

Divorce 1481

Chapter 1481: Ru Yu is missing

Ru Yu is missing. She disappeared from the hospital ward out of thin air.

Dongfang Mo and the others rushed over overnight. They checked all the surveillance channels in the hospital, but they did not find any trace of ru Yu. She was like a bird that flew away.

Lei Zhenyu was anxious. He quickly ordered to stop every situation in Seoul. He must not let ru Yu go out. He had to bring her back. He could not let her take the risk.

Unfortunately, it was not until ten o'clock in the morning the next day that it was che ru Yu's turn to perform the surgery. The specialists and nurses had all arrived, but the main character, che Ru Yu, was never found

Everyone was panicking. How many years had ru yu been painting honestly Moreover, when she was five years old, she had performed an escape scene in one inch ink city in Binhai City. In the past twenty years, she had never performed an escape scene again?

However, this time, it was as if che ru Yu had become five years old again. She had actually performed an escape scene again. Moreover, this time, her escape was so successful. It was almost like the 'floating on the water' in Jin Yong's painting.

No, she was not floating on the water. She was clearly floating in the wind. It was unknown if she had received Sun Wukong's true teachings and turned into a mosquito and flew away?

For three days in a row, Lei Zhenyu and Che Qixuan searched the entire Seoul, but they did not find any trace of Che ru Yu. Therefore, they had no choice but to expand the search area to the entire South Korea.

However, a week passed, half a month passed, and a month passed. Che Ru Yu's figure never appeared in their sight. She disappeared like a gust of wind.

Where did che ru Yu go Did she really turn into a feather like her name and float away with the wind How did she float away from the ward?

Alright, let Xiao Qiao tell everyone how che ru Yu floated out of everyone's sight like a feather and out of Seoul, South Korea.

In fact, ru Yu pretended to agree to everyone's request for an abortion because if she didn't agree, she would be watched very closely. Only if she agreed would everyone not stare at her so that they would be careless.

Of course, it was not easy for her to escape alone. However, she found a helper. That helper was her sister, Mu Yao.

Mu Yao was a child. She did not know so many reasons. She only knew that everyone wanted to force ru Yu to have an abortion. She only knew that ru Yu was very sad, in pain, and in pain. She did not want to see her sister in pain.

Although Mu Yao was young, she was trained in the ability to escape. Therefore, a hospital could not actually trap her. Moreover, the hospital did not have anti-theft windows. There was a sewer pipe outside the bathroom. Mu Yao brought a hanging rope for ru Yu. Ru Yu put on the nurse's clothes that she had prepared beforehand and slid down easily.

As for Mu Yao, she had already found a taxi to come in. Therefore, ru Yu took a taxi out. Moreover, she hid under the back row of the taxi. The surveillance cameras at the exit could only see that there was no one sitting in the back row of the taxi. However, she did not know that there was a person hidden under the seat. Thus, ru Yu was able to successfully escape from the hospital.

After escaping from the hospital, she naturally would not foolishly walk to the official exit. After all, she was Dongfang Mo's daughter, Che Qixuan's daughter. She knew a few people in the underworld. If she wanted to leave Korea, why would she need to go through the official channels?

Chapter 1482 a fortuitous encounter on the train

Just as Lei Zhenyu was searching for ru Yu in Seoul, ru Yu had already boarded a submarine. This underworld submarine would send her out of the country from the bottom of the sea.

A week later, ru Yu appeared in southern China. It was also a city close to the sea, but it was not Binhai. It was Xiamen, the city with Gulangyu.

She came alone to bring this city that was not unfamiliar to her. This was because she had been to this city more than once, but each time she was a tourist.

This time, she was no longer a tourist, but wanted to stay here. She might have to stay here for a long time, or perhaps, she would never be able to leave.

So, she no longer went to look for hotels and hotels as usual. Instead, she directly found an agency and rented a one-room, one-hall apartment next to the most famous big hospital.

This was a comprehensive big hospital. The brain, obstetrics, gynecology, and cardiology departments all had it. She rented the House, bought a full set of furniture, and bought some daily necessities for herself to change her clothes. Then, she went to look for the brain specialist of this hospital.

