

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 621: Elite ten

Sam immediately called Chatur and gave instructions to contact the people from another Planet. This is one of the Planets under full control of Yaksha.

The Planet Fysi. The Naga population is extremely low and only occupies one nation. But there is no adamant discrimination against them. As for humans, there are some but their population is not even the same as the Nagas.

The herb that Sam has to get from here, is the Abyss grass.

It is grown in a deep dark valley where the sun wouldn't shine. It is darkness all over and even cultivators couldn't see anything with their normal vision.

Chatur really did have connections everywhere. He managed to contact someone from the Fysi castle and when he heard the introduction of the person, he felt like his job would be easy.

His name is Dharkan and he is the prince of the Andhera Nation. This place has year-long snow and darkness due to its geographical location.

For six months of the year, at least they will have some light. That could be considered summer. As for the rest of the year, there is no light at all. It is almost like they are living in a place where there is only night. If not for the changes of the moons they have, they wouldn't be able to find out the difference between night and day at all.

Currently, it is the winter in that place and the long night of six months is in its final phases.

He felt like this place is most suitable for the growth of the abyss grass. Even though there is a lot of ice elements and such, there must exist a place with a lot of darkness within this place.

He met with prince Dharkan the next day.

After exchanging some normal pleasantries, Dharkan said.

"Sandra has been badmouthing you for some time. Now I can see why? You must be one of those people that are beyond her Voice Charm."

"Maybe I am a person like that. Since you already know I met here, you might have also heard what kind of business I committed with them. So, I will go straight to the point.

I would like to buy a blade of Abyss grass from you."

"Abyss grass?" Dharkan's face became serious. His aura fluctuated as if he was ready to attack anytime.

Sam looked at him without a change of expression. He is as nonchalant as he can be sipping his drink as if nothing happened.

Dharkan calmed himself down and said.

"Where did you hear about the Abyss grass?"

"Hear? No, I read about it."

"We have nothing to talk about. There is no business to make. You can leave."

Sam was surprised a bit and he let Chatur walked out of the door, but he just stayed there and looked at Dharkand and said.

"I don't know why you are behaving like this. But I am sure that you have Abyss grass. I will buy it no matter the cost. Just say what you want. It is important to me."

His voice is calm and there is no sense of emotions. He looked straight into Dharkand's eyes.

"It is not a matter of price. We cannot sell the grass."

"Then how about a trade?"

"You wouldn't be able to afford it."

"There are not many things in this world that I cannot afford to buy. Please tell me. The matter is of extreme importance. I will not leave you alone until I buy one."

Dharkan took a deep breath and said.

"The abyss grass can only be plucked by themselves. The risk of obtaining that grass is extremely high and nobody would want to sell that grass out when they got it. The dark element users are abundant in the Andhera and every time, there would be a lot of them participating in the harvest of the grass.

Everyone who participates is a Pre-transcendent and there are very few nascent stage cultivators that would go in. It is a tradition of our nation and not many people know about it.

The path is dangerous and many people lose lives every year. So, I am not participating and everyone who participates in this wouldn't be keen on selling the grass they risked their lives to get."

"Is there a way for me to participate in this harvest?"

"No, very few outsiders of our family can participate and they are also citizens of the nation facing many tests and obstacles to gain the chance. How can I let someone like that just to participate?"

"Don't you have a spot then?"

"I have. But I am not participating."

"I wouldn't ask why you wouldn't participate. But just tell me something. Is there anything in this world that would make you participate in this? I will try my best to do whatever it is. I need it."

Dharkan wanted to erupt but he tried his best to control his temper because he knew that he might not be a match for Sam.

He did hear Sam's exploits.

"There is one thing that can make me go back. Find a Yaksha named Night charm in the Union sect and bring him to me. I will agree to participate in the Abyss grass harvest. In fact, I guarantee that I would be able to get you a blade of grass."

"Night Charm?"

"Yes, a female Yaksha. She is an elite and works alone. She is a master in assassinations. If you can get her to me. I promise you a blade of grass."

"That's it? All you need is bringing a girl to you?"

"What do you know? Bringing a girl? If you are careless for a second she will take your head and place it in your hands. She is an assassin that is well known on the Fysi planet. Not many people have seen her face and she is extremely skilled that she managed to kill a few Pre-transcendent stage cultivators.

She is not extremely good a combat. She is only specialized in single strike assassinations or escaping from even the hardest of the places. I am pretty sure that she is still nascent. So, she should be in the Union sect."

"If there is really such a powerful assassin, wouldn't she already be after my head after what I did to the Union sect? She might have broken through."

"No, she didn't. I am pretty sure of that. As for why she is not after you. Why do you think the forces of the Union sect retreated? Do you really think the real elites of the sect are all clear? They didn't even appear yet. The real war will be upon you soon. There is still a month for the Abyss grass harvest.

If you can get her to me in a month, I will get the Abyss grass to you."

Sam thought for a bit and said.

"Sure. We have a deal."

He shook hands and left the room.

He knew that finding an assassin is a difficult task and catching her alive is even more so. But he is not unconfident. But he is not willing to go on a goose chase to catch her and bring her to him. All he has to do is wait.

Because, he knew if there is someone like that in the Union sect even if they are not currently in the Union dimension once they came back, their first target would be to go after Sam himself.

After all, he killed almost a thousand people, cutting their troops by one-third. It is a huge loss for them. There is no way they would be able to let go of him that easily.

He came out and on the way back with Chatur he asked.

"Are there any other elites in the Union sect?"

"Elites? There are many of them."

"Do you know Night Charm?"

"Yes, but she wouldn't be in the dimension for now."

"She is the part of Elite ten of the Union sect. Their authority is on par with the Boss. But they wouldn't bother with the troops. The only reason that they didn't come and attack us is that there are three months in the year that they wouldn't stay in the Union dimension. It is part of their training.

There are still two months for that time to be up."

Sam frowned at this. If it is true, then why would the union sect launch a war when their elites are not here? It would clearly spell trouble to them. After all, Sam himself was a bane for them now.

As if reading Sam's thoughts, Chatur continued.

"Actually, it might have been a chance for the three bosses. Even though, they are bosses they are mostly the people who bear the brunt of management responsibilities of the sect. The Elite ten get special treatment because of their prowess in battles.

Before you came, the situation in Nagin castle is extremely unstable and in the past few months it was almost chaotic, so the Union sect chose this time to make a move even if they don't have their elites because it is easy to crush the castle. Until you came they are just playing with us.

But you just came and changed the tide. And from the message, other elites are also coming in few weeks. I think they might recall the Elite ten back."

"Is there any precedence of calling them back?"

"There is. when three planets' castle united and tried to occupy one of the core resource points of the Union sect. They planned it so well and did it all when the elite ten is not present. But three of the ten are called back.

They entered the battle-field and tore through the forces of the three castles. No matter how many enemies they came, they killed them slowly and chipped the forces down until all of them retreated."

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 622: Wind Fiend

After listening to Chatur about the elite ten, Sam started thinking about what the current situation might lead to.

Using the undead, Sam really did leave quite some wounds on the Union sect. But the Elite ten still hasn't come back. But he is sure that they would come as the war will continue. Currently, the Union sect only abandoned some secondary bases and castles. As for resource points, they tightened the forces.

All they left are the resource points they occupied from the Nagin castle.

So, it can be said that the war is not over yet.

When Chatur saw Sam thinking, he hesitated before saying.

"Actually, there is one thing I wanted to tell you for some time, but I couldn't find the time as we are busy."

"What is it?"

"The reason the rest of the top-dogs of the Nagin castle are not bothering with you is that they are sure the Elite ten will kill you. That is why they let you do whatever you want with the lake and Volcanic cannon. Otherwise, they would certainly bring their families in to make trouble for you."

"Really?"

"Yes, when Yodha first entered this place, he didn't reveal his identity and came in with his human form. He is just like you, but your methods are different. He alone occupied a weekly resource point and he wanted to take the resources.

But the rest of the commanders and others wouldn't let him. They created all kinds of troubles. But Yodha became furious and beat the crap out of them without pulling their punches.

The next thing we knew, there is a large-scale search on his identity and there are many threats. If not for the fact, that Yodha revealed his Naga form in one of the battles, they would have still tried to pester him and threaten him. After he revealed it though, they almost pissed their pants.

There is also another situation, where an orphan entered this place and run rampant because of his fighting abilities, but at that time, some of the people created a conflict between him and Union sect, causing one of the Elite ten to hunt him down and kill him.

These incidents are all too common and not just in the Nagin castle. Every other place, including the Fysi and the Merman castles, are the same.

