

Wanda

She kissed me.

I was shocked, but I kissed back. I pulled away and said, "I'm so sorry for leaving you. I just needed to know if my family was okay. I love you and I missed you so much. It killed me knowing that I hurt you."

She looked at me and said, "No I'm sorry I overreacted. Of course you would want to see your family. Oh my God I Love you too."

We kissed again and it was everything I ever wanted. She was everything I ever wanted. I was never letting her go. We pulled away when Pietro coughed and said, "welcome to the family."

"So what did I miss?" I asked. They filled me in on Ultron and how he was helping them destroy the Avengers. They also talked about how they were going to save the world. It was great for them, but to me, something seemed off about Ultron. I decided to talk to Wanda about this.

"Don't you think that Ultron's hiding something from us? Something dangerous? I can sense that he's lying to us!"

"You're being ridiculous. If you think that then you don't have a vision. Ultron has a vision so maybe you should just leave!" Wanda suddenly realized what she said and immediately apologized, but the damage was done. I was leaving.
