

The First Heir Chapter 3162 -

Chapter 3162

Philip pulled Emily into the house and said, "Don't worry, I'm fine. I just had a few words with Leopard, that's all."

At this moment, a tall and slender woman suddenly walked in. Several men followed behind her.

Although they also held guns in their hands, Philip could see that they were a little weaker than Leopard's men.

"Emily, we'll go to Leopard's place for the rescue now..."

However, before she finished speaking, her eyes fell on Philip's hand that was holding Emily.

"Jerk, let go of Emily!" the woman shouted angrily.

Philip finally took a closer look at this woman, who had light makeup on her delicate face. Although she was not exactly gorgeous, she still had her charms. With her curvy figure, she was enough to be considered a first-class beauty.

Emily quickly broke free from Philip's grab and said to the woman, "Iris, you misunderstood!"

Before Emily could finish speaking, Iris shielded Emily behind her.

"Don't be afraid, Emily. With me around, no one can hurt you!"

Then, Iris walked to Philip with a gun in her hand. The men behind her also guarded Emily on the side and walked toward Philip.

Philip was unperturbed.

He sighed lightly and said, "What a pity to be a beauty with no brains!"

Iris did not have to think to know that Philip was referring to her. She immediately got angry and kicked Philip. However, Philip grabbed hold of Iris and made her jump into the air.

Philip also held her leg with one hand. It seemed like she was not kicking Philip at all but jumping into his arms instead.

Seeing this scene, everyone was stunned.

What the heck?

He dared to touch Goddess Iris' leg?!

Philip said with a smile, "You have such long legs. Are you a model?"

At Philip's teasing, Iris was furious and pressed the gun on Philip's chin.

At this moment, Emily jumped out and said, "Iris, stop! He's the one I wanted you to save. Don't do anything to him."

Hearing this, Iris and the guys she brought were amazed.

"Didn't you say he was taken away by Leopard's men?" Iris asked.

Emily nodded and said, "Yeah, but he came back on his own. I was just asking him what happened."

Iris lowered her gun upon hearing that. However, at this time, she realized that she was still in the other party's arms.

She immediately got away from Philip and said coldly, "Why didn't you make it clear?"

Philip said indifferently to her, "What could I have said when you pointed a gun at me as soon as you walk in?"

After saying that, Philip raised his hands in mock surrender.

Seeing this scene and knowing what happened, Iris wished that she could dig a hole to bury herself in. After thinking about how Philip's tricky scheme succeeded, however, she wanted to tear Philip into pieces.

"Since it's a misunderstanding, I'll be leaving, then!" Iris said coldly.

She promptly turned to leave.

Emily wanted to say more, but seeing this situation, she had no idea what to say. She was the one who asked Iris for help, but a misunderstanding nearly happened.

While she pondered, Iris suddenly turned her head and said to Philip, "Today was a misunderstanding. If you want, come to my bar this evening. We'll have a drink and forget everything with a toast!"

At this time, Iris suddenly changed her attitude and said to Philip with a smile.

The speed of this change surprised everyone. Not even Emily could react.

Philip looked at Iris and said intriguingly, "Okay, I'll definitely turn up tonight!"

Iris looked at Philip meaningfully and said, "Emily knows the place. Let her bring you there at night. Don't be too late!"

This time, Iris finally left.

As Iris left, her men asked her, "Madam, what are you doing?"

Iris said with a smile, "Over the years, no man has ever touched me. He actually dared to take advantage of me. I'll make him drink his fill tonight and let him make a fool of himself!"

Iris was very smug. Thinking of Philip's silly antics after he got drunk, Iris almost laughed out loud. On the other hand, Emily looked at Iris' departing back and muttered, "Iris is so strange today..."

Philip touched Emily's head and said, "I'm starving. Is there anything to eat?"

Hearing that, Emily returned to her senses.

"Oops, Grandpa hasn't eaten yet!"

Only now did Emily remember that she still had to take care of her grandfather in this dilapidated house.

Emily moved quickly. Perhaps it was because she was taking care of the elderly, but the food she prepared mostly consisted of a soft diet. However, due to a lack of money, the food was very simple.

