

EMPEROR 1061

Chapter 1061 Exhausting The Poison Essence

'... Belong to my Mistress Evelynn?'

Davis looked flabbergasted as he saw Nadia echo those words while her eyes flashed with a golden light. He knew that she wouldn't joke at a time like this; actually, she seldom joked, so it could only be her true feelings.

Indeed, Nadia wanted to personally capture this Poison Essence other than obeying her master's command. Out of the three Mistresses, she was closer to Mistress Evelynn. That's why she was also motivated to crush the revolting monstrosity, claw it into many pieces and send it back to Mistress Evelynn as a tribute!

As much as she wanted to stay with her master, she shared that feeling a bit with Evelynn as well.

The Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn's expression turned into one of panic! It was unable to move or attack. The darkness kept concisely eroding its poisonous powers like it was nothing, and the woman in front of her appeared to be a King Beast Stage Magical Beast!

Doomed!

It knew it was doomed and going to be trapped again!

The darkness swirling around wasn't at the level of the Seventh Stage but the Eighth Stage!

Unfortunately, it was too late to realize this fact.

Numerous sphere layers of darkness stacked upon it each second. It continuously kept building up until it was covered over a hundred layers, with the inner layers constantly trying to engulf and corrode its poison whole.

"Well done, Nadia... Your Darkness Laws are effective against Poison Laws, so when you stack layers upon layers of attack or defense, the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn will find it extremely difficult to break through your darkness with its poison."

"It's all because of master's advice..." Nadia thoughtfully answered.

Indeed, his advice to Nadia before came from the fact that he knew about Darkness Law's superiority over Poison Laws. In terms of battling, Darkness Laws became extremely effective against poison since it had the ability to erode, corrupt, and eliminate the properties of energy.

If the poison had its properties erased, it would fail to maintain shape and collapse by itself.

Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn's poison might've been still effective against other Laws, but against Darkness Laws, which was almost two major stages higher, it would just have to obediently tie up its hands by itself and give up.

"Now, exhaust it by raining down attacks..." Davis calmly uttered.

"Yes!"

Nadia knew what to do.

She repeatedly sent her dark energy swirling against it, continually bombarding it.

Two percent...

Five percent...

Twenty percent...

It took her about ten minutes to exhaust the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn, and she spent twenty percent of her dark energy for leaving it with at most one percent of poisonous energy. Once she had brought it to zero or felt like she had brought it to zero since she felt no resistance, she didn't release it but waited for her master's command after she reported.

"Good, keep it inside the darkness layers. However, can you make tiny holes in the layers so that my soul force can enter till it reaches the inside?" Davis asked.

Nadia frowned as she felt that it would be difficult, but she still nodded her head. It would be fine if it were a bloodline technique, but she was just purely controlling energy like how most humans would do. It was unrefined, prone to collapse, lacked aesthetic, and hard to control.

Nevertheless, she extended her palm and tried to personally make a few holes in the layers of darkness by pure control. The layers and layers of spheres floating in mid-air encased the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn. However, it started to tremble visibly.

Her actions made the layers unstable, but two seconds later, many incomplete and unaligned holes formed, but since it led to the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn, Davis felt that it was great!

"Very good! Nadia! Your skills in controlling Darkness Laws are slowly improving!"

Davis laughed and sent his soul force into the tiny hole but before it could reach the hole...

"I thank- Master, it's attacking now!" Nadia abruptly shouted.

Sizzle!~

The sound of poison ashes being eroded by Darkness Laws resounded, but it managed to come out of the hundred layers built around it through the holes in addition to the green smoke that seems to be emerging from its flame.

"Don't worry... That's just its last yet useless struggle, so keep the holes open..."

Davis instructed Nadia not to overestimate it.

His soul force that was tinged with death-like laws was unimpeded as it met with the poisonous ashes. Those ashes and smoke disintegrated upon touch while the death-like energy entered the hole and flowed like an unstoppable stream, heading in a zigzag movement towards the center since the holes were not aligned in a single and straight path.

Davis's soul force quickly dashed past the innermost layer but didn't attack it straightaway but instead, soul force poured in like a tide in the inner sphere and abruptly encased the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn into it as it swallowed it whole!

His death-like laws didn't interfere with Nadia's dark energy since it didn't graze past it. Davis's control over death-like laws was skillful to the degree that he didn't find it difficult to maneuver inside the darkness layer without eyesight. Just having the feel of his soul sense accompanying it was enough for him to not accidentally hit Nadia's power.

The Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn became aghast!

What is this!? Is this the same darkness!? Why did this inscrutable energy seem so devoid of any relation to the darkness before!?

It tried to muster its last bit of energy to counterattack, but the moment its poisonous energy came out of its rotten face, everything disintegrated. Witnessing what had happened, it remained stiff, not daring to move.

However, a strand of this inscrutable energy suddenly stabbed through right at its forehead!

No!!!

The Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn's eyes were wide as it started to engage in a soul battle!

Davis, who was outside, had his expression calm. He didn't even seem to be having any trouble or was afraid that his soul would be poisoned back.

Indeed, he truly was not afraid as the Will of a Low-Level King Grade Poison Essence would have no chance to employ a counterattack towards him, especially not when he is using his soul force with the death-like laws. Moreover, his soul was too powerful that its prowess was at Peak-Level King Grade while the

Even the Purple Yang Star Lightning, the High-Level King Grade Lightning Elemental that is extremely capable of counterattacking souls when its Will was threatened, was unable to employ a counterattack on him, so it was quite apparent that the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn would be unable to do anything to him.

Even if it defied the heavens and somehow attacked him, he still had the life-like laws to heal himself.

Davis knew that he was invincible but also knew that he was only invincible within a certain range, probably within one stage ahead of him. Any more and he would probably have difficulty keeping his life intact.

However, the question of safety and need came by...

Why did he need to endanger himself when he could just use Fallen Heaven to get rid of the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn?

Chapter 1062 Wills, Erased!

Davis even knew the Pestilent Dragonfly Dusk Spawn's true name, Hemlok Corpse Poison. A name granted by heaven and earth according to his inference. He had used the Death God Eyes to learn about its name long ago. In fact, he knew every Spirit Attribute Source's name he saw in the Verdant Alstreim Treasure House.

He also knew some of the workers' names.

If something untoward happened, he could probably have the Spirit Attribute Sources work together and have them escape or even have them self-destruct simultaneously, bringing an enormous loss to the store or bring chaos to the Alstreim Family if it were the former.

In any case, he could've easily taken the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn out the moment it broke through towards King Grade, but he didn't use Fallen Heaven to erase its Will. The reason lay within three matters.

The first reason lay within the simple fact that he needed to lessen the reliance he had on Fallen Heaven. Unless faced with a threatening danger or an emergency situation that calls for a quick resolution, he had decided not to rely on it long ago.

The second reason was simply because of the ever-present cautiousness that he possessed about hidden onlookers. In reality, if it weren't for Nadia, he wouldn't have even known that someone was watching him, which ended up being Ancestor Dian Alstreim, a hidden onlooker who watched him from the shadows while he was battling with the Towering Cloud Hall and Falling Snow Sect in the outskirts of the Ethren City.

Fortunately, he hadn't used Fallen Heaven at that time, or it would've quickly become apparent to Ancestor Dian Alstreim that he possessed some kind of frightening treasure!

That would've quickly caused Ancestor Dian Alstreim to apprehend him instead of talking about talent and whatnot as greed always has a chance to win out in the end. However, that still couldn't be said without concrete evidence, but it would be an established fact that he would have no freedom upon Fallen Heaven being discovered.

Throwing that aside, he couldn't get rid of the notion if that old fart might be secretly looking at them from a distance away using an unknown method to perceive them even now. It was not him being paranoid but a legit feeling that he felt from the experience of having being watched once without his knowledge.

