Vol 1: Ch 1 - My High School Crush is very assuming

In the area of C Town City, a lady who's very young and elegant already awake in the early morning, and since her SNS account already been signing in, she automatically heard a sound from her phone and that she got a new notification from her own SNS account. Since she's already awake, she looks at it and then finds out that her friend, or what we so-called her High School Friend and of course her High School Crush got online, and without thinking, she messages him that got misled and misinterpreted by her friend.

"Good Morning Vin, how are you?" a couple of minutes pass he replied with only a simple reply "Yo". This type of reply is really hard to continue the conversation but then she needs a topic to prolong this conversation.

At first, Din Lou Rei who message him stop for a moment and hesitating if she will continue to ask or not but then again she asks him without realizing that there's a hidden meaning of her query and didn't realize that it will lead to a very big misunderstanding between their friendship.

"It's not what you think about but I wonder why we were only a friend Vin?" this kind of query from her, Vin made a huge mistake since it's like asking him what his relationship to her without concerning the sentence of it's not what you think..... just because Din Lou Rei and Vin are only friends, he answered Rei truthfully and being a frank he is, he replied to her without thinking and without caring her feelings at all.

"Sorry Rei, that we're just a friend and only a friend to me, so beyond that sorry if I can answer you the same thing and give the same way of what you feel towards me"

Rei read his message again and again since she can't believe that he misunderstood it, leaving with a shocked expression because of this reply and she almost throw her laptop from what she read because she can't believe what he replies from her crush and that kind of replied came from him.