No place has a single person who holds all authorities and they all use Union sect as a borrowed knife to get rid of their rivals."

"Why didn't you mention this to me earlier?"

"I thought that since Elite ten is not here, it is not that relevant but you did so much damage to them. From what I know of them, the retreat is related to the elite ten. They would be already on their way back to the dimension.

That is why I wanted to give you a reminder before they attack you."

"Thanks for the reminder. But I am mostly worried about them not coming at me. If they don't, how can I get my hands on Night Charm?"

As he said this, Sam suddenly looked into the horizons. Currently, Sam and Chatur are flying on Sky's back.

They reached high enough to look at the clouds and they even passed through some. They flew this high to avoid others. But he could feel someone is coming, even Sky became alert and suddenly came to a halt as he flapped his wings.

"Hold on tight."

Sam warned Chatur who sprawled on Sky's back and held tightly before Sky zoomed into the clouds and swung his talons at the something that seemed to be coming their way.

Two beasts locked in as they threw their talons at each other.

Sam looked at the beast and was surprised. The Fiend Vulture. This is a beast that is beyond the natural laws of the beasts. They are cruel, cunning, and crafty. They don't care about the superiority of bloodline and cultivation levels. If they can hit, they will, if they can't they will run.

Holding the neck of the vulture there is a guy sitting on its back as he looked at Sam with a devilish grin.

The two birds are moving up and down as they tried to bit each other and tear each other apart with the talons.

But Sam is not worried. He just looked at the young man who is also a human sitting on the vulture's back.

Sky is not an ordinary Great Roc. If it was, then he would have already lost. But he is the Sky sovereign Roc. The name is not just for show. Within the Sam level, when it comes to Aerial battle, Sky is the best of the best. Even Yanwu couldn't deal with him, Unless Yanwu went all out and made some serious large-scale attacks, they would only be tied.

But for this fiend Vulture to beat Sky, it can dream on.

And soon, the Young man on the Vulture's back also seemed to have noticed something. As both the beasts are descending, Sky suddenly stopped and hovered as a blade of wind stuck the vulture on the stomach creating a deep gash.

*SCREECH***

The vulture screamed as it took some time to control and come up. The young man took out a saber as he swung it towards Sam.

Sam took out his reaper and blocked the attack. Chatur who is on Sky's back was terrified and almost peed his pants. He couldn't help gulp and close his eyes shut. He didn't even dare to look at the two people and beasts fighting.

Soon, the young man noticed that there is not much advantage he could gain no matter what he tried. Sam is mostly on the defensive, but there is not a single attack that could pierce his defense. Sky is so nimble that the vulture could barely ruffle his feathers.

But the Vulture itself has some significant wounds making it bleed.

All of a sudden, the young man, who was attacking Sam all this while, diverted his attack and aimed at Sky's neck. The intensity of the attack also increased as the blade of the saber for fully covered with wind energy.

He would do considerable damage.

As the young man was about to succeed he has a grin. But Sam only coldly snorted and said.

"Don't hold back."

Sky who is playing tango with the Vulture suddenly glowed with wind element energy and wind blades started appearing all around him.

Even the flap of his wings that should only have a purpose of flying is releasing wind blade.

*SCREEECCCCHHHHHH*

The Vulture was cut in several places. Its screeches shook the clouds and the young man lost his balance and suffered the backlash of the saber attack cutting his hand open and bleeding all over.

He looked at Sam with resentment and there are several thoughts in his mind. But he made the Vulture descend. He is descending faster and he doesn't seem to be trying to escape through the flight. He must be thinking to escape through the stream that was nearby.

But Sam has no intention of letting him go.

Sky closed his wings and dove down. Chatur is screaming as they fell freely down and decreased their altitude.

But the Vulture seemed to have a special trick for falling. It is too fast when descending like this.

Sam tapped Sky on the head and jumped off of him. His body started changing and he finished partial wind elemental fusion as he increased his speed and held the reaper in his hand.

He closed the distance faster and as he fell downwards, the wind energy on the reaper blade increased like crazy. The energy is so dense and sharp that the young man who is escaping could feel the chill behind his back.

He instantly took out something and Sam frowned. He recognized this thing. This is the thing the so-called bosses used to escape.

His body changed and a golden glow surrounded him as he finished the Partial light element fusion. The speed increased and he shot like a light beam. Right before the young man could crush the token, she swung the blade.

The Wind blade combined with the sword aura created a dense and sharp wind curtain as it sliced through the back and cut the arm off from the shoulder blade and it even cut the wind of the Vulture.

They saved their lives by hair's breadth before they crushed the token and escaped.

The wind curtain didn't stop there. It flashed past and created a large and deep crater on the ground.

Before Sam could fall down and crash. He deactivated the fusion and the harbinger appeared under his feet as he negated the fall extremely closely.

Sam looked in the direction the shadow moved. He didn't like this feeling at all.

If not for the fact, this is an aerial battle and that guy is quite skilled he would have been killed. Even though he is elite, at most he can be considered above average in Sam's books. Any player can take him on.

But what Sam doesn't know is that guy who escaped is also thinking the same thing. He is also thinking that he could have won if they met in a low-altitude battle or even the ground battle. He felt like he lost because of the difference in the capability of the beasts.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 623: Too Lucky?

Sam looked at the wing and the arm on the ground. Most of the bones in those limbs broke when they hit the ground. The wing is below the arm and both of them are inside the crater.

Sam threw a fireball at the wing and the feathers supported the golden flames to burn and both of them burned.

A gush of wind hit him in the back as Sky landed with Chatur on his back. Chatur sprawled onto the ground as he panted heavily. Sam went to him and crouched as he checked for injuries. After confirming he is alright, he gave him some water to calm him down.

After some time, they once again started their journey and this time, they went on the wolves they caught from the Canine squad. Chatur will be traumatized by the flight journey for some time.

As they slowly made their way towards the Pearl Lake, Sam asked.

"Who is that guy? Do you know?"

"One of the Elite ten, the Wind Fiend. Nobody knows his real name. His specialty is using that vulture to attack from the air. But even in the ground battle, he cannot be underestimated. His wind attacks are extremely precise and his saber play is extremely unique.

He is an expert in ambushing like this. He is a wanted person in three planets. He was one of the best hit-men of the Union sect.

While Sam is listening to the details regarding this guy, the person himself is sprawling on the ground as four other people surrounded him as they laughed, meanwhile another guy is healing him slowly as his arm started regenerating.

The Vulture is groaning in pain as it laid on the floor beside them.

"Wind Fiend. Do you have any face left in front of the juniors of the sect? You came here in such a pathetic shape. Not only did you lose an arm and the wing, you even lost them after you took out the token? Are you that slow?" A guy who is laughing said from the side.

"He is the one who is fast." The Wind fiend answered through the gritted teeth.

"Pfft. You really are a joke Wind fiend. We just came yesterday and there is only very basic information regarding him and you couldn't even control yourself? Are you so hungry for the glory? Now you even came back like this. Are you embarrassed enough?"

A beautiful Yaksha girl with a Black Combat suit said as she giggled.

Wind Fiend didn't say anything and only snorted. The person healing finished healing his hand and threw a pill to him before moving to the vulture.

"I only lost because his beast is better than mine. It is faster than my vulture. If we met on a normal battle-field, I would have killed him easily."

"You are even dumber in giving out excuses. Isn't aerial battle your specialty? If you can't even kill him in the air with a surprise attack, you expect him to sit still and let you cut his head off? Stop dreaming and train properly."

A guy who is also laughing earlier said.

"Stop making fun of me, and try your own luck. You will see when you meet him yourself."

"You don't have to say it. I will meet him tonight and see what he has got. Anyway, the rest of you wouldn't get a chance after me. So if you want to try your luck. Do it before dusk. Afterward, it is my turn and I will anyone that competes with me."

The girl in Black left these words before leaving the room.

Meanwhile, Sam and Chatur reached the lake.

Sam threw every guy out of this place as he prepared his own tent this time. Chatur didn't even understand what that little thing that grew this big is, but he was also asked to stay inside this tent and he did.

Sam cooked once again and they started eating as night fell. Sam didn't do much that night, he has been working on the Mutant scales and he continued that work, but he didn't do that inside the divine dimension. He did so in his tent.

He worked until midnight and Sam put away all the things and looked at Chatur who is working on his own things as he painted on a large scroll.

"Chatur come here for a second."

Sam asked and Chatur obliged as he came near.

Sam stood up and asked Chatur to sit on his chair, he bumped into the table and there are things that fell down.

All of a sudden, a dark shadow moved and Sam who bent down to pick things suddenly moved as his hand was covered with shadow energy and caught the shadow in mid-air.

