The First Heir – Chapter 1593

Philip's sudden appearance caused everyone in the meeting room to be at a loss for words. They felt unsettled!

One of them stood up abruptly, pointed at Philip, and sternly said, "Who are you? Who let you in? Don't you know where this is? Security, kick them out!"

This person was a newcomer and Martin had just promoted him, so he naturally did not know who Philip was.

Philip turned his head and glanced at the guy. With a faint smile at the corners of his mouth, he said, "Take him down."

Swoosh!

Two black-suited thugs behind him stepped forward and pinned that man to the floor!

Instantly, the man howled, "Mutiny! Who the hell are you? This is Beacon's conference room. How dare you act so boldly?! Security, where's the security?"

Barn!

As a result, Philip walked over and kicked the man's chest violently, sending him flying. He hit the seat heavily before falling to the ground.

The man clutched his chest with a wail and could not get up for a while.

With Philip's kick, everyone else in the conference dared not even breathe aloud!

Those who did not know Philip displayed fierce anger. Too outrageous!

Who the hell were these people? How dare they behave so aggressively?!

However, those who knew Philip kept their mouths shut at this moment.

They knew that there might be a reversal today. Whoever dared to step forward now would certainly end up being targeted by Philip.

"Insolence! How dare you behave so aggressively in front of us? Who the hell are you? Don't you know that this is Beacon?"

"Security, kick them out!"

"Mr. Johnston, you have to do something. These people are simply too disrespectful!"

Those who did not know Philip stood up at this moment and yelled in anger.

However, Philip just smiled lightly and walked to Martin's side, asking, "Why are you still sitting here?"

Martin clenched his fists fiercely and got up angrily to give way.

Immediately after, under some people's astonished gazes, Philip sat in the chairman's seat.

Swish!

Everyone could not believe that he actually sat in the chairman's seat!

"What the hell is going on here? Mr. Johnston, who is he?" Some people were puzzled.

Martin said bitterly, "He's the husband of Chairwoman Wynn Johnston and also a participant in this shareholders meeting."

Chairwoman Wynn Johnston?

Suddenly, many people panicked. Was this a sign of liquidation?

However, many were not convinced and pointed at Philip while shouting, "So this is the worthless loser. How dare a piece of trash like you sit in that seat? Stand up right now!"

"That's right! What right does a wimp like you have to attend the shareholders meeting?"

Facing such angry rebuke, Philip just looked at them indifferently and dug his ears. His gaze then fell on Theo.

Theo naturally understood. He turned to his men and said coldly, "Take all of them down!"