He had watched too many shows in the past that he couldn't get rid of this thought from his thinking process.

This constituted the majority of the reason why he couldn't use Fallen Heaven easily on an enemy when he could still deal by using his own prowess. If he ignored and used Fallen Heaven because of his laziness, his actions would have a greater chance of revealing its presence!

At that time, there would be no medicine for regrets!

For these two reasons, he also didn't use Fallen Heaven on Claire's enemies.

In truth, if he had used Fallen Heaven from the start, Nora Alstreim would've died a reluctant death. She was innocent from the start but would've been framed by them and had history paint her as a two-faced woman and a jealous schemer.

Even in death, she would not likely forgive them, and if she turned into a vengeful ghost in the form of a heart demon for his mother, that would end up in a tragedy instead.

In all aspects so far, not using Fallen Heaven for this particular event resulted in him knowing more about the status quo and the schemes the people had for each other. If he had blindly killed, it would've probably resulted in them incurring the wrath of Ancestor Dian Alstreim, and he would've needed to equally sacrifice his soul essence to kill!

For these few reasons, he wanted Claire to get her revenge naturally. This way, her satisfaction would also be high, and if there were any heart demons that bottlenecked her cultivation, it should disappear or easily be destroyable as well.

ShhhS!~

Davis twisted his hand and closed his palm.

The Will of the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn was erased by him, and its fate became sealed!

It now belonged to him, and it was up to Evelyn to reap the benefits!

"I wanted to use my species technique..." Nadia suddenly complained, but her voice was devoid of annoyance or irritation.

"Hehe, you'll get your chance as there's still the next time..." Davis consoled.

The last yet foremost reason was that Davis wanted to gain experience in killing these mysterious try natural entities of heaven and earth. It would be hilarious if he were to die from a Spirit Attribute Source rather than dying from a human's or magical beast's hands.

He needed to gain firsthand experience if he ever needed or wanted to take them on without using Fallen Heaven.

As for Nadia getting another chance, a Dark-Winged Twilight Wolf's species technique was said to be an attack that directly targeted the soul. If Nadia had used it on the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn, it was clear that she would've been able to snuff out its Will, but it was unknown if she would receive a poisonous backlash.

He wasn't a magical beast to know, and that's why he was going to let her deal with the lesser threat, the Mid-Level Sky Grade Poison Essence.

He retrieved his soul force back and instructed her to place it back on the six-legged cauldron. Nadia instantly obeyed her master's command and dragged the layered dark sphere towards the cauldron before dropping in it. She then removed the layers of darkness, and inside the hollow cauldron, a verdant sphere floated with a bit of flame burning above it.

Davis enclosed the cauldron with the lid and sealed it before absorbing into the spatial ring that it came with. He then flicked his sleeves, bringing out the Mid-Level Sky Grade Poison Essence that needed its Will to be exterminated.

The formation entrapping it was released, and it jumped out like a kangaroo with a vengeful expression on its bald head.

"Nadia, make sure you do not leave its remnant Will lingering around..."

Nadia's lips curved into a smile as she looked at the prey in front of her.

"Master can leave it to me and rest assured!"

=====

Davis and Nadia got back to the Purple Guest Palace without facing any interruptions. They returned the same way as they went, in a concealed manner. He had his reservations about hidden onlookers but seeing that no one came to bother him, it was more likely no one saw what they were doing in that relatively infertile plains.

He additionally got rid of the remnant poison and darkness energies remaining in that barren land with his death-like energy, so even if someone discovered an anomaly and came to investigate, they wouldn't be able to find anything.

Nadia returned to his soul sea, saying that she would like to sleep. Davis knew that it was unlikely for a King Beast Stage Magical Beast to become tired this soon, so he didn't understand her need for wanting to sleep. Even Nadia said so herself that she wouldn't be tired before days passed.

However, he then realized that it should be her attraction towards his little bit of death-like energy that brought her back to sleep in his soul sea again.

'Anyways... The Transitory Beast Taming Pact Technique would automatically start doing its thing...'

Davis mused as he pushed open the door to Evelyn's room.

Chapter 1063 The Other Poison Essence

Davis walked into her room and saw her be seated in front of a circular mirror while combing her green hair with a smile on her lips.

He stopped a few meters before reaching her and leaned on the wall while having a faint yet satisfied smile on his face. She was dressed up in purple robes and put on some makeup that accentuated her facial features. Her artistic movements that brushed her hair was a sight to see.

She was indeed a masterpiece from his perspective.

Evelynn finished combing her hair and tied it up into a ponytail, all the while she was stretching her assets as her hands reached to the back of her head.

"What are you doing?" She slightly blushed as she knew, but still intentionally asked.

"I'm simping for you..."

"What...?"

"Uh... I meant I was admiring you..." Davis stopped leaning and walked towards her.

Evelynn giggled in satisfaction as she had her palms over her lips, "Hehe, I'm delighted with your words."

"Shall we go for round two then...?"

Evelynn's expression became stiff and red that she couldn't help but recall what happened earlier today. It was so intense that she climaxed many times already!

Moreover, she had just spent a relaxing time in the bath as she cleaned and made herself up. It would all be ruined again! However...

"If you so wish... then..." She muttered in a low voice as she lowered her head, "I'm willing..."

"Mhm? What are you talking about? I meant about your Essence Gathering Cultivation session. Since you finished your first seclusion, isn't it time for the second seclusion?" Davis acted confused as he rubbed his chin.

Evelynn's cheeks turned blood-red that she instantly stood up and lightly beat his chest with her two fists, "Ah~ You're not allowed to bully me like this~."

"Hahaha!~."

Davis laughed with a grin. His two hands grasped her waist as he pulled her towards him before he embraced her. Evelynn rested her head on his shoulder, no longer bothering to attack. She instead moved her arms around and embraced him back, finding this moment endearing.

The two of them stayed like this for a few seconds before Evelynn opened her mouth.

"Where did you go after we slept? I thought you would return quickly..."

Davis smiled, "What? Did you feel lonely without me?"

"Mhm..."

Davis became taken aback. He thought she would say otherwise, but she honestly accepted. He recalled that cuddling after dual cultivation was one of her favorite deeds, so of course, he had wronged her this time.

He couldn't help but shamelessly sigh, 'Being the husband of three is really hectic...'

Sometimes, he forgets to inform them of his movements, that they end up thinking far more than they should. Of course, this was common for women as they end up overthinking about what their man was doing outside out of their gaze. This wasn't something that was purely related to lack of trust but also many other factors like possessiveness in wanting to know how their man spent his time going about his day.

He felt Evelynn's question was constructed from wanting to know the latter.

Honestly, it would be easier if he just used them like dolls and playthings as any ambitious, heartless, or cold man would do, but since he was incapable of doing that, he unblushingly mused that he took care of them like they were precious treasures.

He kissed her forehead and took her hand before he walked towards the exit.

"Eh? Where are we going?" Evelynn became confused.

Davis didn't answer but brought her to the eighteenth floor as they flew. He went inside a particular fortified room and closed the door.

Evelynn blinked as she looked at the empty room but still didn't ask any questions.

Davis flicked his sleeves, and a rectangular container along with a six-legged cauldron appeared.

He then awarded her silence with an answer, "I went out so that I can procure the resources that you need to improve your law comprehension."

"You mean... the Poison Essences have already been delivered!?" Evelynn became surprised as she wasn't aware. He just left without saying anything.

"Of course, we're here so that you can improve your law comprehension."

"But then... why did you leave the city?"

"Of course, to erase the Wills of the two Poison Essences stored inside these sealing formations. I didn't want them rampaging around in the city by any chance, so I went out with Nadia, and along with her help, we suppressed them to death."

