Right now, Sam has everything with him. Quality troops, weapons, resources to groom them, and even young talent. But the only thing he doesn't have are the powerhouses.

He doesn't have anyone besides Arc who is a transcendent level being.

He needs them badly. Because once the direct conflict blows out there should be someone who could offer deterrence to the powerhouses of the major powers.

He doesn't want to use the help of the Raijin tribe at this moment. It should be kept a secret. As he was moving towards the upper realm, he has to be more careful with the beasts under him.

Only at the top of the upper realms, do the people feel normal about the existence of his beasts, even they would be surprised of him having a contract with them.

But in lower realms, there is no way they would let this go. In fact, he would attract more heat than in his current realm. Because the people here wouldn't know anything about the true value of the beasts.

Why is he hesitant about using them in his current realm? That is because the information will spread fast. There is a high chance the rest of the players will recognize his true identity.

And the words will spread faster and the speculations will lead to some serious consequences for him.

At this moment, Sam is trying to avoid that.

He is talking to the charred figure in front of him.

"So, what do you say? I will give you a new chance at your life and even a chance to break through to the Consummate realm. But you will have to work for me."

"How can I believe you?" Adrian Emperor asked in a husky voice.

"Didn't you see Arc? Do you think he became this strong all on his own? If you agree, all you would have to do is change your appearance and stay low for the next two years, after that you will still be a subordinate but will be crowned on Adrian back and rule it in my stead.

You wouldn't have any real interference except for the tax and resources you have to pay. It would be just like how you lived with thunder god temple."

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 463: A Drug Deal

Sam and Adrian's emperor had a long talk throughout the night.

Adrian emperor whose name Sam decided to call Adrian, tried to get healed before accepting the terms completely.

Sam didn't let go though. He is no soft permission. For the whole night, he brushed off the threats, offers, and even coercion.

But still won in the end. The next day, Adrian is back out of that room, but he wore a mask and he wore completely black. He ate a pill of servitude.

Sam took him to the tempest valley.

This guy is a water element user and couldn't get any form of help from the tempest valley in terms of cultivation resources or training.

But he could get some serious combat training and he could also experience an environment with more spiritual energy so that he can train faster. One of the Consummate realm Raijin would be to keep an eye on him and force him to train.

Apart from that, he skimmed through the pill recipes in the divine dimension and took out three of them and some other potion recipes.

He went to the Beast faction in his second persona and met with Sai.

"Do you have a Pill master and Potion master at Transcendent level?" Sam asked.

"We do. Actually, it is a single person who is an expert in both crafts. We recruited him when the Old one is retaliating. He is one of the people who noticed something is wrong and escaped first before Old one caused that massacre over the tower."

When Sam heard this, he suddenly had an idea but didn't speak about it.

"I need some pills and potions made. I need to talk to him."

Sai agreed and both of them went to that person.

Sam was surprised to see the residence of this master of dual arts. The place is completely decorated in two different styles fused together forcefully.

He frowned at this. One's choice of decoration can tell a lot about them.

When they went in, a middle-aged man could be seen doing some calculations. There are a lot of scrolls and papers completely filled with writings and then ink strokes indicating his rejection towards them.

He seemed extremely busy.

"Oh, Sai? What do you want?" Then only he looked at Sam and a puzzled expression appeared on his face.

He has a cleanly shaved face and short hair which was cut sloppily. One could guess its only purpose is to get rid of the long hair. He wore some loose but comfortable robes and doesn't any other accessories other than the spatial ring, which is very rare. All the pill masters liked to flaunt their lavishness and luxury.

At least, that is what he saw until now.

But this guy doesn't have any. He is not old. He is on the younger side of the spectrum even in the middle-aged category.

"He needs some pills and potions. You can agree with him after the discussion. You don't have to be obligated towards the Beast faction while accepting the offer, it is your personal business."

Sai said those words and left the room.

He knew from the start that since Sam asked to directly meet the person, then it must be something confidential.

After that guy left, Sam looked at the Dual craft master in front of him and asked.

"I have some pill recipes and potion recipes which I want you to make. But I am not going to pay you a single thing and you have to make me three hundred of them each for every year until the next ten years. You can keep the recipes and do whatever you want to do with them."

Sam said without beating around the bush. The Master in front of him looked at him with a raised eyebrow.

"Who are you?" He asked without commenting on the ridiculous deal Sam proposed.

"Is it important?"

"I don't do business with the people I don't know."

"Then I am a disciple of the Beast faction." With that, Sam took out the token he got from Sai.

"Seems like it is the identity of the person with that cloak, then what about the person without the cloak."

"You won't be meeting that person, at least not yet."

"Then, why should I conduct business with you?"

"Okay then, goodbye."

Sam turned around and started to walk away. There is no way he would beg someone. He is offering a fair deal. In fact, he felt like he is losing something in this. But this guy just wants to see his real identity.

"Wait. We can still do the business. Let me see the recipes." The Master Pharmacist felt like he should at least check this out. After all, surely the head of the faction wouldn't bring a retard, right?"

Sam came back and showed the abstract recipes of the pill recipes. These are just like the abstracts of theses.

One can get a gist of the information.

The Pharmacist had a big frown as he read through and then his eyes turned to the dazzling stars by the end of it.

"Where did you get these?" He asked in an excited state. But all he received is Sam's cold gaze.

He understood that he wouldn't get any answer. But there are some emotions running in his heart. He remembered the price. Three thousand of each of these is too much of a price to pay. Even for him. The Faction head said that this has nothing to do with the faction.

His hands are itching to make a move and runaway right at this moment. But after some time, he felt that this is not good to jump to a conclusion and wanted to negotiate.

"How about two hundred?"

"Three hundred, no more no less."

"Two hundred and fifty?"

Sam didn't talk at all, he just looked at him calmly.

The Pharmacist gritted his teeth and thought of what to do. He could really earn a lot if he sold this to the faction and the cost price of these things is actually a bit less than some expensive pills and potions that existed in this world.

The most important thing about these things is expertise. That is why Sam didn't try his hand at this with some high-level methane flame.

He could sell one set of these things and the returns would be enough to buy ingredients for more than fifty sets, in fact, he could even raise the price and get eighty sets worth of ingredients.

That is why Sam made such a deal, he knew what he is giving him and in fact, Sam really is on the losing end. But he doesn't have another choice. These things have little use and in two years after he goes to the upper realm, these recipes might not be too common, but only slightly rare.

He forced that person to accept this deal because he has his own things to deal with. He has to raise some powerful high-level forces in the Pre-transcendent stage, the Transcendent stage, and Consummate stage.

The problem, It will hard for these categories to achieve even a minor breakthrough and there are two reasons for that and that is provided that they have required enlightenment.

One, the cultivation techniques. This reason was recently understood by him. The cultivation techniques are extremely underwhelming and low in quality. It makes it hard for them to gather enough spiritual energy to cultivate and raise their level when they are already in higher-levels, which brings us to the second reason which is, the lack of spiritual energy around the world.

