Chapter 201

Gary said without thinking, “Ms. White, you’re lying. How did you get blood on your skirt?” Judith looked down. She didn’t feel it but the wound was bleeding. She looked up and saw Frank looking at her with a gloomy face. She instantly felt like she had made a big mistake and was caught red-handed. At that moment, Judith seemed to hear the roar of the furious lion in Frank’s heart. She curled her hands slightly, like a child who had done something wrong with her head bowed, not daring to look at Frank. Frank looked at her knee. That faint trace of blood stung his eyes. A flash of anger rose inside him as he felt an impulse to strangle her. = She literally dared to conceal it from him. He quickly squatted in front of her, carefully moving up her skirt with his slender fingers. There was a vertical wound that covered the old scar on her knee. He could see the shape of the old scar, which had been there for many years. It was slightly white in an irregular L-shape. Frank was suddenly stunned as a heart-wrenching scene occurred to him. He remembered that it was raining heavily when he quarreled with his father, and Jodie was at his home. He left in anger and ran wildly in the rain. Jodie, who always liked to be with him, followed him without hesitation. However, she slipped on the sidewalk outside the villa. Her knees fell precisely on the broken glass. Back then, she was so young. She was both afraid and worried about him. Ignoring her wound, she cried out to him. “Frank, come back. Please. Don’t go. If you’re not happy at home, you can live in my house.” He knew that she had followed him out and he couldn’t bear to leave her alone. When he returned, he heard her crying. At that time, he was deeply moved. His mom didn’t want him and his dad married a stepmother. At his home, he led an unhappy life. Only Jodie often went over to visit him. Jodie was sensible and obedient. She was concerned about him and understood him. They spent a lot of time together. This scar was left at that time, and he had dressed it for her back then. It was unforgettable. The days when he quarreled with his father were always rainy. When Jodie was young, she suffered many injuries because of him. His eyebrows revealed his mixed feelings as he tried to suppress them. Judith saw the change on his handsome and noble face, but he gazed at the wound on her knee. Gary shook his head helplessly. He knew Frank was lost in the memory of Jodie again. He thought, "There are so many tempting beautiful women, but Frank did nothing but wait for Jodie. After so many years, he has never given up. Frank, may Judith leave you with no regrets." Gary looked away with difficulty, avoiding the shocking pain on Frank's handsome face. "Mr. Taylor, I..." Judith's voice pulled Frank back from the memory. He looked up at her and said nothing. He just took the disinfectant and carefully cleaned the blood around her wound with a sterilized cotton swab. His movements were very gentle as if he was holding his treasure in his hands.

Chapter 202

Judith looked at him in puzzlement. She didn't know why he seemed in pain just now. After dressing her wound, he got up and sat on the bench. They could smell the fragrance of each other. They gradually relaxed. The awkwardness between the two seemed to vanish in an instant. They became much more casual.

Judith looked at him and smiled. "Thank you!" Frank also smiled. "My pleasure. Don't come to work tomorrow. Have a rest till you recover. The clothes for this season have already been decided. You don't have to worry." Looking at her smile, he felt his agitation was replaced by happiness and expectation. He was not at a loss anymore as he found the light that guided him forward. He did not hesitate nor was he flustered because she had really come back to him. This was not a coincidence. He was more familiar with Jodie than the Chaney family. Judith had the same wound, the same mole, the same hobby, and the same allergic constitution as Jodie. She could not remember the birthdays of others, but she had remembered his birthday since she was five. On the calendar, she clumsily marked the date, waiting for his birthday and preparing him a gift. The memory always made him happy. Judith nodded and said if she did not feel well tomorrow, she would rest at home for a day. In the latter half of the night, Gary and Frank came back after much persuasion from Judith. Judith stayed with Sarah for the whole night. The next morning, Sarah had to do various checkups. She did not want her family to worry and did not call her family to tell them about her in the hospital. Judith had no choice but to stay and accompany her for all kinds of examinations. She treated it as a holiday for herself today and did not go to work. She checked the time. When it was nine o'clock, she went to the nearby mobile phone store to buy a mobile phone and get a new card. Then she sent a message to Frank and asked for a leave. Frank had already agreed to her leave last night. This morning, he received a message from Judith. For Frank, no matter how tired he had been, he had a lot of life in him now. He replied to Judith and asked her to take care of her injury before going to work. He also joked that this was a work injury, and the salary would be given. When Judith saw it, she just sent a smiling face and did not say anything. Frank looked at the smiling face on his phone with a smile. He was glad to see everything about Judith. After he washed up, he went to work with Gary in the morning. On the contrary, Gary was still exhausted. Along the way, seeing that Frank was in high spirits, Gary complained as he drove. Frank was in an extremely good mood as he listened to Gary's complaints. He even occasionally teased Gary, surprising Gary a lot.