While Evelynn possessed a stumped expression on her face, Davis flicked his sleeves again, and this time, the lids of the two sealing formation came off.

From the rectangular container, a hazy orange otherworldly gem appeared. It flickered with a crimson light in every two seconds interval. On the other side, a verdant sphere blazing with a gaseous flame above it ascended from the six-legged cauldron.

However, they both didn't seem to be making any moves. They floated in mid-air, and their energy fluctuations were as calm as the oceans that were without any ripples.

"This... That orange gem... and that verdant sphere... The latter's energy fluctuations are at King Grade!?"

"Are those two what I think it is!?" Evelynn asked him as she went wide-eyed, "The Fiery Miasma Searing Poison and the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn?"

"That's correct..." Davis nodded in approval.

Evelynn didn't even come in contact with their energy fluctuations to be able to tell the difference.

Just by catching a visual image of the Poison Essences, she was able to differentiate and match them. Knowing that she can do that itself made him nod in satisfaction.

She wasn't a practitioner of Poison Laws for nothing!

"But how!? The Fiery Miasma Searing Poison is at Mid-Level Sky Grade, as the description said, but the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn was at Peak-Level Sky Grade!

"How did it reach King Grade!? A day hasn't even passed from the moment I last saw it!" Evelynn freaked out.

What kind of mysterious tricks did her man pull out to make the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn reach King Grade!? Even without someone informing her, she became convinced that her husband was responsible for this feat!

As a practitioner of Poison Laws, she was well aware of the dangers of Poison Essence at the level of King Grade! Even the Grand Alstreim City wouldn't come out unscathed if it was caught off-guard by a King Grade Poison Essence!

Davis laughed in response as her reaction was to his liking, "Where do you think the other Poison Essences went?"

Evelynn's expression froze, "You do not have them?"

Davis shook his head with a faint smile.

Evelynn's expression changed into one of realization. She had thought Davis had taken out the first two powerful Poison Essences for her to gain the most important comprehensions, but it turned out that he did not have the others.

That meant he had lost them, or they were never even given the other Earth Grade Poison Essences, but since the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn had reached King Grade when even a day hadn't passed, it meant that the other three Earth Grade Poison Essences were devoured!

Chapter 1064 Absorbing the Fiery Miasma Searing Poison

"Now the preparations are all complete."

Davis ignored Evelynn's shocked expression and continued on with his explanation.

"First, you have to absorb this Mid-Level Sky Grade Poison Essence and Fiery Miasma Searing Poison into your dantian and refine it. I'll warn you that even though the Will had been erased, it still has its instincts left. It will try to flee or counterattack once disturbed, so you must try to suppress it to the best of your ability while refining."

"This will cause your Essence Gathering Cultivation to increase and your law comprehension to improve, and you must use this chance to melt the Law Manifestation you have already manifested so that you can mold that into an even more extremely powerful Law Manifestation!"

"However, don't be hasty. Once you completely refined the Fiery Miasma Searing Poison, you must instantly continue on with the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn."

"Absorbing this Low-Level King Grade Poison Essence wouldn't be easy, but you would have to follow the same steps. Besides, I will aid you during the absorp-"

Whoosh!~

Davis paused as he embraced back Evelynn, who flew into his embrace and trembled. His lips turned into a curve as he knew that she was probably extremely moved.

After some time, Evelynn finally stopped trembling. She opened her mouth, "I apologize for being selfish."

Davis narrowed his eyes, "Selfish? I don't recall you being selfish earlier today?"

Evelynn became taken aback as she moved her head behind and stared at his face. Her black eyes appeared moist, and her lips quivered.

"But... While you were working hard for me, I was selfish and wanted you to spend more time with me after the deed."

Davis became unamused, "Look, I wanted you to become elated and strong. My intention wasn't to make you feel wrong about yourself. It is perfectly fine to want me to stay after the deed and not selfish at all since that feeling is mutual."

"Supposedly, if even one of you left me to work somewhere after the deed like nothing happened, I would feel disappointed enough to stop caring about that person. I didn't tell you why I was leaving before I left. It was I who was in the wrong this time as I wasn't careful enough to be more conscious of your feelings, so you don't need to feel wrong about this..."

"If someone were to be blamed, then that person would be me..."

"Blame you...?" Evelynn blinked in disbelief, "I wouldn't be as shameless to do something like that when you're working so hard for me and the others..."

Davis chuckled a bit in happiness. He held her cheeks and kissed her supple lips with gratification dwelling in his heart.

Indeed, many people took things for granted from their significant half and didn't appreciate them but instead even put them down by establishing a falsified fact that they were not working hard enough.

Clearly, his Evelynn wasn't one of them.

They separated, and he got back to explaining how she should proceed in absorbing the two Poison Essences since there was a chance that she would've misunderstood his initial instructions since she was confused at the beginning.

He then started to explain the do's and don'ts as he had experience in absorbing Lightning Elementals, but since Evelynn was absorbing Poison Essences, he told her to only take his experience as a reference as the way these two types of Spirit Attribute Sources instinctively behave might be different.

They arrived at the center of the big room. It was like a circular hall. He made her be seated in the middle while he brought the Fiery Miasma Searing Poison into the fray. The orange gem kept glowing like a crimson volcano that was going to explode, but its fluctuations were relatively calm, considering that an external influence like Davis's soul force was disturbing it at this point.

'Heh, looks like the Poison Essence's instincts also submitted to my death-like energy, just like how the Derelict Extinction Lightning's instincts also didn't dare to make any moves even though it was being refined by me at that time...' Davis inwardly chuckled, but he frowned.

He couldn't use his death-like energy inside Evelynn. It would scare her to death instead, making her unable to concentrate, maybe even give her panic attacks from time to time. It would just have the opposite effect and, instead, cause her to fail.

'Wait!? Would the life-like energy have an effect on suppressing this Poison Essence...?' Davis felt like he suddenly had a great idea.

Life should be opposed to things that would mostly cause death. He felt that his logic was on point.

However, his expression fell as he realized what if it instead revived the Will of the Fiery Miasma Searing Poison. Wouldn't it result in his Evelynn being easily poisoned?

Of course, he could reverse the poisoning with his life-like energy, but that would make the whole situation redundant and disadvantageous.

He could only try this as an experiment at a later date.

For now, he would just have to believe in Evelynn's prowess and comprehension ability!

Of course, he would also concentrate on aiding her, but if she loses control, then all would be for naught.

Evelynn already took a deep breath and was waiting for her husband's command to absorb it into her dantian.

"Careful!"

Evelynn simultaneously brought her energy towards her abdomen, and the orange gem passed through her body as if it were passing through water. It got into her pores before entering her flesh, veins, bloodstream, and even tried to enter her bones!

However, at the same time, her essence energy and martial energy flooded into that part of the body and quickly suppressed the Fiery Miasma Searing Poison that gathered in one place, trying to form into an orange gem again!

Evelynn gritted her teeth in difficulty and brought the orange gem towards her dantian. There were two other ways. One was to send it from her back, and the other was to swallow it whole! Both ways can be used to bring this Poison Essence to her dantian, but the chances of being poisoned also increased.

Swallowing it through the throat was too dangerous as it connected to the heart, lungs, and other important organs of the body, not to mention that the chances of the poison spreading to her whole body would be drastically increased.

She could try from the back but... Davis was to her back, having his palm placed on her back to support her circulation of energy from going awry. Even if it did go awry, he would quickly suppress the Poison Essence with his own methods. All she had to do was drag it to her dantian, but obviously, she would never let him do that for her!

If she did, what exactly was she cultivating for!?

Feeling motivated as if being possessed by a heart demon, her flesh-searing essence energy brought the Fiery Miasma Searing Poison into her dantian and successfully suppressed it in the place!