The brain specialist listened to her story and examined her again. In the end, he came to the same conclusion as the brain specialist in Seoul, South Korea. The risk of pregnancy and childbirth was too high. The probability of a mother and child being safe and sound was less than 20%. Such a high risk.. It was not worth the risk, so he suggested that she treat the child as an abortion.

But she did not want to have an abortion. Not to mention less than 20%, even if the probability was less than 5%, she also gambled.

Besides, sometimes this kind of thing was about luck. How could her luck always be so bad? Could it be that she couldn't have good luck once?

The experts couldn't do anything about her. She insisted on giving birth. They couldn't force her to have an abortion, right? Thus, they repeatedly urged her to come to the hospital as soon as possible if she had dizziness and other phenomena. Moreover, they even left her her cell phone, home landline, and the number of the nurse's assistant. They were afraid that she might not hear or receive the call when she made it.

Ru Yu was very grateful to this doctor. She knew that the risk was great, but she had already decided to take the risk. Moreover, no matter how great the risk was, was it as great as the pregnant woman she saw on the train?

A week ago, she had successfully landed in a border town in Heilongjiang and then went to Harbin. She did not dare to take a plane because she was afraid of being discovered because the plane needed to register with her real name. Thus, she chose the train notes. The train did not use her real name to buy a few years ago. Everyone, don't say that I lack common sense in the message area. The train had only implemented the purchase of train tickets with her real name in the last two years.

She bought a train ticket directly to Xiamen. The journey was long. She bought a sleeper. At that time, in order to walk faster, the soft sleeper was no longer available, so she bought a hard sleeper.

The hard sleeper was the type with three floors. She was lucky and bought a lower berth. Opposite her, there was a pregnant woman in the lower berth. At that time, her belly was so big that it looked like it was about to give birth.

After a simple conversation, she found out that the woman was indeed about to give birth. With such a big belly, she could not fly anymore, so she chose a sleeper. Soft sleepers were also difficult to buy, and the other one was that soft sleepers were also expensive.

The woman's husband used to live in the upper berth. Later, he switched to the lower berth and stayed in the middle berth above the woman's head. The husband and wife spoke Hokkien all the way, so Ru Yu did not understand much.

Chapter 1483 a fortuitous encounter on the train

The pregnant woman was quite talkative. Knowing that Ru Yu did not understand Hokkien and was communicating with her in Mandarin, Ru Yu finally understood why she had to rush to Xiamen instead of giving birth in Harbin.

It turned out that the woman had heart disease. The doctor had always said that they could not give birth and did not recommend that they give birth. However, the woman was already in her thirties. If she did not give birth soon, she might not have the chance in her life.

"I could not get pregnant in the past. Later, I finally got pregnant with this one. How could I not want it?" The woman said to Ru Yu, "I always thought that I might not be able to have a child in my lifetime because I was infertile. I had a divorce with my husband for a few years. This time, when I went to register my divorce, I queued up and fainted. Then, I was sent to the hospital only to find out that I was pregnant. This child saved our marriage. Do you think I can give up? Can I not take risks?"

“Isn’t it just a 50% chance WHO has no risks in having a child?” The woman said indifferently, “even if a person is in good health, isn’t there a 50% chance of having a child “otherwise, why would there be the phrase ‘the mother runs to her death after the child is born’ “This means that the risk of having a child is unavoidable. What should come can not be avoided, and what should not come can not be expected. ”

The woman’s belly was very big. During the conversation between Ru Yu and her, she found out that she was already pregnant for a month. Her swollen belly and the pregnancy spots on her face danced when she smiled, making her look exceptionally beautiful.

“There’s still a month until the due date,” the woman sat on the bed and said to ru Yu while eating the steamed fish balls that her husband bought. “Don’t be afraid. 20% is 20% . That little bean of yours has been sleeping in your brain for so many years and hasn’t woken up or grown up, right Could it be that just because you want to be a mommy, it immediately woke up and went against you How could it be so bad luck The doctor said that I’m going to have a heart attack. I’m not pregnant for eight months and I’m still fine?”