Looking at the meager food, Philip simply took a few bites before he said he was full. The old man and Emily continued to wolf the food down.

Philip looked at the two of them. He had just arrived at the underground city of this new world, so he might have to stay here for a while. Emily's place seemed to be his only choice at present. He had to earn some money in this world, or food would be a problem.

Finally, after Emily finished eating and cleaning up, the two of them went out. This also allowed Philip to see what this underground world was like.

In fact, it was not very different from the ancestral land with crisscrossed streets and a few occasional tracks in the air. Although the streets were also bustling, it seemed more like a no man's land.

Here, everyone had to follow a set of rules.

As the two walked, Emily suddenly pointed to a bar in the distance and said to Philip, "Philip, that's Iris' bar. Let's go there!"

As the two were about to cross the street, a magnetic flying aircraft suddenly passed by in front of them.

If Philip had not pulled Emily, the aircraft might have hit her.

"Damn it, are you blind?! Can't you see my aircraft?!"

The aircraft gradually slowed and stopped. The door of the cockpit opened and a man started cursing at Philip and Emily.

Philip looked at the middle-aged man, and Emily's face flushed with anger.

The man walked up to Philip and Emily. He merely took a glance at Philip before turning to Emily.

"Hehe!" A wicked gleam suddenly flashed in the man's eyes.

"What a good-looking girl. If you take good care of me tonight, I'll forget the fact that you almost hit my aircraft!"

As he spoke, he reached out to grab Emily.

Emily was frightened and was about to hide behind Philip. When the man saw this, he grabbed Philip's collar.

"Get out of my way!"

However, the man could not budge Philip.

Philip narrowed his eyes and said to the man, "Didn't you learn to be civilized and polite when you were a child?"

As he spoke, Philip grabbed the man's hand and twisted hard.

Crack!

“Argh!” The middle-aged man screamed.

“You almost hit someone, but you still think you’re in the right?” Philip snorted coldly.

The people around noticed the commotion and gathered around.

Someone immediately recognized the middle-aged man.

“Isn’t he a subordinate of Penn from the middle floor of the underground city? Why is he here?”

After someone recognized him, someone else immediately persuaded Philip.

“Young man, you’d better leave now or there’ll be trouble!”

Philip was twisting the middle-aged man’s arm.

When the man heard that, he said viciously, “Boy, if you dare to do anything to me, you’re dead. Let me tell you, my boss, Penn, is a four-star mecha master!”

It would be fine if others did not mention anything, but after hearing that he was Penn’s subordinate, Philip let go of his hand and grabbed his hair instead. Then, Philip kicked him violently in the face.

Two kicks...

Three kicks...

He kicked until the middle-aged man could no longer say another word.

Philip wiped his shoes on the man’s body and said to Emily with a smile, “Let’s go!”

In fact, even if Philip held back, the other party would never spare Philip. It was pretty obvious. He could not kill Philip on the street, but beating him until he was half-dead was okay.

Emily looked at Philip blankly. She did not expect Philip to take action so decisively and thoroughly.

This man from the wilderness seemed a little brutal. As for the middle-aged man, not only did he almost hit her, but he also wanted her to...

Thinking of this, Emily’s face flushed, and her eyes were sullen.

The two walked on the street while Emily introduced the underground city to Philip. Although they were about to reach Iris' bar, Emily kept talking.

This underground city was divided into three floors. The upper floor was mostly occupied by mecha masters, businessmen, and all the powerful people in the underground city. Not only mecha masters but also true star talent practitioners.

That was what this world was about.

Only a star talent practitioner would take the golden path and have an unlimited future!

Of course, Emily wanted to be a star talent practitioner too, but she knew it was impossible because she could not even activate her star talent.

Philip nodded. It turned out that the division of classes in the land of the other shore was based on star talent. The lowest was a one-star talent, followed by two stars, and it went up to nine stars.

According to Emily, the most powerful existence in the land of the other shore was the holy-tier star talent!

Those were the leaders of the nine royal families.

These nine royal families each led an area, and each area was even bigger than the original world where Philip lived. Every area had countless large and small countries, and these large countries formed individual alliances or federations. There were also some eternal forbidden places and some areas rich in mineral resources.