The lack of spiritual energy makes even a talented person with the enlightenment and a good cultivation technique to lag in breakthroughs.

The first shortcoming can even be overcome by solving the second problem which is to have an environment with extremely dense and pure spiritual energy.

But it is not possible. That is why they are going to use these pills and potions.

These pills and potions are actually medicine sets.

And there are actually three types of sets in these. They are the Pre-transcendent set, the transcendent set, the consummate set.

Each set has six medicine with pills and potions combine, which have to be taken in a certain order. These medicine sets draw out the hidden potential of the body and make it absorb the spiritual energy more hungrily.

They can use any number of sets provided that they are in the same cultivation realm.

This might be a treasure in this world, but from what Sam read in the library, but in higher realms it is a common drug people use to increase their cultivation speed.

It would only try to ignite the potential of the latent body and wouldn't cause too much harm.

Some true prodigies wouldn't use them as there are still some minor side effects, but for the old men who are past their prime and don't have any form of means to breakthrough, this is a Divine elixir.

Sam figured he might need these things and from the people he has at the moment, three hundred sets of each category will be enough. In fact, they are actually more than required in the initial stages and after two years, they wouldn't need these things, because he is confident in finding a better training place.

But he still asked for three hundred just in case.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 464: Deal with Arkiv

After the business deal, Sam directly went back to the city and got busy again.

Since war is going to happen between the Usaine sect and the three associations, this is going to be a perfect time for his new idea.

But he has to be fast.

He contacted Arman and asked him to do something for him.

And then he started making the remaining preparations.

Meanwhile, the Pharmacist back in the Beast faction has stopped all his works and started going through the recipes. He is like a little kid who is so happy with the amount of candy this Halloween.

After going through all of them, he thought of something and went to meet Sai.

"Faction head, who is that person?"

Sai didn't feel too surprised. He expected this already, so he responded casually.

"It is better that you don't know."

The pharmacist didn't give up at all and persisted.

"Please tell me, Sir. Who is this guy? Is he really reliable? He only seemed to be a Nascent stage cultivator, but the deal he discussed is too large scale. I should have an idea of the other person if I want to continue my deal. Don't you think so?"

"Whatever he said he would give, he would do so and whatever you should give in exchange, he must give it to him. Otherwise, you will be in some big trouble. Maybe at that time, I would have to catch you myself and handover to that guy.

But trust, you would rather prefer suicide.

I can vouch for his integrity and that is all you have to know. All these years, you have been cultivating and perfecting your craft without involving in others too much. It would be better to stay like that for the rest of your life.

Don't get involved in the problems that you are not part of."

The Pharmacist understood that he wouldn't get any form of information today and also felt that this guy has to be too powerful to make the faction head this determined to not reveal any information.

He left the place in disappointment. But it only lasted for a while and he went to work on his newly acquired recipes.

He would need a lot of practice before he could perfectly create a set of these.

Back in Sam's city.

Sam is working on how to proceed with his new plan, but couldn't find a penetrating point. But at this moment he got a message from Arman who just came to the western continent and felt that he could have a possible penetrating point.

Arkiv wants to meet him and he wants to do it as fast as possible.

Sam smirked and went to Arsin to meet with him. But this time, he is in the newly famous wine tavern. But he is not drinking any of the specialties, he is drinking his own wine.

When Arkiv came in and saw that Sam is still wearing that disguise, he felt a little disappointed. He wanted to know who this guy really is to know that Usaine sect will be in trouble.

He sat down and asked Sam.

"How do you know that something is going to happen to Usaine sect?" He asked in a low voice afraid that others will hear them. At that time, Sam took out a formation disc and placed it on the table. A small formation that canceled the noise surrounded just the table.

Sam didn't reply immediately and took a sip from his wine. There is a small opening in the cloth covering his face near the mouth as he drank it.

"Is it really important how I know it or is it important what I know? Didn't I warn you already? The Usaine sect is stupid and entered this mess. They wouldn't come out unscathed."

"What do you mean, stupid and not coming out unscathed?"

"Think a bit more my friend. You will understand soon enough. So, why do you want to meet me?"

"I want to know exactly what is going to happen and who is behind this if possible. Are you the one doing all this? Pulling strings behind the back?" He asked carefully.

Sam almost burst out laughing.

"Are that naïve or are you just pretending to be naïve? Do you think I trust you enough to tell all of these?"

"Then why did you even say those things in the first place?"

"To probe."

"Probe?"

"Yes, I wanted to probe your mentality and see if your relationship with the sect is really as you said."

"Why would you want to do that?"

"You know, just in case. What if you are too deep in the relationship with the sect? I would advise you to take a backstep. After all, you have a lot to do and I don't think the person behind you will accept if something like that happened. I just didn't want you to be on the sinking ship."

"Sinking ship?" Arkiv has a shocked expression. Sam didn't reply and took another sip.

Arkiv felt frustrated and raised his aura as he said.

"What do you mean sinking ship? Tell me Damn it."

Sam raised an eyebrow as he looked at him and had a faint smile on his face as he said.

"Now, young sir. Do you really want to fight me? I think you do know what would happen if we fight. Do you really want to do this?"

Only at this moment Arkiv controlled his aura and calmed down as he closed his eyes and took deep breaths.

He clearly knew what would happen. Not just him some other players also saw this and knew exactly what kind of fighter Sam is and they don't want to fight him at all costs.

He opened his eyes and said.

"Please tell me."

"I don't trust you. What if you rat me out to your sect? What if they come after my life? I am but an unaffiliated cultivator who has his own small organization with a few friends. If something happens to them or me, who is responsible?"

"If I wanted to do it, I would have done it already. At least, tell me what do you want?"

"I do need something. My organization lacks some personnel."

"You want to recruit me?" Arkiv asked with a frown.

"You mistook me. My friend. How can I afford to recruit a genius like you? I need some artisans and other professionals."

Arkiv didn't say anything, he felt extremely exhausted. He doesn't have any form of energy in his body left.

Sam looked at this chuckled. He decided to give this guy some leeway and said.

"I wouldn't play with words anymore. I will be straightforward and will let you in for information. There is something big happening in the background and someone was able to manipulate the six major powers and associations to be in this situation.

Their target is Usaine sect and they are at a war with the three associations. Half of their goal is already achieved.

After they are done with the Usaine sect and by that time, you are still there and involved in the war, there is no way for you to be able to escape without any repercussions.

If you really fight till the end, the enemies will chase you to the ends and will definitely let you live. After all, you have great potential, if you held a grudge and want to take revenge, they couldn't just sit idly, can they?

That is why I asked you to get out of the organization."

Arkiv fell silent for a moment and asked.

"Don't you think the major powers will sooner or later realize this and there would be some big trouble?"

"Of course, that is their goal. To cause trouble."

"Then, even if I came out now. No place is safe for me. Where do you suggest me to move?"

"If you want to come, then you can join my organization."