The woman was still very energetic during the day. After she woke up, she loved to chat with Ru Yu. When she knew that ru Yu was also pregnant and the doctor said that she couldn’t get pregnant, she strongly encouraged her to be strong and brave. She said that difficulties were like sandalwood bows. If you were weak, it would be strong If you were strong, it would be weak.

However, that night, after midnight, the woman suddenly moaned and cried out for a stomachache. It scared the people in the private room awake. Therefore, everyone got up and asked in a panic, “what happened?” Was it an early delivery?

It was indeed an early delivery. There was still a month before the due date. The woman with high blood pressure and heart disease had broken her amniotic fluid and was about to give birth. However, it happened to be on the train at this moment. The worst part was that the train was flying through the mountains There was not even a shadow of a big city outside the window.

The conductor immediately informed the conductor. The conductor quickly looked for the doctor on the train. However, this was only an emergency doctor. It was okay to see a cold or a headache, but this woman giving birth. He was definitely an amateur.

The big broadcast on the train kept shouting, asking if there was a doctor on the train who could deliver a child. There was a pregnant woman giving birth in carriage No. 9. A doctor who could deliver a child quickly rushed to carriage No. 9.

Twenty minutes later, a middle-aged man came. He looked at the private room surrounded by people and asked with sweat all over his head, “are there any doctors who can deliver a child now?”

“Not yet. ” The woman’s husband was so anxious that he was about to cry. Such a big man, seeing his wife giving birth, was actually as helpless as a child. Tears kept rolling in his eyes.

Chapter 1484: A fortuitous encounter on the train

“I’m a veterinarian. At home, I deliver babies to animals. I wonder if I can help?” The middle-aged man carefully said, “If you don’t mind...”

“What do you mind? Hurry up and help deliver the babies, ” a middle-aged woman shouted beside him “animals give birth to babies, and we give birth to babies the same way. At this time, it’s important for her to successfully give birth to the baby. Don’t worry about anything else. ”

The train attendant brought a large piece of curtain-like cloth and surrounded the private room. Ru Yu and the other four passengers came out and stood in the aisle, giving the space to the veterinarian and the woman’s husband.

“Have you learned how to be a nurse? ” The veterinarian asked from inside. “If you have, come in and help. ”

Everyone looked at each other. No one. The people standing in the aisle were all men and women. There was not even a young girl. who had learned how to be a nurse?

Ru Yu was a little anxious. At this moment, she only regretted that she had learned how to draw instead of learning how to be a medical nurse. If she was a nurse, wouldn’t she be able to go in and help now? She could draw, but it was useless at this moment.

Just when everyone was extremely anxious, a young girl of about 17 or 18 years old finally squeezed through the crowd. As she squeezed, she shouted, “make way, everyone, make way. I’m a nurse student. Although I’ve only studied for a year, I’m still a school nurse... ”

Thus, everyone took the initiative to make way. That aunt excitedly went to help pull the young girl over. Her voice was trembling as she said, “who cares how many years she has studied? As long as she is a nurse, she is fine. Hurry up and help that uncle. He is delivering the baby for that aunt. ”

The little school nurse immediately got permission from the train attendant to enter the private room. The noise in the corridor earlier had become much quieter. Everyone was paying attention to the movements in the private room and silently praying for the safety of the mother and child.

Difficult Labor The child’s foot came down first!

Everyone was shocked. Even the middle-aged woman who was full of confidence just now that animals gave birth to babies was not so scared that her face turned pale.

Although Ru Yu was only two months pregnant, she had read two books about pregnant women. She knew more or less what happened when the baby’s feet came off first. This meant that it was not just a matter of whether the baby could live or not. She thought that the pregnant woman would be safe and sound.

The dining car had already boiled water. The customers took out their old and new towels, bath towels, and so on. More women offered their tampons. They said that although they could not resist the delivery bag for the baby, they could accumulate more. They could at least resist a little.

Ru Yu was very nervous. Her heart was on the verge of her throat. She had taken out the new towels and clothes she had bought before boarding the car. She only hoped that the child would be successful and that the woman would be fine.

