Chapter 143

The police officers were not the only people who had this thought. Sergio had been watching outside the interrogation room. He smiled and said, "This girl has some guts. No wonder you care so much."

Jalen looked at Elaina. He could not help but smile. "She is very special." She was Elaina, his ex-wife and the woman he found the most difficult to understand.

"But you have to be mentally prepared. Although she is your person, this matter is not easy to deal with. After all, the evidence is conclusive. If you can't find evidence to prove her innocence, she may have to go to court," Sergio reminded kindly.

Jalen was very influential in New York. But everyone was equal before the law. If Elaina did kill someone, even Jalen wouldn't be able to cover her up.

Jalen nodded. He understood it. "I believe in her."

"Alright. Then find the evidence as soon as possible. The higher-ups are very concerned about this case. The Lory family has also put a lot of pressure on us. You don't have much time."