"Are you trying to fish me from the start?"

"Why would I even need you? What I am after is those professionals. If you can really join my organization or even if you could just cut ties with the Usaine sect, you can stay at my place for some time.

I can tell you that my place is the most secure place on the planet at the moment. You don't even have to think twice about that.

But as an exchange for the information and safety, there is something you have to do."

"What would that be?" Arkiv asked as he thought deeply about how to proceed.

Sam explained what he needs and Arkiv's frown got deeper and deeper as he listened to this.

After that, Arkiv started thinking about whether or not he should accept it. Anyway, he doesn't have any form of special connection to the sect. It was a place where he went to gather resources. Even in that, he worked his ass off to solve missions for the resources he needed. And even then, he has schemed against so many times.

He would let go of the sect when the time comes, that is why he was asking Sam so many times, he wants confirmation and now that he got one, he has trouble deciding on what to do.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 465: Plans

Sam went back to the city after discussing everything with Arkiv.

Later Arkiv directly went to the artisan tower of the Imperial capital and met with the tower head to talk to him for a long time, after that he kept on visiting the remaining three tower heads for the next few days.

After a few days, for some reason, the tower heads all called their employees in the different regions to come to the imperial capital through their special communication which will allow them to communicate through the cities.

They dismissed the low-level employees and the low-ranked artisans with no potential for any form of growth whatsoever and could only perform miscellaneous tasks. Then the rest of the professionals started moving towards the imperial capital.

As for the professionals who are related to the Usaine sect, they are already taken away by the three associations in the beginning and Usaine sect head sent them to take some pressure off of his shoulders. Now it directly bit him in the back.

All these movements are done extremely discreetly because all the other personnel and officers under the direct control of the Usaine sect are all moving towards the imperial capital in a rush too and those who are already a part of the imperial capital actually left to the Usaine sect.

All these people are currently summoned by the Usaine sect in the preparations for the war. This time, the Usaine sect head fully lost it.

The three associations simply pushed things too far and they lost some of their inner sect disciples and the core disciples for no reason.

In this frenzy, he didn't even think about investigating who truly caused the disturbance with parks.

Even the major powers and the three associations didn't care for the cause of the problem. Of course, it is not like they wouldn't bother with it at all, but it will take some time and some beatings in the war and a lot of blood to realize and think about what really happened.

These people who are at the top have this weird mindset, where they will feel like whatever they say goes and they would think that everything about them is too big and too great.

So, they wouldn't tolerate being oppressed and pushed around. That is why they went mad and are starting a war.

Now Arsin almost became defenseless because of his actions and Sam can have as many plans as he can.

The first thing he is going to do is rob the nation of its talent and skill. That is what he used Arkiv for.

He just wanted to gather all the professionals who are part of the associations. The Pharmaceutical association is gone and the towers of the empire are almost working on their empirical hierarchy.

As for the Herb faction re-establishing it, it would be taking a lot of time and money and before the park's issue is fully settled, they wouldn't harbor any thoughts and doing so.

The three associations' time is already done for on this planet.

At least that is what Sam thought, the remaining major powers will surely devour the three associations after this war even if the associations won.

The major powers already recognized how much influence the associations have on the people, and if the parks are successfully established and the influence of the associations grew, then things would be even more disadvantageous for them. If the association heads once again tried to do the same thing as Old One, there will be troubles.

But they didn't want to lose a cash cow like the park.

What Sam did, not only created a small crack in their current partnership but also gave them an opportunity.

There is a great chance that the associations would be destroyed, even if they didn't, then there is an extremely high chance that they would be turned into ruins and rubble. They could devour the remaining slowly.

As for the parks, Sam is still there, right? At least that is what they thought.

But what they don't know is that Sam is the one making these things happen. He is making the Usaine sect and Associations enemies and he is making the war happened.

The ending of the year couldn't be more eventful.

There are still two months left of this year and the war started to happen.

The Usaine sect is the one taking the initiative to make the move and they decided to attack. But they didn't directly attack the people in the empires. After all, they would make good subordinates.

Indeed, because, they make good subordinates and Sam completely agreed with the thoughts of the Sect head, he stole them.

That is where Arkiv helped a lot.

With Arkiv's identity as a core disciple of the sect, there is a lot of sway to his words and all he did was make some lies and truths. The truths are that the association will be completely destroyed and even if it survived the war, it would be devoured.

But the lies are that the sect has decided to execute all these people without a worry after the war is over and Arkiv is feeling bad about losing these people and he is also thinking of leaving the sect, so they should escape.

But where could they escape to? And that is where Sam comes in.

Arkiv will help gather all of them in the imperial capital discreetly and Sam would definitely convince them to join him and recruit them.

This would make his tasks easier. There would be four new Pre-transcendent stage cultivators in his organization. At this moment, there is only one person who broke through and if he counted the people under Arc, then he would have at most four Pre-transcendent stage cultivators under him.

But with these four, it would be good enough for him for the moment.

As for the nascent stage cultivators, they will also increase. But currently, the Nascent stage cultivators within the organization are trying hard to make a breakthrough.

They suddenly had access to a large number of pills and potions that could aid their cultivation. Sam is confident that when he tackled a major power, he would certainly have enough Pre-transcendent stage cultivators.

He went back to the Arsin empire once again and met with the gathered professionals.

And after three hours of discussion, everyone slowly agreed to join, because Sam brought someone to convince them and that is Austin.

He has seen the most growth in the whole organization since the start of school. He is the best person to show these guys what they are being offered and more than three hundred artisans who came from the associations directly and another two hundred artisans who climbed the ranks are slowly transported to Sam's city discreetly.

The numbers of the other three professions are not too small compared to this one and they temporarily stayed within the imperial capital until their turn came to enter the city as he sent them in batches.

Meanwhile, Sirona and Philip are dealing with other things.

These two months, while Sam would be busy with scouting, recruiting, and producing, these two have another job.

The war wouldn't be finished in a day or two. At least, these two months would be their best time. And the best situation is the actual battles didn't start, there are only some clashes between people of lower level on the central continent.

So, these two months, the empires will not much concentration on them. That is why, both of them took it upon themselves to rob as much of Arsin as they can, so Sam only kept his plans for recruiting and left the rest for these two.

Now they are touring the mines of the Arsin I the next two months.

They only have one thought in their minds, to rob every single ore that was mined in the next two months and if any reservoirs that could possibly exist in the empire.

Sam went back and stayed in the city. For now, there is nothing much he could do.

Everything was handed to his subordinates and even Arman is busy with something within the thunder god temple.

He is concentrating on beating the crap out of Arthur every chance he could get and apart from that, he is busy winning over the elders and other important figures that can influence the position of the future heir.

The future heir of the thunder god temple is select differently than the Beast faction.

They have many things to consider and there are many factors that play in the decision. And one of them happened to be birth.

If all the factors playing to be the future heir are accounted for a hundred points, then the birth alone has thirty points.

