

The First Heir novel Chapter 1724

Later, Philip had asked Reed about it but Reed just smiled indifferently and replied, "It's still too early for you to find out. The time is not ripe yet. Sooner or later, you'll come into contact with it."

Now, Philip realized that the secret Reed refused to reveal back then was the secret of these people before him. The Nonagon must be in control of something that was not accessible to ordinary people. Specifically, it was being displayed by Norris Weil in front of him.

It was the so-called vigor that Fennel had mentioned just now.

Vigor?

What exactly was it?

After this matter was over, he must find out from Fennel in more detail. He must know more!

While Philip was thinking about it, Fennel had already stepped forward. Without doing anything else, he stared closely at Norris with firm and domineering killing intent. "You're not my opponent. Why are you seeking your own death?"

Although Norris had fully unleashed his aura at this moment, he still felt infinite pressure from Fennel!

This guy obviously had not unleashed his aura. Why was there such overwhelming pressure?

Norris panicked!

This was definitely not something that someone who had only entered the third zone could possess!

When someone like him made a move, his vigor would be released outwardly, forming a solid barrier around his body as a means to protect his body. In terms of martial arts explanation, it was energy, an abstract and obscure thing. It referred to a special aura formed by a person after a long period of training.

Just like those ancient murderous commanders who had a domineering and bloodthirsty aura!

No one dared to get close to those people.

Some slayers also radiated a ferocious aura. Everywhere they went, ordinary people and even cats and dogs could feel their bloody aura.

At this moment, Norris panicked!

Only those who had entered the fourth zone could suppress their opponent's aura without revealing their own and possess such strength!

Such a person no longer needed to rely on his external aura to achieve the purpose of deterring his enemies. He had not only entered the third zone but the fourth!

Instantly, a sense of fear and powerlessness surged in Norris' heart.

Facing such a person, he had no chance of winning at all. He dared not even harbor the hope to resist!

Smack!

At this moment...

Fennel had already walked up to Norris. Under his foot, a floor tile exploded. The gravel jumped up to the height of his fist and hovered in mid-air.

After Fennel's other foot fell, the gravel that was in mid-air finally fell back to the ground!

Norris could no longer withstand the pressure of his opponent and shouted angrily, "Go to hell!"

Boom!

With a punch that carried all his strength and might, he aimed for Fennel's chest!

Everyone was dumbfounded by this scene!

It was because the moment Norris struck, they seemed to hear the faint sound of thunder.

Even the tables and chairs in the hall were shaking violently!

Such strength! Such a domineering punch! Even a sheet of steel plate would be pierced through!

However...

Boom!

Under the crowd's astonished gazes, Fennel just raised his hand calmly and grabbed Norris' wrist.