Evelynn's eyes flashed with a venomous purplish-green light!

All she had to do now was refine the Fiery Miasma Searing Poison until it completely turned into nothing but her energy and comprehension!

Chapter 1065 Absorption, Half-Completed

Time passed.

One day...

One and half a day.

Evelynn abruptly shot open her eyes and heaved a mouthful of poisonous breath that slowly mixed with the heaven and earth energy before disappearing. Her fair skin had a few places where it was slightly reddish as if possessing a burn injury...

Indeed, Evelynn became injured a few times as the Fiery Miasma Searing Poison retaliated against her when she tried to hasten the refining process. She didn't make a mistake but was too late in stopping the abrupt change in retaliation pattern.

It instinctively released its searing poison multiple times on being refined faster, but before it could affect her meridians or veins, she skillfully directed them towards her flesh, towards the outer skin, making the backlash negligible.

It kept on retaliating, but Evelynn redirected its attacks to different parts of the skin. She didn't opt to eradicate those poisonous energies on the spot but carry it outwards before attacking with her martial energy.

No matter how the Fiery Miasma Searing Poison struggled after that, it was completely refined by Evelynn in the end.

"I'm ready for the next one, husband."

"Alright... but you should currently spend some time to comprehend the insights you have obtained from the completion of the refinement."

Abruptly, a flash of pure white light descended on Evelynn's body. Her eyes went wide as she suddenly felt light, relaxed, and comfortable. She noticed that the burn injuries she sustained from the searing poison disappeared in a flash as if someone erased it with a wave of their hands.

Evelynn's lips were slightly agape, but she pursed them shut, closed her eyes, and smiled.

Who could this power belong to other than her husband?

However, it absolutely did not feel like Light Laws!

The secrets he held were numerous as the heavens, but she knew better than to ask.

She went back to concentrating on the comprehensions she gained from refining the Fiery Miasma Searing Poison. It was similar to her flesh-searing poison that dissolved, but a bit different as its miasma caused one's flesh, bones, and everything inflammable to burn instead!

If she could comprehend this and combine these two properties, she mused that her offensive prowess would undoubtedly ignite and explode towards the skies!

And perhaps because of the mysterious yet pleasurable energy, she felt relaxed and calm and could easily comprehend the insights that remained in her dantian.

Davis noticed that Evelynn entered a deep meditative state as he could feel her energy circulation stop before continuing rhythmically. He didn't know the life-like energy had such an effect. Once he confirmed that her injuries were completely healed in a few seconds, he stopped using the life-like energy. He felt that there was a chance that she would start to sleep instead of comprehending.

After all, Arianna Woller slept, and the King-Tier Twin-Tailed Dusk Wolf remained at rest when being healed by the life-like energy.

'Perhaps, the life-like energy's side effect is to make all the cells in a body relax so that it can allow the person to concentrate or recover without facing any impediment?' Davis mused.

The death-like energy caused nightmares to his mother when he used it to break the soul seal that was placed on her soul.

Nevertheless, he was unable to arrive at a concrete answer.

In any case, he let Evelynn comprehend half a day before he woke her up.

"We'll continue..."

"Yes!" Evelynn shortly replied as before she engulfed the hazy orange energy that surrounded her back into her body.

She felt like she had improved a lot in terms of comprehension, and the hazy orange energy that swirled around her a while ago was none other than the sign she had comprehended Level Two Poison Intent!

She had comprehended Level Two Intent of Poison Laws eight hours ago but had yet to still digest sixty percent of the insights she had gained. From that time onwards, she constantly kept comprehending until Davis stopped her. Now, she mused that only ten percent of the insights were left in her dantian, floating in the form of little specks of dust.

The moment she made contact with them with her essence energy is when she would start to understand, but whether she could comprehend it or not was entirely another story that depended on her comprehension ability.

However, Evelynn knew that she could comprehend the remaining because she felt like she had stepped past the initial stages of Level Two Intent of Poison Laws already and somewhat became astonished by her own comprehension speed.

Was she this fast before? Why wasn't she aware of it?

Having her own doubts regarding this matter, Evelynn remained dubious, but her confidence was boosted as she felt that she could ride on the waves of abnormal luck!

She opened her eyes and saw the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn hover in front of her, controlled by Davis's strange yet eerie pitch-black energy. Just the sight of it left her feeling prickly over her skin, so she solely tried to concentrate on the verdant sphere instead.

The Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn's top was still wavering with a bit of flame, its heat a bit glaring to her eyes. However, it did nothing to intimidate her.

"I'm ready..."

"Be careful then, and this time, no hastening the absorption process..." Davis warned.

Evelynn nodded in understanding. She wouldn't be stupid as to absorb a King Grade, a Seventh Stage Poison Essence like she absorbed the Fifth Stage Poison Essence.

"Mhm!"

She gave a sound of acknowledgment, and Davis sent her the Poison Essence just like before. It entered through the pores between the skin and tried to gather into one entity inside her body.

Evelynn was relaxed this time as she knew what it was like to receive a Poison Essence with prior experience. She grabbed it with her essence energy and used her martial energy to contain it, unlike the previous method she used to bring the Fiery Miasma Searing Poison into her dantian.

Last time, the Fiery Miasma Searing Poison felt threatened by both her essence energy and her martial energy as its own level was low, but now that this Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn's level was higher than her essence energy, it ignored the essence energy as its instincts felt that it wasn't threatening at all.

She smoothly transitioned the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn to her dantian.

Nauseating, repulsive, and a ferocious air emanated. That is what she perceived from it once it landed in her dantian, surrounded by her flesh-searing essence energy, her revolving core, and her Undistinguished Law Manifestation.

And unlike the last time, she didn't start refining the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn instantly. She first built layers and layers of martial energy around her dantian. She didn't stop there but continued to construct defenses in her energy pathways and other vital locations alike.

She knew that she would be unable to transport the backlash like last time since the backlash's strength would be at the Seventh Stage, so the only counter she could prepare was to create defenses with her martial energy that is boosted by Level Four Intent of Earth Laws!

Otherwise, it was clear to her that her veins, meridian pathways, and meridian points would crumble and dissolve under the effects of the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn's counterattack for a short time.

Chapter 1066 Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn, Absorbed!

Once the defenses and preparation were complete, or she felt like her preparations were enough, Evelynn started to refine the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn.

The purplish-green essence energy that swirled in her dantian became erratic before it started to target the verdant sphere.

Sizzle!~

The Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn trembled as it could instinctively feel that its very existence was in danger, about to be erased. It spurted out its poisonous energy as a form of retaliation. Verdant ashes and smoke spread out in lesser quantities, breaking past the essence energy that was trying to refine it.

However, it was suddenly met with a yellow layer that blocked it from moving. Still, the poison reacted and tried to dissolve the impeccable defense. However, the poison ended up disappearing from using up energy instead.

The Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn didn't know all this as it just brainlessly retaliated, constantly spurting out a bit of poison energy in a fixed interval.

Because of prior experience and not hastening the process, Evelynn found it easier to tackle the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn's poison. She felt that it was a good thing that she was a Martial Master Stage Cultivator. Otherwise, she knew that she would find it difficult to control the pace or defend against it as her energy would be used up before she could even completely refine this Low-Level King Grade Poison Essence.

Her defense was only possible because she had the strength to suppress the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn. That is why other youths couldn't replicate her absorption process but instead rely on slower yet safe methods that would take months and years to finish refining.

They would remain secluded the whole time.

She had to thank her husband for this as most of the process had been taken care of by him, like exhausting the Spirit Attribute Source and having its Will erased. Without these, she would in no way be carefree about this absorption process.

It was just like dining. Her husband had cooked food for her, and she only has to open her mouth, swallow it whole, and digest it to gain nutrition. It was an easy process that she felt if she failed; it was time to pack up and leave so that she would not continue to be a burden anymore.

