

The First Heir – Chapter 1810

At that very moment, Philip's phone rang. It was a call from George. His respectful voice sounded from the other end of the phone. "Young Master, Winston has made a move against the Clarke family in Riversouth and already monopolized half of their partners. Should we continue with the next plan?"

"Go ahead," Philip said coldly.

George quickly responded and said, "Young Master, do listen to my advice. For the time being, don't target the Dunley family. Wait for the people I've arranged to arrive in Hampton before you..."

However, before George could finish his words, Philip interrupted him and said, "I don't have much time. Hurry up."

"Yes." George was helpless. He ended the call and said to the subordinates around him, "Let's begin."

Not long after Philip ended the call, he received a call from Winston.

As soon as the call was connected, Winston's hearty laughter sounded from the other end. He said, "Young man, I've received your generous gift. I like it very much. For this, I have also prepared a gift for you in return."

Philip chuckled and said, "Oh? I wonder what kind of gift it is?"

Winston laughed and said, "The Clarke family of Riversouth, is that your backing? But unfortunately, the Clarke family has fallen and Clarke Group in the capital city has also gone bankrupt. Your Clarke family is now an empty shell. Ten minutes ago, I already took down half of your trade partners. How about that? Are you starting to feel the fear now? Haha, young man, you're still too young and don't understand many things. I'll give you a chance to admit your mistake. As long as you kneel down and apologize in front of the Dunley Group building now, as well as give me ten billion dollars in compensation, I'll leave your Clarke family a way out. What do you think?"

Winston was overjoyed. He sat on the sofa and laughed heartily.

He had set his eyes on the Clarke family of Riversouth and the tens of billions of assets.

This small Clarke family dared to challenge the Dunley family. They really did not know their own strength!

Unexpectedly, Philip only snorted and said, “Winston Dunley, isn’t it a little too soon for you to be happy? Who told you that my Clarke family is only this strong? Moreover, regarding those trade partners you’ve monopolized, aren’t you worried that something will go wrong?”

Hearing this, the smile on Winston’s face disappeared abruptly and he asked gravely, “What do you mean by that?”

Winston suddenly realized that he might have fallen into a trap.

After all, he managed to take down half of the other party’s partners in less than ten minutes, which was really a bit too fast.

At first, Winston simply thought that his forces were too overwhelming, but after listening to Philip, he could not help smelling a hint of conspiracy.

Philip chuckled and said, “Winston, you shouldn’t have taken too much on your plate. If you eat too much at once, it’s easy to get indigestion. When the time is right, you’ll receive the news.”

As soon as Philip said that, several assistants rushed into Winston’s office and shouted, “Mr. Dunley, it’s not good! Something has happened!”

Winston frowned, and his face was gloomy. He asked in a cold voice, “What’s the matter?”

The assistants glanced at each other and replied, “Mr. Dunley, we’re facing problems with the trading partners we snatched from the Clarke family. They’re blacklisted by the country and abroad. Now, all related agencies are tracking them and they’ll soon be on to us.”

“What ?!”

Winston panicked and stood up abruptly. He glared at the assistants and roared, “Why are you still standing here? Hurry up and terminate all cooperation with them!”

“It’s too late. We’ve acquired and merged with all of them. Now, it’s conservatively estimated that we’ll lose more than ten billion dollars.”

One of the assistant’s faces was full of anxiety and panic.
