

Divorce 1661

Chapter 1661 he was a Germaphobe

Five years ago, she had signed a promise with him, and that promise was completely different from this agreement, because that agreement was an agreement that they expressed their loyalty to each other.

She still remembered that there were only two sentences in that agreement, and the simplest two sentences were their signatures.

At that time, they were really young. The 18-year-old young girl and the 20-year-old young man had just started their relationship, but they had given each other such a deep promise in such a simple time, yet they had never thought that such a promise to the young them.. Who could carry it? Who could carry it?

Fang Xiao stared at the 'body-selling agreement' in her hand without turning her eyes away. She seemed to be very serious, but in fact, she did not even need to see a single word clearly because her eyes had long been blurred by tears.

The reason why she had kept this agreement in front of her eyes and covered her entire face was actually because she did not want him to discover her current weakness, helplessness, and heartache.

If she could go back in time and go back to the past, back to the year when she was in the United States with him five years ago, would she still say those cold and heartless words to him? Would she abandon him in the world of ice and snow and turn around and leave without a care.

She did not know. Perhaps she would still do it She had always been a heartless person. She had always been a short-sighted person. She had never been a person who knew how to persevere and how to be strong.

"Is there any problem with this agreement?" Yun Heng saw that she had been looking at the agreement for half an hour and still had not put it down. He could not help but frown and asked with a cold face.

"Oh, there's no problem." Her emotions that had fluctuated just now had been completely stabilized under the cover of the agreement. She put it down gently, and there was no trace of sadness on her face.

She pondered for a moment, then looked at him and said very honestly, "about that... I'm not a virgin anymore."

Yun Heng was obviously stunned. He did not expect her to talk to him about this, so his heart could not help but thump After a long while, he said very plainly, "I didn't have any expectations in this regard. After all, you've already gotten married to another man. It's normal that the membrane isn't there anymore."

Fang Xiao originally wanted to say that the loss of my membrane had nothing to do with the man who abandoned me, but she wanted to come back. What was her relationship with Xi Lingheng now He had already said that he did not expect it, so why did she have to say it so clearly?

So, she picked up the pen on the coffee table, opened the cover of the pen, and quickly found the woman's prescription. She steadily owed her name: Fang Xiao!

She only had the courage to read the contract after signing it. In fact, the content was very simple. The man would not provide her with a place to live, and he would not look for her every day. The only requirement was that she could not turn off her phone 24 hours a day. When he wanted her, he would call her. She had to maintain the state of being on call.

Therefore, she was really just selling herself. Xi Lingheng would not give her any extra money for food, clothing, and accommodation. In other words, she could actually move around freely. He would not restrict her at all.

Of course, there was another condition. For a period of one year, she could not date other men. She could only belong to him alone because he was a Germaphobe.

He was a Germaphobe Fang Xiao could not help but laugh when she saw this. Could it be that she was not a Germaphobe?

On the man's side, Xi Lingheng's signature was in full swing. It made her two words, Fang Xiao, look extremely ugly.

Chapter 1662. There was no direct ratio between effort and reward

"I can work, right?" Fang Xiao handed him the signed contract and said carefully, "Your Agreement said that I have freedom. I want to ask, does this freedom include work?"

"Work?" Dongfang Yunheng frowned slightly. He had never thought about this question. It seemed that he had neglected this point when he made the agreement.

In fact, he had made the agreement in a hurry. He had not thought about it carefully. Although he said that he would buy her for a year, he did not want to buy her a house or rent a house to raise her like a canary.

One reason was that he did not want to have a place like that where he could keep a mistress. That would be a price reduction for him, and the purpose of buying her for a year was not to make her his mistress.

He wanted her to see with her own eyes how happy and happy he was now, how he was in love with other women, how his life was like the icing on the cake after they were separated, how colorful it was. How it was like having both fame and fortune and love.

So, he pondered for a moment and said, "okay, as long as you can be on call, I don't have that much time and energy to care about you. Do whatever you want."

After saying that, he got up and walked out of the door. He turned around to look at the woman who was still standing there in a daze, and his cold face sank again.

