Chapter 231

Brandon had always been all brawn and no brains.

Ever since he was convinced that Cherry could transform from a boy into a girl, he had admired her very much.

Added to this, the fact that Justin had really showed up and backed her up after she said that she was Justin's child the other time, he had never doubted anything that Cherry said ever again.

Thus, he nodded and said, "Yes, they are very close! She can get Mr.Quinn to teach us martial arts!"

He made a few fighting gestures and even let out a few hey's and he's as he did so, making the little fellow look exceptionally simple and innocent.

He said, "I'm going to be a hero in the pugilistic world in the future! Who knows, I may even be able to master flying! And become someone invincible that can fly through the air and burrow through the ground! Right, Mia?"

Mia was very supportive.

Her big round eyes were very bright on her pointed little face.

She clapped vigorously and said, "Yes!"

Brandon patted his little chest and said, "I will take care of you in the future!"

"Okie-Dokie!"

Jimmy, who was lying on the bed...

After the two left, Mrs.Hoffman came to watch over him in the evening.

Mrs.Hoffman looked obviously rather flustered.

Her emotions were very unstable, and she looked very haggard.

They were at their wits' end.

The Hoffmans had already mobilized all of their resources to look for Big Sister, but they couldn't find any clues about her at all! This was simply too bizarre.

After all, among New York's underworld forces, the Hoffmans had always been considered one that had developed pretty well.

It was impossible for a clan to keep a piece of information so securely hidden by themselves.

After all, some of their men were also part of the Quinn School of Martial Arts.

"My grandpa says that the Quinn School of Martial Arts doesn't teach children martial arts.They've asked about it for a very long time now.Unless you join the sect or become an unofficial disciple, they won't take you in.But once you become an unofficial disciple, you'll have to keep on training for many years.I can't take such hardships, so I'm not going anymore !"

"My aunt says that..."

Children only practiced martial arts to keep fit.

How would families that could afford to let their children attend the Golden Sunshine Kindergarten allow them to become martial arts practitioners? Therefore, even though Brandon made several calls consecutively, everyone said the same thing.

Brandon, who was very positive, didn't get upset.

He hung up excitedly, looked at Pete, and said, "Wow, the five of us will be the only ones there.That means it's gonna be a small class! That's awesome!"

The others, Little Jimmy said indignantly, "They are too much! They agreed to come, yet they aren't coming anymore! Hmph!"

Mrs.Hoffman had come along with Jimmy, and behind their car was Jordan, who had also come.

Although he had told Mrs.Hoffman that he didn't quite believe the children's banter, for some reason, when he thought of how Nora had so easily turned the tide at the racetracks, he subconsciously felt that he shouldn't underestimate her.

Thus, he had canceled all his plans for the day and made a special trip here.

The sensitive Mia was afraid that Cherry would be upset, so she looked at Pete.

When she turned to him, sure enough, she saw an expressionless 'Cherry'.

She held Pete's hand.

"Don't be mad, Cherry!"

"I'm not...yeah."

Mia asked timidly, "Then why aren't you smiling? You're mad, aren't you?"

Pete "..."

He silently forced a smile.

"I really am fine...yeah."

"Stop smiling, Cherry. Your smile looks even scarier than when you're crying," said Brandon.

Pete, who looked sullen, didn't speak.

However, there was also a devil incarnate in their line of work, Brandon, who stood up for his boss.

"Terence, you were chased out yourself and you're taking your anger out on us! Cherry is very powerful.If she says he can bring us in, she can!" Terence sneered.

"My father said long ago that Quinn School of Martial Arts' rules are strict.Did you hear that? Only an unofficial disciple like me can enter to learn martial arts.You want to enter? No way!"

Brandon said, "Then I'll show you how we get in! Hmph! Cherry, let's go!"

Pete nodded and led the way, heading straight for the door However, Terence was following behind them.

When he saw this situation, he sneered and said, "Cherry, don't tell me you still want to go through the main entrance? Do you know that unless there are important guests or inner disciples, the gates of Quinn School of Martial Arts are not open to just anyone!"

Quinn School of Martial Arts' management was very strict.

