

Fake Marriage 131

Chapter 131: She Genuinely Cares for You

Mu Huan followed her line of sight before grabbing Li Meng and hiding behind a shrub.

“What’s wrong?” She was still looking at the dashing man. What did she pull her in for?

“That is the foolish young master!”

“Wha...!” Li Meng’s words were cut off by Mu Huan’s hand over her mouth.

Only after Li Meng had calmed down did Mu Huan let her go.

“He’s the foolish young master whose car we wrecked?” Li Meng asked softly.

F*ck! Why was that foolish young master so handsome?! How could such a handsome man be so shameless as to defraud half a million yuan from their Xiao Huan?!

“Yes. He has been looking for me all this time.”

Li Meng was taken aback. “Then, does this mean he has found our school?”

Mu Huan furrowed her eyebrows. “If that’s so, then it will be troublesome.”

At that moment, a middle-aged man walked toward Long Feiting.

Mu Huan and Li Meng shifted closer to Long Feiting carefully, hoping to overhear what they were saying.

“Young Master, the department of economic management is over there.”

“Go ahead and help do the registration on my behalf. I have something on, so I’ll be heading back.” Long Feiting turned around and was readying to leave.

“Young Master, the master said that you have to register by yourself today. You have to do it as well for the school dormitory where you will be staying.”

Mu Huan: “...”

Li Meng: “...”

That foolish young master was actually a student of this school!

Mu Huan and Li Meng came back out from the shrub only after Long Feiting and the middle-aged man had walked far away.

Mu Huan believed that Long Feiting was definitely still furious and desired to kill her since he was still looking for her even now. “We have to keep a low profile in school from now on!”

Although she had makeup on that night, and although the department of economic management and the department of medicine were pretty far away from one another, it was best to be careful, just to be safe!

“He’s such a handsome man, but he lacks any class!” As a veteran in liking people for their looks, Li Meng was extremely disappointed. Why did someone so handsome have to be this way?!

“What’s handsome about him?! He is just a slag!” Whenever Mu Huan thought about her half a million yuan, her heart would still ache. She did not find Long Feiting handsome in the slightest bit.

“It’s a fact that he is a slag and is tacky. But you cannot deny that he is handsome. Did you look at his face carefully? He is gorgeous at every angle! What a handsome, domineering appearance! I bet that he will definitely become the most handsome man in school, capturing the hearts of millions of girls!”

“Tsk! He isn’t as handsome as my husband!” Mu Huan snorted.

Li Meng thought about it. “Alright, he’s indeed not as handsome as your husband...”

Bao Junyan was the most handsome man Li Meng had ever met. Currently, no one could compete with him. Be it his looks, his aura, or anything else, they could all drive anyone crazy.

“Ah, I really envy you, being able to sleep with a man like that.”

This time, Mu Huan did not roll her eyes like she normally would have. Instead, she said, “I envy myself too.”

Her marriage with Bao Junyan would probably give her the best memories she’d ever have in her life.

Li Meng’s eyes widened at her words before she bumped against Mu Huan ambiguously. “Could it be... could it be that your heart is shaken?”

Mu Huan did not respond directly to her words. She dragged Li Meng along as she said, “Let’s go, quickly. We are going to be late.”

When Mu Huan and Li Meng arrived at their department to report their attendance, Gu Chenyi was accompanying Lin Qingya to take her attendance.

Gu Chenyi was studying economic management, and Lin Qingya was in the same department as Mu Huan.

Lin Qingya was filled with happiness when she saw Mu Huan. “Xiao Huan! This is great, we are going to be in the same dorm!”

Mu Huan: “...”

What the f*ck! She was really continuing to f*cking linger around and refusing to leave her alone!

In contrast to Lin Qingya’s happiness, Mu Huan’s expression was clearly one of disdain, and the crowd could smell the gossip in the air.

At this moment, Gu Chenyi said, “Mu Huan, I know you like me, but the person I like is Qingya. Qingya is your best friend and is now living in the same dorm as you. I hope you will treat her well in the future and not show her such a face without a reason. Qingya genuinely cares for you.”

Chapter 132: You Are Already This Shameless

The freshmen dormitories at Yun University had actually been arranged earlier, but Gu Chenyi tweaked it and assigned both Mu Huan and Lin Qingya into the same dorm. He didn't know what kind of mentality he had for doing this, but he did it anyway.

There were many freshmen at the registration point, and Gu Chenyi's voice was not soft either. His words instantly caused a chaotic atmosphere in the crowd.