UGH, it was still the same as five years ago. His reaction was always so slow. He was really a piece of wood!

“Aren’t you leaving yet?” His voice was as cold as his face. “Didn’t you say you needed money urgently? Aren’t you in a hurry now? If you’re not in a hurry, then give it to me first. I’ll give it to you when you need money.”

Only then did Fang Xiao react. She quickly ran out of the door, afraid that he would suddenly go back on his word. In her panic, she even forgot to call Xi Lingheng.

She had already gotten the 500,000 yuan. As for how he would torture her in the future, that was a matter for the future. Right now, she had to do her father’s kidney transplant surgery as soon as possible because her father could no longer afford to wait.

Fang Xiao took the 500,000 yuan cheque and went to the bank that afternoon to exchange the money back. Then, she called the person she had already contacted and said that she had already gotten the 300,000 yuan and could carry out the transaction at any time.

Buying and selling kidneys was illegal, so her transaction was considered a black transaction. However, she could not care about that anymore. If she did not get a kidney transplant because of uremia, her father would only be waiting to die, and a kidney transplant was the only hope.

Of course, a kidney transplant surgery might not be 100% successful. The doctor also said that the success rate of any surgery was risky, and the success rate of a kidney transplant was slightly lower, about 50% .

A 50% chance was not small. Moreover, when she was young, her mother had said that there was no absolute success in anything. No matter what she did, it would be 50% and 50% .

Half of it depended on God, and the other half depended on hard work. As long as one put in effort, there would be a return!

Although, the experience of the past month or so had shown that in fact, it was not really possible to have a return just by putting in the effort. Many times, even if you put in the effort, there might not necessarily be a return.

Moreover, even if there was a return, it might not necessarily be the return you were looking for. Perhaps, it was the evil retribution that you had never thought of.

Just like her marriage to Qiu Yitang!

Four years ago, when she and Qiu Yitang were engaged, she listened to her mother’s teachings and wholeheartedly wanted to be a good wife and mother. Therefore, she had been obediently waiting for Qiu Yitang to return from abroad to marry her.

Chapter 1663 Father’s surgery

During those four years, although she did not marry into the Qiu family, she often went to the Qiu family in the name of Qiu Yitang’s fiancée. She kept Madam Qiu warm from the cold, served tea for the Old Lady of the Qiu family, and did her best to be the future daughter-in-law of the Qiu family.

However, what did she get in exchange for such hard work?

What she got in exchange was that the day before the wedding, she was set up to take so-called erotic photos. It was the bankruptcy of the Fang family on the wedding day, and he brought her once best sister to humiliate her. He even called her a ruined woman.

Ruined woman Thinking of Qiu Yitang cursing in front of everyone on the wedding day, her heart felt as if it had been stabbed by a knife.

She did not know when Du Caiwei and Qiu Yitang got together, nor did she know why Du Caiwei set her up In her memory, she and Du Caiwei should have been good sisters.

She did not remember who had said such a sentence: friends were either used or sold.

And her once best friend and sister, Du Caiwei, not only used her, but also sold her out.

“there is no woman in the world who is more stupid than you!” This was her other good friend, Luo Qili, scolding her. Although it was unpleasant, it hit the nail on the head.

She was indeed the most stupid woman. If she was not that stupid, why would she fall for Qiu Yitang and Du Caiwei’s trap Why would she let herself go to the point where her family was destroyed?

Fang Anbang’s kidney transplant surgery was carried out on Friday morning. Fang Xiao had been coughing for the past two days because she had caught a cold, so her body was not very good.

At the door of the operating theater, Fang Anbang looked at his daughter who was still coughing and could not help but say with concern, “Xiao Xiao, don’t only care about your father’s health. Your own health is also very important. Go and find a doctor to take a look later.”

“Yes, I know.” Fang Xiao grabbed her father’s bony hand and quickly changed the topic. “Dad, I just caught a small cold. It’s not a big deal. You have to be well inside. You have to survive. Your daughter is waiting for you outside the door.”

“okay, I will.” Fang Anbang nodded and shook Fang Xiao’s hand hard. Then, he was pushed into the operating theater by the nurse.