A woman's silhouette appeared in front of him. But there is no visible flesh there. All the flesh was also covered in dark shadow light. She turned into a puff of dark smoke and disappeared into her own shadow before appearing behind Sam's back.

Sam dodged the dagger strike and held her hand as he swiftly turned around.

She once again turned into a puff of smoke and moved around.

Sam frowned at this.

He didn't like this at all. This shadow technique is quite unique and it is not easy to catch it even with his body's partial shadow fusion.

He activated his eye technique as he looked at the shadow moving and his body also started dark element fusion and turning the dark energy to shadow energy. Soon, he is also moving just like the shadow as they clashed with daggers.

The clash is intense and the whole tent is filled with dark smokes and fumes. Even though they can't be felt and they only appear in an instant. They are still there and disappeared.

Sam's technique is not as unique and fast as the other party but it is efficient enough and with his skills, there is no need for him to worry.

He managed to leave some nicks on her skin. Even though a fusion body is not easy to damage, it is not completely invincible. Sam has several ways to damage it and Void style and ripple style are quite good.

As he was gaining upper hand, the shadow of the girl moved like it was growing and split into three as all three moved towards the entrance of the tent as if they wanted to escape.

But with a snap of his fingers. Five shadows appeared and locked the three of them in place. The Shadow necromancy is quite good in this aspect after all.

Two shadows out of three disappeared and the five shadows attacked the last remaining one.

The girl immediately exited the shadow form and a Yaksha woman appeared in front of Sam.

Sam canceled his fusion as he looked at the girl and smiled before taking a seat on another chair.

Chatur was stunned as he saw this scene. He was sweating profusely. Many times, he was hair's breadth away from the dagger of this lady. But Sam did his best to save him. He felt like his life is on its last days. Encountering two near-death experiences like this in a single day.

The woman is a Yaksha and Sam immediately knew who she was. There is no way he would let this opportunity go.

He looked at her and said.

"You are Night Charm? I must say your name is not suitable at all. Shadows can exist in days too. Why would you have a name as night charm?"

The woman only snorted and took out the token as her hands were behind her back.

Sam nonchalantly smiled as she spoke.

"Your days are over. No one can live after messing with the Union sect." She coldly said and with loads of killing intent still being on full display, she crushed the token.

She disappeared into a shadow and moved towards the entrance of the tent. This time, his five shadows weren't able to lock them down. But right before the shadow could pass the entrance, a lightning screen appeared and blocked her. The tent cloth charred into ashes as lightning surrounded them and the metallic frame stood there in the shape of the tent as the lightning filled the gaps.

The woman fell backward and spat a mouthful of blood as she looked horrified.

"I have experienced the token three times, do you think I will not prepare myself. Night Charm, there is nowhere you can go. With that, Sam disappeared into a golden light beam and shot towards her. He placed a restriction on her body and held her down as he activated it.

She fell forward and couldn't move her spiritual energy. Even her limbs are paralyzed.

Sam deactivated the thunder prison and stored it away before saying to Chatur.

"Let's go. We are going through the night. I didn't expect us to be so lucky. Before we could do anything, our target already came running to us."

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 624: Betrayal

Sam and Chatur both once again traveled to the Fysi castle to deliver Night Charm. Sam did expect that she would come after him. But he didn't expect that she would come the very day he was given the task to find her.

He must say he is lucky.

As for why the thunder prison was already prepared. It is because, he was sick of these people using that weird shadow token to escape every time, Sam was ready to finish them off.

He couldn't think of any methods instantly and decided to try his luck with the thunder prison and when he saw the results he was ecstatic.

But he didn't make this trip for her. He just thought that since the first attack failed, the second and third attacks wouldn't be far away. So, he just wanted to be prepared. He is just damn too lucky to have caught her.

He immediately decided to take her to Fysi Palace to finish the mission.

But when they were in the middle of their journey, Sky suddenly attacked into the clouds and two wind blades shot through the clouds dealing with two fireballs that are coming at Sam.

Sam didn't care though, he also noticed the attacks, but they are not strong enough for him to worry over them.

Sky didn't stop, he took a large hard turn and two wind blades shot to the front and the rear. A large flame and the frost lance are deflected.

The clouds disappeared and two men are flying on the beasts. The beasts are nothing special like the Fiend vulture. They are at most on the level of the Dark wind owls. Their sole purpose might as well be traveling.

A man and woman are standing on these beasts. The man has fire elemental energy on his palm as if he was ready to attack. The woman is also the same, but then in place of the fire element, she has ice.

Sam looked at them again and again as if he was trying to see through them.

"Leave Night Charm now and you can live for a day more. We promise we wouldn't make an attempt on your light tonight." The man said coldly.

Sam didn't seem to care at all. He just told Sky to make sure that both Night Charm and Chatur are safe, as he stood up.

"What are you waiting for? If you are looking to stall time, there is no use. If you don't leave Night charm now, we wouldn't guarantee your life."

Sam almost wanted to curse their stupidity. If even the Wind Fiend is unable to take him on in the aerial battle, then what gave these guys enough confidence to take him on? As he thought like this, he suddenly realized something.

The reason they are bluffing is that they cannot take him on in the air, otherwise they could attack him and take her away.

He started contemplating whether he should take them down or not. He shook his head after some thinking and felt like it is not worth it.

He sat down once again and tapped Sky on his back. The sky looked at the two beasts and gave a loud screech.

*SCREEEEEEEECH*

The aura of the beast was released and the scream is almost like it is commanding the lowly beasts to leave his territory. The territory of the Sky sovereign.

The two beasts became unstable and almost stopped flying altogether. When the riders on them wanted to maintain the balance, Sam raised his hands and aimed at them. One of them was covered with golden flames and the other is covered with water energy.

He shot a large jet of both and hit the two people making them unable to control. The beasts also took some brunt and they became even more unstable.

Sam watched as they fell rapidly. He didn't care if they would live or die, but he felt like them living has greater odds and he just resumed his journey.

There is no way he would try to fight now. If something happened and Night charm died from falling, then he would have lost a deal. Abyss grass is too valuable for him to do that.

Sky didn't go at in leisurely pace as before. He moved at full speed to not let other people ambush. But his mind was thinking something else. How could someone know his position all the time?

Night charm attacking him could be easily understood because Sam staying at the lake is not exactly a great surprise. There are many people who saw him. But the appearance of the Wind fiend and these two people is not exactly called for.

He would have to think this situation through and find a suitable solution to avoid this. But before that he has to find the core of the problem, when he asked Chatur, he thought long and hard and said.

"I will check this out tomorrow morning."

"How?"

"I think it is something related to the Nagin castle. After we reach the Fysi castle, I will travel to the Nagin castle, even though I am weak I can save myself with my techniques and travel without worry. I will reach the Pearl Lake by tomorrow evening."

Sam nodded and just waited for their journey to be over.

After an hour, they reached the fysi castle and Sam let Chatur carry Night Charm over Prince Dharkan's personal room.

When Dharkan saw Night Charm, his face became extremely complicated as a range of emotions could be seen on his face.

Anger, sadness, happiness, and frustration all at the same time. The range of emotions on Night Charm didn't vary that much.

He knew that there must be some important history between both of them. But he didn't care, he just looked at them as he waited to talk to Dharkan.

Chatur whispered something to Sam and after receiving a nod of agreement, he immediately ran out of the room and left the castle.

Sam just stood there as he saw the two people in question still stood there without a word.

He gave a dry cough as if it was a trigger, both of them lunged at each other and started kissing wildly. Sam didn't know if he should laugh or cry. They don't have any sense of propriety at all. With an outsider standing here, how can they commit such shameless acts?

Sam raised his aura and gave another cold cough, but this time it stuck their minds as he used his mental energy to make them come back to his senses.

"You can do what you want after I left," Sam said and all three of them sat down. Night charm is still under restriction but it was tweaked a bit only to restrict her cultivation.

"Dharkan why are so persistent? What would happen, if someone saw me here? Now you either have to kill me or you have to bear a lot of pressure. You might even lose your title. Is it worth it?"

Night charm spoke in a flustered tone.

On the way, Sam hasn't mentioned they are going to Fysi castle, even when she was at the castle, she thought Sam is selling her to some other Yaksha, she didn't expect the one who is waiting for her is Dharkan, if she had known this, she would have rather committed suicide just by rolling over Sky's back during the intrusion of her sect members.

Dharkan didn't reply to her and looked at Sam.

"How many people know of her coming here?"

"Me and Chatur and the people of her sect. There is a possibility that some people of the Nagin castle might have known."

"That means everyone in the dimension will know about this in a few days."

Dharkan muttered and Sam just stayed silent.