This had felt like gossip, and it was indeed a huge gossip!

Falling in love with her best friend's boyfriend!

Based on his words, it seemed to imply that she obviously tried to steal him but did not manage to!

Yet she still had the face to show her best friend an attitude. Wow! This freshman's skin was honestly rather thick!

"What the f*ck! Gu Chenyi, what are you blindly saying?! You were the one who chased after Xiao Huan. It was Lin Qingya who was the third party in this, and yet you have the face to say such things?!" This was the first time Li Meng had met such a shameless person.

"If that's what you guys want to believe, then go ahead. In short, just treat Qingya nicely or don't blame me for not being kind." Gu Chenyi's words did not sound like a retort, yet it was harsher than any kind of retort.

No matter what Li Meng said, no one would believe that it was Gu Chenyi who pursued Mu Huan.

"What the f*ck!" Li Meng was ready to vomit blood.

"Chenyi, don't be like this." Lin Qingya walked forward and held Gu Chenyi's arm with her face filled with concern.

Gu Chenyi glanced at Mu Huan before looking down at Lin Qingya. "There are some people who are not worthy of your kindness."

"Xiao Huan is my best friend..." Lin Qingya lowered her head.

Just as the crowd was about to exclaim why such a sweet girl would be so foolish as to still want to treat someone who tried to steal her boyfriend as her good friend...

Mu Huan let out a snigger. "Gu Chenyi, I didn't expect that you would like such a saint-like girl who seems innocent but actually isn't. We are truly not suitable, after all. The past is in the past. In the future, please do not tell outsiders that I have ever liked you. It's embarrassing to ever have had feelings for someone like you."

"And you, Lin Qingya. Stop saying that I am your best friend. You're such a brainless saint — your good friend is already trying to steal your boyfriend and yet you still want to treat her like a close friend? That really makes me nauseous. I will never be friends with someone like you. So please, stay farther away from me in the future!"

As a third party saying such words, Mu Huan should seem rather irritating, but as the bystanders heard her words, they couldn't find it in themselves to hate her. In fact, they thought that what she said made some sense. Lin Qingya's friend was clearly trying to steal her boyfriend, yet she still treated her as a good friend. Such people were rare in this world!

Indeed, she wasn't a true saint — she was just a seemingly innocent girl who was great at pretending!

The probability of there being true saints in this world was just too small. Most of them were seemingly innocent girls. Now that they thought about it this way and reevaluated the situation, the crowd began to feel that Lin Qingya's gentle and weak image matched perfectly with those fake innocent girls on television.

Even if she wasn't, such weak-minded girls were no longer popular. On the contrary, Mu Huan was more likable for being someone who dared to say such things in public. Even if she could be considered a bad person, she was also someone who dared to love and dared to hate.

Noticing the change in the atmosphere, Lin Qingya began to doubt her life. What was wrong with people lately? She was obviously being very kind and was the victim in this, yet people were not hating Mu Huan and were suspecting her instead! Why did the world turn out this way?!

"Mu Huan, could you have a little more dignity?" Gu Chenyi thought that Mu Huan would justify and argue back strongly that it was him who pursued her. He thought that she would explain and be angry. This way, it would more or less prove that she still had feelings for him and that she could not tolerate how he was twisting the facts.

But instead of explaining or proving anything, she directly admitted to it and even said such things!

"You are already this shameless, and yet you have the gall to say that about me?" Mu Huan raised her eyebrows.

Chapter 133: Kind-hearted Advice

"You!" He was too upset to argue further.

She was somebody who could greatly antagonize him, and yet, this was something that he liked about her. No matter what or when, she was always fearless and daring. If you called her evil, she would go for it, all the way.

"Chenyi..." Lin Qingya tugged at his arm, signaling him to stop the argument.

"I'll let you win on Qingya's account!" He took this opportunity to retreat.

"You don't have to give in to me for her sake. I have nothing to do with her!" The girl did not want Lin Qingya to use their relationship to badmouth her.

"Xiao Huan, I know you're still angry with me, but I've never thought of wanting to be with him. We've been bosom friends since we were young. You can't give up our friendship just like that!" Lin Qingya's eyes rimmed red as she looked at her.

"Since you're so good at acting, why don't you join the department of performing arts? You're wasting your talent here in the department of medicine. Besides, you aren't suitable for dry and heavy subjects, and medicine is difficult to start with. Not only do you risk not graduating, but you also may not be able to find a job afterward. Why don't you transfer to the acting faculty? Who knows, you may win double awards in the future!" Mu Huan gave her a heartfelt piece of advice.

