

Deep Affection 917

Chapter 917 Donald Is A Tyrant

After unfriending Sampson, Sound fell on the bed. She felt like she had won a round, and her anger was all gone.

This was the first day Sound left Lexingport City, and all her family members kept asking some questions, such as how was she feeling in Spring City, how was her classmates, whether she was hurt, and something like that. As for her friends, Cherry and the others also asked Sound these questions.

And all of them texted the same promise to Sound, "Don't be afraid if you are bullied in the Spring City. We will go and support you!"

Sound even doubted that they had an appointment before so they could text the same sentence to her.

She rolled on the bed and smiled, replying to the messages one by one. At last, she received a message from Donald, "Sound, don't be afraid. I will move the headquarters of our group to the Spring City in a short time. I will kill whoever dares to do something to you."

Sound was at a loss whether to cry or to laugh.

'Donald, please don't come!

You are the CEO of Time Group now. You have a lot of things to deal with every day. Please focus on your work!'

Time Group was a family business, and whoever capable could compete to be its CEO. However, in this generation, James' entertainment company had become a tycoon in the showbiz, and he was busy with

Read Hidden Contents Read the whole story in MoboReader look at Sound who was drinking milk. There was a stain of milk on the corner of her mouth, and Sound reached out to take a tissue.

Sampson took a step ahead of Sound and handed a tissue to her.

"Here you are."

Sound looked up at him calmly, blinking.

Thinking that they had broken up, she didn't want to take it.

"Wipe your mouth." Sampson deliberately misinterpreted Sound's behavior.

They stared at each other for a while. Noticing the strange silence between Sampson and Sound, Vance raised his eyebrows slightly.

Sound and Sampson hadn't quarreled for 17 years, but they had a conflict now. How amazing!

Vance thought for a while and concluded that the two might have had a conflict yesterday.

In the past, he had been curious about how could there be no quarrel between good friends. After all, even though he and Donald had very good relationship, they had been angry with each other because of disagreement sometimes.

It was interesting to see Sound being angry with Sampson.

Pretending not to realize anything, Vance focused on his breakfast quietly. Sound took the tissue reluctantly in silence. Sampson felt better though she didn't say anything to him.

After a while, he felt bad again.

A white tissue was handed to him. Sound's voice rang out in his ears, "Back to you."