This was also one of the reasons why Jordan and the others could not enter even if they wanted to be associated with Quinn School of Martial Arts.

This was because they would be stopped at the entrance.

It was impossible for them to speak to someone with authority! Pete had been in power since he was young.

No matter where he went, he would always go through the front door .

He did not know anything about this.

Mia didn't understand either.

But Brandon understood.

His father and Joel were separated by a generation and could be considered cousins.

Although they both were Smiths, his generation had to move out.

After all, his lineage was too distant.

The direct descendants and the collateral descendants were very clear in aristocratic families.

Therefore, his father often instructed him to maintain a good relationship with Mia, who was the child of the head of the direct descendants.

Of course, he wasn't protecting Mia entirely because of this.

Nora was silent for a moment. Sensing that she was silent, Jimmy's mother misunderstood.

"Is it difficult to introduce us to her? Forget it, I was just asking..."

Actually, if Jimmy coaxed Cherry, she could also pass the message to Mr. Quinn.

But this was not good.

To get Cherry to help recommend someone, they definitely had to get the approval of the parent.

After all, New York was filled with wealthy families.

No one knew who had a relationship with whom.

Children did not know the severity of the matter, and she could not ask her children to help resolve it.

Jimmy's mother's thoughts were simple.

Cherry might have been able to enter Quinn School of Martial Arts because of Mr.Hunt.

It had nothing to do with Miss Smith , so she couldn't make things difficult for her.

As she was thinking about this, she heard the other party hesitate for a moment.

"It's not that...Is something the matter?"

If she wanted her to help introduce her, she would have to explain the situation.

Otherwise, what if what they asked the Big Sister to do went against her own interests? With the most sincere attitude, Jimmy's mother sighed.

"I want you to be magnanimous and let our Hoffman family off"

Nora,"???"

She was stunned.

"What does Quinn School of Martial Arts have to do with the Hoffmans?"

If the Hoffmans had hurt someone from Quinn School of Martial Arts, then as the Big Sister, Nora would definitely seek justice for them.

Nora could ensure that she and Mr.Quinn did not commit any crimes, and she could also guarantee that Lucas, who had interacted with her a lot, was not that kind of a person .

However, she could not guarantee if someone had relied on the power of Quinn School of Martial Arts to do bad things outside.

After all, there were so many disciples under them.

Therefore, she had to come over and find out what was going on.

Unfortunately, Jimmy's mother and Jordan did not know about this.

When they heard Paul Quinlan's frank words, both of them trembled in fear! The fact that he dared to call Lucas over to confront him at the entrance of Quinn School of Martial Arts meant that either Paul Quinlan's heart was too big or this matter was true.

How trustworthy were Miss Smith's words? Jordan narrowed his eyes.

"He doesn't have to watch the contract.Either you call him out and get him to give us accurate information, or I'll feel aggrieved about the loss of this money" Paul Quinlan narrowed his eyes and smiled.

"Sure.Wait a moment, Mr.Hoffman.Quinn School of Martial Arts is not a place that just anyone can enter."

Jordan,"!!"

Jimmy's mother was even more furious.

"Heh, speaking of which, we're not random people, are we? Mr.Quinlan, you have such a high status in Quinn School of Martial Arts.Can't you show us around?"

Paul Quinlan was neither angry nor annoyed.

"How is my status high? I'm just the Big Brother of the unofficial disciples.Master loves silence the most.Not to mention me, even Senior Lucas can't bring anyone in! Of course, unless Big Sister comes..."

Jimmy's mother and Jordan looked at each other.

At this moment, their minds were filled with one thought "Daddy, why can Cherry bring her friends in?"

Terence asked indignantly.

He had lost all his face in front of his friends earlier! Therefore, he was not afraid of ruining Paul Quinlan's show.

Paul...

When Terence had called him to cry and complain, he had said that Quinn School of Martial Arts had stopped him from bringing his friends in.

He had not told him the details, so he had not understood.

Nora's car was too fast and too impatient, causing dust to fly.The four people covered in dust looked at her simultaneously and saw the car stop.

Nora pushed the door open and got out of the car.