Fang Xiao signed the surgery list and supplementary agreement that the doctor handed to her. In fact, it was just some information about the risks of the surgery and the various adverse reactions after the surgery.

The doctor had already said that as long as it was a surgery, there would be certain risks. Even the most common Caesarean operation still had risks.

However, people could not not take risks just because they were worried about the risks. If they did not take risks, they would not be able to get a new life.

She had been coughing in a low voice. The day before yesterday, she fainted in Dongfang Yunheng’s suite at the Heavenly Cloud pavilion and was given an IV drip. Indeed, she did not have a fever anymore, but her cough had been accompanying her.

Even though she was coughing, she did not leave the operating theater’s door. She just sat at the door of the operating theater and waited for her father to come out.

The doctor said that the operating time was uncertain. It had to depend on the actual situation. It might take three to five hours, seven to eight hours, or even more than ten hours.

No matter how many hours it took, she had to wait for her father here. She had to wait for him to come out safely. She had to wait for him to completely get rid of his illness and get a new life.

The surgery lasted for a full ten hours, from ten in the morning to eight in the evening. During these ten hours, Fang Xiao had been standing guard outside the surgery door. She had been putting her hands together and silently chanting in her heart, “save the suffering and salvation of Buddha Guanyin Bodhisattva.” “empress of the Jade Emperor, please ensure that my father, Fang Anbang, comes out of the operating room safely and safely. Please ensure that the surgery is successful without any complications or sequelae.”

Chapter 1664: Don't blame Cai Wei

After reciting the Chinese Bodhisattva, she recited the Foreign God: “Lord, although I have never believed in your religion before, and even though I have never prayed before meals, today... ” “I still have the cheek to ask you to protect my father. You must let him get through this difficult time. You must let him have a new life. From now on, whether before meals or bedtime, I will pray every day and remember the Lord every day.” Thank you, Lord, for your grace.

I don't know if the Lord Buddha and Guanyin Bodhisattva could hear Fang Xiao's prayers, or if the foreign lord was also moved by Fang Xiao. In short, ten hours later, Fang Anbang was pushed out of the operating theater.

“The surgery was very successful!” This was what the attending doctor told Fang Xiao.

However, Fang Xiao did not have the time to bow to the doctor to thank him. The attending doctor said again, “a successful surgery does not mean that everything will be fine. After all, the patient's body was filled with someone else's kidney. As for whether this unfamiliar kidney is compatible with Fang Anbang's body, we will only know after 72 hours.”

Because of the attending doctor's words, Fang Xiao's heart, which had just fallen into her heart, was raised to her throat again. Then, she stayed in front of her father's bed, waiting for his rejection period to pass.

In the beginning, body and kidney rejection was a normal phenomenon, because any patient had to go through such a period. Usually, after the rejection period was the fusion period. It would be fine once they entered the fusion period.

Unfortunately, Fang Anbang's rejection period never passed. The prime time had passed 72 hours, but his body and the kidney were still rejecting each other. There was no sign of fusion at all.

Fang Xiao hurriedly went to find the attending doctor in charge of Fang Anbang. She wanted to ask if she could use chemotherapy or dialysis to give him some help.

The expert told him mercilessly that in Fang Anbang's situation, chemotherapy could not give him any help, and dialysis had completely lost its meaning. If he still could not enter the harmonious period within 120 hours, then.. There was nothing they could do.

120 hours, that was five days after Fang Anbang's surgery, Fang Anbang's body finally could not hold on anymore. The life-saving medicine and nutrition needle could not hold on to his failing body and various organs That was because the transplanted kidney had never been used to get along with his body.

In the end, Fang Anbang's life came to an end. Fang Xiao had no other choice but to cry silently. As Fang Anbang's only daughter, she had put in all her effort for her father's life. She had even sold herself.

However, such hard work, such painstaking effort, and finally, the facts proved to her once again that there was no direct ratio between effort and reward. Her efforts and efforts once again yielded the result of failure.