She felt that it would be better if she waited for him to return to the Grand Sea Continent. It wasn't her inferiority complex acting up in a long while or even her selflessness awaking, but she simply did not want to burden him.

There was the other side to this story; that is, she wanted to be extremely selfish and attach herself to him through thick or thin until she died, and that was her underlying motivation to even cultivate to higher stages nowadays!

That feeling was intense and surprisingly made the task done as the refinement process became smoother!

Another four days passed in refinement before Evelynn finally completed refining the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn! She thoroughly began to concentrate on comprehending the extracted insights!

A comprehensive day passed, making it around a week from the time they closed themselves in seclusion.

Davis stood as he leaned over the wall. Evelynn didn't need his help anymore, and he backed out. In fact, she didn't even incur a semblance of an injury.

It was funny as he thought that she incurred damage from a Fifth Stage Poison Essence but not from a Seventh Stage Poison Essence. It made him feel that experience was indeed a significant factor that did wonders.

He looked at her frontal figure stay still without a single movement. Surrounding her was a verdant bloom of ashes that swirled around, making her seem as if she was an elemental wind fairy, but the truth was that she was a poisonous and devilish fairy.

The gap between that comparison made him smile, but his expression suddenly fell.

The heaven and earth energy around her started to tremble like they were rattled. Evelynn's green hair floated in a wavy manner once again to the chaotic changes in the atmosphere.

'This...!' Davis stopped leaning and looked at her figure with sheer dumbfoundedness.

The fact that the heaven and earth energy responded the third time meant she was about to comprehend Level Four Intent of Poison Laws!

"!!!"

Davis couldn't believe it! How can it be!?

Just five days ago, she had digested the Fiery Miasma Searing Poison's insights and comprehended Level Two Intent of Poison Laws, and half a day ago, she digested an unknown amount of insights gained from refining the Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn and comprehended Level Three Intent of Poison Laws!

And now, she is about to comprehend again! If she did, she would reach his level and have the possibility to establish a higher-grade Law Manifestation, just like him!!!

It certainly was possible, but he knew that Evelynn's comprehension ability was lesser! It would definitely not be easy for her to comprehend the Level Four Intent of Poison Laws nor establish a Superior Law Manifestation with just these two Poison Essences!

The utmost he expected was for her to comprehend the Level Three Intent of Poison Laws and re-manifest a Grand Law Manifestation!

But reality proved to him otherwise, that he had underestimated his first wife!

Now that she actively tried to comprehend Level Four Intent of Poison Laws, he couldn't help but feel that there's hope for her to re-manifest a Superior Law Manifestation.

However, that would be almost impossible considering that the more one's law comprehension surpasses the average, the more difficult it would be for them to mold the already established Law Manifestation.

Even then, Davis couldn't help but feel excited in her stead, almost shouting words of encouragement while ending up as a cheerleader himself.

'You can do it!' He inwardly cheered, knowing that any form of disturbance at this point would lead to a failure!

The atmosphere in the room became poisonous, making Davis frown. He didn't use the death-like energy, afraid that it would disturb Evelynn, so he erected a barrier of life-like energy, and when the verdant ashes reached him, it was purified into disintegration like it didn't even exist!

His lips curved into a curve, and he retracted the barrier to a range that just covered his body alone.

A few seconds passed, and in Davis's sight, Evelynn disappeared into the sea of verdant ashes that scrambled around like many live insects were flying in the circular hall, unable to get out.

A chaotic lush green light tinged with a purple hue flashed as the hall brightened before the verdant bloom of ashes abnormally slowed down, and the next moment, it all gathered into one single place, trying to form into a particular shape. It continued to grow unabated as purplish-green poisonous energy flowed from Evelynn's dantian!

'Oh, no!!!' Davis blinked.

The ceiling was only fifty meters tall, and the tall shapeless figure was advancing upwards to collide, seemingly going to crash open a massive hole in the building!

But surprisingly, the tall figure sat down but still grew unabated.

Evelynn seemed to be continuing to supply poisonous energy, and the seated tall figure reached the height of the ceiling within the blink of an eye.

However, the tall figure crouched this time.

'Eh...?' Davis reacted.

It seemed that Evelynn was aware that the tall figure energized from poisonous energy was going to collide and so, actively controlled?

Chapter 1067 Lovely Poison Queen

Evelynn did indeed seem to be actively controlling the tall human-like figure.

It still grew and grew in a crouched position till it hit the ceiling once again!

However, it suddenly stopped.

Davis's eyes twitched, 'What next?'

The next moment, his eyes witnessed the tall figure shrink and shrink till reaching the height of twenty meters as it stood up tall again, no longer crouching.

Davis couldn't help but sigh, but his sigh expressed his shock!

It's a Law Manifestation! A genuine Superior Law Manifestation at that!

It was extremely condensed that he felt like if he were to accidentally brush his arm over it, over half of this flesh in his arm would instantly dissolve, turning into a thick liquid of rotten flesh and blood! And to boot, his physical defense was at the High-Level Seventh Stage while Evelynn just recently broke through to the High-Level Law Manifestation Stage upon absorbing the two Poison Essences!

That was a major stage ahead!

At this moment, he truly felt this condensed form of the tall poisonous figure could harm him, and that spoke volumes about the prowess of Evelynn's Superior Law Manifestation.

Judging by the height of this condensed form of Superior Law Manifestation, he felt that this tall figure could reach a kilometer in height!

But, his mouth simultaneously went agape as he recognized extremely familiar facial features appear on the tall figure while a scythe made out of poisonous energy abruptly appeared into its hand, appearing the same height as the tall figure.

'I-Its me...?'

Davis became flabbergasted.

The Law Manifestation she had conjured was undoubtedly him! It wasn't him in a true sense, but her Superior Law Manifestation took his shape!

The twenty-meter tall figure that wavered in mid-air was purplish-green in color, radiating immense pressure and poisonous might that made him irrevocably feel that it was an extreme threat!

Davis felt a bit odd as well as threatened. It was the first time he was intimidated by his own figure. However...

'To think that she manifested her laws in my shape... Just how much does she love me...?' Davis shamelessly mused.

However, it would be a lie to say that he didn't truly feel it this way. With this Superior Law Manifestation becoming a reality, it was almost as if she treated him like some guardian deity!

Just how much did she think about him during this time to create her Law Manifestation in his image?

He was indeed utterly stumped by her feelings towards him.

Evelynn opened her eyes as her black eyes flashed with a purplish-green poisonous light. She took a deep breath before waving her hand to the side. The Superior Law Manifestation scattered into the whole room before being taken back all into her body.

After a few seconds of making sure that no remnant poisonous energy was left, Evelynn stood up and looked at Davis with a calm yet excited grin on her lips that she tried so hard to hide!

"My lovely poison queen... You are indeed the poison I love..." Davis chuckled as he spread open his two arms.

Evelynn smiled like a child who just saw his father and hurriedly flew towards him before jumping into his embrace. She wondered why his statement did not anger her but realized that she liked being called a poison by him nowadays.

Davis was delighted with the results! He tightly wrapped his arms around her in an embrace before he started to swing her around.

Evelynn melodiously laughed as she held his shoulders. They both ascended as they gradually swung around in mid-air, their eyes only looking at each other while their face was covered in all smiles.

A few moments later, Davis let her go.

Evelynn raised her hand and stretched her index finger.

Poisonous energy emerged from her fingertips. It was the same purplish-green flesh-searing essence energy she possessed, but its intensity, corrupt purity, and might was a far cry from its previous state.

It was absolutely powerful that even Davis felt he wouldn't go unscathed if he took that poison head-on without using Fallen Heaven's death-like energy.