Lin Qingya's hands that were hiding within her sleeves had tightened into balls of fist by now!

*D*mn you, Mu Huan! Are you taking this chance to humiliate me now just because your results are better?!*

Who's looking for a job after finishing school?! I'll marry into a rich family and be a socialite!

"Little missy, that's where you're wrong. That girl ranked seventh during our provincial exam!" someone shouted from the midst of the nosy crowd gathering around them.

"What's so great about ranking seventh? Xiao Huan here clicheed the top position, and even I was placed as number six," Li Meng declared proudly.

She had revised for the college examination together with Mu Huan and Lin Qingya. Her bestie had a sharp acumen when it came to spotting exam questions, and 60% of what she had bet on came true. Add to that the fact that they had been hardworking all along, they all managed to produce exceptional results.

"Number one? She's Mu Huan, the top scholar for this year?" The crowd started to stir.

As the top scholar for this year had a really amazing entry score, many seniors were curious to find out who this genius who had attained such a high score was!

The marks were remarkable enough for her to apply for the Ivy League universities outside the country!

"That's right, she's the number one here. The top scholar: Mu Huan!" her bestie declared triumphantly.

"Wow, little missy, you were so superb! Your score was the highest in the history of Yun University!"

"Yeah! No top scholars from the past could compare with your results!"

"Here I was thinking that a girl with such a high score would be a bookworm, but little missy here turned out to be such a pretty and smart lady!"

"Hey, young missy, I'm single and my looks are decent. How about a date!"

"Miss..." The group swarmed around her.

This made Lin Qingya even more jealous and angry!

Earlier, these boys had still been swooning over her, amazed by her pretty look, gentleness, and good results. She was being hailed as the goddess!

But now, they were ignoring her presence totally!

*D*mn Mu Huan!*

It had always been like this since they were young! Lin Qingya was the most outstanding until Mu Huan appeared and stole all her glory. No one would bother with her after that.

But Lin Qingya alone was sufficient as the perfect specimen. There was no need for Mu Huan!

One day, one fine day, she would destroy this girl totally! Mu Huan would never be able to dazzle or obscure her splendor!

I'll do it! I'll destroy you for sure!

Chapter 134: I Will Go and Look for You

Noticing her unsettling emotions, Gu Chenyi looked down and asked, "What happened?"

Lin Qingya immediately reined in her raging hatred. Looking overjoyed, she said, "I'm so happy. Xiao Huan is still popular despite her nasty words."

With mixed feelings, the boy looked at the girl surrounded by her admirers.

"Chenyi, don't do this to her anymore," Lin Qingya urged gently.

"Do you remember how she has slandered your name in the past? She claimed that you were the mastermind behind that fateful night. You were the victim and yet she claimed otherwise!" He felt indignant for her sake. To him, this girl had always been thoughtful toward her bestie, and yet, not only was Mu Huan unappreciative, she even humiliated her for her learning ability in front of others!

Dipping her eyes low, the mastermind looked hurt and resigned as she commented, "No matter how she criticized me, I can't throw away our years of friendship. I trust that she will return my goodwill one day as long as I don't give up. I'll wait for her to see the efforts that I've put in."

"You..." The boy did not know what to say to this naive and kind soul.

Mu Huan had talked about keeping a low profile at school. It turned out that she would be the most conspicuous person on the first day.

It was a good thing that although news about her traveled far and wide, not many of them managed to catch her in person.

Mu Huan went to find the school counselor so she could move to the dormitory where Li Meng was staying.

And this was how she started her first year of university.

When Bao Junyan returned home from his business trip, it was the housekeeper who came out to greet him instead of his sweet, young wife. This made him rather unhappy.

He asked with knitted brows, "Where's Madam?"

"She's at school."

"Classes should have ended by now, shouldn't it?"

"Madam has said that it will be more convenient for her to stay in the school compound instead of at home during the school term. This is because our house is rather far from the university, and the school rule stipulates that they have to stay back in school for night revision classes every Monday to Wednesday. So she'll stay in the dormitory every Monday to Thursday, and then at home every Friday and weekends."

"..."

It was true that Yun University was quite a distance from Bao Junyan's place. One was in the eastern part of Yun Cheng while the other was in the west. It took about 1.5 hours by car from one place to the next.

When she received a call from him, she was at one of the commercial streets within the university town, thrashing street thugs.