Guanyin Bodhisattva and Tathagata Buddha did not protect her father, and the Lord of the Foreign School did not stand on her side. She even wondered if this had something to do with her not burning incense or thinking about the Lord It seemed that it was useless to rush to the Buddha's feet at the last minute.

Fang Anbang still woke up from the shock. Fang Xiao walked in and looked at her father. Fang Anbang's Ashen face revealed a guilty expression as he looked at her He said intermittently, "Xiao Xiao... Daddy is gone... take care of mom and Chen Chen... Xiao Xiao... don't blame Cai Wei... that's what Daddy... owes her... "

Chapter 1665-her father is dead

Fang Anbang's words ended there. In fact, when he returned from the twilight, he was already dead. His lips moved as he spoke. Fang Xiao could only hear the first part clearly, asking her to take good care of her mother and so on. Unfortunately.. Her mother had died more than three months ago, but she did not hear a single word Fang Anbang said after that.

Fang Anbang tilted his head and loosened his grip. Just like that, he closed his eyes forever, bade farewell to his daughter forever, and went to another world where his wife had long gone.

Fang Xiao prostrated herself on her father's corpse. She had not been able to support her body for a very, very long time. Her father was the support and hope of her life. Now that her father had left, she felt as if she had lost the center of her life.

The phone rang at this very moment. It was an unfamiliar number. She did not know whose it was, but she still pressed the answer button.

"Fang Xiao, come to Yunxiao pavilion tonight, " Xi Lingheng's voice was emotionless. It was a completely formulaic order.

"MY FATHER IS DEAD!" Fang Xiao cried out on the phone. "My father is dead. Can I not come tonight?"

There was a long silence on the phone. After a while, a deep and hoarse voice came through. "Then you should finish your father's business first. "

Fang Xiao hung up the phone and cried on her father's body. She sold herself for 500,000 yuan to save her father, but the 500,000 yuan did not save her father's life. She had to be Xi Lingheng's mistress for a year.

Her father died at Binhai, so of course, he was cremated at Binhai. After her father's surgery, he died. She still had less than 100,000 yuan left from selling her body, so she used it to bury her father.

The Urn was also called the Treasure Palace. Fang Xiao liked this name very much, so she bought her father a black sandalwood treasure palace. She put her father's ashes in the treasure palace, then carried them in her arms to take a long-distance bus back to Hui city.

When she was young, when she was angry, when she was bullied, when she cried, her father would always hug her in his arms and then gently coax her. "Xiaoxiao, who bullied you?"

Or, "Xiaoxiao, you can't cry. Girls who cry won't BE PRETTY WHEN THEY GROW UP!"

Perhaps it was because all little girls were afraid of whether they were pretty or not, but since then, she rarely cried, so when she grew up, she gradually forgot what crying was.

However, she did cry when her parents died, especially when she was holding the Treasure Palace that contained her father's ashes in her arms. Sitting in the last corner of the long-distance bus, her tears quietly slid down like broken beads.

She bought the cemetery when she buried her mother a month and a half ago, and now that her father was dead, she didn't plan to buy another cemetery. So, she carried her father's treasure palace to the cemetery, borrowed a shovel from the cemetery management, and shoveled open her mother's cemetery. Then, she put her father's treasure palace into her mother's cemetery and let the two of them be together.

"Dad, mom, from now on, the two of you will be together. It can be considered a reunion." Fang Xiao knelt in front of her parents' graves and kowtowed. Her voice was choked with sobs. "Dad, mom, don't worry. I will take good care of my little brother. I..."

Before Fang Xiao could finish speaking to her parents, her phone suddenly and sharply rang. In this deserted cemetery, it was particularly ear-piercing.

Chapter 1666 the idiot's younger brother

She was slightly stunned. She immediately took out her phone and pressed the answer button. Before she could say 'hello' .. Luo Qili's voice came from the phone in a hurry. "Fang Xiao, your younger brother fell while playing basketball in school. He's been calling your name. Do you have time to come over?"

Fang Xiao's expression changed abruptly. She stomped on the money that still had sparks. She immediately turned around and ran towards the entrance of the cemetery. As she ran, she shouted, "I'll be there right away. I just happened to be in Huicheng today. Help me send him to the hospital first..."