This morning, Frank seemed to have been reborn. The two of them arrived at the office unimpeded. Edwin got coffee for the two of them and went out to work. Frank looked at Gary on the sofa, delighted with a gentle expression on his handsome face. He took out a sealed bag with a strand of hair in it. He put the bag on the desk and said, "Gary, your task today is to do a DNA identification. This is Mrs. Chaney's hair, and you have Judy's hair. Pull your strings. Today, I want to know the result."

Love At First Night Chapter 203

Chapter 203

Gary looked at him and nodded, "Alright, I'll go now. This is your lifelong wish. Today, I'll settle it, and then I will not have to serve you anymore." Gary found it more horrible to see Frank like this than to see a ghost. He felt his heart might not be able to take it

Frank's reaction this morning dumbfounded him.

He got up. No matter how tired he was, he had to satisfy Frank first. Only then could he enjoy his life. After Gary left, Frank sat on the leather chair. His deep black eyes were delighted and gentle as if his entire world had come back to him. , At that moment, there was a slight noise coming from the room inside. He became alert instantly. He stood up and walked into the room, only to find Ann lying on the soft bed he usually rested on. Frank's face suddenly clouded over. "Why are you here?" His voice was cold as he glared at her. In the dark eyes, there seemed to be a raging storm.

Ann trembled and curled up in fear. She didn't know how to explain why she was here. She was stunned by the news she had just heard. She didn't understand why Frank wanted to do the DNA identification of Judith and her mother. "I'm asking you. Why are you here?" Frank's angry voice echoed in the office. His cold voice was like a sharp knife that pierced into Ann's heart. Ann hoped that this was just a cruel nightmare, and everything would be fine when she woke up. She stood up and looked at Frank, her watery eyes full of grievances. She bowed her head, not daring to look at furious Frank. She said in a low voice, “Frank, I worked overtime late last night, so I slept in your office.” In fact, she had come early on purpose to enter Frank’s office while Edwin went to the toilet.

She knew that Frank didn’t want to see her, but she really wanted to see him.

She was more and more regretful about marrying Steve.

She came here to see if there was any chance. She really did not want to marry Steve. Frank looked at her in disgust. == With the exquisite makeup on her face, she did not look like a person who had slept here. “Get the hell out of here, now!” Frank pointed at the office door and roared in anger. At this moment, he completely vented his cruelty and ruthlessness. Ann shed tears of grievance as she ran out.’ She knew Frank’s temper very well. If she argued with him, it would be worse. Hearing Frank’s furious voice, Edwin was about to enter the office to take a look. Just as he opened the door, Ann rushed out crying. Edwin was a little puzzled. “When did Ann come in?” He strode into the office, ready to be blamed by Frank. However, when Frank saw him, he said nothing. He walked to the chair and sat down. Picking up his cup elegantly, he took a sip of coffee, suppressing his anger.

Then, he casually looked at silent Edwin and sneered, “Edwin, you literally made such a mistake

Love At First Night Chapter 204

Chapter 204

Edwin had always been perfect. He was mature, calm, and reserved. He got all the good qualities. “Sorry, it won’t happen again.” Edwin’s voice was calm. There was no emotion in it. He looked at Frank without any expression. He had always been elegant and he attracted a lot of attention wherever he went. Frank couldn't do anything about Edwin. Sometimes, he wondered what kind of woman could attract his attention and make him emotional. He said, "Get someone to prepare a new bed cover."

"Alright!" Edwin responded faintly and turned to leave. Frank looked at his back, aiming the cup at his back, but he didn't throw it out. He really wanted Edwin to get angry once. He wondered what Edwin would be like when he was angry. The personalities of the two of them formed a sharp contrast. Frank was irritable with a quick temper. However, it seemed that Edwin would not be angry all the time. No matter what happened, he was always indifferent, and his gaze was always calm. Frank shook his head. He thought that he was cold enough, but Edwin was colder.

