

You Just Got Exposed, Dear Chapter 16

Chapter 16

“Yes, I do. I think there’s something suspicious about her,” Benjamin admitted frankly.

Mitchell’s eyes narrowed a fraction, and he looked at Benjamin.

“Why don’t you go and pay her a visit?”

“Sure!” Benjamin was distracted by Mitchell’s wound, so he didn’t realize that the latter was leading him by the nose.

Only when he had stepped out of the study did he abruptly cotton on to it.

If she’s so easy to deal with, he would’ve probably thrown her out long ago, and I wouldn’t have any opportunity to show off here! Therefore, the waters here really run deep.

“Mr. Mitchell, something urgent came up at home, so I’ll be leaving first.” Having figured out the man’s ploy, he immediately took off.

He had only taken a few steps when he ran smack into Emmett. As a result, the flash drive in Emmett’s hand flew out and landed at Jennifer’s feet just as she walked out of the room.

Emmett hurried over right away. At the sight of Jennifer, he recalled her gaze in the surveillance footage for some inexplicable reason.

Hence, he deferentially greeted, “Mrs. White.”

However, Jennifer grinned at him while giggling away.

All at once, embarrassment inundated Emmett.

Well, it seems that I was really seeing things when I watched the surveillance footage.

He swiftly bent over and picked up the flash drive before turning around and heading toward Mitchell’s study.

When Jennifer saw that he had entered the study, she put away the smile on her face as her gaze sharpened.

Her instincts were screaming at her that the content of the flash drive was suspicious.

But then, no one can stop me when I want to know something!

Her curiosity piqued, she spun around and returned to her room. Locking the door, she went into the closet and took out a laptop hidden under a box.

After turning on the laptop, her fingers flew across the keyboard. A brief moment later, the words “system hack successful” popped up on the screen.

Verily, she had already hacked into Mitchell’s computer without him realizing it.

As she watched the video on his computer, her red lips curved into a smirk.

Ah, it turns out that he retrieved the surveillance footage at the hotel today. She then snorted. Fortunately, I've already anticipated that long ago!

When she left the hotel, she contacted her partner, Penn, who was also a hacker. Thus, the latter deleted all the videos of her appearance in the hotel and repaired them.

As such, the surveillance footage was so flawless that one couldn't see any signs of tampering

“You've really gone to great pains to catch me,” Jennifer murmured with puckered lips.

Suddenly, a light bulb went off in her head. “Why don't I give you an entertaining gift to reward you for your hard work today?”

As she spoke, she started acting. After her fingers flew across the keyboard, the word “successful” popped up on the screen.

Only then did she stretch before erasing her tracks and concealing her IP address. After turning off her laptop, she came out of the closet and plopped down on the bed.

I've been bustling around the entire day, so I should take a good rest now.

Meanwhile, Mitchell's expression turned increasingly grim and dark in the study as he sat in front of the computer.

“Ah... Uh... Ah...”

The surveillance footage was perfectly fine until it abruptly changed toward the end and became an X-rated video.

The moans from the video sounded exceptionally loud in the quiet study.