Arman doesn't have a noble birth in the thunder god temple while Arthur is the son of the thunder god temple head himself.

There is too huge of a disparity with Arthur having thirty points and Arman only having one point.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 466: Fleet

Days passed slowly with the people on the top of the world full of tension and the common people without a single ounce of knowledge of these tensions.

Sam came back to the city and became busy in his own preparations for the future.

While Philip and Sirona are planning their own things. Arkiv is still in the Usaine sect.

Everyone is immersed in their own tasks and Sam has left the task of recruiting the personnel from the remaining empires of the Usaine sect to Arkiv and Austin.

Arkiv finished this task and went back to the sect.

Coincidentally after their activities are over, the first serious and significant battle between the Usaine sect and the three associations took place in the central continent grounds.

To everyone's surprise, although Usaine sect is the one responsible for the first blow after the war started, this attack was launched by the associations and the troops are formed by the combined soldiers from the three associations.

This battle took place in one of the resource providers of the Usaine sect. It is a mine that provides a type of metal that is mostly used for making formation discs and formation flags.

This is a significant resource point in the war considering the production activities will increase as both sides are proficient in the formation making.

In the war and after the war, this place is of high value for both parties.

Even though the associations wanted to launch a completely surprising attack, the sect members reacted fast enough to avoid a massacre.

And the battle became a nasty dog fight for all the cultivators to tear each other apart.

The battle involved more than three thousand cultivators from both sides combined and this led to the continuous chain reactions of revenge attacks and schemes, ambushes, and sneak attacks on camps.

Any region belonging to both the territories in the central continent is in chaos. And the middle of this chaos a troop of artisan association appeared out of nowhere in one of the islands of the Usaine sect and took over silently. There the Usaine sect suffered a severe loss. A loss so bad that not a single soldier survived to even carry the news back.

Even the activities of the people went without any obstructions. Nobody knew who took over the island, but they did quite a number on that.

This place is one of the islands with active volcanoes and the artisans of the Usaine sect used this place for their weapon production as the fire control and recovery, even assistance from the lava of the volcanoes is extremely beneficial for them.

But now it is gone.

By the time, the Usaine learned about this, they surprisingly lost the first resource point too.

To everyone's surprise, the Usaine sect lost the first two big battles in the war. No one, even Sam didn't expect this.

Then only he understood that the associations are stronger than he imagined. He was now thinking about whether he should get involved in the war or not.

While he is contemplating like that, some other news popped out and that is three small islands near the central continent which are the beast farms of the Inscription association were captured by the Usaine sect and the two mines of the artisan association are captured.

Not only that, the next day another news came out and that is when the three associations wanted to capture another mine of the Usaine sect, they fell into a trap and more than half of their troops in their regions are done for.

Apart from that, troops of the formation association and Usaine sect engaged in naval warfare.

All of this is happening because both Usaine sect and the three associations are too close to each other.

Sam really wanted to pull the strings and make it more chaotic; he is extremely tempted to do so. But he has to wait because there would be some form of trouble after this war is over and he is waiting for that. This could happen in the next two months by the end of the year and that is the war being stopped in the middle and the Usaine sect possibly aiming at Sam after realizing their stupidity due to the blood-shed.

If that doesn't happen, he has other plans. He took out some more blueprints and gave them to the production team.

There are new types of ships and one of them is a major project they are going to do. For that eighty percent of the production team is going to work and even the students from various departments could take part in it and most of the work is going to be done outside because it is definitely a multiple-person project, not a single-person project.

Except for the parts that could be manufactured on his production unit, everything is going to be made by others.

This is going to be a full-fledged naval fleet. Except for the aircraft carrier and the submarines, everything will be there and there is some kind of formational combinations in it.

When designing the first ship, Sam got more problems in designing the moving mechanism. It would use the water jets controlled by the water element users to move. And there are backup engines too which are actually steam engines.

The ship would definitely work with the steam engines but it wouldn't be as fast.

Now that the motion of the ship is completed and the backup engine design is also done, Sam doesn't need to worry about the rest.

He could use the same mechanism with slight modifications to the remaining ships.

When the Production members and artisans saw the designs, they are stunned. They didn't expect there would be this much work and this much of complicated work.

But they were even more stunned when Sam said that most outstanding of all the workers will be selected and trained in specific Marine style weapons, vehicles, and other kinds of engineering stuff. Sam promised to give them a thorough course on how to approach these.

And thus the manufacturing began in the eastern sea of the western continent.

From the map of the world, there is actually a possible sea route to the Usaine sect from this place, but it would be almost impossible to bypass this sea with the strong beast unless a Consummate realm expert helps them.

While they are at it, Sam went to the tempest valley to bring back one of his beast uncles.

He brought him in the Divine dimension and went to the western sea.

It is about time he expanded his troops beyond the human army. Although, there are some preparations going on towards the beast army it was only for land. Now he is going to recruit the beast army of the waters and after two weeks, the three cities of the southern star which were being infested by the Porpoises in their sea waters were freed from their troubles.

The porpoises disappeared.

After two months, Sam realized that his trouble is not coming as he expected. The war escalated to new heights as people died one after another on the battlefield.

It seemed that only one party is going to survive and that will be heavily damaged.

He kept up with the news from time to time and focused on the manufacturing and at the same time, the new formation technique he saw on the meteorite island.

One was complete production activity and the other one is the research with complete brain activity.

The ships are being assembled a day in and day out and the ships are being manufactured simultaneously.

This is going to be one of Sam's masterpieces to date.

The fleet is going to be having five amphibious assault ships as the center of the formation and have a total of fifty corvettes, forty frigates, forty destroyers, thirty cruisers with a total of one hundred and sixty ships in a single fleet.

The work is going on with around a thousand artisans in place. Even the new artisans are allowed to work.

Sam decided to increase the speed of the work because his anticipated attack didn't come and he would have to prepare to attack himself after the war was over. And that too, he has to move fast enough before the other major powers make the move.

He has to destroy the Usaine sect with his own hands. Otherwise, it would be a waste of all this effort.

He ignited this war with so much effort. It took so many people and so much planning and execution.

What he doesn't know is all the major power heads are also waiting in the same way.

They knew what is happening and there are some shady things going on which are being led by some major powers and the war is being escalated by them.

What should have been a minor scuffle has been dragged to this point. The major powers completely stopped the employees who took positions in the tower to assist the three associations which led to the deficit of the troops and the damages of the associations to be increased greatly.

Slowly, six months passed since the war started and four months passed in the second year.

In this time, Sam made many things. He sent some mercenaries to the remaining empire under the thunder god temple and it is almost subdued. It is almost as good as done.

At the same time, Sirona and Philip are wreaking havoc in the Usaine sect empires. They robbed a lot. In fact, a little too much than Sam thought. Except for the Eastern continent, which is relatively independent of the Usaine sect, all the other empires are almost stripped out of their resources. Sam achieved a breakthrough to the nascent stage level five.