"However..." Frank narrowed his eyes. After a while, he took out the phone and called Gary. The call was quickly connected. "Hello, Frank." Gary drove as he listened to the light music to relieve his fatigue. He felt much better now. "Gary, Ann overheard our conversation. With her personality, she would definitely not keep her hands off. Now she cannot be in the company. You split the hair into two parts. Send one part to where Ann knows and send the other to Blaine. He will not betray us."

"Alright!" Gary narrowed his eyes as he thought, "Ann actually heard our conversation." "Wait. How did Ann hear our conversation?" Gary was very puzzled about this. After all, Edwin was outside the office. He was always impartial and incorruptible. Gary wondered how Ann heard their conversation. Frank said angrily, "She hid in the office in advance, but we didn't notice it." "Alright, I understand." Gary nodded. He knew what to do. "Ann really shouldn't have done this." Frank nodded and instructed, "Get someone to monitor Ann. Don't let her know that Judith is Jodie I have been looking for. Do you understand what I mean?"

When Gary heard this, he pulled a wry face. He should not have been his assistant, nor should he have been the manager. He should be a detective. That should be more exciting. "Alright, I know what you mean. I won't let Ann know." "This was really troublesome." Gary thought to himself and then hung up the phone. Frank was not even in the mood to work today. He had been anxiously waiting in the office for the result. Although he had been sure that Judith was Jodie, the Chaney family and he would be at ease in the future if he could get the result of the DNA identification. That would be great He and Jodie even had children. Frank stood by the floor-to-ceiling window, giggling. His happy appearance was reflected in the bright glass. Happiness was always intoxicating. If someone were to see Frank's appearance, they would be scared out of their wits.

Chapter 205

Ann really ran out of the company. The words of Frank and Gary shocked her. After she returned to her car and sent a message to the manager of her department to take a leave, she drove after Gary There were only a few agencies in Mayfield for DNA identification, and Ann could guess that Gary would definitely go to the largest identification agency in Mayfield. She followed him all the way and saw Gary's car. Her eyes were still red as she stared coldly at Gary's car. She thought, "Jodie, I won't let you come back to the Chaney family. Don't think about taking anything that belongs to me. You can only be dead forever." Ann bit her lower lip. Today, she was even more anxious than the night when she lost her virginity. Virginity didn't matter for rich ladies. Everyone was clear about their lifestyle. But without the identity of the daughter of the Chaney family, she would lose everything. When she was young, she looked like Jodie. Every time her parents saw her, they would feel a little relieved. But as she grew up, their relief was gone, because now she didn't look like Jodie at all. Every time her mother saw her, she would sigh. At that time, she knew that her mother was thinking of her own daughter. She was not their biological child. Even if they regarded her as their own and gave her what other rich ladies had, she was still not satisfied.

The only thing she wanted was Frank. She also wanted the love of her parents and her two brothers. Ann followed Gary all the way, and sure enough, she saw Gary enter the largest identification agency in Mayfield. There happened to be someone she knew here. She pulled off a strand of her hair and sat in the car, waiting. Holding the steering wheel, she was so nervous and afraid that she was curled up. Frank's attitude towards Judith was so good that she was afraid. She had never seen Frank's gentle eyes as if he suddenly had everything he wanted. After watching Gary drive away, she quickly got off and went to the agency. Gary drove to the main road and then slowed down, seeing Ann walk in. He sneered

After parking the car, he got off and followed Ann in. He thought, "Ann, you are toast this time. You even dared to do such a thing." After Judith accompanied Sarah through all the checks, it was almost twelve o'clock. Fortunately. Sarah and the child were fine. And Sarah could be discharged. Judith helped her with the discharge formalities, and the two slowly walked out of the hospital. Judith asked, "Sarah, what are your plans for the future?" Sarah glanced at her and said with a smile, "Judy, after listening to your story, I think I was a coward. Now! have decided to give birth to a child. No matter what happens in the future, it will be the greatest happiness to be with my child."

When Judith heard this, she nodded in relief. She had chosen to give birth to the children without hesitation because she had no family.

But time proved that her choice was right. Seeing that there was hope in Sarah's eyes again, Judith was relieved. "Then take care of yourself in the future. Have a good rest and come for a regular check-up. If you need someone, you can call me on the weekend."

Chapter 206

Sarah looked at her and nodded gratefully, “Judith, I am really grateful to you for saving me and my child. Although I don’t know if it is a son or a daughter, now I am looking forward to its arrival. “I haven’t been working since I graduated, but my mother has good skills. Now I have learned them. I want to run a small restaurant. In the future, I will rely on myself to support myself and my child. “It will be inconvenient to go to work. I have to take care of my child. In a few days, when the child’s condition stabilizes, I want to see if there is a suitable shop nearby.” Judith looked at her. Sarah looked firm with expectation in her eyes. A mother was invincible.