She was such a kind and optimistic person!

The veterinarian and nurse were busy inside. One was old and the other was young. It was as if they had passed on their heritage. After the nurse arrived, the corridor became quiet. Only a faint sound could be heard at the intersection of the two sides of the corridor. It was the passenger in the other two carriages who asked, "have you given birth?"

"No," the passenger in this carriage answered softly.

"No," the passenger who heard it was passing on the news that he had just received.

The carriage had been quiet the whole time. Only the sound of the woman shouting and exerting her strength could be heard. There was also the sound of the veterinarian and the young nurse talking.

Chapter 1485: Difficult Production

"scissors, who has sharp scissors?" The nurse's voice came from the private room. Then, everyone asked one by one, "who has sharp scissors?"

No, none Sharp scissors were considered sharp weapons, and sharp weapons were not allowed to be brought on the train because there was a security check at the train station. Anything that could not pass the security check could not be brought on.

"there are kitchen knives in the kitchen," the conductor thought for a moment and answered. Then, he added, "there are also fruit knives. Do you want a fruit knife?"

"Sure, go get it." The vet hesitated for a moment before answering. The train conductor quickly used the walkie-talkie to call for the kitchen staff to send the fruit knife over. He wanted it to be the fastest.

Fortunately, there was disinfectant and alcohol on the train. The doctor on the train helped to disinfect these things. The space inside was small and the woman's husband was chased out. Only the vet, the young nurse, and the doctor on the train were left.

Ru Yu did not know what the fruit knife was used for. She whispered to the aunt beside her. The aunt glared at her and said, "of course it's for cutting. The hospital also cuts laterally. Don't you know how to cut laterally?"

Ru Yu shook her head. She had never heard of side-cutting. The aunty obviously did not have the patience to explain to her. She only said, "you'll know when you have children in the future."

It was unknown if the fruit knife had worked. The nurse's voice sounded pleasantly surprised. "Okay, okay. There's hope now. Big Sister, you have to hold on. You have to hold on. You have to do your best!"

"Do your best!" Someone took the lead to shout. Then, the entire area was filled with shouts of "do your best!" "Do your best!"

"You can do it!" At first, it was just the people in this carriage shouting loudly and in unison. Then, it was slowly transmitted to the next carriage. The passengers in the next carriage also shouted loudly at this carriage, "you can do it!"

This was the most spectacular birth scene that ru Yu had ever seen. A pregnant woman, a veterinarian, an emergency doctor on the train, and a nurse in school. They formed an obstetrics department temporarily.

“Do you have long needles and sewing needles?” The young nurse shouted again, “those with needles and threads, hurry up and take them out. We need them here. ”

“Do you have any needles? Embroidery needles and sewing needles are fine!” The conductor took the lead and shouted loudly. At the same time, he added, “If you have needles, you have to have thread. ”

The train attendant said, “we do have a needle and thread in our toolbox. I don’t think that needle will work, right? It’s the kind that is used to sew buttons very hard. ”

After a few minutes, someone squeezed over and said in a breathless voice, “I have an embroidery needle. It’s a thin, curved type of embroidery needle. I think it’s similar to the stitches in the hospital. I don’t know... ”

“Why aren’t you bringing it over? !” The conductor roared. Seeing that the woman’s body trembled, he waved his hand and said, “this time, it’s not considered a violation. Bring the needle and thread over. HURRY UP!”

Thus, the woman handed over the embroidery needle and thread. There was a big bag of thread. The woman said that she did not know which kind could be used. Anyway, the doctor saw that the kind that could be used was the kind that could be used.

“Go for it!” The voices continued to rise and fall. The people in the carriage consciously split into two teams. As soon as this team’s voice fell, that team’s voice immediately sounded. The sound of cheering had never been heard before.

Time passed second by second. Half an hour had passed. An hour had passed. An hour and a half had passed. Two hours had passed again

Finally, after two and a half hours, the sound of crying came from the carriage. The sound was as loud and pleasant as the sound of nature. Everyone gave a warm applause!