Finally, his speed is slowing down for others to look at. But he slowed his cultivation down because the Nascent stage is somewhat important. He started refining his body and spirit so that he can have a greater foundation for the next stages.

Even though he is a middle stage Nascent, the combat power is extremely high due to constant suppression. He decided that he would only breakthrough to the next stage after another year.

And the next one would take even more than one year. This way, he might fall behind others but he would have some great results in the future stages.

He realized this later only after he broke through to the fourth level.

Anyway, the war finally came to its final stages and the news is that the Consummates already had some skirmishes and they are going to have their final battle soon.

Sam decided that he should make his move at this moment. Because Arc, his strongest subordinate had already broken through the Consummate stage the last month and he even brought one of his beast uncles with him just in case.

Along with that, he has the guardian of the meteorite island's stone pillar, the hairs of the monkey king, and his Naval fleet.

He is ready to tackle a Major power. But before that, he has to find a suitable base from where he could deploy these troops in a disguise and he had a perfect place in mind.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 467: Minor Power

Sam had a big plan this time and most of it is due to hiding his direct involvement in this matter.

Even though he has many cards and with enough time he can outdo all these major powers, he didn't have much time. He has to do things early and it is already four months in the second year. He has barely one year and another eight months left.

Within this time, he has to gain the remaining four boxes, and luckily, he got some news on the third box. It happened to be in the possession of thunder god temple.

Due to the constant rise in Arman's performance, he has recently gained access to the core treasury to pick up a reward, and there he saw this box.

The box has been in the thunder god temple for a long time and they knew it belongs to the central continent and some ancient secret must be hidden inside.

But they weren't successful in opening it.

Anyway, since he knew one of the locations, he can deal with it afterward. But before that, he has to deal with the Usaine sect.

Currently, the war is in the final stage and the Consummate realm cultivators are clashing directly. Sam didn't expect that war would escalate to this point, according to him, the battle would have been over after two months and the consummate realm cultivators shouldn't even have joined the battle.

Then, the Usaine sect would target him and he would use the newly gained pawns within the sect to damage its foundation and make a move on the sect.

But now that the original plan has changed, he wanted to make a head-on move.

On this day, all the troops required for the naval fleet and the land armies all gathered on the shore of the eastern sea of the western continent. Arc who broke through the Consummate realm is wearing a mask. Adrian is also wearing the same type of mask.

Sam let all the Naval soldiers and commanders of the fleet to enter the ships and take their respective positions. That included the beasts that are also part of the fleet. Sky along with many other wind-type flying beasts occupied the deck of one of the Amphibious assault ships.

Another deck was occupied by Yanwu and other fire type flying beasts.

As for the remaining three decks, there are three new beasts at the nascent stage occupying the lead position and all have an additional element other than the wind element and their beasts are all of their same race.

These are the beasts that are subdued by Yanwu and Sky and they almost subdued the beast tribes all over the western continent.

Below the Amphibious assault ships, where the submarines can be docked in the modern warfare there are Porpoises of Pre-transcendent and nascent stage as for any beasts below that, they are not included.

It is not too good to let them die.

Sam hovered in the air as he watched them board the fleet and when everyone is in their positions, Sam said.

"Do not come outside, no matter what. Keep your spiritual energy to yourself and don't try to scan anything until I told you so.

You have to stay as if you are in a meditative state and nothing should bother you. No matter who let their spiritual sense wander around, I will know and you are dead by then. So, please be careful about what you would do.

Now, don't resist and let my spiritual sense envelop you."

With that, Sam closed his eyes and extended his hand, and spread his spiritual sense all over the fleet.

He scanned the beasts, soldiers, captains, and even the commanders of the ship.

His veins popped his face has become red and he started sweating and all of a sudden, the whole fleet disappeared and reappeared in the divine dimension.

There is a large lake inside the dimension which was not present before. It was something Sam made just for transporting the fleet.

There is no way he would taking the fleet through the sea even if there is a route. Any accident can occur in the sea.

No matter how strong he became at least within the Consummate realm, the sea is something that couldn't be conquered that easily. It always wins no matter who the opponent is.

Now, only Sam, Arc and Adrian are there. They went back to his city where some other people are waiting for them.

They are fifteen people. They are the Pre-transcendent stage cultivators and a Transcendent cultivator.

These are his main forces now. More than half of them are recently broken through. But that is enough for them.

Their current operation is going to be something sneaky.

They went to the Space gate and arrived at Arsin.

Arkiv is waiting for Sam in Arsin. He is the one who gave them most information from the Usaine sect's side.

Sam just wanted him to not get involved in the war, but this guy is siding with them by too much and he would know why he is doing so.

They are about cut a deal.

"So, what do you want?"

"Your identity?" Arkiv asked in confusion. He still doesn't know who Sam is. Sam is still wearing a disguise.

"Is it sufficient?"

"It would be better, no? We could be friends."

"We will see that. You would know who I am after we enter the next realm, until then tell me what you want. Don't tell me you did everything I asked you just for my friendship."

"The Core library. I want something in the core library of the Usaine sect. The rift between me and the sect happened there.

There is some sort of secret art of the Usaine sect in the middle of the core library and it was locked. In the past three centuries, I am the only one who unlocked it, but I was denied access to it.

All of that because I am not of the direct lineage. From then on, the Usaine sect has been trying to give the art to people of direct lineage and they even started impregnating their wives hastily to give birth to a possible prodigy.

I want that art. And everything is yours."

Sam was surprised, such a thing happened. They don't even know what the future of this guy holds. They just isolated someone who could change their bum lives and now that guy is even willing to make a deal with someone who he doesn't know to get back at them.

Poor Usaine sect.

"Deal."

Sam agreed without hesitation. He doesn't need anything from Usaine sect as for what his friends want, he asked Philip and the only answer he received is that he wants the destruction of the Usaine sect, he didn't even need any treasures or such.

Arkiv shook his hand and left the place.

Sam and the rest of the people who came with me went to do their work.

They are moving rapidly towards a sea city of the Arsin empire. This city is closest to a minor power and this minor power doesn't have any noticeable points. Out of all minor powers, this one has the lowest profile.

They don't involve resource disputes and mostly kept to themselves.

But they are not weak. They do have considerable power even within the minor powers. So, Sam decided to target this place and convert this place into his base of operations.

That night, they flew over the sea and arrived at the large island of the minor power.

The minor power does have some villages and towns on the island. It is like a small kingdom and self-sustainable.

It is the size of a state of a third world country.

Sam and his group traveled as stealthily as possible. Their aim is not to attack. But to subdue with minimum effort and they do have some new inventions from the new healers he recruited.

From what he knew, there are ten transcendent stage cultivators for this power and over thirty Pre-transcendent stage cultivators with most of them being in the early stages.

After a day of travel at their full speed, they reached the headquarters of the minor power. They hid in the surrounding woods of the area. Arc made his move. He is going to capture the leader of the minor power who should be a late-stage Transcendent stage cultivator.