Evelynn kept smiling like a fool as she looked at Davis.

This Pestilent Dragonfly Dust Spawn's poisonous effects were completely compatible with her flesh-searing poison in the way they both dissolve the bodies of living beings.

The verdant poisonous ashes would enter the bodies of numerous people and dissolve it from within. It was easily contagious as it would easily enter through pores and holes, unlike her flesh-searing poison that needs to be applied over through physical contact or energy contact.

No wonder Davis kept this for the last instead of making her absorb it first so that she would gain more benefits as a result. If she had absorbed it first, her comprehensions would've been more significantly upper tier, but it would also mean that her path might be instantly fixed, making it difficult for her to comprehend the insights she would gain from the refinement of the Fiery Miasma Searing Poison.

It would lead to gaining lesser comprehensions instead.

She would need more time to comprehend, and even worse, she might not be even able to comprehend the Superior Law Manifestation and fail instead. Hence, she felt that Davis's thoughtful arrangements had given her an extreme boon instead.

However, Evelynn didn't know that another factor played a minor yet significant role in comprehension, which Davis was starting to understand as he had involved himself in deep contemplation during her process of re-manifestation, wanting to find out the reason why Evelynn could not only comprehend Level Four Intent but also re-establish her Undistinguished Manifestation into Superior Law Manifestation.

Sure, the energy of the two Poison Essences caused her to break through and also provided the required energy for her to mold her Law Manifestation, but he mused that there was a factor that both he and Evelynn had forgot to include because they felt that it had already served its purpose.

It was none other than the Diluted Sage Tree Essence Pill!

Evelynn got it from the Earth Dragon Immortal's Sky Grade Treasury and used it on herself long ago to know about her innate compatibility with Poison Laws. Only after using it did Evelynn automatically comprehend a bit of Poison Laws.

However, for a Peak-Level Sky Grade Pill to only provide that much of an effect, it was quite unbelievable.

Initially, he felt that Diluted Sage Tree Essence Pill's effects were wasted on Evelynn since it didn't give her more of a boost other than making her learn that she was somewhat talented in Poison Laws and later helped her quickly reach Level One Intent.

But what if its true remnants hid in her system as a residue all this time and only reacted now upon noticing that she was comprehending laws at the Sixth Stage?

It would logically make sense, although it seemed far-fetched.

Davis flicked his sleeves, and a pill appeared in his hands.

A Mid-Level Emperor Grade Sage Tree Essence Pill!

This was something he had taken from the Emperor Grade Treasury of the Earth Dragon Immortal Inheritance, and obviously a complete version of the Peak-Level Sky Grade Sage Tree Essence Pill. It granted the same effect of enhancing comprehension talent in one's innate laws but at a greater proportion since laws at the Eighth Stage were laws that transformed into Abstruse Intent!

Nonetheless... He held a bit of doubt as to what the 'Sage Tree' pointed towards... Was it really a sage tree, or was it just a name granted to the uniqueness of this pill?

However, if it really came from a sage tree, as the name implies, then it wouldn't be strange to know that the pill residue had hidden by itself in Evelynn all this time before acting up to aid Evelynn in her comprehension.

Chapter 1068 Domain Evocation Pill

"What's this?" Looking at the pure-white pill that emerged in Davis's hands, Evelynn inquired with a curious expression on her face.

Closely looking at it and inhaling a bit of its fragrance, she felt that it was familiar but remained unable to pinpoint where she found it familiar.

"It's the Sage Tree Essence Pill, not the Sky Grade one but an Emperor Grade one..."

"Oh that...!" Evelynn became astonished, "You had one with you...? Actually, there was an undiluted type to it?"

Davis became amused, "Its Mid-Level Emperor Grade because it's not diluted. If it to be were diluted, then it would be the Peak-Level Sky Grade one or perhaps King Grade, but I'm still none the wiser."

Evelynn extended her tongue out and shook at him.

Davis chuckled and explained what he thought about how the Diluted Sage Tree Essence Pill minorly helped her comprehend Level Four Intent of Poison Laws and establish a Superior Law Manifestation.

"I see... No wonder I found it easier to comprehend those insights..."

Evelynn kept nodding her head in agreement.

"It makes sense... because when I didn't have these tangible insights obtained from refining these Poison Essences, my comprehension speed in the past was too slow compared to this week of seclusion."

"It seems that I- Ouch~."

Davis bonked her head, "It's still your achievement. Don't act as if it was all because of external influences..."

Evelynn pouted as she rubbed her head, "Okay~."

"So you're keeping this for yourself when you reach the higher stages?"

"Yes. Why? Do you want it?" Davis raised his brows.

"No, not at all." Evelynn giggled, "I was going to convince you to keep it for yourself if you started saying that it was reserved for someone else, including me."

"Becoming arrogant, are we?" Davis smirked, "If you keep acting like this, I'm going to complain to your mother, Maisy."

"Who's my mother!?" Evelynn's expression twitched before take it no more, "Maisy is not my mother! She is your mother!"

She went beet red and even cursed.

"Hahaha!" Davis held his stomach as he descended into a bit of laughter.

Evelynn's father did marry Maisy, so by social standards, Maisy was indeed her second mother, but...

'Oh, boy... Evelynn might never probably see eye to eye with her former maid...'

After he had his laughter and Evelynn calmed down, he talked a little while with her about the Earth Dragon Immortal's actions towards him.

"... It took the breakthrough pills away but not this comprehension-type pill?"

Evelynn placed her finger on her lips.

"Perhaps, it is just looking down on laws since its own bodily might is domineering...?"

Davis widened his eyes and blinked, "What you said makes sense..."

Surprisingly, the reason could be as simple as that!

He initially thought that it wanted him to make him a tempering foe for Princess Isabella, but after hearing Evelyn's view, perhaps it really didn't give a damn about laws, or it didn't treat the Mid-Level Emperor Grade Pill, Sage Tree Essence Pill as something that would become a threat to Isabella in the future.

'Its meaning is that I would still lose to Isabella after reaching the fabled Immortal Stage...?'

Davis mused with a smile, but he just shook his head.

"Evelyn, you're now at the High-Level Law Manifestation Stage, just a level short of the Seventh Stage, Law Dominion Stage. However, I presume your foundation is still at the blemished level since you're advancing this fast. I suggest you wait for some time before you enter the Peak-Level Law Manifestation Stage."

"Get your foundation to the flawless level."

Evelyn nodded her head. She knew that her foundation was a bit unstable as she crossed two levels in these two months. That's a bit too much considering that she has no anchors like the blood essence to support her quick breakthrough in Essence Gathering Cultivation.

Flawed, Blemished, Flawless, Unblemished, and Perfect. These were the five levels or states of cultivation foundation.

Evelyn at least knew that she had to at least keep her cultivation base foundation flawless if she wanted to transition to the next stage smoothly.

"After you have re-established your foundation to the flawless level, complete the breakthrough, and when you're finally about to step into the Law Dominion Stage, take this pill."

Davis kept the pure white pill inside and handed over a light blue pill instead.

Evelyn didn't take it but instead inquired, "What's this?"

Just a while ago, she had said that she would convince him not to use the useful pill he had on others, but now, he loftily took one out again.

"Domain Evocation Pill - Helps you establish a domain by giving you the ability to recall the laws you have comprehended to a great degree. It's a High-Level King Grade Pill I picked up in the King Grade Treasury of the Earth Dragon Immortal's Inheritance."

Evelyn was about to say something, but Davis quickly interrupted as he brought out the same pill again.

"Before you say anything, I have another Domain Evocation Pill, High-Level King Grade Pill, that I would eventually use on myself. I have two of these pills, and even if you hadn't reached Supreme Law Manifestation, I was already of the mind to give you this pill when you're about to break through into the Law Dominion Stage."