Chapter 1485: Difficult Production

“scissors, who has sharp scissors?” The nurse’s voice came from the private room. Then, everyone asked one by one, “who has sharp scissors? “?

No, none Sharp scissors were considered sharp weapons, and sharp weapons were not allowed to be brought on the train because there was a security check at the train station. Anything that could not pass the security check could not be brought on.

“there are kitchen knives in the kitchen,” the conductor thought for a moment and answered. Then, he added, “there are also fruit knives. Do you want a fruit knife? ”

“Sure, go get it. ” The vet hesitated for a moment before answering. The train conductor quickly used the walkie-talkie to call for the kitchen staff to send the fruit knife over. He wanted it to be the fastest.

Fortunately, there was disinfectant and alcohol on the train. The doctor on the train helped to disinfect these things. The space inside was small and the woman's husband was chased out. Only the vet, the young nurse, and the doctor on the train were left.

Ru Yu did not know what the fruit knife was used for. She whispered to the aunt beside her. The aunt glared at her and said, "of course it's for cutting. The hospital also cuts laterally. Don't you know how to cut laterally?"

Ru Yu shook her head. She had never heard of side-cutting. The aunty obviously did not have the patience to explain to her. She only said, "you'll know when you have children in the future."

It was unknown if the fruit knife had worked. The nurse's voice sounded pleasantly surprised. "Okay, okay. There's hope now. Big Sister, you have to hold on. You have to hold on. You have to do your best!"

"Do your best!" Someone took the lead to shout. Then, the entire area was filled with shouts of "do your best!" "Do your best!"

"You can do it!" At first, it was just the people in this carriage shouting loudly and in unison. Then, it was slowly transmitted to the next carriage. The passengers in the next carriage also shouted loudly at this carriage, "you can do it!"

This was the most spectacular birth scene that Ru Yu had ever seen. A pregnant woman, a veterinarian, an emergency doctor on the train, and a nurse in school. They formed an obstetrics department temporarily.

"Do you have long needles and sewing needles?" The young nurse shouted again, "those with needles and threads, hurry up and take them out. We need them here."

"Do you have any needles? Embroidery needles and sewing needles are fine!" The conductor took the lead and shouted loudly. At the same time, he added, "If you have needles, you have to have thread."

The train attendant said, "we do have a needle and thread in our toolbox. I don't think that needle will work, right? It's the kind that is used to sew buttons very hard."

After a few minutes, someone squeezed over and said in a breathless voice, "I have an embroidery needle. It's a thin, curved type of embroidery needle. I think it's similar to the stitches in the hospital. I don't know..."

"Why aren't you bringing it over?!" The conductor roared. Seeing that the woman's body trembled, he waved his hand and said, "this time, it's not considered a violation. Bring the needle and thread over. HURRY UP!"

Thus, the woman handed over the embroidery needle and thread. There was a big bag of thread. The woman said that she did not know which kind could be used. Anyway, the doctor saw that the kind that could be used was the kind that could be used.

"Go for it!" The voices continued to rise and fall. The people in the carriage consciously split into two teams. As soon as this team's voice fell, that team's voice immediately sounded. The sound of cheering had never been heard before.

Time passed second by second. Half an hour had passed. An hour had passed. An hour and a half had passed. Two hours had passed again

Finally, after two and a half hours, the sound of crying came from the carriage. The sound was as loud and pleasant as the sound of nature. Everyone gave a warm applause!

Chapter 1487: All lives are very important

The train started to move slowly again, but the carriage did not quiet down. Everyone was excitedly discussing what had just happened, excitedly discussing the thrilling story.

The lower and middle bunk opposite ru Yu had been replaced by the veterinarian and the school nurse. The two of them had worked hard all night, and the conductor had helped them move from hard seats to hard sleepers for free, letting them rest.

In fact, the veterinarian and the school nurse, who had just experienced a great battle, could not sleep at all. The nurse was crying, saying that what had just happened was too scary. She thought that the woman's blood could not be stopped, and she was so scared that her whole body went soft Even though she was constantly passing towels to block the blood... ..

