

Ex husband Goes Money Comes Chapter 410

Max looked at Viola and was stunned by the latter's cold gaze. Her heart skipped a beat uncontrollably, and she faintly sensed a hint of danger.

After seeing that Max was finally a little scared, Viola snorted lightly.

"Tomorrow morning, someone will send you to the countryside residence, and bodyguards will be sent to watch over you. In the countryside, there are veteran servants of the McGraw family. They will make you do farm work day and day.

"Every day before sunset, you will be whipped ten times, then you will kneel in the yard and read the whole 'Great Wisdom Scripture' to repent of your sins. When you finish the two steps, you can rest.

"You have to do it every day nonstop. What do you think? Don't you feel I'm magnanimous?"

Max's back froze. She was already weak, but her face turned paler at that moment.

She heard of that book which had 600 volumes with over 5 million words in total. She didn't know if she could finish reading the whole book in one night.

Viola's trick was tormenting.

“Viola, you are so ruthless.” Max looked up with unwillingness.

Viola looked at her and said coldly, “You took advantage of my sympathy for you to inject me with drugs, and you even pushed me into the water. Weren’t you ruthless? When you hired so many killers to take my life, weren’t you ruthless?”

“You wanted to splash me with something containing Super 404, use Rebecca to harm me many times, encourage Lily to push Dad down the stairs, and fake my identity. You forced Bobby to stand on the same side as you, and you tried to seize the inheritance of the McGraw family. Who is ruthless? Me?”

While staring at Viola, Max smiled in relief, “I am very satisfied to be able to increase so many troubles in your life.”

After thinking of Bobby, she added, “Bobby doesn’t know much about many things until now. Don’t blame him. Blame me.”

“You deserve it, and I won’t forgive him either,” Viola said emotionlessly with a grim expression.

With that, Viola walked back to the couch and sat down next to Ormand.

Toby immediately went to pull Max up. Viola continued, “Lock her up in the basement tonight and send her to the countryside tomorrow morning.”

“Yes,” Toby replied. And then he asked, “Do you need her to pack?”

“No need. Those luxury jewelry, earrings, branded bags, and high-end custom-made make-up products... From now on, she will no longer need them.”

Max was carried away without the strength to struggle.

Before she was carried away, she was still looking back at Viola with a sneer. “Viola, you didn’t take my life this time. You will regret it.”

In the hall, with Max’s light laughter, the air was filled with a strange aura.

But without the help of Willard and Bobby, Max lost her capital to clamor. The few people sitting on the couches didn’t take Max’s words seriously with indifferent expressions.

Bentley never said a word from beginning to end.

After seeing that the matter was almost settled, he got up and said, “Viola, I plan to leave Salt Lake City the day after tomorrow to deal with the hospital matters in Philadelphia. I will come back on the day of your wedding ceremony.”

“All right.”

Viola simply agreed.

Bentley left, and Russell also stood up. “Sherlyn has been filming a reality show for outdoor survival in a village. I plan to visit her recently. When you get married, I’ll come back with her.”

Viola didn’t say anything and nodded.

They had gone through family chaos. Viola knew that both of them were unhappy and wanted to leave the McGraw’s place to change their moods and relax.

After everything was settled, Viola informed Lainey to remind Bobby to sign the papers about the inheritance rights at the McGraw's place in the presence of Pearce tomorrow.

As for Adain Mountain of the McGraw family, Viola would not come here again.

She was carried by Ormand and left the McGraw's place. She sat in the car to return to Viorin.

The next morning, there was no news related to the McGraw family's banquet on the Internet. Even Max, who was a top actress, disappeared from the screen overnight and was suspected to have been abandoned by the companies.

Many netizens and fanatical fans posted on the Internet and asked about Max, but they found that Max's Twitter account had been canceled, and the relevant popular phrases had been deleted.

On Adain Mountain of the McGraw family....

The door to the basement opened. Max, who had curled up in a dark corner for a night, was taken into the car by Tyler and Toby and sent directly to the remote countryside.

Tyler and Toby would be responsible for staying behind to watch Max.

Apart from them, Ormand had also asked Todd to secretly send two people to keep an eye on them every day.

The luxury car could only be parked on the main road, and they had to take a road in the countryside on foot. After passing through a small mountain, they would arrive at their destination.

An hour later, Max walked until her feet were almost broken, and her whole body was in a state of dehydration. In a muddled state, she finally arrived at the residence of a retired veteran servant of the McGraw family.

The veteran servant was called Nina Green, who was an old woman in her fifties. She had a half-paralyzed husband and a son.

Nina was stunned when she saw Max's beautiful and innocent face.

She felt so especially when she saw that Max's whole body was covered in blood stains. Max's left cheek was still faintly swollen, and there were traces of being slapped. Max's body was petite and still weak, which made Nina feel sympathy for this girl for a moment.

"Sir, I think she is quite pitiful. What kind of big mistake did she commit? Does Ms. McGraw want to punish her by letting her work hard labor?"

"Don't be fooled by her appearance. She is even more vicious than a poisonous snake..." Tyler glanced at Max, who was silent.

He told Nina everything about Max's misdeeds, and then he seriously told Nina about Viola's instructions twice.

After learning about this girl's vicious and outrageous behavior, Nina changed her way of looking at Max, and her look became exceptionally fierce.

“Don’t worry. I won’t go easy on such a vile beast. I will make her suffer every day.”

Tyler nodded, took out money, and carried a whole box of something into the house with Toby.

Nina took a set of worn cotton clothes and helped Max change out of the expensive dress.

It was only eight in the morning, but Nina was about to lead Max to do farm work in the fields.

Max’s lips were pale. She had not had a good rest last night and was already exhausted.

“Madam, can you let me drink a glass of water first and take a rest?”

Nina frowned and mocked Max in a bad mood, “You haven’t finished your work, yet you want to drink water and rest. As expected, you are used to living a good life. You are very delicate. Do you need me to cook for you? And do you want to eat before you work?”

Max had no strength and could only pretend that she didn’t understand Nina’s sarcasm. She decided to show her weakness first.

“I haven’t eaten since last night, and I was beaten up. I didn’t have a good rest. I have no strength left in my body. Please do me a favor.”

“No way.”

Nina remained unmoved and sneered, “My family has rules. You need to get up at 5:30 in the morning and have breakfast at 6:00. No breakfast if you’re late. It’s already 8 o’clock, and you want me to cook for you alone. Do you think you are here to enjoy your life?”

And she emphasized, "You are here to change yourself by working hard and atoning for your sins. Put away this delicate appearance of yours. I won't feel sorry for you, and I won't fall for your tricks."

Max failed to persuade Nina. She had no choice but to be dragged by Nina to the field to dig mud.