"Can you remove her restrictions?" Sam looked at him and said.

"Are you sure?"

When he nodded his head, Sam just shrugged and removed her restriction. She cannot escape anyway, her spatial ring was already taken away and there are two more shadow tokens inside.

As soon as he removed her restrictions though, he immediately covered himself in shadows and disappeared from the spot. A large dark ice lance passed through the floor from where Sam stood. Night charm disappeared and reappeared near Sam's spot as Dharkan used his dark element and ice element in tandem to attack Sam.

Sam grew angry and his gaze turned colder.

He kicked his leg and a lump of dark elemental energy escaped from it before a shadow appeared behind Dharkan. This is his shadow undead. The remaining shadows also came and captured Dharkan, before Sam caught Night Charm by her neck with one hand and used his another hand and chopped on her shoulder with his palm.

The dark elemental energy waves moved all over his hand as he slashed on her shoulder and there was a miniature explosion tearing open the shoulder of the shadow body and deactivating the fusion. His hand went through the shoulder like a hot knife through butter.

Everything happened silently the only noise that was made was the attacks of Dharkan even they are sharper than a brute.

When he saw Sam slicing the arm off of Night Charm and the woman couldn't even scream as Sam choked her throat, Dharkan stopped struggling and stayed in place.

Sam looked at the woman dead in the eyes as he said.

"Do you think I am incompetent just because I didn't kill you earlier? If not for the fact I made a deal with this sorry excuse of a man who couldn't even keep his word, I wouldn't have bothered to keep you alive. I would have killed you the second I caught."

He looked at the prince and spat on the floor.

"Ungrateful piece of shit."

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 625: Helping them

Dharkan slowly dropped to his knees. If not for the fact that the room is small and Sam didn't want to cause any ruckus, he would have slammed their heads to the ground the minute they made their move.

He looked at Dharkan coldly as he placed the restriction back on Night Charm.

He didn't even stop her bleeding much less heal her. But if he kept it like that and restricted the cultivation, then she would bleed to death.

"Sam, at least heal her."

Dharkan said slowly, but Sam kicked him in the face, before saying.

"You better think about how you are going to stay alive, before thinking about her. Do you think it is that easy breaking your word with me?"

Sam said as he sat on the chair and looked at both of them coldly.

"I don't have any other choice. If you don't die, people will know I didn't kill her. Then I would have myriad of troubles."

Sam became angrier and wanted to smash his head into pulp. But he controlled the urge and said coldly.

"I don't give a fuck about what choice you have. I want the Abyss grass by month. Until then, don't even think about getting to meet her. If the grass is not in my hands by the end of the month, you and she both would wish she is dead.

Generally, I don't like threatening others using someone as a hostage, much less using the fact that the hostage is a woman. You should know what kind of possibilities await her if you don't keep your word."

"YOU DARE?"

Sam snorted and said.

"Don't even think I would touch someone else's woman, I am not that filthy. But I can pay for someone else to do that dirty work. Anyway, judging from your reactions, I could just handover her to another noble from the Andhera Nation and they would definitely give the grass to me. Even though it might not be possible to be a fair exchange, I think me paying them with something extra apart from her is easy.

She must have committed a lot of crimes in your nation to be like this. So, you better be prepared."

Sam stood up and was about to leave with her, But Dharkand jumped and held his legs as he looked at Sam with watery eyes.

"Sam, please don't do this. I promise I will keep my word. I will get the Abyss grass for you. I will get you as much as you want. Just leave her alone. Just let her go back to the sect."

"Do you think I am soft persimmon you could squeeze as you like?"

Sam really wanted to kill both of these people. He really wished that Chatur was nearby and he could contact some other Yaksha right this instant and cut a deal with them. He has half-a-mind to yell in the castle and call out some people that might come out and meet him.

As if reading his thoughts, Dharkan said.

"Just give me a chance to explain, after that you can do as you wish. Please, just give me a chance to explain myself and redeem myself."

"And why would I do that?"

"I don't have anything on me that could convince you, even my word might worth less than dirt for you because of what I did. Please, but just give me a chance."

He started doing kowtows as he pleased Sam.

Sam looked at Night Charm who is weeping as she looked at Dharkan, he sighed and made her sit on the floor before saying.

"You have ten minutes."

He sat on the chair and listened to them as he spoke.

It is actually a simple love story that became complicated because of the difference in statuses and the proud Night Charm who has enough of the oppression couldn't take it anymore and retaliated.

The thing is Night Charm is a daughter of some low-level noble within the capital. Generally, there is no way both of them would have enough contact due to this difference and the only reason they had a chance was due to Night Charm's talent.

She was enrolled into the Royal academy that only specializes in teaching high-class nobles and Royal scions, but she was enrolled due to her Shadow body constitution. An elder of the academy who is the most fearsome assassin of the entire kingdom took her in as a disciple.

There was no problem for them to be together as the elder has enough status, but due to some special circumstances the elder has to go somewhere and didn't return. Everyone thought he died and will never return and Night Charm became that lowly person once again.

But they already crossed limits with each other and she was pregnant. The royal family has too high morals and they started having talks regarding their marriage, but the rest of the nobility didn't agree. After all, they all have daughters and they would never miss a chance to get into bed with royalty. So, some people forcefully made her pregnancy disappear that too in the middle of the Abyss harvest within the valley.

The price went crazy and demanded an explanation from his father. But the King felt like it is too troublesome due to the number of nobles involved as there is a chance for them to rebel the worst part is she cannot give birth anymore as there was some kind of poison residue inside of her uterus.

Thus the queen managed to convince the king that it isn't worth it anymore.

But they really wanted to give the girl some compensation which they thought was generous. But how can a mother evaluate her child loss with just a monetary gain? She asked permission to enter the Abyss harvest the very next year and next thing they knew, that Abyss harvest turned into the darkest incident of the whole nation that lives in darkness.

She killed every person related to the nobility that were involved in her incident. Except for the royal scions almost every person was dead.

Then she managed to escape from the valley into a dark forest that is hard for even superior cultivators to tread. But only later did they realize that Night Charm already made contact with the Union sect and they are the ones who helped her escape.

This time, the nobles demanded an explanation from the King and he once again felt troublesome as the nobles are too many and might rebel.

And this time, the Queen reassured him that she would keep their son in check.

Dharkan then vowed himself to not return to the Abyss harvest again and any other even related to the Royal family.

He even made such a demand to Sam as he felt like maybe he is the only one who has skills to capture her. After all, no one from the Fysi planet were able to do anything within the sect and she never returned to the Fysi. At least, not that they knew of.

After hearing their story, Sam heaved a sigh. He doesn't know how to react, he only sympathized with one person, the unborn baby that died without any cause.

He didn't sympathize with Dharkan or Night Charm individually, he felt for their love a little bit and also for the symbol of their love which is the baby.

He felt like they are not lying that much. But Sam is also feeling conflicted a bit. Half of his mind is screaming and demanded he should help them a bit if necessary other half is saying to let them die their own death.

He looked at them and said.

"I promise you, that I would get the Abyss grass, just help me keep this matter down. Just promise me you will keep it a secret and if anyone asks just tell them both of us killed her."

"Do you think the whole world is stupid and they would believe you?"

Dharkan couldn't reply.

Sam shook his head as he thought and finally came to a decision.

"I have a deal. But this time, it comes with a price. Do you want to accept it?"

"What kind of deal?" Night charm asked. She left the planet in spite and as soon as she saw Dharkan again, she didn't want to leave him once again. She just wanted to die while being with him, but she doesn't want to go back to the sect anymore after meeting with him. That is why, she attacked Sam in tandem with Dharkan.

"The kind that will keep you both alive and also separate from your planet, in fact all of the Naga Loka. Are you interested?"

Both of the exchanged a glance and once again looked at Sam before resolutely coming to a decision.

"What should we do?"

Sam smiled faintly and started explaining the plan and details. After giving all the details, all three of them sneaked out of the Fysi castle and moved to the lake.

They removed their normal clothes and tried to dress like humans, they tried to hide their Yaksha features as much as possible.

After arriving at the Lake, Sam resolutely dug a large area and created a small cave before covering it up completely and creating a small entrance on top. He placed his thunder prison and tent on top as he gave an oxygen cylinder and other things within that hole to keep them alive.

Luckily they were discreet and fast enough and from what Night Charm said, they are not tracking her anyway, they are tracking Sam himself.

She said that someone is giving information to the Union sect from the Nagin castle and his doubts were confirmed when the next day afternoon, Chatur came to the lake and reported the situation.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 626: Show of force

When Sam heard the report from Chatur, he immediately became furious. Because from what he said, the location of Sam is being traced in the Nagin castle.