If the leader is captured, everything else could be manageable.

And within half an hour, Arc returned with an unconscious man. The whole city couldn't detect a Consummate realm cultivator if he decided to hide.

And that night, the remaining officials couldn't find where their leader has gone, while he is chatting something with Sam while his cultivation was sealed.

Sam first talked to him normally and offered a chance to break through the Consummate realm, but the other guy is not listening at all and the situation turned forceful. Arc has to show that he just broke through recently and the credit to Sam.

Just when Sam was getting frustrated and wanted to forcefully feed a servitude pill, the leader asked what he wanted.

"If you can cure my son, then I will follow you, and even my whole family and the subordinates will follow you."

Sam was surprised to hear this.

"Deal. Don't go back on your words then."

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 468: Different Constitution

That night Sam and Arc went to take a look at the son of the Leader of the minor power.

This Minor power is called Yellow sand Island.

And the head of the power is titled Island leader. His name is Martin. Since Sam got a deal with Martin that he will follow Sam as long as he cured his son, then he chose this option other than forcing them.

After all, the more loyal followers the better, and less forced the loyalty the better.

He went to see his son and the problem of this young man is that he is twenty years old but couldn't cultivate. He is almost the same age as Sam, just a little younger.

Sam was stunned when he heard that he couldn't cultivate. Because they could feel that his core is an Earth elemental core and he happened to be a Warrior mage. The Yellow Sand Island is also a major power who are specialized in earth elements and they tried every possible method of cultivation they have in their possession. But there are no results.

This puzzled Sam and he placed his hand on that guy's head and let his spiritual energy flow as he used the observation ability.

The son who is named Martin Jr looked extremely lifeless as he didn't even show any form of reaction to what Sam is doing. Even when he was introduced, he spoke very plainly almost as if he is burdened to even breathe much less speak.

As Sam used his observation ability, Martin Jr's every secret was revealed to him. there is nothing about this guy's body that he couldn't see.

The first thing Sam did is to observe the spiritual core. The main problems related to cultivation would be mainly related to the spiritual core, from what he could see the spiritual core is actually normal with its operations. It is still trying to absorb the spiritual energy like normal.

There is nothing wrong with it, but the elemental energy of this spiritual core is something that gave Sam some doubts.

Because, at one glance when a person used normal spiritual sense, they would feel that this spiritual core is earth elemental spiritual core and since it is dense and solid with the obvious warrior indications, it is an earth elemental warrior.

Even Sam came to that thought, but due to his observation ability of full gear, he felt that something is different in this earth elemental energy that is emitted by the spiritual core.

Sam reduced the range of observation skill and only concentrated on the spiritual core for a moment.

His veins could be seen on his forehead as he increased his concentration to observe the spiritual core to the atomic level.

Then only he saw the structure of the spiritual core.

Even though it is solid and a warrior-mage core, there is something Sam noticed which is completely different.

The Solid earth core is not exactly solid the whole thing is a lump of golden-yellow colored sand particles that are moving in a weird pattern at an extremely slow pace. Of course, they are not really some sand particles, but the spiritual energy took that form.

Sam thought that this might be a variant. He remembered the key features of the core and started examining the rest of his body and the meridian network and then he noticed something different.

His body and blood have some sort of latent earth elemental energy which also felt like the energy in the spiritual core.

It seems that this guy had a variant spiritual core and a special physical constitution.

This is the thought in mind and Sam closed his eyes and went through the information in his mind. He is revisiting the memory of the first books he read in this lifetime.

The book Ling Tian gave him, a book on the spiritual cores and the physical constitutions.

This is something he never expected. After searching through the whole information for an hour, Sam finally got an understanding and when he opened his eyes, they are filled with surprise and shock.

He didn't expect that there would be a special body type on this planet.

He looked at the head and some of the family members who are behind him and said.

"You might want to make them leave here before I reveal the information."

Martin glanced at them and they left.

Sam learned that the whole force is actually a single-family, more like a noble family of sorts and they have a few villages and towns on the island that they govern.

This made things extremely easier for Sam.

After all, a family only has one head of the family and there is no need for him to try and convince all of them to become his subordinates.

After they left, Sam said.

"Your son doesn't have any problem actually; his body is not a damaged one rather it is a special one. In fact, he can be considered an extreme talent.

His body has a special constitution called, the Golden Sand Constitution. It makes his body and spiritual core have a special property.

He really is an earth elemental warrior mage and he can even achieve a full elemental fusion. But it is not a pure earth element. He can only perceive earth elemental substances if they are sand, at least in his initial stages of cultivation. He doesn't need any spells or any large moves, he can control the sand as long as he has spiritual energy left inside his body.

He doesn't need any weapons, all he needs are some high-grade sands and he can make them into whatever he wants. The only drawback he has is that he cannot cultivate techniques of low-level earth elemental energy. The techniques you gave him might not have drawn enough spiritual energy from the atmosphere. To fully utilize his body, he has to have a high-grade earth elemental technique, and also the energy consumption is extremely high.

Martin looked at Sam and then his son whose eyes have some light returned to them.

He is looking a little hopeful when Sam said about his condition, but when the statement reached the end, he was once again disappointed, he had tried all kinds of cultivation techniques that are available in his family and his father even got one from the artisan tower which is actually of a higher grade and used by the Architecture artisans.

But there is no use. The small light of hope was once again lost, he doesn't know how to react and tears started coming from his eyes.

Martin looked at Sam and bowed his head.

"I don't know who you are, but you can make a Transcendent breakthrough to the Consummate realm without the aid of major powers, so you might have some methods up your sleeve. I beg you. If you have a cultivation technique, I am willing to pay any kind of price.

I will even sell my soul to you."

Sam fell into contemplation. He did indeed have a technique. This constitution is actually quite easy to deal with because only a high amount of energy is the requirement. Some constitutions would need some special methods and techniques which are tailor-made for them.

He would have trouble if he needs such kind of technique, but a high-grade earth elemental technique is too many in his possession. He is contemplating whether he should give them or not.

Sam looked at Martin and said.

"I will be honest with you. I am going on a war with the Usaine sect and I want you guys to follow me with utmost loyalty. Don't worry about the result, it would definitely be our victory.

I ask of you for only one thing, I want your family to be in charge of the lands under the Usaine sect and the rest would follow me and join my force. Not only will I give you the technique, but also will give you chances beyond your imagination.

You can become Consummate realm cultivator and beyond."

"I agree."

"Can you make that decision for all your family?"

"Yes."

"But I can't take your word for that. I need you guys to take these pills."

With that, Sam took out a pill bottle with Pills of servitude. Martin didn't even hesitate and swallowed a pill. He thought it was poison but nothing happened. Martin Jr reacted a little late as he was still in a bit of a daze and yelled.

"Father, don't."

He stood up and tried to catch his father, he too thought it was poison.

But nothing happened.

"Don't worry, it is not a poison. It is just something I use so that you wouldn't betray me. It wouldn't affect your bodies in the slightest, but it wouldn't allow you guys to betray me that's it."

