

The First Heir – Chapter 1782

Philip grinned. “Do you think 50 million dollars is a lot? Anne is still in a coma. If she doesn’t wake up, I think there’s no need for you to live in this world either.”

Homer laughed in exasperation. He had never seen such an arrogant young man. The price of 50 million dollars was already their limit but the other party did not appreciate it at all.

She was just a nanny, right?

Since she could not wake up anymore, why not let everything end here?

Thinking of this, Homer could not help but sneer. “Very well, since you refuse to accept, we can’t do anything either. You won’t get a single cent of this 50 million dollars. Do you still want to deal with us? Fine, let’s see your methods. I refuse to believe that you can make my Dunley family of Flower City go bankrupt!”

The corners of Philip’s mouth curved up, revealing a cruel sneer. He said, “In that case, you shall wait and see.”

After that, he turned to Milo and said flatly, “I’m only after the responsible party. I don’t want to have too many conflicts with the Dunley family. You have nothing to do with this matter, so I hope you won’t interfere. If you must intervene, then I’m sorry, but you’ll also be a victim of the destruction that’s about to ensue.”

Milo was stunned and looked incredulously at Philip. How dare he threaten him too?

This was Flower City!

It was the territory of Milo Dunley!

He could not help but sneer and warn him, “Young man, do you know who you’re talking to? It seems that you still don’t understand the power of my Dunley family in Flower City. My name is...”

“Your name is Milo Dunley. In Flower City, you can be considered a great figure. Even the six underground lords of Flower City have to show you some respect. You have 23 enterprises in Flower City, holding the positions of executive director and shareholder. Your assets are worth about five billion dollars. Moreover, you also have a certain position in the main Dunley family. Am I right?”

Philip grinned as he revealed Milo’s background like he was reporting the weather forecast.

After hearing this, Milo’s heart trembled as he looked at Philip suspiciously. Then, he smiled and said, “Very well, I didn’t expect that you’ve actually looked into my background. In that case, you should know that you can’t get out of Flower City without my permission!”

As soon as he said that, the door of the private room was violently pushed open from the outside with a bang!

Instantly, more than a dozen burly men with weapons rushed in, all of them staring intently at Philip!

“Philip, I didn’t want to do this at first, but you’re too arrogant and persistent. You simply refuse to compromise and insist on getting to this point. Who is to blame?”

Milo sneered and tugged at the tie of his suit.

After that, he looked around the room and said with a grim smile, “Besides, you’re so bold to come alone. You really don’t know what’s good for you.”

Homer was full of smiles at this moment. Staring grimly at the lone Philip, he said, “Boy, let me ask you now. Can we forget about this matter?”

“Haha!”

This young and immature boy was in trouble this time!

However, just when Milo and Homer thought that Philip would surrender, the other party shrugged and laughed indifferently. He said, "So few people? Aren't you ashamed to call yourself the overlord of Flower City?"
