Chapter 92

“Ella, these are all my treasures. If you like any of them, I will give you a discount.” Corbin looked at the collection he had had for many years and was satisfied.

If it was not Elaina, Corbin would not let him or her in.

Elaina glanced around and did not pay attention to these things. Elaina asked, “Corbin, it’s for Mr. Halton. Which one do you think is suitable for him?”

“You know Nitzan?” Corbin was surprised. He did not know that Elaina had gotten married.

“Yes.” Elaina nodded and said, “He treats me well, so I want to give him a gift that he likes.”

“I heard that Nitzan likes your master’s painting the most. Wouldn’t it be better if you ask your master for a painting?” Corbin said to Elaina.

Elaina was helpless. She had a painting before, but it had been auctioned by her. At that time, Elaina had not thought about the birthday banquet of Nitzan at all.