The merchants along this street were being blackmailed by these thugs who were looking for protection money, but the latter was always smart enough to hide their tracks each time the former alerted the police. Once the police left, they would come back, harassing the guests if the shop owners refused to pay up. Many students were too scared to patronize the stores here.

Businesses inside the university town depended on students' patronage. Without them, they could not sustain.

Hence, the merchants came together with some money and engaged the help of the Know-All Agency.

Mu Huan and Li Meng happened to be near the vicinity and gladly accepted this assignment. Each time the gangsters appeared, a call would be enough to warrant their presence and they would give a good beating. Simply put, the two of them would beat them into submission!

So when she saw that the call was from her hubby, she signaled to her partner with a look and then found a private corner to answer the call.

"Hubby..." She was not sure if he had returned home yet and what his reaction would be if he found out that she was not home when he did.

She knew that he would disapprove of her staying on campus. Hence, she did not discuss this matter with him beforehand. By moving to the dormitory without telling him, she'd hoped that he would let her be by the time he found out about this.

"Are you in school?"

"Yes." She was not lying as she swept a glance over the campus compound.

"What are you doing?"

"I'm reading inside the library."

"Good. Wait for me, I'm going over to find you."

That caught her by surprise. "Hubby, do you plan to come over?"

"Yes. I'm already at your school. I'll reach the library shortly."

What!

Chapter 135: Good Eyesight

“What happened?” He could sense her astonishment even across the phone line.

“I... I didn't expect you to return this early from your work trip.” She decided that she would inquire about his return date in the future to avoid rude surprises like this!

“The business was resolved earlier than anticipated.” Somehow, he had a feeling that his sweet wifey seemed to delight in his overseas trips and tended to lament that he returned too early.

“I'm about to leave the library now. Let me go to the washroom. Hubby, can you wait for me at the entrance, please?”

“Alright.”

The moment his word fell upon her ear, she hung up the call, put on a surgical mask, and ran toward her bestie. Upon extending her arm to grab the hoodlum who was about to punch Li Meng, she flipped him over her shoulder and sent him crashing to the ground in one swift move.

Her perfectly-coordinated move was so suave that it sent the bystanders gasping in admiration!

She drew close to her friend's ear and whispered, “My hubby is on campus now so I have to go. You better retreat too!”

“Bao Junyan is here in the school?” Her bestie's eyes widened with shock and disbelief.

“Yes.” She hummed a reply before kicking out another hooligan. After that, all she could think of was to rush to the main building.

Her partner hastily retreated as well in case a mob turned up.

What the two did not know was that someone had secretly recorded the scene of her fighting.

The library inside the university was located on the northwest while she was on the southeast side. Although she was considered to be inside the school compound, it would take a while for her to reach the library from her current location. The excuse of relieving diarrhea in the toilet would not work as well since it probably would not take as much time as she had been wasting now. Realizing that she was running out of time, she scrambled up a tree and leaped across a wall from a hanging tree branch. This would at least save her some time.

As she jumped off from the wall, she removed her mask and cap and tossed them into a rubbish bin nearby. After that, all she could do was to dash toward the library in front of her with whatever remaining strength she had.

While the man was walking toward the library, he saw a dash of white flashing across his eyes. The speed at which this person was running could rival that of a 100-meter sprinter!

This, though, was not what had bothered him.

What he was concerned about was that the shadowy sprinter reminded him very much of his wife!

The man had excellent eyesight, so even though the sky had turned dark, he was able to catch a good look at this passing figure from a distance.

By the time he reached the library entrance, she was there already, waiting for him.

Although she had stopped panting, she was dripping with perspiration.

When she saw him, she immediately greeted him with a smile. "Hello, Hubby."

"Why are you perspiring?" Her white tee was thoroughly wet, revealing the singlet that she was wearing underneath today. And so, whenever he saw people passing by, he would use his broad frame to block their view of her, in case they were to glance at what he was privy to.

"I ran because I couldn't wait to see you," she said with her head lowered, looking guilty.

"You ran down the stairs?"

"Yeah, I didn't want you to wait long." Her head hung even lower this time.

"Then why did I see you running in from outside?"

She jerked her head up abruptly, staring at him with a stunned expression.

"..."

It confirmed his suspicion; it was her that he saw.

"Hubby... I... I..." How did he manage to catch sight of me? I didn't see him at all!

"Yes?" He waited for her explanation.

After stammering for a pretty long time, she finally replied, "I came from somewhere away from the library. I was afraid that you might think that I was skiving if I told you the truth, so I said that I was at the library."