Evelynn sighed as her shoulders drooped. She smiled and took a few steps back before she clasped her hands and bowed, her cleavage becoming visible, "Then I'll choose to become spoiled and pampered by your favor."

"Very good!"

Davis threw the light blue towards thinking that she would catch it, but his mouth went agape as it fell inside her cleavage and stuck to it in the plushiest part where both supple feelings met. It even slightly shook from the impact.

"Ah~" Evelynn became startled as her smile faded. Since she had eyes closed and was raising her bent waist, she didn't see it coming nor sense it since she had other things on her mind. She let go of her hands and picked the light tiny blue pill from her cleavage, and looked at it.

If she hadn't seen Davis's awkward expression, she would've felt that his intentions were something else instead. After all, if men threw something at a women's cleavage, it mostly meant that the man was inviting the woman for experiencing carnal pleasure. As far as she knew, only prostitutes would accept payments this way.

If he meant this as a joke, she could only take it as he took his pranks on her too far.

Being spoiled, given resources, and then indulging in carnal pleasure, perhaps it was similar...

She shook her head as she felt a bit offended but still knew that he didn't mean it that way since she was the one who had her eyes closed and failed to catch the pill he had thrown. If he had thrown it with speed, she would've known.

Davis quickly noticed with his Heart Intent that she wasn't going 'ara ara,' but her mood plummeted instead. Even without using it, he could still see her exasperated expression tinged with a bit of hurt.

He didn't know what she had confused herself with, but still...

"I apologize if I have somehow offended you with that..."

Evelynn's expression brightened as she hurriedly shook her head, "Uh, no... It wasn't anything like that. It was my own misunderstanding..."

"You didn't do anything to warrant an apology..."

"Is that so...?" Davis inwardly heaved a sigh of relief as he felt her mood become elevated.

Chapter 1069 What Exactly Is Happening Here...?

Evelynn became comfortable knowing that it was her own misunderstanding and was thankful that Davis didn't let her make a mistake. Even though she knew that it wouldn't be like that, thoughts were something people couldn't control as 'what ifs' would always keep resounding in their minds as long as it is not confirmed.

"Yes, I apologize if I had made you worried..." Evelynn clapped her hands with a smile.

Perhaps, she would've fallen prey to that but was glad that Davis quickly resolved her delusion.

'Gosh, caring for everyone's mental health isn't as simple as it would seem...' Davis imaginarily wiped off the sweat from his forehead with the back of his palm.

If he needed to keep this up with more wives, he must work hard!

So what if he provided everything? If he forgot about the most important word known as 'care', he would fail to fulfill his role as a husband and instead become a 'sugar daddy'.

'Well, it seems she quickly forgave me for this accident, although I don't know what she became disheartened for in the first place...'

"Also," He changed the topic, "I have three Golden Strengthening Pills, but since I have the nectar, it has turned pretty much useless..."

"I see..." Evelyynn nodded her head, "Perhaps in the future, it would be helpful for someone else..."

"Oh? Who would that someone else be?"

Evelyynn blushed and avoided his gaze, "... Maybe our children..."

Davis deeply smiled, 'Evelyynn is a motherly wife, alright...'

"Nevertheless, it isn't as if it is completely useless as it would help you cross the levels in the Martial Master Stage, but the chances to breakthrough are comparatively less in the latter levels because all three pills are just normal tier pills. However, it is still significant!"

Naturally, while Princess Isabella's Golden Strengthening Pill was advanced tier, his three Golden Strengthening Pills were just normal tier. It wasn't as if the Earth Dragon Immortal did something wrong again, but Davis saw in the King Grade Treasury that there were only four Golden Strengthening Pills of which Isabella took one first, and he took three last.

As a result, he ended up with normal tier pills, and that's why he was also astonished to hear Princess Isabella tell that her pill's efficacy was near ninety-five percent, whereas his pills' efficacy was around eighty-five to ninety percent. It didn't seem to be much, but that small gap provided an immense surge of energy!

He was promised nine treasures in each of the Sky, King, and Emperor Grade Treasury.

And so, he had brought out nine treasures of King Grade with him.

The Earth Dragon's Destructive Spear - Peak-Level King Grade.

The Earth Dragon's Abode, which was still outside the Grand Alstreim City - Peak-Level King Grade.

Two Domain Evocation Pills - High-Level King Grade.

Three Golden Strengthening Pills - Peak-Level King Grade.

A vial containing ten drops of diluted blood essence which he had given to Idric Ruth, who had given up his opportunity to him to let him participate in the trial. This was the exchange they had agreed upon.

There was only one King Grade treasure that he hadn't revealed yet.

"So about this Law Dominion Stage, can husband explain to me how I should proceed...?" Evelynn hesitatingly asked.

She didn't know much about the Law Dominion Stage, so she felt a bit lost.

"I see... Guess I should explain some of the aspects to you involving the Law Dominion Stage. If Natalya and Isabella ask, you are in charge of explaining, okay?" Davis strictly raised his brows.

Evelynn solemnly nodded her head. At this moment, she was more of a student than his wife.

"Alright... Do you want to maintain your current prowess where you can battle a major stage with the help of your Law Manifestation, or do you want to become more powerful once you enter the Law Dominion Stage?"

Evelynn pursed her lips, "The latter..."

However, she shook her hands, "Don't misunderstand... If it is impossible for me, then just say it... I'll follow yo-"

"It is not impossible at all..." Davis smiled as he shook his head, "Taking your blemished foundation into account along with your current prowess, I assume you can easily kill the average Low-Level Law Dominion Stage Cultivator. You would struggle against a bit with talented Low-Level Law Dominion Stage Cultivators, but they shouldn't pose a threat either."

"As for the average Mid-Level Law Dominion Stage Cultivator, it should not be much different than the last. However, if you use your Superior Law Manifestation against them, they would easily fall. The same can be said about the talented Mid-Level Law Dominion Stage Cultivators."

"Then, if you use that incredibly condensed and extraordinary sort of that Superior Law Manifestation, it is possible that you can even battle against a High-Level Law Dominion Stage Cultivator! No, it is possible that you can even kill that cultivator after a struggle! After all, poison always is an extreme deterrent that kills the fighting-will that they would possess." 4

"Many cultivators wouldn't be afraid of injuries, but they would be fearful of being poisoned. Therefore, once they see your terrifying and poisonous Superior Law Manifestation, it is possible that they would at least be given a fatal blow over their will to battle."

Evelynn's black eyes flashed while she had a deep smile on her face.

She could do all this?

Only after her husband reiterated did she feel reality kicking in! She had actually turned into a grand person who would actually be a Young Mistress or Top Disciple character when placed in a major power!

Her eyes narrowed into an additional smile as he knew that it was all because of the person in front of her.

"Stop smiling... and listen..." Davis continued.

"As long as you improve your foundation by one level, to the flawless level and give birth to a domain by using your Superior Law Manifestation as a catalyst, your prowess would not drop, and you'll be able to easily fight Peak-Level Law Dominion Stage Cultivators upon stepping into the Law Dominion Stage."

"However, it couldn't be said to be the same about battling Law Sea Stage Cultivators as it is likely that you would struggle till you experience defeat. After all, the gap between the two levels, Peak-Level Seventh Stage and Low-Level Eighth Stage, is even bigger than the gap between the previous seven stages combined!"

"And that's where you need to be careful in producing a domain..." Davis smiled in suspense.

"As a future Law Dominion Stage Cultivator, how can I battle against Law Sea Stage Experts!?" Evelynn asked with a fiery glint in her eyes.

Now that she had reached a level where she could transcend a stage, she didn't want to fall back to being mediocre again!

Davis grinned as he nodded to her fiery response, "Well then, let me explain..."

