

《Do angels exist》

4 Dear mom

I cried for the whole night and remembered my mom . I used to ask my mom if angels existed and her answer was always the same "angels are the messengers of god ,they are actually human ,the people who help you are the real angels and they show up when you are in problem. " Mom was wrong there are no angels in this world there are only devils who make your life even more miserable .I hate my life ,I actually wanted to kill myself but then I remembered the promise I made to mom that I won't give up no matter what happens . The next day I went to school and Jake was following me, he called me 10 times last night but I didn't answer . He was standing in front of the gate I wanted to keep on pretending but then I remembered his word and I ran away he followed me to the nearby cafe . I stopped as I didn't wanted to run any more . He asked me why I was running I couldn't control my anger and told him that you love my sister then go to her and marry her stop bothering me . He tried to explain but I begged him to leave I started crying but he was not listening . And then something unexpected happened .

Can you guys guess what it was??