Chapter 136: Hubby Looks Terrifying When He Flies into a Rage (1)

Her answer made the man frown. Have I unconsciously been too strict with her to the point that she's afraid that I would mistakenly assume her to be skiving off school? She's a college student already, though.

Mistakenly assuming his frown as a sign of his anger, Mu Huan hastily stepped forward to grab his arm.

"I'm sorry, Hubby... I'm sorry..."

I shouldn't have taken up this case! Now, I'm caught red-handed!

"H-Hubby... don't get angry..." She batted her big eyes in a furious attempt to act cute.

"Let's head back home." Bao Junyan had never had any associations with such a delicate lass like Mu Huan before, so he was at a loss on how to respond to his wife's cute affections, especially since he was not angered in the first place. Hence, he wanted to go back home first before they talk.

Over the years of being in a high position and possessing a high status, he had developed the habit of projecting a stern and indifferent look that emanated authority on that handsome face of his even when he was not angry at all.

Hence, she mistakenly assumed that the man was still sulky.

Thinking that hugging his arms was useless, she then changed tactics and proceeded to hug him around his waist instead. She raised her head and pleaded, "Don't be angry anymore, alright?"

"I'm not."

"But you're clearly mad right now!" If not, why does he look and sound so frigid?!

"..."

He was truly not mad at all.

"Please don't be angry anymore, Hubby... I know my mistake. I really do..." Upon recalling that her husband did not return home for two whole days the last time he blew his top, she got really afraid that he would get angry again, and so, she was desperate to act cute and apologize to him.

Her pestering, however, only intensified his desire to return home. As such, he lifted her up and proceeded to leave.

The abruptness of his action gave her quite a shock. She thought that he was intending to hit her.

It was only after she realized that he was only carrying her so they could leave that she loosened up.

Mu Huan could feel his taut body when she pressed herself tightly against his back. The thought that he was suppressing his anger frightened her into hastily reaching out to stroke him on the chest. "Please simmer down, Hubby. I really know my mistake now."

Stroke by stroke, she lightly moved her weak, little hand against his chest. The sensation of her actions was so provoking that his eyes became dark and got laced with desire.

"Stop your actions!" he coldly chided.

It instantly rendered her still. How scary... He looks terrifying when he gets angry...

Bao Junyan's car was parked at the school's parking lot.

Even after boarding the car, the man did not let go of his wife. He had a cold look on his face and had no intention of speaking.

This frightened the woman in his embrace so badly that she dared not to breathe deeply.

It was only ten minutes later, when the car drove into a villa, that she broke the silence.

"Hubby, what are we doing here?" Didn't he say we're returning home? Why are we here, then? Is it inconvenient to hit me at home, so he brought me to a desolate place instead?

"Going home."

"But... we don't live here."

“Our home’s here now.”

Mu Huan was correct in her assumption that her husband would surely not let her stay in her school’s dorm. He had, in fact, long tasked his men to prepare a place near her college and was intending to send her to school on her first day and bring her back to their new home that night. Due to the abrupt company issues, he had flown off before he could get the chance to tell her about the new place. Never did he expect, upon his return, that she would have already moved into the school’s dorm.

She’s not at all conscious of the fact that she’s a married woman.

“...”

What did he mean by that?

She dared not to put up a protest when it was time to alight, and the man carried her down.

Nevertheless, she could not help but be envious of his strength. He seemed so relaxed and nonchalant despite him carrying her.

Her eyes then widened in surprise upon spotting the butler, who came out to greet them. Why’s the butler here?

By ‘our home’s here now,’ did he mean we’ve moved and will be staying here now?

How am I gonna use the excuse of our home being far away from school from now on?!

“Hubby...” She shifted a little, intending to speak with him about this matter.

“Stop fidgeting!”

Chapter 137: Hubby Looks Terrifying When He Flies into a Rage (2)

The sight of Bao Junyan heading straight upstairs with Mu Huan in his arms sent the butler grinning cheerfully.

Once upstairs, the woman was carried to the bed before she could even say anything.

“Hu—” As soon as she opened her mouth, his lips swooped down on it and seized the opportunity to inhale her words and sweetness.

...

Everyone knew only when love started, but no one knew when love ended.

And so, by the time Mu Huan woke up, it was already the next morning and her husband had left for work.

For someone who was always burning the midnight oil, he could still wake up so early the next day to go to work! She could not help feeling envious of the man’s excellent stamina!

