

Cute Baby14

chapter 14

Nina looked at the two babies dotingly.

“I have time to take them to play today.”

Nina stood out of the cradle and walked up to the two babies.

“Cheney, Hanna, let’s go play.”

Nina narrowed her eyes and opened her hands.

Hearing the words, Cheney and Hanna ran into Nina’s arms.

“I’m going to play!”

The two babies were very happy, with a pair of deep dimples and a pair of tiger teeth looming.

“Celia, let’s go together.”

Nina turned to look at Celia.

“Today is the only time for you three. I won’t disturb you. Have a good time and remember to be careful.”

Celia waved at them with a warm smile.

“Then have a good rest at home. What do you want to eat for dinner? I’ll take it back.”

Nina waited for Celia’s answer.

“No, thanks. Besides, don’t you know there is an app called ele.me?On call. I’ll wait for you for dinner.Go ahead. Don’t be like my mother all day long. Don’t worry about me. ”

Celia urged Nina not to waste time.

Nina waved at Celia.

“Then let’s go. Say goodbye to auntie, Cheney and Hanna.”

The two babies were so excited today that they raised their hands high with an expression.

“Beautiful aunt Celia, we’re going to play. Goodbye!”

Cheney and Hanna smiled brightly at Celia.

“Bye. Have fun.”

Nina was very excited on the way to play with the two babies.

The naughty Hanna turned her head, jumping up and down. It happened that Hanna was wearing a pink rabbit jumpsuit today. The long ears swayed with Hanna, making her look like a little rabbit.

Cheney, who was wearing a blue casual suit, followed Nina coldly.

Her black curly hair danced with the breeze, with his hands in his trouser pockets, full of masculine demeanor.

“Mommy, I want to play in the amusement park.”

Hanna suddenly turned her head, her big eyes full of expectation.

On the day Nina agreed to take them out, Cheney and Hanna had discussed with each other about where to go.

They were waiting for their mommy to take them out.

“Well, since Mommy agreed to take you there, you can go wherever you want to go today.”

Nina agreed readily with the two babies.

Half an hour later, they arrived at the amusement park.

“Wow, it looks so funny.”

As soon as they entered the amusement park, the two babies looked around.

There were a variety of projects in the amusement park. The onlookers were dazzled.

There were more and more facilities in the amusement park. There were a large water park, an exciting roller coaster, a creepy ghost house, and the safest merry-go-round.

The two babies had almost played all the projects in the amusement park.

When they finished the last project, they all ran to a chair and sat down.

“You must be tired. Mommy will buy you ice cream.”

Then Nina walked to the convenience store.

“I’m so tired!”

Hanna sat on the chair, like a tired rabbit.

Her head was full of sweat.

“Give me your backpack.”

Cheney unhurriedly took off his sister’s backpack and put it in front of him.

Then, he took out a few tissues from his backpack and gently wiped the sweat on his sister’s little face.

Hanna looked at Cheney with her bright eyes.

“Thank you, brother!”

An naive smile appeared on her face.

After a while, Nina came over with two big ice creams.

“Mommy, why did you only buy two ice-creams?”

Hanna looked up at Nina with her bright eyes, her long curly eyelashes blinking up and down.

Nina smiled.

She was supposed to buy three ice-creams, but there were only the last two. They didn't like the rest and so did she. Then she only bought two.

“There are only the last two. Come on, one for each.”

Nina sat in the middle of them and gave it to them.

Hanna held the ice cream with desire in her eyes, as if saying that she was going to swallow it in one gulp.

However, Cheney didn't take the ice-cream from Nina.

“Cheney, why don't you take it?”

Nina looked at the one next to him blankly.

“I don't like such sweet and greasy food at all now. These are for you little girls!”

Cheney said proudly, holding his V shaped chin with his hands intertwined.

He stole a glance at the ice cream in Nina's hand.

“Really?”

Nina seduced Cheney.

“I'm a man. Men shouldn't eat such sweet and greasy food. You eat it!”

Cheney insisted.

“Well, Cheney is a man. Men don't eat these.”

Nina caressed the hair on Cheney's forehead.

One day passed like this. Although they were tired, they had a good time.

Looking at the blooming flowers, they smiled brightly.

Nina felt relieved and warm, as if she had put a layer of honey on her heart.

As long as her two little babies were there, happiness was everywhere.

The two little babies were tired, and she was also very tired.

Hanna had fallen asleep in her arms, and her son Cheney was sleepy.

Then she took a taxi home.

It was already six o'clock in the evening when they got home. The three of them were tired today.

"Nina, you're back."

Hearing the sound of opening the door, Celia guessed that it was Nina with two babies.

She quickly took over the baby who was asleep in her arms.

"Come on, Cheney. Let's go to bed."

Cheney's eyelids drooped, and his dark eyes were rolling.

Nina went upstairs with the two babies to sleep. A few minutes later, Cheney also fell asleep.

The two kids fell asleep soundly. Nina gave Cheney and Hanna a gentle kiss on their heads.

Then Nina stood up gently and went downstairs.

"Celia, I have to go. Help me take care of the two children."

Nina looked at the time. It was already six ten. It would be almost seven o'clock when she arrived at the Gu' house, so she couldn't delay any longer.

"Just sleep at home today. It's so late."

Seeing the anxious look on Nina's face, Celia wanted to keep her.

"No, I can't let that freak know about it."

Nina answered while changing her shoes.

"Well, let's talk on the phone. I'm leaving now."

Nina put on her shoes and jogged out.

"Slow down!"

Celia looked at Nina's staggering back and exhorted.