The veterinarian went to the bathroom to change out of his clothes. His luggage was brought over by the train attendant for him. The clothes on his body could almost wring out water. After washing his face, his face was slightly Pale.

He said that he was a veterinarian, and at home, he was delivering babies for animals. Cows, pigs, and so on. He was very skilled and had rich experience, but this was the first time he was delivering a baby for someone. He was also flustered, but fortunately, he was safe!

"I relied on my veterinarian's experience," he said truthfully. "I once delivered a donkey, but it was difficult to give birth. That donkey did not give birth for two days and two nights. I thought of many ways later, but in the end... .. The donkey was born, but the female donkey... .. DIED."

The veterinarian could not help but cry. He was a man in his forties. When he talked about his experience delivering a donkey and the situation of the female donkey dying in childbirth, he actually had tears streaming down his face.

The heart of a doctor was the heart of a parent. Who could say that the vet was definitely inferior to the doctor who treated people If there was no such simple and dedicated vet tonight, the mother and daughter would definitely go to the Netherworld together instead of going to the hospital safely.

Ru Yu scalded the eggs given by the aunt with boiling hot water. Then, she carefully peeled the Shell and handed it to the uncle vet and the young nurse in school. She whispered to them, "thank you! "

Thank you for your dedication just now. Thank you for your brave and meaningless spirit. Thank you for being able to stand up at the most critical moment. Thank you for putting all your lives on the line!

The middle-aged woman was also very excited. She squeezed over to sit beside ru Yu's bed and said tearfully, "she was really scared just now. Back then, when she gave birth to her son, it was difficult for her to give birth. " At that time, the doctors in the hospital also said that they could only protect adults but not children. However, the midwife of her village, an old midwife who was in her seventies, helped her to protect both adults and children.

“giving birth is not something that can be done by science alone,” the middle-aged woman concluded. “It also depends on experience. Rich experience in delivering babies is sometimes more useful than science.”

Everyone discussed until the second half of the night when the sky turned white. Only then did the aunt return to her private room. The veterinarian and the little girl in the middle bunk across from her were so tired that they fell asleep.

Ru Yu lay quietly on the bed, listening to the sound of the wheels of the train making contact with the tracks. Her hand unconsciously moved to her lower abdomen.

In another seven months, her child would be born. Where would she be then?

Of course, she knew that when she gave birth, she would be even more miserable than the woman just now. Because the woman’s husband was still by her side, and she was definitely fighting alone at that time.

“It’s okay,” she said softly to the child in her belly. “Baby, it’s okay. Mommy is very strong alone. Even if no one is by her side, even if it’s just the two of us, Mommy will definitely bring you back to this world safe and sound.”

Chapter 1488 plain and leisurely pregnant women

Xiamen’s largest general hospital was said to have an apartment near the most authoritative and Professional Hospital in the Department of Cardiology and neurology. This apartment was mostly rented by the family members of hospitalized patients, so it was convenient for them to take care of the patients.

Che Ru Yu rented the apartment here. She rented the apartment on the 19th floor, which had hardcover, furniture, appliances, and the kind that carried a bag.

After she rented the apartment, she went to the nearby shopping mall to buy some essential daily necessities. Then, she settled her home, which might last for nearly ten months, here.

After she settled down, the first thing she did was to report to the hospital. The apartment building was right next to the hospital. It was a five-minute walk to the hospital so that she could see a doctor at any time.

The hospital’s cardiology and brain specialist listened to her talk about her condition. After looking at the medical records and the check-up results, he immediately advised her to have an abortion. He said that it was the safest and most reliable way to get pregnant. It was too risky for her.

However, she did not want to. She insisted on giving birth to the child herself. She also said that she usually raced cars and occasionally went rock climbing. Moreover, she spent a lot of time outside sketching and hiking. The little bean in her brain had never woken up.

The experts said that the situation that you mentioned was nothing compared to pregnancy because pregnancy would pressure your nerves. This would make it easier for the little bean to wake up. You have to think carefully.

Ru Yu said that she had thought it through long ago. She had to get pregnant with this child. If the child really came to take her life, then it was her life. If it was fated, then she could not avoid it even if she wanted to.