Luo Qili was her good friend and also the intellectual inspiration teacher of the special school. Fang Xiao had gone to the school to visit her younger brother, Fang Chen, when she came back from abroad four years ago.

At that time, Luo Qili was Fang Chen's form teacher, so she and Fang Xiao got along quite well. Fang Xiao often asked her about her younger brother, Fang Chen, in school. After a while, the two became friends.

By the time Fang Xiao arrived at Luo Qili's hospital, Luo Qili was already pacing back and forth in front of the emergency room, waiting for her.

"Qili, how is my brother?" Fang Xiao ran over at the speed of a 100-meter sprint. She grabbed Luo Qili's arms with both hands and almost lost her balance.

In this world, her only family member was her brother, Chen Chen. If anything happened to Chen Chen, how could she have the face to see her parents in the future?

"It's just a small cut on his calf and a small cut on his head. He's getting stitches," Auntie Chen, who was standing next to Luo Qili, answered before Luo Qili could. Then, she looked at Fang Xiao with guilt. "I'm sorry, Miss Fang. I was careless."

Luo Qili quickly comforted her. "Fang Xiao, don't worry. Fang Chen is fine. I don't think he needs to be hospitalized."

When Fang Xiao heard Luo Qili's words, her heart, which had been on the verge of her throat, finally calmed down. She turned her head and looked at Auntie Chen. "Thank you, Auntie Chen. I won't blame you. After all, you can't take care of him when he's on the run."

She turned around and grabbed Luo Qili's hand again. She looked at her with gratitude. "Thank you, Qili!"

"You're being polite with me?" Luo Qili rolled her eyes at her. Just as she was about to speak again, the door to the emergency room opened and a doctor in a white coat walked out.

"Fang Chen's family," the doctor called out at the entrance of the emergency room.

"I am." Fang Xiao immediately walked up and asked with a slightly trembling voice, "doctor, is my brother alright?"

"Yes, he just had three stitches on his head. They didn't hurt his bones. Go and pay the money first. After hanging the IV in the observation room, you can go back. Come back in a week to remove the stitches," the doctor said very politely and formally while handing over the bill.

"Thank you, Doctor." Fang Xiao took the bill, turned around, and ran to the payment window.

The air in the observation room was filled with the smell of disinfectant and needle medicine. Fang Xiao came to the bedside, bent down, and looked at the shaved head. Looking at the face that looked somewhat similar to her, her heart could not help but ache.

Her younger brother was ten years younger than her, but he was almost 14 years old. He was almost an adult, already 172 years old. However, his intelligence was like that of a three- or four-year-old child.

Chen Chen was also the treasure of his parents since he was young. When he was a few years old, his parents loved him very much. But when he was seven or eight years old and still acted like a three- or four-year-old child, his parents gradually became disappointed with him.

Chapter 1667 isn't brother-in-law good

Other children went to primary school when they were six years old, but Chen Chen was still in kindergarten when he was six years old. Moreover, he was in middle school because the big class had homework to do, and Chen Chen could not do homework.

Chen Chen stayed in kindergarten until he was seven years old. Later, because he was tall, he refused to go to kindergarten, so he just stayed at home. Because his parents were disappointed with him, they only cared about his food and clothes, so there was no need to think about anything else.

It was Fang Xiao who came back to China five years ago and found that his brother was still like a three or four-year-old child at home when he was nine years old. So, he suggested to his parents that they send him to a special school, saying that it might let Chen Chen find something that he liked and was interested in.

Her parents weren't very willing at the time. Fang Anbang said that special schools were all swindlers of money. Sending a child to a special school was actually no different from sending him to prison. If she handed over the money, at the very most, her child would become accustomed to looking at her like a prisoner. She might as well hire a nanny at home to look after him. Moreover, she would spend less money.

Thus, Fang Xiao told her parents about Ah Gan. She also told her parents that Chen Chen wasn't a fool. He was just intellectually slower than other people. However, at the very least, he didn't need anyone to look after him when he wore clothes and ate. He might even go to a special school. He could even learn how to bathe himself.