With that, Sam turned around and took a seat and said.

"You guys leave for a while, come back in half-an-hour."

They as they were told and in half-an-hour, Sam has finished copying a technique. These cultivation techniques sure come in handy.

All of the techniques in the divine dimension combined couldn't be compared to the Myriad Beast bloodline technique Sam cultivated, so he always thought why would Ling Tian give him all these, but every time he used them like this, he felt like that was the only purpose.

Anyway, this technique gave him a new force.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 469: Making a Move

Sam stayed in the Yellow Sand Island for the next two days, waiting for the news he wanted.

He wants to see if the Usaine sect members would be back or some other Mishaps would occur.

For the next two days, he walked around Yellow Sand Island and met with many people. He didn't expect that he would be able to recruit them. His plan is to only recruit them for this one battle even if it was forceful and compensate them with a chance of breaking through the Consummate realm and leave them alone.

The minor powers and him, didn't cross paths and there are little chances they would do so in the future. That is why he didn't care about them before. But now that he thought about it, they have a great number of Nascent stage cultivators and manpower.

Anyway, he got them now and it didn't cost him much at all.

They are already making preparations and getting their Naval fleet ready to deploy anytime.

Now, they have to wait for Usaine sect's return.

Meanwhile, in the central continent. A region of the forest has disappeared completely and there is not a single blade of grass in that vast area.

Six people are fighting like crazy and the shock waves are destroying the surroundings, the disappearance of the vegetation is also because of that.

The three association heads are in a pinch. At first, they were able to fight back with them and even had an upper hand, but as time passed, they realized they have little chance of fighting.

But at this moment there is no turning back.

Meanwhile, in the surrounding forests of this region, there are several people who are hidden in the trees as they watched the whole spectacle unfolding.

They are the fishing teams of the other major powers.

Even the six people who are fighting also knew it and that is why they are looking to drag the fight out; they just want to delay the inevitable.

At this moment, all of a sudden, the Inscription association head felt like his Spiritual energy is running out and reached the final stages, looking at this the old man who is fighting with him, didn't waste any time at all, he directly swung his sword and was about to slash his head off.

At this moment, the Inscription head looked at him with resentment and bit his finger hard, and started drawing some runes on his body as he dodged the attack of the Old man.

The Old man felt that something is off and soon realized that he made a mistake by not stopping the Inscription association head. Because red-colored vapor started coming out of the Inscription Association head's body and he is burning his blood and the life force as the runes on his body became evident.

This is a secret art.

He started burning his life force and attacked the old man. The Old man panicked and started using all the defensive measures he can think of. The other two members from the Usaine sect looked at them and wanted to help him. But the two association heads held them tightly.

As the Old man and the Inscription head clashed, a huge explosion occurred and large crater was formed.

When the dust settled, the Old man from the Usaine sect looked extremely mangled as he bled all over. His left arm was gone and even his left leg was completely broken.

There are cracked bones all over his body. But he is still standing albeit barely. But the Inscription head is in a worse condition.

His body became a dried-up corpse, the only difference is that it is still barely breathing and the skin cracked all over. He wouldn't make it no matter what.

At this moment, the Old man still gritted his teeth and dragged his left leg as he made his move. His face is full of resentment and one could see how much he hated the Inscription head, just for this attack.

He reached the body and continuously stabbed the body of Inscription head.

"Die, you bastard."

"Die"

"Die"

He almost looked like he lost his sanity and became a madman.

At this moment, the sect head of the Usaine sect and another Old who are fighting with the remaining two heads understood that the situation is dire and are worried that these two association heads might also pull this kind of stunt. So, they decided to use their trump cards and kill them before that happened. And thus, the final and the most intense exchange began with them clashing relentlessly.

The two people from the Usaine sect became injured and the two association heads have suffered some severe damage.

Their spiritual cores cracked and one of them has their hand completely crippled.

At this moment, as the Usaine sect members were about to make a move and finish them off, the hidden fishing teams came out all of a sudden and made their move.

They blocked the finishing blow and saved the two association heads.

They are the Grand elders of the other major powers. There are two of them, one from the thunder god temple and the other from the Lightning Spear sect. The Herb garden didn't come as they are not willing to involve in any disputes from the start and the Beast faction is not even part of this mess from the start.

The thunderbolt seemed to have another plan and only these two people came.

They didn't send more people just in case the two parties in the battle will misunderstand their intent.

They are here just to save these association heads so that they could use their expertise to raise their next generations.

"What are you doing? Do the Old thunder and that Spear guy want a piece of this as well?"

The Usaine sect head asked.

"No. you seemed to have misunderstood the intent. But the thunder god temple just wants to know what happened to the parks and wants to ask them for an explanation. So, we have to take them away. Since they are injured and their recovery rate is minimal, you don't even have to worry about revenge.

Our temple head also said that they would agree to disband the current associations and the Usaine sect shall lead the establishment of the three associations. All the territories under the three associations that are captured by you shall be yours." With that, he even forcefully took the Spatial ring of the association head and gave it to him.

"Our lightning spear sect has the same intentions." He repeated the same action.

Usaine sect head looked at them with resentment. He knew that it is not as simple as asking for an explanation of the parks. He knew damn well what their intentions are. Parks are only one of the reasons and a minor one at that.

But he couldn't fight with them. He is injured and not at his prime condition as for the association heads, they wouldn't be recovering for their lives.

He could only grit his teeth and agree to this.

He has many things to do and deal with the aftermath of the war, so he could only give up and walk away. Anyway, his main goal was established, but he has to quickly spread his influence all over, otherwise, these two powers will come into conflict with him once again.

With these thoughts, he returned to the sect.

The remaining team members the two grand elders brought proceeded to see if there any people left alive in the war. They only checked the people from the associations. They wanted to see if they can capture any of the talents. Not only that, these things are happening in many battlefields and the Thunderbolt sect which didn't send anyone to capture an association head actually sent people to the properties of the associations which were left uncaptured by the Usaine sect.

Even the other major powers did the same. Except for the Beast faction and the Herb garden.

Sam got the news he was waiting for, the war ended and this time, he got the news directly from the Island leader of the Yellow sand Island.

This is the right time.

By the next morning, the troops of the Yellow sand Island saw a large naval fleet appear on their seashore. When they looked at the types of ships and the number of them which are completely filled with beasts and cannons of different sizes and styles, they are completely dumbfounded.

Even the Island owner, felt extremely threatened when he saw the fleet. Even though every ship is a separate entity, they felt like they are a single entity at the same time.

And thus, the fleet moved towards the borders of the Usaine sect lands over the sea.

Behind the fleet, the fleet of the Yellow Sand island also followed closely.

Arc is standing on an Amphibious assault ship with his mask on as he stood straight.

Their movement is too big and they would surely alert the other major powers and they exactly wanted that. Sam also wore his disguise, the one he used to enter the Palace of inheritance and he held the staff in his hands.