The experts were helpless against her stubbornness, so they repeatedly warned her that if there was anything wrong, even if she felt dizzy, she had to hurry over because this was not a joke.

Then, the specialist gave her her cell phone number and her assistant's cell phone number. He even specially saved her cell phone number. Clearly, he listed her as the most important class a patient.

After seeing the cardio-brain department, ru Yu went to see the obstetrics and gynecology department. The specialists in the obstetrics and Gynecology Department were just as helpless as the specialists in the cardio-brain department. Because ru Yu insisted on having a child, other than telling her to come to the hospital if she felt a little unwell, the specialists in the obstetrics and gynecology department also had no choice. They also gave her their cell phone and said that they would be on standby for her 24 hours a day. If it really came to the day when they could no longer carry the child, they could only choose to stop the child's development to protect the adults' lives.

Ru Yu settled down in the apartment next to the hospital. She did not contact anyone, including little Mu Yao, who had helped her escape from Seoul.

She could not let anyone find her because she knew that her family valued her life more than the life of her child. However, she valued her life as much as the life of her child.

Living alone here was actually quite lonely because she was surrounded by people she did not know and most of them spoke Hokkien. She did not understand Hokkien very well, so after a month, she did not make any friends. Even if she occasionally met the people next door, she would just nod and greet them. She didn't even know their names.

Ru Yu's life had settled down, and her three meals a day were very regular. Every morning at seven o'clock, she would first make breakfast for herself. After breakfast, she would go to the nearby supermarket to buy groceries. The mall was a comprehensive place. After she selected the vegetables, she would also go to the special section that sold books to look at mother and child books.

Chapter 1489 ru Yu, where else do you want to hide

After lunch, she would take an immovable lunch break because sleep was especially important to her. In the afternoon, when she woke up, she would go for a walk in the garden downstairs or go to the small garden in the hospital. Of course, she would bring some snacks with her.

After dinner, she would sit on the Sofa in the living room or on the balcony and read a book. Because she was worried about the problem of radiation, she did not even turn on the television, much less leave her phone far away. She mainly focused on the landline and books.

At night, she would lie in bed and play prenatal music that was suitable for pregnant women. Then, she would slowly fall asleep amidst the melodious prenatal music... ..

Days passed day by day. Ru Yu's life was dull and leisurely. The child in her stomach was also growing day by day. Two months later, she could clearly feel that her waist had become much thicker and her abdomen was gradually changing.

The pregnancy test was the one that she cared about the most. Because it was close to the hospital, other pregnant women would go to the hospital once a month during the first and middle stages of pregnancy. However, she would go once every half a month.

The obstetrician and gynecologist treated her extremely well. Every time she went, they would ask her if she felt uncomfortable there. If she did, they would definitely tell her. They even said that she should never be ill and avoid doctors. Moreover, they only advised her to have a miscarriage and did not ask her to have a miscarriage. In the end, they would still respect her decision.

Ru Yu said that she knew. However, she did not feel uncomfortable there. She could eat and sleep every day. Moreover, because she did not have to work, she mainly ate all day. Hence, she had obviously gained weight. She was only four months pregnant and she had gained nearly 10 pounds.

When she was four months pregnant, Ru Yu felt that her waist, waist, and abdomen were gradually changing. And after she was five months pregnant, her abdomen was clearly protruding outward. The clothes she bought when she first came could not be worn, and it was just in summer. It was time for her to change clothes.

That day, she went to a mother and child supplies store near the hospital. She picked out a few maternity clothes, and the salesgirl strongly recommended baby clothes to her, saying that she could buy them in advance and prepare something.

She said that she would wait another two or three months to buy them. Moreover, she lived nearby and could come over at any time. Moreover, the things in her store were good, and she liked them very much. She would definitely come and buy them when the time came.

Because of today's event, if she bought more than 300 yuan, she would give a baby poster. Ru Yu's clothes were more expensive, more than 600 yuan. She could have given her a small lunchbox, but in the end, she chose to buy two baby posters, one male and one female. If they were stuck together, they would look like dragon and Phoenix twins.