Inside the Nagin castle, there is a special room which Chatur didn't enter all this time, but this day, he entered it. There are six of these special rooms and each room belongs to the different nations' commanders.

But the main thing is, this is like a tracker and only four people from each nation could access this. The tracking devices are nothing but the badges that are given to them.

They use special arrays of inscriptions that lets them be traceable even when they are inside the spatial storages.

When he heard this, the first thing he did is ask how he knew and the answer surprised him.

Chatur has risked it all and entered the floor where these six rooms are, got into the room, and got the info. He doesn't know how the thing works, but he is sure that the information about Sam was given to the other people by one of the closest confidants of the Mov empire's commander.

Sam first dug open the hole and let Chatur inside, before covering it back with the thunder prison and disguising it as the tent.

He left the thunder prison right there and took out harbinger as he started his journey to the Nagin castle at his top speed.

He didn't care if the enemies tracked him, but just from the fact his supposed allies that are supposed to be supporting him are not just supporting and waiting for his death, they are even giving the information to the enemies.

There is no way he would let them off the hook easily.

Sam decided it is about time, he presented a show of force to the Nagin castle members, even though they are not interfering with his work, they are really being complacent thinking that Sam wouldn't attack them.

He has to prove them wrong, otherwise, they will walk all over Sam.

And the first step to do that is to collect heads for leaking his location and whereabouts.

Meanwhile, inside the said room, when the deputy commander saw Sam's location changing swiftly he frowned, and when he saw that he is moving towards the Nagin castle, he relaxed a bit. He went back and did what he wanted to do.

But after a while, the whole Nagin Castle was completely under chaos. Because a few hundred meters away from the castle, everyone could see Sam hovering on a board and held a blood-red blade in his hands.

Sam looked at the castle coldly and activated wind element fusion and started circulating the void style. The red blade glowed with wind elemental energy and sharp sword aura and if one looked closely it almost looked like it is tearing the wind itself.

Sam bent forward a bit as he extended his hand holding the sword and increased the harbinger's speed to the maximum limit as he concentrated on collecting the wind elemental energy in surroundings to his blade.

When Sam is at a clear visible distance, every cultivator in the castle immediately notified their superiors causing a stir.

They immediately activated their formations, but Sam didn't stop, he came to a sudden and instant halt right before the entrance of the castle and used the momentum to swing the blade.

A large wind blade combined with a sword aura slashed through the formation and hit the castle as if it is cutting a piece of paper.

The attack didn't enter the depths of the castle, rather it slashed the outer surface and the void style exploded as the formation crashed completely and the center of the castle collapsed into rubble.

Only the rooms on both sides are left, the line of attack was focused on the hallways and the attack revealed the lowest hall of the castle on the ground floor. Thankfully, except for some rooms and walls, there is no serious damage.

But they are not thankful for the castle's defense they are thankful for Sam's control.

Normal soldiers couldn't see by the commanders and other elites could see from Sam's raging aura that this attack isn't even half of his strength. If he really put it all in, more than half of the people currently inside the castle would have died.

The commanders and deputies and even the normal soldiers all became furious after they came to their senses. They don't know why Sam is attacking their own, they really wanted to demand an explanation, but looking at the rubble they swallowed the words.

But the commanders and deputies have some backbone due to their backgrounds.

Sam looked at them as they stood on their flying beasts and came towards Sam before asking.

"What is the meaning of this? Are you trying to rebel?" The Mov empire commander asked coldly.

Sam looked at him with a death stare as he deactivated the wind elemental fusion.

"Someone is leaking the information about my location to the Union sect from this castle. If that person doesn't come out now, I will find that person in my own way, but trust me there would be a lot of blood if I find my own way."

One of the commanders snorted before saying.

"Who do you think you are to blatantly throw such accusations? We will report it to your emperor."

Sam looked at him and the grip on his sword tightened as his aura turned sharp. That guy immediately took a step back on his beast. They knew from the show of might, they are no match for Sam. They would die for one wrong step.

"How are you so sure about this?"

The flavos emperor's commander was the calmest one of all and asked.

"Night Charm told me."

"Night Charm?" Everyone looked at Sam with a stunned expression.

"Yesterday night, Night charm came to kill me, but I caught her and held hostage. I even took her to Fysi castle to see if she is one of the Yakshas, only when she regained senses and after my thorough interrogation did I learn who she is.

After all, the commanders here didn't give me any information regarding the Elite ten of the Union sect. Of course, I can understand. After all, all of you are waiting for me to die, why would you do me a favor?"

The Mov empire's commander and the deputy avoided eye contact immediately and looked away.

"What if she lied?"

The flavos commander still asked.

"My interrogation is a bit different. She cannot lie."

"How can you be so sure? Don't be so full of yourself?"

Sam looked at the deputy who said this and asked.

"How about a game then? I will interrogate you. I will ask some questions before and after I use my methods on you. All you have to do is just lie. If you can lie for one single question, I will give you a hundred million. How about that?" Sam said coldly as he looked at that guy with a creepy smile. He immediately shuddered a bit and didn't speak anymore.

Sam looked at the commanders and said.

"I wouldn't beat around the bush. I know you guys are tracking me. If you don't reveal the truth, I will kill every person that has access to my location. I don't care about allies who don't support me. But once that dig holes for me, if I don't make a thousand maggots dig into their rotten dead bodies in some valley, I would change my name."

Everyone listened to his words and shuddered.

As soon as he finished, the Flavos commander said.

"Tracking people is really something the castle members do. But the authority and access to track you are only available to Mov empire's commander, two deputies, and the squad captain of the Mov. The rest of the five doesn't have anything to do with this issue."

With that, he just left the place followed by the rest of the hesitant commanders. As for an explanation for the destroyed castle, they didn't dare to voice it out.

Sam looked at the Mov commander and said.

"Since it is only four people, it wouldn't take much time, if I go through all of you."

Sam looked at them and said.

"I have two choices, take these pills. They are truth pills from my home, they can make you say only the truth for the next few minutes. If you don't speak the truth, you will feel your meridians shattered.

The second way is for me to get hands-on with you. Which way do you choose?"

"Sam you are being excessive by doing this." One of the deputies said. And Sam swung his sword. The sword ray flashed past his head and a few strands of hair fell from right above his forehead.

"The next one would be a few inches lower. I only want to know pills or me. Trust I would only ask about my tracking nothing else."

The four of them meekly took the pills, they are afraid that Sam would take matters into his own hands. After all, he has too much authority within the Mov and particularly, the commander who is a relative of the imperial family more than others.

Crown prince himself said Sam could do as he sees fits when another imperial scion tries to mess with him. Other than killing he has all rights and this message was given to them by the crown prince himself. So, he didn't hesitate to believe that Sam is a maniac that would deal with him.

As for others, they are nobles and they knew what Sam did to Gnyan. They are not willing to see through this with force and took the pills before swallowing them.

Sam asked a few questions and they answered.

He finished with three of them and the results are negative. He focused on the fourth person who is the deputy who raised his objection earlier.

He looked at Sam's cold smile and his knees shook as he said.

"I am the one who did it."

He said with a dry voice.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 627: Players Arrived

The sudden admittance was not something because of his guilty conscience, of course, it played a small part. But the most important thing regarding this feeling is actually Sam's killing intent.

It is his enormous killing intent and bloodlust that made them accept Sam's actions and take the pill.

The three of them are okay because they didn't really do anything they didn't care if they suffered some humiliation. It is better than Sam taking matters into his own hands. After all, they had seen the reports. Sam has killed so many people, that they didn't even dare imagine.

It is true that they waited for Sam's death under the Elite ten, but they didn't want to meddle and make an enemy out of him. After all, if he decided to flex his prowess a bit before dying, they would die too.

But the fourth guy tried to play it cool. Half of his mind said that Sam is bullshitting and there is no such thing as that pill. In fact, his mind was right.

There is no such pill in Sam's hands. He is bluffing and the bluff worked.

The only reason was that his show of force and his aggressive yet confident stand made him nervous and when he looked at him like a crazed maniac, he was extremely baffled and immediately buckled under the pressure.

Sam held him by his throat and said.

"After sometime, you will start to spew who your father is anyway. So, you just have to tell me now so that we can save time when we have our personal 'chat'."

"He is a marquis. But it has nothing to do with him. I did all on my own violation."

"Your own? Why don't you tell me the reason?"

"I want the commander position that is the only reason. My father inherited my grandfather's position, but he didn't raise at all. What can a Marquise do? I want my title to raise and this is the only way I can find it. I am sorry for selling you out."

Sam laughed coldly as he threw a recording crystal to the Mov commander and said.

