

Ex-husband Goes Money Comes Chapter 329

Jamie did not refute and explained, "It's the first time that Ms. McGraw has visited Lisbon. You don't know much about this place. We did this for your safety."

Viola didn't care about it. Viola originally didn't have the mood to go shopping, let alone go sightseeing in Portugal.

She was more concerned about when Jerry would appear. "When is your master planning to meet me?" she asked.

"I think he will come after you have lunch."

After Jamie finished speaking, he winked at the other two bodyguards behind him. They immediately walked over, wanting to frisk Todd.

"What are you doing?" Todd was cautious.

Viola took a step forward, blocking the two bodyguards and asking, "What does your master mean? He doesn't believe me, or is he afraid that I will do something that will harm Portugal?"

Jamie explained, "Ms. McGraw, please tell your bodyguard to cooperate with us. Since you have come to Portugal, it is inevitable to check if there are any controlled knives and guns."

“We were frisked before boarding the plane. There is no need to do it again,” Viola sneered.

“Sorry, please cooperate with our work.”

Jamie no longer explained. The other two bodyguards quickly went forward to frisk Todd.

Viola was a woman, so they didn’t dare to frisk her. They called a maid to frisk her.

Of course, they didn’t find anything. Jamie opened their suitcases. There was an exquisite little drone in Viola’s suitcase, which caught Jamie’s attention.

Jamie was about to bend down and pick it up to examine it carefully, but Viola stopped him.

“Be careful! That is a small toy Bobby gave me before. It is not cheap. If it is damaged, even your master can’t afford it, let alone you!”

Jamie was stunned and could only take back his hand.

After searching for no dangerous items, Jamie had the bodyguard take all the communication equipment in the suitcase.

They took away a notebook, Bluetooth earpieces, and a pen with a recording function. As long as they were electronic equipment, Jamie took them out. In the end, Jamie even demanded that Viola and Todd's mobile phones be confiscated.

They even confiscated Todd's electronic watch.

Viola couldn't take it anymore. Her cold eyes narrowed. "In this era, without a phone is equivalent to losing a sense of security. Isn't it too much for him to do this?"

This time, Jamie was unmoved. After bowing deeply, he said,

"Ms. McGraw, please forgive us. We are following orders. When my master comes, you can ask him yourself."

"Get out. I need to rest."

Since there was no room for discussion, there was no need to be polite to Jamie. Viola asked Todd to drive all the people out.

Todd slammed the door shut.

The two of them stood behind the thin white curtains and watched quietly.

Outside the small apartment, Jamie left two bodyguards to guard the door and left alone in a Bentley.

In addition to the two bodyguards, there was also a maid who was cleaning the yard.

While Viola was observing the situation outside the door, Todd hadn't been idle.

Todd skillfully checked the bottom of the tables, corners of the beds, ceiling lights, and vases in all the rooms. Finally, he found several small spying devices and put them on the table.

After Viola finished observing, she closed the window and locked it before walking over to sit on the sofa and playing with a spying device.

“What a cunning man! He even wants to monitor a woman’s bedroom. What a pervert! Scum!”

At the end of her sentence, Viola smashed the device in her hand.

Todd intercepted it midway and firmly held it in his hands.

“Don’t throw it away yet. I still remember the location. I will put them back after we finish talking. Jerry is a smart and suspicious person. Even if you argue with him, he will agree on the surface and find other ways to secretly monitor us.”

Viola nodded and calmly organized her thoughts. “Open the suitcase and check how many things have been confiscated.”

Todd immediately pushed the suitcase over.

Those people were very vigilant when they did things. They left only a few things, including the tiny drone that Bobby had sent a long time ago.

Chapter 329 This Trip Is Harder Than She imagined

In the past, Viola did not know the mystery of this drone. She even disliked it. A few days ago, she found out that this was a new type of small bomb. It needed a unique operation to detonate it.

The shell of the small drone was made of a special material that no inspection facilities could detect.

For Bobby, the world's number one captain, making it was just a piece of cake.

Viola gently stroked the emerald ring on her right hand. Her eyebrows were serious and she fell into deep thought.

Todd sighed, "Now, except for the two self-defense weapons that Bobby and Bentley gave you, everything else is gone. I'm afraid it won't work if we snatch the serum.

"And we don't have any communication devices. We are completely out of contact with the United States. Ms. Zumthor, what are your plans?"

Viola was silent for a long time. This trip was far more difficult than she had imagined.

However, Viola liked to face difficulties!

“What are you afraid of? Since we are here, we can make the arrangements after seeing Jerry.”

Todd nodded and told Viola in detail what he had found on the way here today about the royal family of Portugal.

At the same time, in Salt Lake City.

The sky was dark, and the night made the entire city fall silent.

In the National Bureau of Investigation, the lights in Ronian’s office were still on.

“Yes, Mr. Hobson has returned to the Hobson’s house from the laboratory in the afternoon. Bentley and Russell from the McGraw family were with him..."

Ronian was dressed in a military uniform. He sat on a chair and listened to the report while smoking a cigar. "Those two from the McGraw family also followed him to the Hobson's house?

Did they get off halfway?"

The subordinate answered honestly, "No."

"This is strange."

Ronian casually extinguished the cigarette. He thought seriously. He then asked, "How was Ormand when he left the lab?"

"He's wearing a black fur coat and sunglasses. He gave me a good vibe and his face is as handsome as ever..."

Ronian raised his eyebrows and knocked on the table

impatiently. "I am asking about his condition!"

The subordinate trembled and recalled seriously. "Russell helped him walk quickly. It seems that there is no problem. He's in good condition."

"Russell helped him?"

Ronian was keenly aware of the keyword and smiled. "The better he looks, the more suspicious it is!"

Ronian narrowed his eyes. "Keep monitoring him. When you have time, send another group of people to the Hobson's house to investigate. Tell him to report the recent updates to the bureau so that you can see him and find out what is wrong with him."

"Yes, Mr. Felton."

After his subordinate left, Ronian extinguished the cigar in his hands. His eyes were extremely deep.

Russell was a little worried when he woke up at night, so he went to see Ormand in the master bedroom.

Russell yawned and rubbed his eyes. With the faint moonlight outside the window, he saw that there was no one on the bed in the master bedroom.

“Ormand?”

Russell instantly woke up from sleepiness and turned on the light in the bedroom. Russell found Ormand sitting on the balcony, wearing thin pajamas, and standing still.

“What the hell! It’s late at night. Why aren’t you sleeping? Why are you watching the moon?”

Besides, it was in winter. The moon was invisible!

Russell suppressed his anger. He immediately took the fluffy nightgown from the coat rack and walked over to put it on Ormand.

Ormand’s lips were so cold that they turned purple. His entire body was as cold as ice. However, his indifferent face seemed to have become numb.

If it wasn't for the fact that Ormand blinked his eyes from time to time, Russell would have suspected that Ormand was dead.

Russell was so angry that he was about to snap!

"Ormand, will you please stop torturing yourself? You are my nemesis. It is my biggest mistake to promise to take care of you!"

Ormand's eyes, which had lost focus, stared at the sky outside.

Ormand ignored Russell's anger. His slender fingers reached out to the balcony and quietly felt it. His hoarse voice was very weak.

"Is it snowing outside?"

"What?"

Russell was speechless. "It's three o'clock in the morning! How can you have the mood to enjoy the snow?"
