“Jessica Cooper, forty-five years old, unemployed. The child who has just had an operation is not your biological son but your stepson.

“It is said that you never liked this stepson. Several times, you told people that you wanted him to die immediately. And you seem to have a part in his car accident.

“You saw that the car accident did not kill him, so you wanted the doctor to give him a craniotomy in the hope that he would die on the operating table. This way, you can make this annoying stepson disappear and also can ask for a big sum of compensation money from the hospital. Am I right?”

After Saul finished speaking, the rest were all stunned.

Was there really such a vicious person?

Even though the child was not her biological son, it was so heartless of her to actually want him dead.

Seeing that everyone was looking at her, Jessica turned pale. She gritted her teeth and said, “Nonsense! You are just trying to help Dr. Gainsford get away with it.”

“The police will find out whether I am speaking nonsense or not. But I have to remind you that what you did in the emergency room this afternoon was caught on surveillance the truth and