How many hours of sleep a day could he possibly have? Despite so, he’s still able to work so hard at the office. He’s no doubt a god with his extraordinary capabilities!

For someone who exercises regularly, I already can't match up to his stamina, let alone other frail and delicate girls.

I wonder, in the future...

As she wondered about the type of woman Bao Junyan would find for himself after her departure, her mind strongly resisted against the idea of him liking and becoming a married couple with someone else.

She was dumbstricken when she pulled herself out of her thoughts. The fact that she was unable to even tolerate the very thought of it was beyond her expectations...

I've all along been preparing to leave the man, so why can't I bear to even think of the scene of my departure now? What's wrong with me?

Why am I behaving this way?

I—

Just then, her phone rang. It was a call from Li Meng.

"Xiao Huan, come quickly! We have Professor Wang for our first class of the day. He's notorious for being strict in attendance and he loathes tardy students. You'll be a goner if he sets his eyes on you!" Her friend's frantic and urgent voice rang from the other end of the line.

She got a huge shock when she glanced at the watch at her bedside. Now was simply not the time for her to be wallowing in her sorrows, and so, she hurriedly jumped out of bed to go wash up. By the time she headed downstairs, the butler was already waiting for her with her breakfast in his hands.

"Madam, the driver's waiting outside. Please consume your breakfast in the car for today." He looked at her with a smile.

"Thank you!" She accepted her breakfast with much gratitude.

Being someone who could not tolerate hunger, going without breakfast was a no-go for her.

"You're welcome, Madam." He then respectfully sent her off.

Mu Huan started making a mad dash to her classroom the moment she alighted from the car at the school gate, but alas, she still arrived late...

Not only that, but she was even stopped by Professor Wang at the doorway.

"Mu Huan. This year's top scholar for the college entrance exams."

She plastered an awkward and flattering smile on her face at that. She really did not mean to be late, but...

"Being good at studying doesn't mean that you can show up late to classes! Do you think you don't need to study hard in college anymore? I hate students like you the most!"

"..."

It's my fault for being tardy, but... in what way am I not studying hard? It's what I know best!

“I’ll deduct two points from you as a warning for today. I expect you to abide by the school rules from now on and not let your hard work in high school go to waste.” As he spoke, he proceeded to pen down the deduction of two points under her name in his attendance booklet.

In Yun University, every subject’s professors were responsible for the students’ character score, which was a total of 12 points. Once all the points had been deducted, it would mark the student’s failure of that particular subject, regardless of his or her exam performances.

“Professor Wang...” She was frantic to say something in her defense.

I might’ve arrived late to class, but surely a deduction of two points is too much for a punishment? Wasn’t it rumored that Professor Wang gives a warning for the first offense and deducts only a point on the second offense?

“Go to your seat. Lots of your classmates’ time has already been wasted on you.” The man then put the attendance booklet away.

Knowing any explanation given now would just be a lost cause, she could only chalk it up to her bad luck.

Chapter 138: Points Deducted

The sight of Mu Huan, who could only blame herself for her bad luck, drew a sneer on Lin Qingya’s lips.

A good student with excellent moral conduct? Mu Huan, let’s see how you are gonna maintain that excellent conduct of yours!

From her male seniors, she heard the news of Professor Wang being a local of Yun Cheng and the top scholar of his batch. He had been the record holder of scoring the highest on the city’s college entrance examination. That was, until it was shattered by Mu Huan with a score higher than his by 20 marks or so.

She had skillfully put out news comparing the two, making Mu Huan sound more capable than the professor and letting the gossip spread among the teaching community.

Professor Wang, being a haughty person who held everything with contempt, was naturally displeased to hear others deeming him inferior to his student. This, in turn, resulted in Mu Huan becoming an eyesore to him.

Being a strict person to start with, now that the latter was an eyesore to him as well, she would likely go through a hellish student life!

Sensing she was already marked by the professor, Mu Huan dared not to speak a word with her bestie throughout the entire lecture. Instead, she paid her utmost attention and vigilance in class in fear of accidentally crossing the professor and getting her points deducted again. When the arduous lesson finally came to an end, she immediately collapsed on the table.

“What’s wrong with this Professor Wang? Even though I’ve heard rumors that he’s a strict person who detests tardy students, you’re probably the first student in history for having two points deducted in one go!” griped Li Meng, who could finally air her indignation on her friend’s behalf.

“No idea. What an unlucky day...” bemoaned Mu Huan weakly with her head on the desk.

After that rush-filled morning and that nerve-wracking class, she was truly drained now.

