

The First Heir – Chapter 1809

Spencer Dunley.

Philip frowned and fell silent. He turned around and looked at the Dunley Group building that seemed to shoot up into the sky.

It seemed that he could almost see a figure standing behind a window somewhere on the highest floor, looking back at him too.

“If I make a move against the Dunley family, what are my chances of winning?” Philip asked.

Maia frowned and thought for a moment before saying, “Based on the assets and personnel you can currently use, only 40%. After all, this is the Dunley family of Charbury, not the Clarke family of Arcadia Island. The strength and power of the Clarke family are weakened by half here. Besides, the Clarke family has a cooperative relationship with the Dunley family. I’m afraid the elders in the family won’t agree if you want to take action against the Dunley family.”

“Only 40%?” Philip’s eyes were cold, and there was slight displeasure in his tone.

“What if I bypass the Clarke family and strike out against the Dunley family myself?” Philip asked as he turned around and stared at Maia with a searing gaze. Maia was a little baffled by Philip’s question.

What did it mean to bypass the Clarke family?

Did the young master have his own power and forces?

“Young Master, I don’t understand your meaning. Do you want to deal with the Dunley family on your own without using the power of the Clarke family? That’s a big no-no! The Dunley family is not as easy to deal with as you think. You must not take any risks.”

Maia was shocked. If the young master took the risk of going up against the Dunley family alone, she would not be able to bear the consequences if anything happened to him.

Philip smiled lightly and said, "Don't be nervous. I'm just asking."

Maia breathed a sigh of relief, but she was still a little flustered when she looked into Philip's clear eyes.

What exactly did the young master plan on doing?

"How much do you know about Winston Dunley?" Philip asked again.

Maia quickly replied, "Winston is Sterling's fifth uncle and has some prestige in the main Dunley family. Winston was one of Sterling's allies during his rise to power, so he has been doing very well in the Dunley family over the years. The Dunley family in Flower City is also Winston's fiefdom. He's the head of Flower City and represents the face of Flower City. If you make a move against him, the Dunley family will definitely intervene. Therefore, it's better to think twice about dealing with the Dunley family."

After saying this, Maia stood aside obediently, waiting for Philip's next question.

However, Philip snorted and said, "Are you saying that I can't make a move against the Dunley family yet?"

With a complicated expression, Maia said, "Considering your safety, I don't recommend that you take action against the Dunley family now. At the very least, you should wait for the people arranged by Butler Thomas to enter Hampton before you make a move."

"How long will it take for the old man's people to get here?" Philip asked.

Maia replied, "It'll take three hours at the latest."

“Three hours?” Philip scowled. He glanced at the time and said, “No, I don’t have that much time to wait. I have to rush back to Upper creek. I’ll give you one hour. If no one arrives after one hour, I’ll personally charge into the Dunley family.”

“Young Master, please don’t...” Maia was anxious and quickly tried to dissuade him.

However, Philip just glared at her and said, “Don’t try to stop me.”

Maia was startled by the look in Philip’s eyes. She quickly stepped back and said, “Yes, everything we’ll go according to your plans, Young Master.”