When she saw that it was her, Jimmy's mother became nervous.

She looked at Paul Quinlan, afraid that he would make things difficult for her.

As for Jordan, he stood between her and Paul Quinlan without hesitation.

He used his powerful and muscular body to block Paul Quinlan's sudden attack.

After all, this was a "weak girl".

He still had to protect her.

Huh, but something seemed off? When Jordan saw Nora's thin and frail body, he had already forgotten that she had once fought more than ten people alone and rushed into Jimmy's bedroom.

After all, he had not seen it himself.

When Lucas saw Nora, he was also stunned.

He was about to call her Big Sister when he suddenly realized that there were too many people in front of him.

Nora had specially instructed him not to reveal her identity in front of everyone.

Therefore, he opened his mouth and closed it again.

As he was conflicted about how to address her, Lucas did not speak for a moment.

Only Paul Quinlan snorted.

"Miss Smith? You're here too? What's wrong? Did you hear that Mr.Hoffman is here and come over to show off?"

Lucas looked at Paul Quinlan in surprise.

Eh? He knew Big Sister? But why did his tone sound a little off? As he was thinking about this, he saw Nora raise her eyebrows.

She ignored him and looked at Jordan and Jimmy's mother instead.

"Why are you guys here?"

Jimmy's mother glanced at him and explained, "Cherry who took Jimmy in to study martial arts in, so we waited here for her to come out and pick him up"

Hearing this, Nora raised her eyebrows.

According to the old man's fondness for Cherry, if Cherry had said anything, the old man would have definitely stood up for Jordan and his wife.

Paul Quinlan was stunned. He turned around and saw Lucas and Nora standing there.

Lucas frowned and reprimanded, "What are you saying?"

When Paul Quinlan saw his unhappy expression, he hurriedly smiled.

"Senior Lucas, you're back? I can't speak, I was wrong."

He knew that Quinn School of Martial Arts hated saying things like women and lovers.

That old man was very particular and liked to put on an act.

His words earlier were indeed a little too unpleasant.

He pretended to hit his own mouth and looked at Nora again.

"Miss Smith, don't mind me. I just spoke without thinking." With that, he smiled at Jordan and Jimmy's mother.

Jordan and Jimmy's mother stood up and tried to see if they could get something from Lucas and Nora's faces.

However, Nora remained calm.

Her eyes were filled with sleepiness, and no emotions could be seen.

On the other hand, Lucas' expression was very ugly.

Did Miss Smith anger him? Jimmy's mother clenched her fists.

Miss Smith must have spoken up for them.

Lucas was so angry because Miss Smith had delayed his business, right? She frowned and looked at Jordan.

The two of them had been husband and wife for many years.

With one look, they understood something.

Jordan immediately said, "Mr. Lucas, don't be angry. We're only here to see if we can reduce our losses. After all, buying a club for five million is really no different from robbing!"

Five million? Lucas was stunned.

While he was still in a daze, Lucas took the opportunity to punch him in the face.

"Not an outsider? Then tell me who she is!"

Lucas choked and was speechless.

Paul sneered when he saw him.

"Tell me? You can't say anything, right? I know.Are you having an affair with her?"

"You're asking for a beating!"

Lucas had always had a good temper.

At this moment, he was So angry that he could not speak.

He could only punch repeatedly, making Paul run around the room in a sorry state.

"Paul, if you don't explain yourself, this matter will not end today!"

Paul found an opportunity and dashed out to the courtyard.

The other disciples in the courtyard rushed over one after another, not understanding what was going on.

Then, they saw Lucas, whom they respected very much, running out of his room and chasing after Paul.

Paul shouted, "Everyone, come and judge! Senior Lucas actually bullied me for his lover! Master, save me!"

With that, someone stepped forward, wanting to stop Lucas.

Lucas roared angrily, "Move!"

That person immediately moved aside and did not dare to interfere.

It couldn't be helped.

Lucas was now managing the Quinn School of Martial Arts on behalf of the sect leader! Who dared to provoke him?! However, Paul seized the opportunity and ran straight to Mr.Quinn's courtyard.

He ran straight to the martial arts hall.

"Master, help! Help!"