Right then, Lin Qingya came walking over to her with a look of concern. “Are you all right, Xiao Huan?”

She lifted her head off the desk. “Bug off!”

I’m in a foul mood. Don’t come provoking me!

Her nemesis’ glistening eyes turned hazy instantly as tears pooled in them. One could not help having tender affection for her when they saw that expression of hers holding back her tears.

She really had to be impressed with the other woman for her outstanding performance of squeezing out her tears in just a moment’s notice. And so, with much sincerity, she suggested to her once again, “Lin Qingya, go join the acting industry, won’t you? Don’t waste your talent here when you can definitely shine there. Go find your path and pave a bright future for yourself!”

Stop staring at me and finding trouble with me! There’s no need to get me involved in your act to show off your good side!

Mu Huan, who always strived hard to attain her goals with her own efforts, could not understand why Lin Qingya was bent on personal advancement at her expense. Besides, you already have Gu Chenyi as your boyfriend. Why can’t you just properly lead your own life?

Immediately, Lin Qingya’s tears streamed down as though she had suffered from great grievances.

This resulted in the guy beside them to be unable to ignore her tears. “Aren’t you being too much, Mu Huan? She’s only concerned about you!”

“Well, I don’t need that concern of hers. Go take it if you need it!”

“Only you boys need the concern of a beauty. Hurry and go take it!” retorted a female student, who was sitting behind Mu Huan.

It had only been several days since school started, but Lin Qingya and Mu Huan already had their own supporters.

The ones supporting the former were most of the male population despite her already having a boyfriend. With irresistible pretty looks and gentle nature, she belonged to the type which guys deemed as their dream lover. And so, they naturally could not stand seeing her upset and in tears.

Mu Huan’s supporters, on the other hand, were mostly female.

Girls these days were particularly disgusted with manipulative, conniving, and two-faced b*tches.

News of the two’s dispute at the freshies’ reporting area had already spread across the pharmaceutical faculty. Lin Qingya’s claim that she had never thought of being a couple with Gu Chenyi led to the unanimous agreement between female students that she was a white lotus because she had ended up together with him.

Would someone date another person whom they had no feelings for and desires of being with?

Chapter 139: Do You Not Find It Disgusting?

Guys' perspective of girls might be hazy; however, that was not the same case for girls! The female population found it more believable that Lin Qingya had snatched Mu Huan's boyfriend than the other way around!

Keeping her silence, Lin Qingya sadly returned to her seat with her head hanging low. She knew that she must not antagonize Mu Huan, so she immediately beat a hasty retreat after provoking her for a bit.

Seeing how upset she looked with her head on the desk, the guy could not resist adding, "Mu Huan, she's not even angry with you for snatching her boyfriend, so how can you still be so arrogant? Jeez, I've never met anyone as shameless as you in this world!"

"You've never met one? Shall I let you see just how you should thank me for that?" Mu Huan turned her head over to him, her glare so cold that it shut the guy's mouth straight up despite him having more to say.

She was already in a bad mood after having her points deducted, but it got worse at Lin Qingya's provocation. She found her existence to be akin to a pesky fly's, flying and buzzing around her when she had nothing better to do. It was terribly annoying!

A fly could be smacked to its death if she got annoyed with, but unfortunately, Lin Qingya was a human whom she could not smack to death with that level of provocation.

At noon, Mu Huan pulled her friend straight to the canteen as soon as their lecture ended. Only fine delicacies could dissipate her current irritated mood, and the canteen was as superb as their college's reputation. The dishes there were delicious.

She just wanted to enjoy her meal in peace, but alas, out of all places to sit at, Lin Qingya and Gu Chenyi just had to sit right beside her.

"..."

Li Meng: "Can't you two see that there are plenty of other seats? Don't you feel awkward sitting here?"

"Do these seats belong to you? Is that why we can't sit here?" challenged Gu Chenyi coldly.

"What the f*ck! How did I not realize that you're such a shameless person?" She used to have a good impression of him.

"Watch your words, Li Meng, or don't blame for being rude!" His face turned sullen.

She was about to argue back but she got stopped by Mu Huan. The lad had plenty of ways to make her friend's life difficult if he was bent on it. There was no need for them to seek trouble for themselves when they could just ignore him.

Knowing that those two troublemakers would follow her wherever she went, she remained put in her seat and consumed her meal with indifference as though she had not seen them.

Some people, however, just did not have any tact.

"I heard you didn't sleep in the dorm last night." Gu Chenyi's eyes were dark and gloomy as he said these words.