However, Judith asked worriedly, “Sarah, you are pregnant now. You can’t be too tired. There are many things to do in the restaurant. You have to clean all kinds of food and stay up late at night. How can you take that?” Sarah smiled and shook her head, “Judith, I can find someone to help. I have someone I can trust. Don’t worry about me. “You have taken care of me for the whole night. Your children are still waiting for you at home. Go home now. I’ll take a taxi home. I’ll call you at night.” “Okay! Then keep in touch. I will move in the future and will not be far from you. I have triplets. They will all come here to attend school. When your child is born, they can be friends.” “God!” Sarah covered her mouth in surprise and looked at Judith. “Judy, you are really lucky. You are actually triplets. This is really rare.” A look of envy appeared in Sarah’s eyes. More surprisingly, Judith actually took care of three children so well by herself.

Thinking back to her foolish thoughts, Sarah felt that she had wasted a lot of time.

The child was the proof of her and Jason's love. Although they broke up, it didn't matter. People had a lot of things they couldn't help. Now, she could understand Jason.

He did this to keep her from being forced by Marilyn. The barbecue stall was the only source of income for the Farrell family. Her brother was still in college. Without this source of income, they couldn't afford college.

She looked into the distance. The weather was pretty good. She thought, "Jason, although I am not the best, you will never meet someone like me. In the future, I will never love someone so much, even if that person is you."

Judith looked at her and smiled. "No matter how tired I am at work, as long as I see the three of them, I will be especially happy. All the exhaustion will disappear."

Judith smiled with a bright and happy face, like the morning sun, gorgeous and beautiful.

Then, they chatted for a while. A taxi came over. Judith asked Sarah to leave first. She waited for a long time before another taxi came over. She took a taxi downstairs and went to the snack shop to pack some simple dishes for lunch before rushing home.

Lucas was very obedient. He got up early in the morning and cleaned up the house. Then he read a book, quietly waiting for his mother to come back. When he heard the sound of the door opening, he looked up and smiled. When Judith entered, she saw her son greeting her with a smile. Her face lit up. "Lucas, are you hungry?" She put the things she brought on the table and then went to change her shoes. Lucas got up, walked to the table, and sat down. "I'm not hungry. You came back in time."

Chapter 207

Judith smiled and said, "Lucas, come and eat. I have a day off today. I will go out to buy groceries later and cook delicious food for you tonight. And we'll invite Adam to come over and eat together." "Alright!" Lucas smiled and nodded, "Your cooking is delicious!" However... Lucas looked up at the wound on his mother's forehead. He narrowed his clear eyes slightly. "Mom, you are injured."

Judith smiled and glanced at him. He looked worried with his eyes clear and innocent as if she had deceived him. She smiled and said in a gentle tone, "Lucas, it's just a scratch. It's fine. Help yourself! It won't taste good when it gets cold later." "Alright!" Lucas nodded and had lunch, not saying anything else. After lunch, Judith took a shower. Staying up the whole night, she was very sleepy. After giving Lucas some instructions, she fell asleep on the sofa. Lucas was still reading the books he was interested in and did not disturb his mother's sleep. He would only occasionally look at his mother and smile. He had never liked to smile. Only in front of his mother would he smile happily like a child. He was shaped by his growth. He had no father since he was a child. Seeing his mother working so hard, he became quiet and obedient in case his mother worried. For ordinary people, families with twins were always like a battlefield. However, their family was more than happy and harmonious. Grandma, in particular, treated them as her own grandchildren and did her best to cook every meal. She was so nice to them. Lucas smiled happily and looked down at his book. Time ticked by. Frank was as anxious as a cat on hot bricks. But Judith slept soundly. She didn't wake up until the evening. The streetlamps were on, and the neon lights were dazzling. Seeing his mother wakes up, Lucas got up and handed her a glass of water. He smiled and said, "Mom, drink some water. Uncle Adam is already waiting for us at the barbecue stall. We had planned to eat French food, but you have been sleeping. It is better to go to the barbecue stall now.” “Alright...” Judith nodded, her voice a little hoarse. She felt much more comfortable after a nap. She looked out of the window and sighed. She had said that she was going to buy groceries to cook. However, she had slept for so long. She shook her head slightly