=====

Davis and Evelynn got out of the room but was caught by his mother, who seemed to give them a knowing smile before she left. Davis wasn't embarrassed at all, but the same couldn't be said about Evelynn. She felt like she could drown herself in a hole as she reeked of his scent.

In reality, they left half a day after she had comprehended Superior Law Manifestation, so during that time, they were at it again, kissing, copulating, shamelessly moaning as they indulged themselves in carnal pleasure.

Evelynn flew away to her room in embarrassment while Davis couldn't help but laugh at her. However, his smile faded, and he looked at the place where Nora Alstreim's room was located.

'Mother visited her for the tenth time... I wonder what is going on...' he mused.

Considering that his Solitary Soul Avatar was actively monitoring this Purple Guest Palace, he knew about what happened in the hallways and public areas.

Isabella and Natalya still seemed to be in seclusion together as the former helped the latter absorb fifteen diluted drops of blood essences.

However, he didn't know what had happened inside Nora Alstreim's room. But, Logan seemed to have visited Nora Alstreim a single time during this week, along with Claire, of course.

'What exactly is happening here...?'

Feeling a bit curious, Davis walked towards Nora Alstreim's room.

Chapter 1070 Hosting The Younger Generation

Davis walked towards Nora Alstreim's room. However, he did a u-turn and walked into Isabella's room before taking a bath and cleaning himself of his sexual adventures. He then exited and approached Nora Alstreim's room again.

He pushed the door open and entered.

'...?' Davis blinked, "What?"

In front of him, there was nothing.

The next moment, he recognized that the space in front of him was covered by an illusion that made it look like nothing was present. He swept his gaze over the room before turning back and left.

It seemed like his mother didn't want him or anyone interfering with her plans. He smiled, becoming a bit satisfied as he could tell that his mother was no longer hesitant about her decision anymore. It was just; he could not tell what decision she took.

In any case, he was short on time as he had kept people waiting for a long time. It was not just two or three, but a few hundred people were gathered outside the Purple Guest Palace in these few days. Of course, they didn't dare to create trouble or nuisance as they all seemed to camp in the Inns nearby, wanting to meet him when he would show his face outside!

They were none other than the youths who were intent on 'pleasing' him so that they could gain favor and earn rewards through their family Elders.

Davis walked back towards the staircase in the hall and descended. However, he met with Evelyn, who seemed to have just come out refreshed like him, dressed luxuriously in another purplish-ruby colored robe with cloud patterns.

As for Davis, he wore a long-black, flame pattern phoenix styled luxurious robe on the outside and purple shirt and pants on the inside. If he wore this in the Burning Phoenix Ridge, it was enough for him to be sentenced to death. But here, it was just another luxurious and splendid robe that denoted his wealth.

"Mhm? Where are you going?" Evelyn caught him descending the seventeenth floor.

She knew that there was nothing to see below after Daniuis Alstreim left.

"The young generation is gathered outside to meet me. Do you want to accompany me?"

Evelyn nodded like a squirrel. Her eyes narrowed as she knew that it was time for her to intimidate those women into not nearing her husband! If Davis's responsibility was to keep other men away from her, then her commitment was to keep other women away from him to the fullest of their ability until they could successfully earn his favor!

They arrived on the ninth floor and settled down in a grand hall that seemed to span two kilometers square. Soon, a blonde-haired youth seemed to enter from the ninth floor's entrance before the youth disappeared.

It was none other than Davis himself.

It was his soul body, not the Solitary Soul Avatar. It alerted people who were on the lookout and made them scramble towards the Purple Guest Palace in a frenzy.

In the skies outside, there were sounds of the wind tearing and searing apart!

Whoosh!~

A youth landed on the entrance and smiled with a flash of confidence.

"Ravalat Alstreim, the leader of the Brilliant Flame Corps, requests an audience with Alchemist Davis!"

"While I come bearing gifts, I humbly request entry into the Purple Guest Palace!"

He shouted and stood straight without making a single movement that would make him seem nervous.

Soon, a few others appeared. Their figures clad in flames made them appear like soaring vermilion birds.

"Kayan Alstreim, the leader of the Burning Sea Brigade, requests an audience with Alchemist Davis!"

"Kayale Alstreim, the vice-leader of the Burning Sea Brigade, requests an audience with Alchemist Davis!"

"We've come bearing gifts!"

"..."

"..."

"..."

Many announced their arrival before a voice resounded out.

"There no need to stand on ceremony among the younger generation. Everyone, please enter!"

A polite voice resounded out, causing their eyes to lit up. They could recognize it was Alchemist Davis's voice, but to be so humble while enduring their rude and unannounced entry...

How polite!

Even though no one came to receive them, they entered with their faces beaming with smiles.

Davis looked at their silhouettes as he nodded with a pleasant smile. How could he not be polite when they're this generous!?

He would be doing a sinful deed not to entertain them!

Davis sheepishly rubbed his chin and looked at Evelyn, "Evelyn, why don't you be seated?"

"Mhm..." Evelyn nodded her head and turned behind.

Surrounding then behind were a few sofas that seemed to be capable of no more than a few people. Although this huge hall seemed to be capable of hosting many people, it seemed to a place where ceremonies were held, so without anything being pre-emptively readied, only a few sofas were available.

She looked at the comparatively majestic sofa that could host two people and sat on it. She knew that Davis would soon accompany her by her side after inviting the guests.

'Or should I say... opportunistic and greedy guests...' Evelyn narrowed her eyes, but there was a faint smile on her face that made her seem civilized.

Soon, Ravalat Alstreim arrived and quickly bowed, but Kayan Alstreim and Kayale Alstreim went one step ahead of him before they slightly bowed as they congratulated, "Congratulations on becoming a King Grade Alchemist, Alchemist Davis."

"Perhaps, Alchemist Davis is the only person whom I would have the honor to see become a Pill King in the near future..." Kayale Alstreim additionally said with a smile.

"You are too kind..." Davis smiled back as he gestured, "Please..."

Kayale Alstreim lightly blushed before she turned around and walked towards the sofa. Kayan Alstreim blinked before he followed her behind.

His little sister, who was so against it, was now obedient in front of a man?

Her words sounded fake and keeping up civility to him, but he could tell that it was what she felt after truly hearing about Alchemist Davis's achievements.

Indeed, after being convinced by her brother Kayan Alstreim these days, she became expectant of her future of being together with Alchemist Davis as well. In her eyes, Alchemist Davis didn't seem inferior in any way, but instead, was a talent who was even stronger than her brother.

That major fact itself caused her to look at him in a romantic light.

However, the only thing she disliked was being grouped into this along with numerous other women. It made her furious as she had her own pride but was also afraid that if she were to lose this chance, she knew that another man like Alchemist Davis probably wouldn't appear ever again!

It forced her to participate in this farce!

Ravalat Alstreim's lips twitched as he looked at these two siblings slight him. He didn't lose civility and kept his smile before walking towards the other side, where another long sofa was kept capable of holding a few people.

At this time, many youths started to enter, congratulate, before moving to a corner. However, a meticulous person who saw this event might be desolate promptly asked for Alchemist Davis's permission before he turned the entire place into one of a banquet atmosphere.

Only the food was missing, but there seemed to be many beverages and alcohol digits drinks as well as accommodation for over a few hundred people! It quickly became filled with youths engaging in a boisterous atmosphere.

Davis stared at the person with a death grudge. Thanks to that person publically asking to arrange a banquet-style gathering, he could not easily decline.

But since he accepted, he would have to entertain these brats for a long time!!!

"Good! Very good!" Davis nodded his head and praised the person with a cold smile on his face.

"Haha, it's not much..." A handsome man with blonde hair and a familiar face awkwardly laughed, "Claudius Alstreim is glad to be of service..."