"This is the recording crystal with his confession, take this to the emperor and I want his reaction by the end of the week. If he asks the life of this guy is still intact and asks why I directly killed him without waiting, tell him one thing.

'I am sick and tired of playing with the scion of this realm.' Leave the exact statement."

With that, he once again focused on this guy and continuously asked the question to find the way they contacted him. There is a special communication token in his spatial ring.

This one is identical to one Night charm has in her own ring.

After getting all the answers, Sam suddenly used the same killing method he used when killing a beast faction member in a resource competition.

He increased the blood circulation. Right in front of all the Nagas' eyes. The deputy turned into his original form, his scales peeled off of his body and he was there with bare flesh. The flesh started drying up as the temperature of the blood increased and skin cracked before he started bleeding as the meridians and veins are all completely burst apart, and slowly, the muscle fibers were torn into shreds.

Soon, all they could see the flesh falling off of the bones.

Sam threw the carcass aside and looked at the Nagas before saying.

"I don't give a fuck if you guys help me or not. I didn't ask for it anyway. But if you disrupt me and try to dig traps under me, you will follow the same fate."

With that, Sam went back to the lake.

The thunder prison is still like that. He didn't worry about it all. Because thunder prison is not something a nascent can move. As for them taking control of it? It is even impossible. Lately, Sam noticed something with the thunder prison. The weapon seemed to have a spirit but it is an extremely passive one and directly has control over Sam. But to change hands, the battle would be nightmarish as even with this limited power, it is too strong.

If any nascent in this dimension could control it, he would give up all his fortune for him.

Sam destroyed his special commander token after he killed that guy. He didn't like being tracked. But the uses of the token are self-explanatory as he can visit the other castles with a status, so before he broke it he made a replica.

After that, there is not much disturbance regarding this.

Now, all he has to do is follow through with his plan.

The next day, Dharkan and Sam came to Fysi castle with a dead body.

They even made an announcement showing that this is the dead body of Night charm. There is an uproar, particularly from Andhera kingdom's side.

Many people instantly came to check the dead body no matter they could recognize her or not.

Sam and Chatur even followed the Andhera through the portal and they displayed the body to the nobles and the King.

After confirming it was her, they performed a funeral, and Sam was given a bountiful reward of hundred million. Which with Prince Dharkan's influence he converted into resources.

He bought several metals that react well with dark elemental energy and ice elemental energy.

After buying, Sam returned with the goods, but Dharkan stayed there.

He was planning on opening a new business as he had a new product in mind. He announced to his father and mother that he got the design from Sam for a good price and decided to open this special weapon business.

They instantly agreed as they could feel the burden of his heart due to Night Charm's death and the prince used all the funds he could and more he got from Sam to place an order of large amounts of metal.

He decided he would come back to the dimension after the abyss harvest is over.

Sam who returned was met with some familiar faces. The rest of the players arrived. Arman and Arkiv along with Akhil came to the Lake.

He felt a headache creeping on to him as he looked at the timer that was on his hand. It is close to two months since this game started. And he already got two herbs. For the third one, he would have to wait another twenty-five days. But he cannot sit idly to wait for that to come to his hand. He had to find a way to get the remaining herbs.

But these guys are here now and they would add to the trouble he is already having.

"Why are you guys here?"

"I came here because since the time I gave you is over, I would like to give you a reminder on what you would have to face. And these guys just wanted to tag along." Arkiv said as he sat in a chair within the tent.

"Okay, I heard you. Then get out of this place. This lake is my territory for now. Even if you want to plan something don't do this right in my place."

"What is that lake, why did you drop so many fire elemental stones in there?" Akhil asked.

"It's a resource point. Don't tell me that you also didn't get any information."

"Of course we did, do you think everyone will also treat us like a giant pain in the ass like they treat you?" Arkiv once again replied.

Arman just stayed silent as he stood there.

"What are you doing here?" Sam asked him with a smile.

"I am just here to see if you would need any help. There are too many people here after you."

He said with his head lowered and muffled voice. Sam smirked and patted his shoulder.

Sam nodded and just focused on Akhil and Arkiv. You guys better leave now before I decide to restrain you. It would be for my benefit after all.

"Do you think we are that weak? We might not be weaker if we both cooperate."

"Yeah, Kumar and Noah thought the same. You can ask them how that turned out."

After some more banter, the two of them left.

Sam confirmed that no one else here and moved the thunder prison to let Chatur out. He is not willing to let Chatur stay alone that easily. It would be extremely dangerous. That is why he hid him.

He introduced both of them before saying.

"Elite ten are on to us. For now, only one of them is truly taken down and there are still nine. We have to be careful if I have to let my plans go unhindered and I do have some ideas on how to deal with that situation. But before that, Chatur, contact someone from the Vronti empire and his status shouldn't be less than Sandra and Dharkan.

How long would you need?"

"No need to wait at all. We can go now if you want to. I am a bit close to this guy. He might not be the strongest person in Vronti Castle, but he is the most capable merchant. He will sell his own body if he can get enough money."

Sam nodded and said.

"Okay then, let us go."

Now, instead of two, three of them started their journey.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Chapter 628: Praneeth

Their journey to the Vronti castle is actually quite uneventful and there is actually a shortcut from the lake which made their journey faster.

Chatur changed his appearance when they are nearby and he did so after changing into a human form. He changed into a human with a face that could easily get lost in a crowd. He even made Sam and Arman change clothes and created disguises.

But when they entered the Vronti castle, they didn't have to wait for anyone or inform an attendant. They directly strolled into a room with no one stopping them.

As for the reason, the Vronti castle doesn't welcome the people from Nagin castle. They are extremely averse to them and the main reason stemmed from the rivalry of the Nagas.

The Vronti Planet is also controlled by both Yaksha and Nagas. There are few humans. But the Nagas of this planet don't like the Nagas of the Nagin planet because of their bloodline variation.

Now it is like the racism of the modern earth. Racism based on skin tone, but where the skin is replaced by scales.

The planet is also a bit different as they have extreme lightning energy and metal energy all over the place. There are many mines to the point there is no normal vegetation. Even the trees and forests here are of metal and they look great for the view, not so for the food and such.

The conflict between the two unbalanced natural elements, the metal and lightning clash regularly making it hard for them to live there.

But that also gave them some advantages that are not easily obtained in any other place. For starters, the gravity of this place is higher and this made these people stronger than normal. They have a greater tendency to activate warrior bodies and there are many people with warrior constitutions.

And due to the active metal essence and the lightning essence all over, it is a great place for cultivating both elements and most of them awaken as Warrior mages of either one of those elements or even both of those elements.

Even though they don't have as many resources as the rest of the planets when considering other elements, they have too many in their own elements that made them extremely powerful.

As for the reason the Nagas of the Vronti planet do not like the Nagas of the Nagin planet, it is very simple.

It was said that the Nagas of Vronti planet are once part of the Nagin empire, but were chased away from that planet and thrown into the Vronti Planet as prisoners.

It was done so because ancestors of both races ascended to greater heights and fought for superiority. Their side lost but didn't seem to honor a bet, so this ancestor got pissed and tore open a space tunnel and threw them all into that planet.

Even though it is a little more than a myth in the Nagin, the Vronti believe this as an exaggerated fact.

As for Yaksha, they have nothing against others.

Currently, they are meeting a Yaksha of the Vronti.

He didn't wear anything on his upper half as he showed off his physique with all the blue electric tattoos along with blue metallic tattoos.

He was blessed with both of them and the tattoos are extremely dense for a nascent.

"Hey, Chatur. It has been a long time since we met."

He greeted chatur casually and gestured all three of them to take a seat.

"I have been busy. I brought someone to meet you. He wants to talk a business deal."

Chatur replied and went on to introduce Sam and Arman. Apparently, the disguise is only for the others to ignore them. This guy already knows Chatur's real identity and they seemed to be pretty close. Sam could see how casual this guy is. His name is praneeth and he is already talking to them as if they are friends for the past seven lives.

"So, what kind of business do you want to discuss? I am open to talk about any business except for a few."

"I want to buy something special from your planet. But I don't know if you have authority to sell it."

"Don't worry about that. There are not many things I couldn't sell. You can name what you want. I can sell metals, elemental stones, special herbs, fruits, even fruit trees. Apart from that I even have a business of some special beasts and even exotic water creatures of the Vronti."

"They all sounds great, but first I want to buy a mushroom."

Sam said with a smile.

Praneeth's smile stiffened a bit and then his grin became bigger.

"If you are saying what I think you are saying, maybe you came to the right person. Only I have authority to give access to that thing."

"If you think I am talking about Thousand lightning mushroom, then yes, you might be the right person."