She took the maternity clothes and the two posters and went home happily. However, when she was about five meters away from her door, she suddenly found a slightly familiar figure.

Her footsteps immediately stopped. At first, she thought it was an illusion. She could not help but raise her hand to rub her eyes. When she found that the figure was approaching her and that the figure was indeed very familiar.. She was so scared that she threw away the things in her hand and immediately turned around to run towards the elevator.

Unfortunately, that person was tall and had long legs. When he saw that she turned around and ran, he immediately quickened his pace and quickly chased after her. Finally, when she was one meter away from the elevator, he quickly blocked her way and even grabbed her wrist.

“Ru Yu, you... where do you want to run to?” Lei Zhenyu’s voice trembled slightly. “where do you want to hide again?”

Chapter 1490: The difficult road to find a wife

The reality that Che ru Yu had to face was that she had been found. She had thought that the place she was hiding in was undetectable and that Lei Zhenyu would not be able to find her. She would definitely have given birth to a child in this hospital before returning.

But who knew that she had only stayed here for three months and a few days. In fact, it had only been less than 100 days. Lei Zhenyu had actually appeared in front of her out of the blue, and had even caught her so accurately.

How did Lei Zhenyu find her She could not help but feel puzzled. She had never contacted anyone. Even though the world was so big, no one knew that she had arrived in Xiamen, China. Why would Lei Zhenyu think of Xiamen?

In fact, Lei Zhenyu had been searching for ru yu in Korea with a carpet search method. After searching for an entire month, he still could not find her. Hence, he did not search Korea thoroughly.

Since they could not find ru yu, he and Dongfang Mo had no choice but to give up on Korea. Only then did they consider whether she would escape abroad?

And when she escaped from the hospital and Korea, she must have had help. It was almost impossible for her to escape alone. And who was the person who helped her?

Under everyone’s pressure, and under everyone’s constant anxious search for ru Yu, Mu Yao finally couldn’t withstand the pressure and told them about the situation where she helped ru Yu escape from the hospital.

Of course, Mu Yao didn’t know where ru Yu went because she was only responsible for helping Mu Yao call a taxi and then made two phone calls to Ru Yu.

“sister escaped from Korea in a submarine,” Little Mu Yao said with certainty. “But I don’t know where the submarine sent her in the end.”

Dongfang Mo was so angry that he once again locked little Mu Yao in the dark room. Little Mu Yao was so angry that she cried out loudly. She even called her father a liar and said that she wouldn’t be punished as long as she told the truth. Now, you’re actually punishing me.. I won’t tell you any more secrets from now on.

Unfortunately, little Mu Yao’s resistance was useless. Dongfang Mo didn’t show any mercy at all. He still locked little Mu Yao in the dark room for three days according to family rules and even ordered her to help find ru Yu.

“F * Ck, where am I going to find her?” Mu Yao immediately refused. The little girl who had been locked in the dark room for three days was very dissatisfied Munching on the cake, she said very angrily, “she is a feather. She has already flown away. I have to go to school. She is a good student. She won’t skip class to find che ru Yu. The teachers don’t like students who skip class.”

Dongfang Mo did not hold on to little Mu Yao anymore because he knew that there was no point in interrogating her anymore. That girl, ru Yu, sincerely wanted to hide, so she definitely would not contact little Mu Yao after she ran away.

Then where could he find ru yu In the vast world, in the vast sea of people, they only knew that she was no longer in Korea, but where was she exactly Which country and city had she escaped to from the bottom of the sea?

Of course, he had to find the black belt diver who had used a submarine to transport ru Yu out of Korea. Che Qixuan and Pu Yongjun were once experts in diving. Although they had retired from diving for ten years.. There were still some people in this area.

Therefore, with the efforts of Che Qixuan and Pu Yongjun, they finally found the submarine that had brought ru Yu out of Korea and also found the diver.

“I sent her to China,” the diver said honestly under the power of Che Qixuan and Pu Yongjun. “She went up to a small town in Heilongjiang in the north of China. As for where she went, I don’t know. She wouldn’t tell me, would she?”