In the end, after she had done a lot of work, her parents agreed to send Chen Chen to this special school in Huicheng. Of course, the cost was much more expensive than helping Chen Chen hire a nanny at home.

"Chen Chen," she called her brother's name in a low voice.

The person on the bed who had closed his eyes for an IV drip heard her call and slowly opened his eyes. When he saw Fang Xiao, he immediately grinned like a child and shouted, "sister!"

Fang Xiao gently covered the area where he was covered with gauze and asked softly, "Chen Chen, does it hurt?"

"It doesn't hurt anymore." Chen Chen immediately turned around and sat up. She threw herself into Fang Xiao's arms like a child and placed her head on Fang Xiao's shoulder. Her arms wrapped around Fang Xiao's neck. Her voice sounded faintly, "it just hurt. Now that I see you, it doesn't hurt anymore. Chen Chen misses you so much."

Fang Xiao's nose turned sour and tears almost rolled down her face. She quickly used her fingers to wipe away the liquid in her eyes. Then, she forced a smile and said, "I miss Chen Chen too. Didn't you come to see Chen Chen after you were done with work?"

Chen Chen finally smiled happily and let go of Fang Xiao's neck. Then, she looked at Fang Xiao's face and couldn't help but ask naively, "sister, will you grow thin when you get married?"

Will you grow thin when you get married Fang Xiao was stunned for a moment before she reacted.

The last time she came to see Fang Chen was more than a month ago. It was two days before she and Qiu Yitang were about to get married. That time, she told Chen Chen that she was going to get married. In the future, not only did he have a sister, but he also had a brother-in-law.

However, she did not expect Chen Chen to still remember this matter, and she thought that he had long forgotten about it.

"Is brother-in-law not good to sister?" Fang Chen saw that Fang Xiao did not answer for a long time, so she asked carefully again.

Fang Xiao was shocked and quickly reacted. She forced a smile and said softly, "yes, why wouldn't it be good?"

Fang Chen heard Fang Xiao's words and was happy, so he took out a small bottle from behind She handed the transparent plastic bottle to Fang Xiao. "sister, this is my wedding gift for you. Teacher Luo and Auntie Chen taught me how to fold the little stars inside. The blue little stars are brother-in-law, and the pink little stars are sister. brother-in-law and sister will always live in the same house."

Chapter 1668 you still have Fang Chen

Fang Xiao held the transparent plastic bottle with both hands. It was actually an ordinary small candy bottle with red and Blue Stars in it. Each one was Chen Chen's heart.

Her nose became sour again, and warm liquid surged into her eyes again. She seemed to say, Chen Chen, you don't have a brother-in-law anymore. You'll never have a brother-in-law anymore because your sister didn't marry that man at all.

Of course, these words could only be kept in the bottom of her heart and couldn't be said. Moreover, Fang Chen wouldn't understand even if she said it. She clenched the plastic bottle tightly and looked at her brother on the hospital bed. Her heart warmed up bit by bit.

She was not alone. Even if her parents had both left her, she still had her younger brother. She would depend on her younger brother.

"sister, don't you like it?" Fang Chen saw that Fang Xiao was staring at the bottle without saying a word, so she quickly asked nervously.

"How can I not like it?" Fang Xiao immediately came back to her senses and hugged Chen Chen's head She planted a heavy kiss on his forehead. "thank you, Chen Chen. I like it very much! Chen Chen, quickly lie down and get your injection. If you don't fall down in the future, I will like Chen Chen even more."

"Hehehe," Chen Chen laughed happily and obediently lay down on the bed. He even muttered softly, "who asked me not to come and visit Chen Chen? I often come to visit Chen Chen, so Chen Chen won't fall down."

“MMM, then I will come and visit Chen Chen more often in the future, okay?” Fang Xiao immediately pulled the blanket over Chen Chen and covered him with it. As she helped him Tuck in the corner of the blanket, she gently coaxed him.

“But, why is mom not coming to visit Chen Chen anymore?” Fang Chen lay on the bed and whispered, “could it be that mom is getting married too?”

