

Ex-husband Goes Money Comes Chapter 295

Viola immediately got up to open the door.

“What’s going on? Why are they arguing?”

Jimmy panted heavily. “In the morning, Mr. Falcon and his wife came. I don’t know what they said to Mr. McGraw. Because of what happened last night, Mr. Russell was already angry. It is probably because of the engagement with Ms. Ayre...”

Viola frowned.

She didn’t expect Willard to know about Russell and Sherlyn.

No wonder there was a quarrel.

She had to hurry back so that Russell wouldn’t suffer a loss.

“Orin, I might be back tonight,” Viola said to Ormand as she put on her shoes.

Ormand got up, put down the tablet calmly, and walked to Viola.

“Since it is a big matter, I will go with you.”

Viola did not even think about it before she said, "It's the McGraw family's affair. It's not good for you to go. You should rest well at home. Remember to take your medicine!"

Ormand was a little unhappy, but he did not say anything. He took off the white coat on the coat rack and helped her put it on.

"It will be winter in two days. Don't catch a cold."

Viola stood on tiptoe and gave him a kiss on the cheek. Then, she and Jimmy rushed back to Adain Mountain.

Viola's car had just reached the top of the mountain when she saw

Sherlyn's thin figure from afar. Sherlyn was standing at the entrance of Willard's villa, pacing back and forth anxiously.

Viola got out of the car, walked over, and said, "Sherlyn."

When Sherlyn heard her voice, she immediately ran over.

"Viola, when we were having lunch today, your father sent someone to call Mr. McGraw over. He hasn't come out yet. They forbid me to go in. I can only wait outside. I don't know how he is doing inside!"

Viola grabbed Sherlyn's hand and patted her comfortingly. "Don't worry, with me here, I will help Russell. I will bring you in."

With Viola beside Sherlyn, the bodyguards at the door didn't dare to stop them.

When Joseph learned that Viola had returned, he hurriedly ran all the way from outside the hall to welcome her.

Viola asked, "Joseph, where is Bobby?"

"Mr. Bobby and his wife are not in Salt Lake City recently. They have gone on a flight. I don't know when they will come back."

Viola's expression was grave. She thought of that important matter and turned to look at Jimmy.

"Go and contact Bobby. If he doesn't answer the phone, call Lainey and tell them to go back to Salt Lake City these days. I have something to talk to him about."

"Yes." Jimmy turned around and immediately went to work.

Viola pulled Sherlyn to the door of the hall.

The door of the hall was tightly shut. Suddenly, there came the sharp sound of glasses being smashed. It was clear that there was a fierce fight inside. The situation was not good.

Viola frowned and was about to push open the door to enter but was stopped by Joseph.

“Ms. McGraw, you can enter the hall as you please, but Ms. Ayre is an outsider. She cannot enter.”

“It’s fine. I won’t go in. I’ll wait for you outside,” Sherlyn said tactfully, not wanting to make things difficult for Viola.

Viola nodded and immediately opened the door.

In the hall.

Willard sat on a chair, his chest heaving up and down in anger. His turbid eyes emitted a fierce light.

Lily sat on a chair next to him and looked on passively.

Russell stood in the middle of the open space with his back straight. He did not feel that he had done anything wrong. No matter how much Willard shouted, he was determined not to admit his mistake.

He was wearing a noble suit, and his right shoulder and arm were stained with water. Obviously, the glasses breaking sound that Viola had heard outside was from Willard.

Because Viola came in, the argument in the hall stopped.

Lily glanced at her, quietly sneering, her face full of contempt and displeasure.

Willard's eyes softened a little. When he looked at Viola, he softened his tone. "Why are you back? Did you come here on purpose to help

Russell?"

“Dad, this is my home. Can’t I come back and take a look?”

As she spoke, Viola took out a wet towel and helped Russell wipe the stains on her shoulder, “Russell, is it hot? Let me see your shoulder.”

Russell shook his head. “It’s just warm water, not hot. Don’t worry.”

Willard muttered in dissatisfaction and was a little jealous.

Viola cared about Russell after she came back. She didn’t ask Willard if he was angered by Russell.

When Viola heard this, she immediately squatted down by Willard’s feet and placed her arms on his legs. She raised her face and smiled very adorably.

“Dad, you have a mild temper and seldom get angry. What happened today? You were so angry that you smashed the cup on Russell?”

Hearing this, Willard was angry again. He glared at Russell and said,

“He made the decision on his own and wanted to cancel the engagement with the Falcon family. He even seduced the actress when he knew he had a fiancée.

“John personally came to beg me, asking me to persuade this bastard to not go against the Falcon family. He also asked him to control those conversations online.”

Russell clenched his fists. “I’m already being polite enough. Do you want me to help? Dream on!”

“You!”

Willard choked and was so angry that his face turned red. He coughed violently.

“Dad, don’t be agitated. Russell is not an unreasonable person.” Viola quickly helped him to calm his back and secretly gave Russell a look, indicating to him not to add oil to the fire.

Russell’s face was dark, but he said nothing more.

With Viola comforting him, Willard gradually calmed down.

Just as Viola was about to start persuading Willard, she caught sight of Lily’s figure. “You go out first. I have something to discuss with my father and Russell.”

Lily, who was originally enjoying the show, was suddenly called out and was very unhappy.

“Viola, do you want to drive me away? I’m a member of the Deer Family. Is there anything I can’t listen to?”

Viola glared at her coldly. “So what? They are my father and brother.

I want to talk to them privately. It has nothing to do with you!”

Lily choked and could only look at Willard. “Willard, look at her.

She’s saying that I’m an outsider.”

Willard’s expression was gentle as he tried to persuade Lily, “Lily, maybe Viola really has something to say alone. You should go out first. Don’t worry, I am here. No one in the McGraw family dares to treat you as an outsider.”

Since he had already said this, if Lily still didn’t leave, she would probably be mocked by Viola again.

Lily stomped her feet and slammed the door to leave.

After she left, Viola turned to Willard and continued.

“Dad, you don’t know. The reason why Russell hates Rebecca is that she tried to kill me several times in Washington. It’s just that the Falcon family is powerful and helped her clear the suspicion of all the incidents. I couldn’t find too much evidence, so I didn’t mention this matter.”

Willard was shocked. “There are actually such things?”

“Yes, Dad.”

“Last night, at Rebecca’s birthday party, Rebecca knocked me out while I was chatting with Stanley. He wanted to tie me to Stanley's bed. If it wasn't for my alertness, the main character of the news you saw during the day would have become me!"

"What?"

Willard's eyes widened as he slammed the table furiously. "The Falcon family thinks I'm old and wants to get away from me!"

In the morning, John and his wife came over and did not mention the reason why the Falcon family was in trouble. They avoided the important matter and talked about Russell breaking the engagement and cheating, leading all the mistakes to the McGraw family.

Willard thought they were really hateful.
