

Cute Baby26

chapter 26

Nina, who was woken up by the alarm clock, stretched lazily.

“Good morning!”

Seeing the man coming out of the bathroom, Nina greeted him.

She found that the big pillow beside her was gone.

“What... What did you do to me tonight? Where is the pillow?”

Nina looked at Gabriel in panic.

“Think about what you did last night.”

Gabriel replied indifferently without any explanation.

Last night. What did I do last night?

Last night, the space between the pillows was too small, and it was uncomfortable to hold her. Then he was thrown aside by Nina.

Something else seemed to have happened.

She often slept with the two babies in her arms. Last night, she seemed to sleep with someone, and it was comfortable and sweet.

Nina suddenly thought of what she had done last night.

No way. Did she sleep with him last night? Oh my God !

Nina grabbed a corner of the quilt and covered her head in shame.

Gabriel saw her expression and guessed one or two things. She remembered.

“What do you think? Do you remember?”

Gabriel asked Nina.

He suddenly found that this little woman was more and more lovely.

Then, he got dressed and went downstairs.

Hearing the sound of Gabriel going out, Nina uncovered the quilt awkwardly.

“Nina, how could you do such an embarra**ing thing?”

Nina knocked on her head and murmured.

After tidying up Nina, she went downstairs. At that moment, she saw that Gabriel was about to go out.

“Wait, let’s go together.”

Nina ran to Gabriel as fast as he could.

“Come back early after work.”

Caroline, who just came downstairs, looked at the two of them and said.

Nina nodded with a smile.

Strange? Why did she change her attitude today? She didn't ask why she went to work. She knew she would go to work. And she didn't say anything.

Nina felt strange. Had Gabriel told her? And put in a good word for me?

Nina thought.

“Are you leaving or not?”

Gabriel said coldly when he saw Nina standing in a daze.

“Let's go.”

In a good mood, Nina gave a big smile to him.

Then Nina followed Gabriel out.

In the car.

“Well, it seems that aunt didn't object to my going to work today.”

Nina asked tentatively.

“That's exactly what you want.”

Gabriel answered elegantly, holding the steering wheel.

“Did you put in a good word for me?”

Nina squinted and asked.

Gabriel remained silent.

‘Wow, what a great boss! He is so aloof.’

Seeing that he didn't reply, Nina didn't ask anymore.

Inadvertently, she found two scratches on his bronze-colored neck.

“What's wrong with your neck?”

Nina asked with concern.

Gabriel looked sideways at Nina, with a hint of coldness flashing in his deep black eyes.

“It's your masterpiece.”

Nina frowned. What was her masterpiece? What did it have to do with her?

Not to mention that it was her who caught him, it was impossible, slander!

But it seemed to be true.

Obviously, Nina recalled what happened last night. He lowered his eyes with a lack of confidence and didn't dare to make a sound.

Looking at Nina, Gabriel didn't get angry. Instead, he seemed to be a little happy.

"Where are you going?"

"Oh, just pull over at the next intersection."

Nina came to her senses.

Nina got out of the car in a hurry at the intersection.

Then, she drove away.

Nina came to the VL international dress design center.

She looked up.

A palace-like dress design center was deeply imprinted in Nina's eyes.

The floor was very good, about twenty floors, and the location was very broad. At a glance, it should be about ten houses wide, and it was located in the center of the bustling street.

This was the legendary VL international dress design center.

Nina strode into the hall on the first floor.

The high-end and luxurious floor decoration, the unique image layout, and the dazzling color design

It was really worthy of being called the best-customized center of high-end designer dresses in the country.

Wearing a black and white striped sweater, loose pants, and a high bun, Nina walked gracefully to the front desk.

The dress gave off a faint and fresh girlish wind everywhere, attracting many people's strange eyes.

Is there anything wrong with your clothes today? Why did almost everyone look at her?

"Who is he? How dare you not wear work clothes at work? "

"Yes. If the manager sees her, he must be ready to leave."

"She looks like a college student. Is she the staff here?"

"....."

.....

The sales guides standing at the elevator talked about it word by word.

“Excuse me, which floor is the general manager’s office on?”

Nina took out the business card and handed it to the receptionist.

The receptionist was very kind and pointed the way for Nina.

“Thank you!”

Nina narrowed her eyes and showed a grateful smile.

Nina followed the receptionist’s instructions and walked towards the elevator.

She greeted everyone enthusiastically, but no one paid attention to her.

At this time, a s**y and charming woman approached Nina.

“Nina, why are you here again? You are so annoying! ”

When she came in from the hall, she saw a familiar figure. She walked in and saw Nina.

She suddenly remembered what Nina had done to her in the exhibition hall yesterday, and became angry.

“The world is so big. We meet again. It’s fate.”

Nina raised her eyebrows.

“You are so shameless. You went to the art exhibition yesterday, and today you went to VL to make a fool of yourself.”

She grumbled.

“I’m afraid I’m not the one who made a fool of myself.”

Nina said.

“You!”

Susie was speechless. She didn’t want too many people to know what happened yesterday in the exhibition hall.

“Nice to meet you!”

Several saleswomen greeted her one after another when they saw her.

Susie nodded arrogantly.

The saleswomen could tell that Nina must have offended Ruyu. Seeing her attitude towards Nina, they all moved to the side of Ruyu.

If she worked in the company, she would be flattered by others and didn't dare to offend her at all.

It was said that she had a relationship with her superiors, so they tried their best to disobey her and didn't oppose her. She didn't want to cause unnecessary trouble.

And now Nina, who was standing here, was isolated.

"What are the security guards doing now? They are allowed to enter any place. VL is a shopping mall!"

Ruyu roared angrily, showing all kinds of disdain and sarcasm on her stiff face.

"I'm a cat and a dog. Then what are you? A loser?"

A sly smile appeared on Nina's face. She didn't need to be polite to people like Ruyu.

"Nina, what did you say?"

Her slightly stiff face flushed with anger, and she wished she could slap Nina in the face.

After all, this was a place for work, and she had to pay attention to manners.

"Ding Dong!"

The elevator opened and Nina walked into it.

"I won't play with you anymore. I'm leaving now. Bye."

The elevator door closed and went straight to the eighth floor.

Nina went to the eighth floor and asked others about the general manager's office.

It seemed that everyone here was very busy and no one could care about her.

"Turn left and right in the general manager's office."

A lovely girl came out from behind and told Nina.

Nina smiled and said, "Thank you."

Then, she returned to her seat.