Now, the time has finally come to take down a major power and mark his own name in this world.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 470: War with Usaine sect

The news that a large fleet is moving towards the archipelago of the Usaine sect was spread all over as they were just a few hours away from their destination.

Sam made sure that everything goes according to plan. The Usaine sect head and the grand elders who came back also heard this and frowned.

At first, they thought that they are being attacked by another major power but the rest of the major powers who also got the news made sure that they don't have any involvement in this by sending their envoys.

This made them puzzled and after some investigation from the scouts, they recognized them to be the people from the Yellow Sand Island.

The Usaine sect people didn't understand why a Minor power would try to attack them. So, the sect head sent a nascent stage envoy to talk to them.

"Why are you moving towards the Usaine sect?"

The envoy stood on his flying beast as he asked haughtily.

Sam looked up and said to him coldly.

"We are waging a war on the Usaine sect."

"A minor power? Waging a war? Are you joking?"

"You will see if we are joking or not. In two days, ask your sect to get ready their troops. We will start our attack whether you got ready or not."

With that, they didn't bother with the envoy anymore, who went back.

The first destination that Sam and his troops are nearing is an island with the Space gates, this Space gate Island is not the one that connects with the empires, rather it is for transporting the resources of the surrounding islands to the main sect. This is an important transportation point.

This is the first place they decided to take over and as they said they stayed on the shore for the next two days as the fleet of the Usaine sect slowly made their preparations in front.

As for the sect head and the grand elders, there is no way they are going to come just like that. Instead, they sent a bunch of transcendent stage cultivators with them. The Usaine sect members are still fresh with their wounds, the casualties are not exactly small and even if it is a minor power, there is no saying what would happen.

And after two days, the fleet of the Usaine sect moved forward. The fleet is actually larger and there are more than five hundred ships.

They wanted to surround Sam's fleet but as they moved forward, Sam gave his command and the cannons fired immediately.

The flatfish puppet troops started jumping in the waters as they moved into surfing mode and started attacking the ships.

They want to see if they can occupy the ships.

The fleet of the Usaine sect is actually quite good compared to the ships of the Adrian Empire.

They are made of metals and they are quite sturdy.

Sam figured it would be better to try and capture them. All he would have to do is capture them. All he would have to do is repair them and modify them a bit to add to his fleet at least, they could be secondary ships that act as backup.

That is why he offered a reward and the soldiers are clearly excited. Even the cannons shooting is targeting carefully to not damage the hub and such.

The Usaine sect troops suddenly had a wake-up call. This is not what they expected. They didn't expect they have such powerful ranged attacks and they didn't see these kinds of cannons before.

At this moment, the flying troops of the usaine sect area also mobilized, but Sam did the same. In fact, he even let the Porpoise troops to start the attack and the ships of Usaine sect had the hardest time of their lives.

The amphibious crafts suddenly became empty on both above the deck and below the deck.

The flying troops of the usaine sect are completely surprised because, Sam's side didn't send too many soldiers on the flying troops, rather they are mostly just flying beasts.

They seemed too ferocious and there are too many of them as if they are out of control, but they are all working.

The battle continued for half an hour. The beasts that are wounded came down and landed on the amphibious assault ship which is providing air defence.

There the healers came from the room and started healing them. Even the troops that are injured were being directly sent to the amphibious ship for healing and even the porpoises are entering below the amphibious ship and healers are doing their work.

The transcendent stage cultivators looked at the battle and are immediately dumbfounded. They didn't expect that the battle would be this one-sided.

They decided to make a move, while one of them entered a space gate to inform the others of the situation.

This time, the real problem is going to raise. The Transcendent stage cultivators are too many and there is no one here to enforce any rules of the battle field. So, they decided to attack every ship by themselves.

The Transcendent stage cultivators from the yellow sand Island tackled them directly, but still there are simply too many.

As the Pre-transcendent stage and below are being dominated by Sam's side, they decided to just attack everyone and finish it, but they received the biggest shock in the world.

When a Nascent stage cultivator threw a fire type spell at a frigate ship which is in the formation with the rest of the naval fleet, the spell didn't even reach the frigate and was blocked by an invisible formation which fluctuated brightly and showed its presence for the first time.

The Transcendent cultivators are stunned in their spots.

They didn't expect to be a fleet formation. This is something they didn't see and the formation seemed to be extremely strong. They couldn't damage it easily.

They stood on their beasts as they launched ranged attacks.

Sam who is in the Nascent stage battle with a Flat fish puppet under him, used his communication device to give a command.

"Get the Energy Cannons ready."

Sam spoke as he started eliminating his opponents in a faster pace.

Because, he wants to look at the might of his new toy up close without missing anything.

His new method of destruction, but also one of his newest creations. This is something Sam made with the inspiration and working principle he decoded from Vickers' fighting style.

As he moved towards the Amphibious Assault ships, the upper deck of the room opened up and a cannon came out of it. The same thing happened in the remaining four ships and they all aimed at different directions.

Meanwhile, in every ship within the fleet there are many people who are steering the ships who closed their eyes and started diverting energy from the energy cell of the ship to the amphibious assault ship.

The cannon lit up brightly as its aim rotated a bit and locked on the Transcendent stage cultivator.

The blue coloured concentrated water elemental energy lit up and shot towards the cultivator as if it was laser.

But it is the Elemental energy beam. Sam tried so hard to crack this technique and he got it from a moment of inspiration when he is researching the layered and varying formation from the meteorite sand island.

His main problem when he first researched the energy cannon was that he couldn't find a way to shoot the gathered energy. Even though he tried experimenting with some special inscriptions that mainly focus on large scale energy modifications, there are no results.

But the inscription array which is responsible for connecting the formations and creating a varying formation with a sequence, he figured out that the portion of the array is responsible for the changing the state of the energy and diverting its direction when the formation sequence is varying.

So, he tried to use the same principle to shoot the energy by changing the diverting part to extreme so that the motion would be fast and huge.

Even though, it was called an Energy beam, in fact it is a lump of energy that was concentrated in one small location. An energy ball. Due to its glowing nature, it looked like a beam.

And due to the amount of concentrated energy being insanely huge and an extremely small place, even Transcendent stage cultivators couldn't handle the attack.

The cultivator wanted to block the attack, but the water elemental energy exploded and made his body unstable at the same time, it made a hole through the body while it almost rained around him with mist and water appearing out of thin air.

This attack, once again halted the tracks of everyone in the battle field, but it is not the end yet, the five cannons fired and the large energy cells which are as big as a yoga ball in a gym are being consumed rapidly, but the people are replacing them as soon as they are done.

And the battle once again became one-sided.

Meanwhile, the news travelled towards the Usaine sect and the sect leader and the grand elders were alarmed greatly. It is already a surprising thing of the Yellow sand island to knock on their doors and they are still winning. This is something they have to take seriously.

So, they left the injured grand elder who killed the Inscription association head and decided to go and see what exactly is happening.