Fang Xiao felt extremely sad. She pondered for a long time before she calmed herself down. She gently stroked Fang Chen’s forehead and said in a low voice, “mom went abroad. It will take a long time for her to come back.”

“Then, is dad going abroad too?” Chen Chen’s low voice sounded.

“Yes,” Fang Xiao replied softly.

“Then, is sister going abroad too?”

“I’m not going,” Fang Xiao immediately answered her brother’s question. Then, she kissed his cheek and comforted him, “If sister doesn’t go abroad, sister will stay with Chen Chen in the country.”

Fang Chen widened his bright eyes and looked at Fang Xiao. After a while, he carefully asked, “then... when can I live with sister?”

Fang Xiao was stunned again. After thinking for a while, she smiled and said to him, “when Chen Chen graduates, Chen Chen has to work hard and try to graduate early. Sister will come and bring Chen Chen Home, okay?”

“Okay.” Chen Chen finally smiled. She stretched out her little finger and tried to pinky swear with Fang Xiao, “sister, don’t go back on your word!”

“I won’t go back on my word. I definitely won’t GO BACK ON MY WORD!” Fang Xiao immediately stretched out her little finger and pulled on Fang Chen’s little finger. “pinky swear, don’t change it for a Hundred Years!”

Finally, Fang Chen was coaxed to sleep. When he heard his heavy snoring, Fang Xiao kissed him on the forehead and walked out of the observation room.

“Fang Xiao, how’s your father’s surgery?” Luo Qili sent Fang Xiao out of the hospital and quickly asked with concern.

“My father... is already dead.” Fang Xiao’s voice was choked with sobs, but she stubbornly did not let her tears fall. “I sent my father’s ashes back today.”

“I’m sorry,” Luo Qili quickly apologized. Then, she sighed and patted Fang Xiao’s shoulder. “I’m sorry for your loss. You still have Fang Chen.”

Chapter 1669 had to go back to Bincheng

Fang Xiao nodded as if she had thought of something, so she quickly said to Luo Qili, "Oh right, I'll transfer Fang Chen's money for this semester to you when I get back. I've troubled you to pay for so long, it's really..."

"If you don't have it, then there's no need to be in such a hurry. I don't need money now anyway," Luo Qili quickly interrupted her.

"My father died, and I still have 100,000 yuan left," Fang Xiao said truthfully. "Not only do I plan to transfer the money for this semester, I also plan to transfer the money for the next semester because I'm worried that if I accidentally spend it, I might really not be able to pay Fang Chen's fees."

Fang Chen attended this special school. Not only did he have to pay for tuition and miscellaneous fees, books, materials, tutoring fees for special classes, living expenses, and special care fees for Aunties, but he also had to pay 50,000 yuan for a semester.

Luo Qili did not say anything more after hearing her words. After all, she was only a teacher at the school. A few months ago, she could not even cover Fang Chen's expenses. In the end, she went to the finance department to use her salary as a guarantee. Only then did the school allow Fang Chen to continue staying here.

"Fang Xiao, our school just happens to be short of a music teacher. I remember that you once learned to play the piano, right?" Luo Qili kindly suggested to Fang Xiao. "If you can stay at the school as a teacher, then you don't have to hire an aunt to take care of your brother, and you can also stay by your brother's side. This is a good thing that kills two birds with one stone."

Fang Xiao also knew that this was a good thing that killed two birds with one stone. If she had not sold herself for 500,000 to Xi Lingheng, then she would definitely choose to stay at Huicheng's special school and stay by her brother's side, Chen Chen.

However, she had already sold herself, and that man wanted her to be at his Beck and call. Huicheng was more than 100 kilometers away from Binhai, so how could she be at his Beck and call?

Even though her father was dead, she still had to fulfill the contract to sell her body. After all, her name was written in black and white on it.

So, she politely rejected Luo Qili's good intentions. She said softly, "I still have to go back to Binhai to look for a job. After all, the salary there is much higher, and the special school's salary, aside from my and Fang Chen's living expenses, has no surplus. If anything happens to Fang Chen, I don't have any extra money to take out."

