

Deep Affection 910

Chapter 910 Pissed Off

Sound and Sampson entered hand in hand. Then, Nina waved at them and said, "It's time for dinner."

When Nina was a child, she rarely got the smiles and care from her parents, so now that she had children, she always smiled to them.

It was just a faint smile, not as bright as Michelle's, nor as tender as Emma's.

It was like a gentle breeze, blowing into people's heart.

The children liked to get close to her, but they were never clingy. She wasn't that serious as most ladies from rich families, and maintained a proper distance with the children.

John was different. The children liked him, but they didn't have guts to get close to him. Only the mischievous Donald was brave enough to provoke him.

But John just took him out every time.

He didn't have much patience for children. It might be that he had been forced too hard when he was a child, and now he just offered enough freedom for his children.

It was not that he didn't care about them, but that they had the freedom to make their own choices.

John had always been lukewarm towards others. Perhaps only when he was with Nina would he become enthusiastic and clingy like a baby.

No matter how long it passed, Sampson stayed in North Yard every night. At the beginning, he tried to get close to John, but John was always cold to him. He tho entity as an exclusive photographer of various famous luxury brands.

Read Hidden Contents Read the whole story in MoboReader

With the recommendation from some movie stars and her own outstanding skills, Michelle's photos attracted everyone's applause. In just three years, she had a firm foothold in the fashion circle of C Island.

In the fourth year, she held a photography exhibition with the theme of "light". Since then, she had been well-known in the whole country.

Taking this opportunity, Leon ordered people to write a lot of articles about Michelle. They didn't deliberately beautify Michelle, but wrote mixed stories about her. In addition, he invited some teams to guide netizen's opinions.

Although there were some unkind voices on the Internet, most of them were praises and exclamations.

What surprised them was the baby face of Michelle, who looked very young. Few people would believe that she was almost 30. She even looked like a school girl in a school uniform.

So, Michelle was called the "Little Photographer".

Girls liked beautiful things more than boys. Michelle had a baby face, and the records in her camera were all beautiful. Among her fans, girls were even more than boys.

When everything was ready, Leon announced his wife's identity and photos.

Michelle was still on the cusp of the public opinions, but she got mixed reviews.