

First Glance, Forever Love by Maria Xavier Chapter 9

Chapter 9 Want Her to Die

Laila had been trained and reacted quickly. She leaned over and rolled to avoid the cobra's attack.

She got up quickly and grabbed the cobra's tail. She swung it and slammed the snake to the ground.

The snake was knocked unconscious by her.

Laila got up and picked up the scissors that she had hidden under the pillow in advance to prevent accidents. She walked over and was about to cut off the cobra's head.

However, just as the scissors were about to touch the cobra, Laila suddenly realized that this kind of cobra lived in the south and there was no such snake in the north.

This snake did not crawl into her room on its own, but someone had deliberately let it in!

Laila thought of the footsteps she heard. Those things corresponded. She finally knew why that person stood on her balcony for a while.

These people wanted her to die!

Laila thought about it.

Drake now felt that she was of great use and could be used to curry favor with the Kruger family and doted on her greatly, so she couldn't do such a thing.

The only possibility was Rosemary and Erin.

However, Rosemary was a very calm and smart person. She couldn't do such a thing on the first night of Laila's return. The one most likely to do it was Erin.

Thinking of this, Laila narrowed her eyes slowly. Through the reflection of the moonlight, her eyes emitted a faint cold color like the moon.

Want to kill her?

Erin also had to see if she could!

The night was even darker, and the moon was setting in the west.

It was at one o'clock when almost everyone in the villa fell into a deep sleep.

However, Erin couldn't sleep at all.

She was waiting for the news that Laila had died.

She waited for a few hours and still had not received any "good news".

Finally, Erin could not sit still. She called Laura, and Laura quickly sneaked into her room.

The moment Erin opened her mouth, she questioned, "Did you do that or not? Tomorrow morning, the police will come for you!"

Laura explained hurriedly, "Ms. Harmon, you misunderstood me! I have already done it. I went to buy the most poisonous snake that can be bought on the market, and I had already put it in her room two hours ago."

Erin frowned and asked, "Then why is there no news until now? If Laila is bitten by the snake, she will wake up from the pain. I am so close to her room, but I did not hear any screams at all."

"Then... I don't know."

"Could it be that the snake won't bite people?"

Laura denied it immediately. "No, the person who sold the snake picked a snake that had been hungry for several days and was very aggressive. When it saw a living body, it would bite it."

"Then what exactly is going on?" Erin asked in confusion.

Laura thought for a moment and guessed, "The snake seller said that the snake is very poisonous. If it is not treated the person will die in a while. Maybe... It is not that the snake did not bite her, but when she reacted, she had already..."

Erin's eyes lit up. As a result, Laura said, "Maybe she is dead!"

Laura looked at Erin's face and asked carefully. "Then, Ms. Harmon, do I need to find an excuse to come in and take a look?"

Erin waved her hand and said, "There is no need. No one can know we did that. If we go now, we will be suspected. Anyway, she is already dead. It is safer to find her body the next day. What if she is sent to the hospital now?"

Laura nodded, "What you said is right. We can wait until tomorrow morning! By then, her body will be cold, let alone the most powerful doctor, even gods can't save her."

Erin couldn't help but smile. She took off the necklace on her neck and handed it to Laura.

"You did well. This is your reward. If you need anything in the future, feel free to tell me."

"Thank you, Ms. Harmon!" Laura's fear of killing was completely diluted by this necklace.

Laura thought she was not a murderer. The one who killed Laila was the snake. When she died, she wouldn't go to hell.

"Alright, you can go back. I need to have a good sleep."

Erin thought once she woke up, she would be able to see Laila's corpse and cry bitterly at her funeral.

If her acting skills were good enough, everyone would think that she was very sad.

Erin still wanted to enter the entertainment industry. These good performances would add points to her fans.

This night was really wonderful..

Erin turned off the lights in the room and lay back on the bed. The corners of her mouth did not go down even when she fell asleep.

Because Erin was in a good mood and it was late, she fell asleep quickly and had a beautiful dream.

In the dream, it was the scene of her attending the certificate ceremony. Vincent felt that she was talented and fell in love with her at first sight. When Vincent saw her again, he announced that Erin was the female hostess of the Kruger family, his wife!

From then on, Erin walked to the peak of her life and lived the life of a rich lady.

However, the sleeping Erin did not notice that a figure had quietly arrived at her balcony...

As the late-night passed, dawn was about to arrive.

All of a sudden.

A scream broke the dawn.

LIN

The birds perched on several big trees in the manor were startled and flapped their wings to fly away from the ITertops

“What happened?”

“What happened?”

“I don’t know either. I heard someone shouting for help...”

“Be quick! It seems to be the room of Ms. Harmon!”

The servants were awakened, and after finding the source of the sound, they rushed to Erin’s room.

Erin did not lock the door. The servants opened the door and ran in.

They saw Erin lying on the bed, twitching all over, and foaming at the mouth. Her face turned purple, looking like she was about to die.

The servants were stunned.

“This... What is going on?”

The servants came back to their senses and went over to save her.

“Wait a minute! Don’t go there!” A servant said in horror. “There is a snake on the bed!”