"But you do know that it is extremely valuable right? It cannot be bought with money easily."

"Of course, I am not just paying with money. What do you want?"

"The thousand lightning mushroom is difficult to obtain. But only for others, for me it is easy and in fact, I already have one. It is to improve my cultivation and foundation. Even the transcendent stage cultivators can take it. As for me, if I take it in small parts and slowly digest it, I can easily become a pre-transcendent stage cultivator and even reach the second stage directly. So, it is hard to put a price tag on it.

But there is a way for you to exchange it with something of equivalent value."

"So, what would that be?"

"I heard you are quite fast, I want you to obtain a fruit for me, but that fruit is not of the same value as the mushroom. It is quite cheaper. So, I want three of them plus, I want your help in capturing a beast. I want you to help me tame it. If you can do that, I will give you the mushroom.

If you can obtain anything from the expedition, you can keep it."

Sam looked at him and thought for a moment before saying.

"Any other alternatives?"

"I can't say I don't have any. But only if there no hope at all."

"Then I would agree. When do we leave?"

"In two days, we will meet at the Origin castle at dawn."

Sam nodded and left along with Arman and Chatur.

They didn't go back to the lake immediately. Due to the appearance of Elite ten in the dimension, the Union sect once again started the war.

But this time, they are not as aggressive and even their arrangements are quite meticulous and that is due to one of the elite ten's arrangements. He is called the Battle Erudite. Even though, Sam felt that the title is not so deserving it is not too far off.

He is good at planning battle formations and such.

He has astute planning and a delicate understanding of the situation and he is not even attacking the Nagin castle directly.

He is attacking it bit by bit.

The Nagin castle has a very large disadvantage in terms of its bases and resource points. They are spread too thin and too wide. They couldn't send the reinforcements immediately.

Currently, they are attacking a castle of Nagin planet from a different direction and attacked another resource point a bit far away from that castle.

There is another base of Nagin castle in the middle, they are now stuck between two choices, but when they send reinforcement to either one of them, that very base would be vulnerable and the Union sect has stationed some troops nearby.

So, currently, the union sect battling on two fronts and waiting out on one.

On top of that six of the elite ten are placed in pairs at these three places. They are waiting for Sam or other elites that appeared that could tilt the scales of the battle, they are not going to directly participate in the battle.

But what they don't know is neither Sam's nor the elites that came has the war as their first priority. They all have their own tasks to complete.

After observing the situation for a bit, Sam decided to meddle in one of the battle-fields.

If he fought with these elites, he is pretty sure that they would use those shadow tokens. But Sam has a chance now as Arman is with him. He could figure out a way to hold off at least one of them if they wanted to escape by using their teamwork.

So, after scouting a bit, they finally found the place where the wind fiend is and decided to make their move there.

He already has some personal business with that guy as he escaped after ambushing. So, Sam figured that it is also a chance for him to repay the favor.

He could also understand the mindset of these guys as he didn't expect them to be this passive after Night Charm's disappearance.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Sam let Chatur hide in the Vronti castle for the time being and he would come to the Origin castle along with him.

He decided to play around the battle for these two days and that too in direct battle. He didn't want to battle with undead and other tricks.

In fact, he wanted to go for an old-fashioned fist fight for a change, so he and Arman immediately covered their faces with black cloth as they wore full black. They don't even have any special inscriptions and enchantments. They are just some high-quality normal clothes.

As for why they are wearing this, it is just because Sam just wanted to have some fun.

They reached the base that was under attack as discreetly as possible and joined the army directly. Sam flashed his special commander badge to the acting commander in secret and Arman who also has a special badge showed it and only the acting commander at that base knew of their real identities.

The acting commander was ecstatic. He didn't expect that a special commander and an elite would be coming here. Currently, the rest of the special commanders are in a deep discussion as the addition of the new elites and the previous losses, made them rethink their situation, and with Sam's prowess and the players' goading, they reached an agreement.

They wanted to get the most out of this by cooperating together isolating Sam. The normal commander of Mov is also not there as he was sent back to the empire by Sam.

So, there is no opposition and to their surprise, Noah and Arkiv who are supposed to be on the Mov side are also supporting them.

They are currently planning some big moves and didn't care about the skirmishes that are happening at the two places, they are planning a large-scale attack on the sect. But since Sam is not involved in this, he didn't know anything and decided to just mess around in the current battles.

They entered the two separate squads at two ends of the battle-field. Both of them only used lightning elements and they only used their fists. They didn't even care about strategy or orders, they just jumped into the enemies and started punching with lightning fists.

The silver sparks and blue sparks are glowing all over as they attacked barbarically.

Sam didn't even follow his usual style of attacking vitals, he is just punching wherever he can and started penetrating the enemy formation.

The same thing could be seen happening from the other side.

And this led to the commander of the enemy troops to fall into panic. After all, the plans the battle erudite gave him are only related to battling against the army. It didn't specify the battle against single experts creating mass murder.

The reason Battle Erudite didn't do so; was not that he didn't want to, rather he thought, he didn't need to because he thought, Sam or other elites wouldn't use such an approach and they would get the information from their spies if they are moving and the Elite ten members would be prepared.

But Sam and Arman joining the battle are completely decided on a whim and there is no other plan behind it. They even sneaked in completely beyond their thoughts.

By the time, they realized who they are it was too late because they only managed to find out after their clothes are torn and their faces are revealed and people from the Elite ten saw them. But, Sam and Arman are already in the middle of the battle formations, this caused chaos and the elite ten members ran forward commanding the troops to disperse directly.

They didn't want Sam to create another massacre. They suffered enough losses already.

Even though this many people surrounded Sam, due to him being surrounded like that, at most six people could attack him and Sam is fast enough to kill or injure these six people before they could attack and they are being replaced by another six.

They couldn't do anything but take the damage.

But after the call from the elites, they immediately dispersed and the Nagin castle troops didn't let go of this chance.

They took the initiative to take advantage. The formations have been continuously making them feel stressed as they are not being able to break them.

Even when someone strong was able to break them for a bit, just like how Sam was stuck between the group with six people surrounding him, they are going to be dead and the formation is in such a way that they couldn't break through with a chain of people.

They are separating the group of people that tried to break and surrounded them separately. But Sam and Arman are anomalies and added to the fact they are acting like normal soldiers made it hard for them.

But now, the two elites came forward, the normal soldiers of the Union sect are actually relieved even though they met with the attacks of the Nagin soldiers.

Sam smiled as the person who came to him was none of than the Wind Fiend who came on his bird. But he didn't fly on it. He jumped off and took out his saber as he launched himself towards Sam while the Vulture started supporting him.

Sam smiled and didn't take out his sword, the silver lightning crackled all over his scar-filled body and he lunged towards Wind fiend. He didn't even use partial fusion and only attacked with his fists.

As for the Vulture, it could wish it can catch Sam alone without harming Wind Fiend directly.

Sam was sticking to Wind Fiend's body like a young maiden in love as if he couldn't live without that guy. He was so close and the vulture would definitely cause severe damage to Wind fiend if it attacked.

Sam continuously punched forward as he even blocked several saber strikes and stabs with his fists and sent jolts of the shock of silver lightning through that contact.

The amount of lightning is extremely small, but he is repeatedly making contact. Sam must say he was impressed by Wind fiend's defense as he still stood and fought back after taking multiple hits.

Even though Sam didn't use full power, this is really impressive.

As he was battling, Sam slowly lost his advantage, after all, he is only using his fists and fighting at a moderate pace with minimal lightning. It could be said that he is even toying and observing the other battle between Arman and another elite of the Usaine sect.

They are having a somewhat tight battle as Arman held a considerable advantage. The reason being both of them using the lightning elements and Arman being more proficient with his skills.

He already took out his saber as he countered his opponent who is using a staff.

They are having a battle with high tension. Looking at them he felt a bit jealous, he didn't have such a tense battle in a long time.

That is why he is suppressing his abilities like this now. As for enemies escaping, he has his ideas for that. But for now, he changed his stance a bit and increased the lightning energy in his arms and legs. His speed and strength increased and all of a sudden he landed a clean upper-cut straight to the chin of the Wind Fiend which made him fly off a bit and crash into the distance.

But Sam didn't follow up, rather he immediately leaped backward and dodged two wind blades that missed him with hair's breadth and launched himself at the Vulture behind him.

The vulture reacted fast enough and escaped, but his fist still grazed at the lower abdomen causing the vulture to scream in pain.

Sam jumped backward and looked at the man and the beast before shaking his head. This is getting really boring.

He looked at Wind Fiend with a bit of disdain. Even though this guy is good, he can only be considered a bit above average. The players could also wipe the floor with him. He is more like Night Charm.