After hearing what Fang Xiao said, Luo Qili didn't try to persuade her to stay. She knew Fang Xiao's current situation, so she quickly gave her cousin's cell phone number.

"My cousin, Liu Yijun, works at Binhai Sun Department Store. She seems to be the assistant manager of the purchasing department. It is said that she earns a lot of money a year. She rented a room and a living room. If you don't have a place to live in Binhai, you can look for her. Maybe she can help you find a job at Sun Department Store," Luo Qili said to her.

Fang Xiao thanked Luo Qili and then said goodbye to Auntie Chen. She hurried to the bus stop because she hadn't forgotten that she didn't belong to herself anymore. She belonged to the man who bought her for 500,000 yuan.

While she was still on the bus, her cell phone rang. She pressed the answer button and heard the man's cold voice, "haven't you finished your father's business yet?"

"Yes, I have." She bit her lip and added, "I'm on the bus from Huicheng to Binhai."

Chapter 1670 in times of crisis

"then you can rent a house in Area F," the man's voice was still cold and emotionless.

"Can I rent a house in Area L in the suburbs?" She asked carefully, then quickly explained, "the houses in the suburbs are cheaper."

She had already asked around. Renting a single apartment in a village in the suburbs was about 500 to 600 yuan, which would save a lot of money. Now, after she paid her brother's tuition fees for two semesters, she was so poor that she had no money.

"I remember that the agreement states that you have to be on call 24 hours a day," his cold voice came from the phone. It was as cold and piercing as the Siberian wind. "You live in the suburbs. What if I want it? Can you guarantee that you can come over at any time?"

Fang Xiao immediately fell silent. Dongfang Yunheng on the other side of the phone did not give her a chance to speak, because he had already hung up the phone with a snap.

The next day, in order to rent a cheaper apartment, Fang Xiao had almost searched the entire village in Area F. actually, it was very convenient to find an intermediary to rent an apartment, but the intermediary had to charge an intermediary fee, and she did not want to pay the intermediary fee. So she could only follow the alley in the village and look at the advertisements on the walls.

Finally, she rented a simple bachelor apartment in a village in the city three kilometers away from the Dongfang building. The kind with a kitchen and bathroom cost two thousand yuan a month.

After renting the house, she bought some daily necessities. Since she had to find a job to work, she went to the wholesale market to buy two sets of business clothes for herself.

After she finished setting up the temporary home, she was almost completely exhausted. She fried a box of noodles at the rice noodle shop in the village in the city and wolfed it down.

After taking a shower, she didn't even care that her hair was still wet and just fell asleep on the bed.

She was too tired, especially after her father had a kidney transplant surgery. She almost didn't sleep well. She stayed with her father all day and night until his warm body turned into an ice-cold corpse.

Fang Xiao called Luo Qili's cousin, Liu Yijun, the next morning. Perhaps Luo Qili had called Liu Yijun in advance to tell her about her condition, so Liu Yijun heard that it was Fang Xiao and didn't say anything. She immediately asked her to wait for her at the entrance of Sun Department Store in the morning.

Although Fang Xiao wasn't familiar with Binhai, Sun Department Store was a famous shopping center in Binhai, and it was located in the prosperous business circle of Binhai. So, anyone who asked would know where to go to Sun department store.

Because she needed to find a job, Liu Yijun asked her to write her resume over the phone. So, Fang Xiao wrote another resume at home and sent it to the photo studio in the city village to be photocopied. Then, she took the bus to Sun Department Store according to the route that the owner of the photo studio told her.

When Fang Xiao rushed to Sun department store, it was just past 10 o'clock in the morning. Liu Yijun found an excuse to come out. Fang Xiao had seen Liu Yijun once at Luo Qili's house. Although they hadn't talked, they had talked to each other, so she had some impression of Liu Yijun. The two of them recognized each other as soon as they met.

Liu Yijun was very warm-hearted. When they met, she immediately asked where she lived. There was no room for rent. If there was no room for rent, they could squeeze in at her place. She said that she rented a room and a living room. Usually, almost no one went to her house, and the living room could actually fit a bed.