Logically speaking, the disciple guarding the door should have stopped him.

The entire courtyard was silent.

It was as if someone had pressed the mute button on everyone, and they all stared at the thin young woman in astonishment and disbelief.

Disregarding how astonished Jordan and Mrs.Hoffman- who had already suspected a thing or two a long time ago were, even Paul was so shocked that he had all but forgotten the pain he was feeling.

She was the Quinn School of Martial Arts' Big Sister? How...how could that be?

A more girlie...Master often said that Big Sister had been painstakingly training in martial arts for 25 years, but didn't the girl in front of them at the moment look like she was barely past twenty? Was she already training in martial arts while she was in her mother's womb? How would he know that back then, when Quinn was struggling to find his successor, yet the Irvin School of Martial Arts had been a step ahead of him and taken Justin—who had the highest aptitude in martial arts in New York—with them, he had vowed to find someone on par with Justin? How would he know that back then, while Quinn was struggling to find his successor, he had vowed to find someone on par with Justin?

At the time, Irvin School of Martial Arts had been a step ahead of Quinn and had taken Justin, who had the highest aptitude in martial arts in all of New York, with them.

However, even after searching for a very long time, he simply couldn't find anyone suitable.

This continued until Yvette Anderson called him and asked if he wanted to take a disciple.

At that time, he had asked, "Who is it?"

He had wanted to take Yvette as his disciple when she was young, but unfortunately, she didn't have any aspirations in martial arts, so she had rejected him.

Later on, when Yvette grew up, he didn't want to take her as a disciple anymore.

Now that Yvette was the one bringing the topic up, he was very curious—who was it that Yvette had seen potential in and was sending to him?

The next moment, Yvette answered, "It's my daughter"

Her answer had made Quinn dumbfounded at that time.

"I haven't even met her before. How would I know whether she has a good aptitude or not?"

Yvette replied, "It's better than mine."

"Okay, I'll take her!"

A panicked Quinn immediately shouted, lest someone snatched her away if he was even a second late.

"Okay. I'll get her to contact you three years later."

An anxious Quinn said, "Why do we have to wait three years for it? Martial arts training should start early, preferably right away. How old is your daughter? The best age for one to learn martial arts is between three to six years old. You'd better not delay the child's learning!"

Yvette sounded very calm as she replied, "Oh, she's negative six-months-old right now."

Chapter 240

Joel was a little surprised at the question.

He answered, "She's inside the Quinn School of Martial Arts."

Was Uncle Ian going to acknowledge her and bring her back to the Smiths? As soon as the thought formed, the man said, "Oh."

Joel, He kept quiet for a while before he said, "She seems to have offended Paul Quinlan, but with Justin Hunt's ties to the Quinn School of Martial Arts, they won't do anything to her...Do we intervene?"

Ian stayed silent for a very long while.

In the end, he sneered, "With Justin Hunt protecting her, why would she need us?"

Joel could hear the displeasure in his words.

However, when he thought of the DNA test report, he didn't dare to say anything.

Just when he thought Ian was going to hang up, Ian said

"...But the Smiths are not to be bullied. Don't let her die." Joel breathed a sigh of relief.

"Okay." Joel spaced out for a moment after he hung up.

By right, he wasn't really friends with Nora.

Added to this, Ian's attitude toward her, as well as how hurtful her existence was to Ian, it would make more sense if he looked forward to something happening to Nora instead.

So, why had he actually breathed a sigh of relief just now? Was it because...

He looked at Tanya, who was listening to music and playing games in the jeep in front.

Was it because of her? He didn't want to make her sad, so he didn't want anything to happen to her best friend...

After all, that woman had always been stubborn and withdrawn since she was a child, so she barely had any friends.

It wasn't easy for her to have a best friend whom she could trust with her life.

The moment the thought formed, Joel leaned back against the backseat again, suddenly losing the desire to get out of the car.

Indeed, she had always been withdrawn since she was a child.

Her world consisted only of herself, so why would she even care about him? Hadn't she also mercilessly left him back then? Joel lowered his gaze and suddenly said, "Let's go home"

The chauffeur was taken aback.
