

The First Heir Chapter 1398

Whoosh!

The tires screeched across the ground, splashing rain all over the place. The cars then stopped at the entrance to the city.

Nigel immediately took the umbrella handed to him by his men, opened it with a bang, and briskly walked over to the second Mercedes.

He stood respectfully at the door of the car, bent over, and greeted, "Young Master Clarke."

The car window rolled down, revealing a young face with a trace of indifference.

This scene appeared in everyone's sight.

However, most people could not see the face behind the car window at all.

Due to the heavy rain and also Nigel partially blocking the view, everyone could only see a general outline.

Very young!

"Gosh, no way! How could a big shot be so young?"

"Oh my, this is crazy! He must be the young master of some hidden family!"

"Unbelievable! A young man like that actually had the power to help Nigel take over Cloudside in one fell swoop?! It's terrifying!"

At the entrance of Cloudside, those bosses of the business circle and underground leaders who had been waiting for this scene expressed their utmost shock at this moment!

This scene went far beyond their expectations!

Nigel stood at the door of the car, looking respectfully at Philip. Philip asked coldly, "Have you found it yet?"

Nigel said apologetically, "Not yet. We can't find it anywhere in the city. I don't think they've arrived yet. Moreover, my people in Country R also sent word that none of the towns on the border have found that car."

Hearing that, Philip furrowed his brows. He looked at the crowd of people at the entrance of the city and said, "You kicked up such a fuss?"

Nigel knew that Philip did not like being in the limelight, so he explained, "I couldn't help it. My every move in Cloudside is watched by others. They just want to see what the person whom they've only heard about from the rumors looks like."

"Okay, I'll go directly to the Lambert family's mansion. You can bring your people back too," Philip said before the window rolled back up.

Nigel immediately took three steps back, turned around, and waved to his men at the entrance to the city.

Instantly, the Lambert family's bodyguards separated the crowd, leaving a huge pathway for Philip's motorcade to head into Cloudside City!

At the very front was naturally a car arranged by Nigel that had its high beams on, guiding Philip's motorcade toward the Lambert family's mansion.

Everyone watched as the cars with high beams zoomed past one after another, driving into the city from the entrance.

It was only after the convoy left that the big bosses on the scene suddenly came back to their senses.

That Young Master Clarke did not even get down from the car!

"Quick, head to the Lambert family!"

"That's right, let's go there!"

In a flash, more than a dozen luxury cars all started their engines and rushed to the Lambert family!

It took just a moment before the entrance to the Lambert family's mansion was full of luxury cars!

Maserati, Bentley, Maybach, Rolls-Royce...

A group of elderly bosses, the youngest in their 30s and 40s, surrounded the entrance of the Lambert family's mansion. They were yelling and discussing.

"Why won't you let us in? We're here to see the head of the Lambert family!"

"Get out of the way! You're just a little bodyguard. How dare you stop us?"

A group of people shouted loudly as they were stopped at the gates.

Nigel had given instructions—no visitors today!

At this moment, a black Lincoln SUV stopped at the entrance of the Lambert family's mansion.

Before the eyes of a dozen business executives and underground leaders of Cloudside, the car door opened. A middle-aged man in a gray suit stepped down.

Chester Ludwig glanced at the magnificent Lambert family's mansion and walked directly toward the gates.

Everyone was staring at him.

"Hey, who's this guy? I haven't seen him before. An outsider?"

"Not sure, but looking at him, he wants to enter the Lambert family's mansion too."

"Pooh, even we're not allowed to enter. Who does he think he is?"

Chester stood at the gates. His subordinates stepped forward and shouted at the Lambert family's bodyguards at the gates, "Hey, hurry up and inform Nigel Lambert that Master Chester Ludwig has come to visit. Tell him to hurry up and get out here!"