She is good at assassination, not open battles and this guy is also not good at direct clashes, he is good at aerial combat and ambushes.

But he is not great at melee. At least, not one of the top dogs in that area when compared to Sam and the rest of the players.

Maybe, other people will be having a problem when dealing with him as he is mostly focused on the mid-ranged attacks with wind blades and saber combination, but Sam has yet to give him a chance at that as he directly stuck to him.

He had his fun, albeit very short, but he is bored. His body suddenly got surrounded by silver lightning and he took out staff as he looked at Wind Fiend.

Wind fiend also gritted his teeth and got ready to launch a final attack. He now has enough distance to build his attack too, even the vulture got into position.

Sam even noticed that Wind fiend is holding the shadow token and the same hand has a thumb on the beast pouch that was on his waist. He was ready to escape too.

His saber was condensing the spiritual energy and wind howled around it as he ran forward.

The wings of the vulture also glowed and shone like sharp blades of wind as both man and the beast lunged towards him.

Sam slammed his foot to the ground and flipped in the air as he swung his staff towards the beast. Wind fiend frowned at this as the target is far off, the staff wouldn't react to the vulture as the swing is small.

But as the staff came to halt, a bolt of silver lightning came out of the edge and stuck the head of the vulture, make it numb and stunned and the Vulture stopped flying and crashed.

Sam didn't stop though, he used the falling momentum and swung the staff downwards as it landed on the left hand that was holding the shadow token completely breaking the limb.

Due to his single second of daze, Wind Fiend's attack missed Sam and grazed on the vulture's back.

But the vulture couldn't even scream as it is completely numb and paralyzed.

Sam landed on the ground as he looked at both of them. He made a swift move and broke another hand of Wind Fiend and smiled. The boring battle was over instantly.

RE-BIRTH OF A GENIUS. CREATOR/DESTROYER

Even the last attacks Sam landed with the staff are not that great. They are quite simple actually. The only problem is them being lightning attacks and Wind Fiend is too stupid to prepare any defense.

He is the epitome of the saying 'People judge others by their own standards.' He doesn't have the ability to move like Sam and hit like Sam, so he just decided that Sam wouldn't be able to do that too.

Sam was clearly too disappointed. When the lightning user looked at the situation, he decisively halted the battle and yelled a command to the troops before crushing the shadow token.

The troops started to retreat and the Nagin castle troops started their pursuit as they didn't want to lose this chance.

Sam and Arman didn't care about them. They already did what they had to do and with this Sam's contribution would definitely surpass all the special commanders combined. So, he doesn't have to worry about the situation too much. He would receive the rewards he was due. After all, he alone killed a thousand soldiers and even reclaimed bases and finally took out two of the Elite ten. There is no way the other empires can protest.

This is the part of the reason that the rest of the special commanders decided to work together so that they can sweep the rest of the battlefield and diminish Sam's achievements. They would even agree to take equal credit and since they would become one entity in this, the Mov empire can forget about that deal between six empires. At least, that is what their plan.

But with this battle, the balance has already tipped.

Sam himself cleaned more than thirty percent of enemies, which means the rest of the five have to fight for the remaining sixty-five to sixty-eight percent. Even if they distributed evenly they would only get thirteen to fourteen percent.

That is if Sam stops. After all, with the damage, Sam caused, if the Elite ten left him alone like that, their reputation would be worth bullshit.

As for the rest of the time, Sam didn't go and play with the rest of the armies, instead, he and Arman went around to gather food and new beasts to the farm.

Along with that, Sam is also looking for new vegetation so that it could keep up with the livestock he is growing.

He has to maintain the output of the feed and luckily most of the beasts he had as livestock are herbivores and the current output is enough.

After these two days, he directly went to the Origin castle with Arman. Since it is a planet with high lightning elemental energy, Arman might have some encounters. This short training period could be helpful.

Anyway, since even with the enticement of the rewards from the Black horse competition, he still didn't dare to do anything against Sam, it is okay to give him some rewards.

When they reached the Origin castle, Chatur is still in his disguise, but Sam and Arman are not, they didn't bother much as there is no one who knows their faces on that planet.

They went to Vronti and there are already people ready to escort them to their destination.

They didn't beat around the bush and go to Praneeth's home. Since the deal is discussed directly, there is no need to wait.

Anyway, Sam has a lot of things to do back in the Union dimension.

So, they just went on with the journey and they used the beasts of the locality. They are traveling on the ground. The sky here is full of magnetic storms and lightning storms. It is not good for them to fly at all. The beasts that could fly high are not low in cultivation.

For that reason, Raiju also came out and he is jumping around as if he is in a playground. The environment is extremely conducive to electricity as even the soil was like powdered metal. There are many minerals even in normal soil. But due to an excessive mixture of multiple metals it is hard to separate them.

One thing, that surprised Sam is the gravitational effect. It is higher than what he anticipated and for a few minutes, it was hard for him to even move.

Even after he adapted, it would be hard for him to battle at his full strength with his normal body. Of course, it is different if we talk about elemental fusion. After seeing this effect, his mind is full of thoughts. This place is a perfect training zone for warriors, lightning users, and metal users.

He has many ideas flooding his brain and he could see himself being in long-term cooperation with Praneeth.

They traveled for three days straight and finally, reached the vicinities of their first stop.

It is the fruit tree.

When Sam looked at the area, he could help but remember the Tempest Valley in the Central continent of the Desolate planet where Old beast is resting.

It is almost the same, the only problem is that within the valley apart from the tempest, the gravity is many times stronger than outside the valley.

And in the middle of it all, there are five fruit trees.

Sam couldn't help but shudder as he looked at this. Even though the lightning quality is not as strong as the tempest valley, this is not something easy to survive.

Even some Pre-transcendent stage cultivators would die. But the problem is that other than Nascent and Pre-transcendent stage cultivators, no one is allowed to enter. It is because, the clouds causing the lightning seemed to have sentience, and when they feel the presence of someone stronger than the middle-stage Pre-transcendent the lightning will go on a rampage trying its best to kill you.

Legend states that no one was able to escape the lightning storm after they entered if their cultivation level is that high.

Sam was nervous when he looked at the situation. He didn't think it would be this dangerous.

But apart from the nervousness, he is actually quite excited too.

"The fruit here could work wonders. Even though the mushroom is good, its real effect is for the beasts or the Transcendent stage cultivators. But the effect is not too significant for them to die for it. So, mostly Nascent stage cultivators use it.

But these fruits are different. They are mostly suitable for cultivators. But if they didn't take three, they might as well not take any of it.

One fruit wouldn't change anything and if they took two it could even cause imbalance. That is why I asked you.

Are you confident?"

Sam nodded and said.

"I need to examine the environment first."

"One more thing, when you reach the tree and pluck the fruit, you would have to accept a small punishment from the valley. So, be prepared. If you take three, then you would have to take a larger punishment. I wonder if you could take it."

Sam nodded and just stood there at the entrance of the valley.

The lightning is in pale blue color. It is crackling like crazy and unlike the tempest valley that has a continuous rhythm, this doesn't have a pattern at all.

The only pattern that could be visible is that the intensity of lightning is increasing to the deeper portion of the valley.

In every portion, the lightning is striking normally without any rhythm or pattern.

Sam sat there at the entrance for a whole day, but he still couldn't find any pattern. They are extremely random and this would make it hard for him to escape easily.

That evening, there are some people who wanted to try their hand at the fruits and entered the valley.

Out of those three, two people had partial lightning fusion and the last one has full fusion. Their lightning is also of different colors and the quality and intensity is nowhere near Arman's lightning much less compare to his silver lightning.

But they are good, they seemed to have experienced this before.

They are mostly trying to dodge the lightning strikes, but it is not easy to do so. So, they dodged as much as they can and let the lightning strike their bodies.

Initially, the two with the partial fusion are having a harder time in the portion of the valley nearest to the entrance.

The one with the complete fusion has no problem moving easily. But this changed when they reached half-way.

The gravity which Sam initially thought was normal gravity is actually extreme magnetic force.

It is making their lightning bodies react a bit and clearly, they are having a tough time controlling their fusion. But if they didn't do so, they would die from the continuous lightning strikes.

One guy with the least amount of fusion couldn't take it anymore and give up early, the second person also gave up after his fusion body fluctuated and he retreated to avoid backlash.

The last person was just a few steps away from the tree and he wanted to extend his hand, but the lightning strikes are something he couldn't handle.

Even his fusion body is injured and he immediately ran backward without care.

He fell to his knees at the entrance and coughed up blood. His friends took care of him and they left the place together.