Chapter 47

“Get to the point.” Jalen rubbed his eyebrows and leaned against the sofa, waiting, for Quincy to speak.

Quincy, who was on the other side of the line, snorted and said, “She’s Elaina Gainsford who grew up in a place called Peach Village in New York. She was a top student. I found out that she skipped grades when she was a kid. She graduated with Ph. D. at the age of 22, and then went abroad to study for two years before returning home,” Elaina?

Jalen felt that the name sounded so familiar.

But after thinking about it, he could not remember where he had heard it before.

“And then?” Jalen got up and walked to the floor-to-ceiling window. He looked at the black night sky outside, and no one knew what he was thinking.

“And then?”

“After she

Quincy could not help but raise his voice. He said with some amusement, returned home, she didn’t have a job, and even disappeared. Guess where she went?”

Of course, Jalen could not guess, but he thought that the reason why he could not find Elaina before was that she suddenly disappeared.

“Where did she go?”