She looked at her son and said apologetically, “Lucas, I’m sorry. I fell asleep. I planned to make you some food.” “Mom, your health is more important!” Lucas shook his head. Judith smiled gently, “Lucas, with you by my side, I’m really happy. “Wait a minute. After I get dressed, we will go out. It is almost eight o’clock. You must be hungry, right?” Judith said as she put on her shoes, got up, and walked to the wardrobe. Lucas looked at her slender back and said, “Mom, I’m not hungry.” Seeing his mother sleeping soundly, he didn’t want to wake her up. Judith turned around and looked at her son with a happy smile, thinking, “This is what a happy life is like.” Every time she thought of her three children, she felt hopeful. She quickly changed her clothes and put on white sportswear. She looked simple and pure. Then she went out with Lucas

Frank had been waiting anxiously in the office. However, two uninvited people came. There was a knock at the door.

Love At First Night Chapter 208

Chapter 208

Someone knocked on the office door. Frank stood up excitedly and said, “Come in.”

To his surprise, the people who came in were Ann and Marilyn.

Frank glanced at Ann and then at Marilyn. He asked, “Mrs, Chaney, it’s late now. Why are you here?”

Marilyn was dressed in a graceful and luxurious rose-red suit with luxurious jewelry. She smiled and said, “Frank, I heard from Ann what happened between the two of you this morning. Ann was too tired. Don’t be angry. I’m here to apologize to you for Ann.”

Hearing this, Frank narrowed his eyes and looked at Ann with a sharp gaze. “Mrs. Chaney, you don’t have to do this. You don’t have to apologize. You can go back first. I have to work overtime.”

He said indifferently and sat back in his chair. From beginning to end, he didn’t even greet Ann.

He thought, “Gary should be back now. Blaine had a way to get the result today. Ann went to change her hair for another identification and spent a lot of money. Gary watched the entire process and personally monitored her. Unfortunately, she did not know that after she left, Gary changed her share. Therefore, the wolf has a winning game when the shepherds quarrel. The result of the identification will not be of Jodie

Only Blaine can give me the answer.”

Marilyn looked at him with concern. She put the bag on the table and said, “Frank, this is the soup that I brought for you. There is also porridge that you like. Work is important, but don’t tire yourself out.”

“Thank you for your concern, Mrs. Chaney!” Frank’s tone was indifferent and distant.

Ann glanced at the soup on the table and hesitated.

She smiled and took a few steps forward. She looked at Frank and said gently. “Frank, have some while it’s warm. It won’t taste good when it gets cold. This is made by my mother.” Ann said as she took out the thermos from the bag. She took out the prepared bowl with a smile. Just as she was about to get some in the bowl, the bowl suddenly slipped and the soup instantly splashed on Marilyn’s expensive clothes. Following her clothes, some soup dripped on Marilyn’s feet. Feeling the burning heat, Marilyn quickly took a step back and screamed. “Oh no! Mom, are you fine? The soup spilled a little. I didn’t hold it properly. Mom, did you get hurt?” Ann looked at her anxiously, flustered.

Frank looked at everything in front of him coldly. He sat quietly, not saying a word, as if he was watching a show that he hated very much. His dark eyes were full of disgust.

“Why are you so careless? I have spent more than two hours on it and you just spilled it. Frank didn’t even have time to take a sip.” Marilyn was cross and her tone was reproachful. She looked down at the dirt on her clothes and her face clouded over, “Mom, I’ll take you to the hospital. Don’t get scalded.” Ann looked anxious and worried.

Marilyn looked at her, who was anxious. She immediately softened. She shook her head and said, “No need. Wait for me here. I’ll go to the bathroom and will be back soon.”

Then Marilyn went out.

Love At First Night Chapter 209

Chapter 209

Ann saw Marilyn leave and a faint sneer of satisfaction crossed her face. She thought, “Mom, I’m sorry. I have to use your affection for Frank tonight.”