She glanced up at him.

Her bestie, meanwhile, immediately shot back, "Gosh, are you a pervert? Trust you to know about her absence from the dorm!"

He paid no attention to Li Meng at all, his gaze remaining fixed on Mu Huan. "My uncle has returned from his business trip last night."

She could hardly be bothered to give him a reply. She bowed her head and continued eating her meal instead.

"Mu Huan, don't you find it disgusting to be with someone who doesn't like you? How on earth did you manage to bring yourself to exchange your body for money like a bargaining chip? Don't you feel ashamed using that money?"

The chap had bribed one of the six roommates in her dorm to provide him with news about her.

He had gone asking about her whereabouts upon hearing news of his uncle returning from his business trip last night, but the reply he received was that she was absent from the dorm. Later that night, he went asking his informant again, only to receive the same answer. Her absence made him lose sleep for the entire night.

Despite knowing very well that he should let go of his feelings for her and not let his thoughts wander, he just could not do it! That resulted in him being tormented by those images that he should not conjure and think about all night!

Chapter 140: Have You Not Heard of Love at First Sight?

It had been a sleepless night for Gu Chenyi. I feel sad and awful because of her, but she appears all fine and indifferent when she sees me, as though she hasn't done anything to let me down.

How can she be so heartless? How can she let go of our relationship this easily?

Has she never liked me at all?!

Her nonchalant state had him wanting to hurt her and stab her to let her feel the pain that he was feeling.

Mu Huan's hand, which was clasped tightly around her spoon, gradually relaxed after a long while. She looked up and flashed a sweet and charming smile at him. "How do you know for sure that I don't like my husband? How can I possibly not like him when he's such an outstanding and perfect being? Besides, his money is mine in the first place, so there's no need for me to exchange my body for his money. If your IQ level is so low to the point that you don't understand the meaning of marital assets, then please go look it up on Baidu search engine and don't embarrass yourself here, okay?"

“You like my uncle? The two of you have never met each other before that matchmaking session! How can you possibly like him?!” He refused to believe that she had feelings for his uncle.

“Haven’t you heard of love at first sight? You should know how outstanding and perfect a person your uncle is. As long as he’s willing, who wouldn’t like him and wish to pounce on him? Take your girlfriend, for example. When she sees your uncle, she would surely also think, ‘Heavens! If only this perfect man was mine!’ You’re nothing compared to your uncle!”

Not a fan of causing trouble, she would usually just let things slide and ignore those who tried picking trouble with her. However, if things went overboard, she would not take it lying down and pay them back tenfold of the hurt they caused her!

“You—!” Her words instantly pierced a hole through Gu Chenyi’s heart!

It was just like what she said. He was well aware of how exceptional his uncle was. Having revered the man for all his life, he reckoned that the only person he could not be matched up with was his uncle. The man was terrifyingly perfect!

As much as he was reluctant to admit the truth, it was a fact that he was nothing when compared to his uncle. Regardless of whether it was in appearance, financial status, intellectual level, academics, etc., there was just no comparison between them!

“How can you say that, Xiao Huan? How can you hurt Chenyi in this manner?” chided Lin Qingya.

“Why can’t I do that?” She cocked a brow.

“Xiao Huan, I know you’re furious, but Chenyi and I have our difficulties that I can’t tell you about. You know best about how things are between the two of you. You’ve done things that let him down, so how can you say such hurtful words to him? You can’t do this!” berated the former as though she was her friend.

Mu Huan found herself truly unsuited for arguments when all she had in mind was to give them a good thrashing after hearing those revolting words. “Hurry and get away from me. Otherwise, I’ll turn nasty!”

“Are you suffering from a guilty conscience? You’re all enraged now because you also think that you’ve let me down, isn’t that right?!” His hands balled up tightly.

“I’ve let nothing down! Back then, it was you who ended things completely and requested that I don’t appear before you! In what way have I let you down, huh?!” She just could not fathom how on earth the guy could have the gall to assume that she had let him down!

“You’re lying! You worked as a hostess because of your greed for money! You—”

“G*dd*mnit!” She was truly rendered speechless here. No longer wanting to face the two, she got up to her feet abruptly and kicked the long bench they were seated on.

The abruptness of it caught them off guard and sent them crashing to the floor. As Lin Qingya fell, she instinctively tried grabbing the table, only to knock over the plates of food all over themselves.

Mu Huan looked down condescendingly at the two disheveled people. “Don’t come disgusting me again, idiots!”