Ann turned around and glanced at Frank uneasily. When she met his cold gaze, she felt a little nervous. Frank was still sitting lazily and elegantly. He looked at her with a half-smile. Ann suddenly felt a little uneasy because she felt that he had seen through everything. She forced a smile and looked at Frank, saying, “Frank, I’m very sorry. I accidentally knocked over the soup my mother had been cooking for two hours. “After I went back, I cried. My mother saw me crying. She was very worried about me and kept asking me what happened. “I could only tell her about the thing that happened in the morning. She made soup tonight and wanted to send it to you...” Ann did not continue saying, but Frank knew what she meant. After Frank heard this, he just sneered and did not speak. Frank thought, “How hypocritical you are! Gary has reported all of your whereabouts to me today. Otherwise, I’ll be cheated by you.” He said, “You don’t have to apologize to me. As an employee, you’ll be subject to a term of probation of three months. I am not an unreasonable person. I was too impulsive in the morning. I should not swear at you.” His voice dripped sarcasm. Frank thought, “What a clumsy performance! The more you say, the more I feel sick. You have taken Jodie’s place for so many years, and now you even want to stop me from finding Jodie. I won’t let you go.” Frank rocked backwards and forwards on his chair, looking charming. Ann was deeply attracted to him. It was rare for Ann to see such a wild Frank. The Frank she saw was always cold, ice-like, and distant.

She smiled gently and said, “Thank you, Frank. I will definitely work harder in the future.”

Ann glanced behind her. She was a little worried. If Gary did not come back now, Marilyn would definitely suspect Ann.

After all, she began to prepare for the play tonight at noon. Ann was a little anxious. Suddenly, she heard footsteps behind her. She gave a smile because she knew that Gary had returned. Ann thought, “Frank, i’ll give you a disappointing answer tonight. You’ll have given up on Jodie, right?” No matter how powerful Ann’s parents were, they were not as powerful as Frank. As long as Frank did not interfere in this matter, Ann would have a way to make her parents unable to find Jodie forever. Ann thought, “I can’t let Jodie go back to the Chaney family.” Gary shouted from outside the door, “Frank, I’m back.”

Frank didn’t say anything. Instead, he sat quietly and waited for Gary to come in.

When Gary came in and saw that Ann was also there, he was shocked. He asked, “Miss Chaney, why are you here at this hour?” Today, Gary had a busy day because of Ann. He was completely exhausted. He didn’t expect that Ann would be here to get some information.

Love At First Night Chapter 210

Chapter 210

Frank asked coldly, “How is it?”

Gary flashed a look at Frank. He thought, “What do you mean? Should I tell the truth?” He sighed in his mind. Gary thought, “I’m so stupid! Ann is here, so naturally, I shouldn’t tell the truth.” “She’s not Mrs. Chaney’s daughter.” Gary’ pretended to look at Frank with a disappointed expression. “Are you sure?” Frank frowned and looked at Gary. He gave Gary a big thumbs up in his mind. Gary said, “Frank, I’m sorry. You have to continue to go back and have nightmares. If you are lucky, Jodie will definitely go to your dreams and tell you where she is, then you can find her quickly. Ann was relieved when she heard what Gary said. She looked at Frank gratefully and said with a sad face, “Frank, are you looking for Jodie? So many years have passed, but we still don’t know where she is.” “You don’t have to worry about where she is. You can go back now!” Frank’s tone was cold and he looked at Ann coldly. He hated Ann very much. “Okay! I’ll leave now.” After getting a satisfactory answer, Ann felt very happy.

She thought, “Frank, you’ve been disappointed again and again. You should have given up finding her, right?”

She has been dead for many years. It’s impossible for you to find her.”

“Gary, why are you here too?” Marilyn came back at this time. Gary smiled at Marilyn and said, “Mrs. Chaney, I’m here to work overtime. If I don’t work overtime, Frank will fire me.”

Marilyn smiled in agreement and looked at Frank with a worried face, saying, “Yes. He is dedicated to his work. He even can’t look after himself well.” It seemed that Frank had never been happy since Mila left and Jodie was lost. Marilyn knew that Frank was very pitiful.

Therefore, she had never blamed Frank for accidentally losing Jodie.

Marilyn didn’t like Gina because Gina had destroyed Frank’s warm home. However, the Taylor Group and the Chaney family had a cooperative relationship, and they were neighbors. Therefore, Marilyn had to deal with Gina even though she disliked Gina very much Marilyn clearly knew that the people who maintained their marriage for the sake of responsibility were acting every day like actors. Those people could not even express their feelings at will. Marilyn felt that the Taylors must be very tired. At least, she and Collin loved each other. Ann smiled at Frank and said in a sweet voice, “Frank, Gary, we will be leaving now.” Frank didn’t even raise his head. He was still sitting there with a cold expression on his face.

This time, Gary watched Marilyn and Ann enter the elevator before he closed the office door. Back in the office, Gary sat down on the sofa and took a deep breath. He felt very tired.

Gary sighed

He tugged at his tie and gasped for breath, his chest heaving.
