/ Fit For Your Love

Donald's face turned cold instantly.

"Leave him alone!"

As soon as he finished speaking, a careless voice came, "Dad, I heard that this land was sold. How much did you get?"

Olivia looked over and a man in a navy blue suit walked in.

The man's eyes lit up when he saw Olivia.

"Didn't you say the employees were dismissed? Why are there still employees?"

And she was so pretty.

"Beauty, when did you come to our factory? Why haven't I seen you?"

Olivia frowned and said to Donald, "You guys talk. I'll go out first."

Donald nodded.

When Olivia left, the man looked at her until she was out of sight.

Dad, when did you hire such a beautiful woman? I like her...

"Ah!"

Donald picked up the stick and hit Bill.

Bill screamed in pain, "Dad, what are you doing?"

"What am I doing? You indulged yourself in gambling and frequenting the brothels. The Johnson Family's business has been ruined by you. Today, we can only survive by selling land. Since you still have the nerve to come back, I will hit you to death today!"

"Dad. Dad. Calm down..."

Olivia listened to the sound inside and frowned.

She stopped not far from outside.

The Old Master was old, so she was afraid that something might happen.

When Ms Parker saw her here, she smiled embarrassedly.

"Miss Hadley, sorry to let you see that."

Olivia shook her head.

"Let's keep an eye on it in case anything happens inside."

Ms Parker nodded, then sighed, "What a Visit to read the newest content, everyone! and said, "I think your young boss is very young.He looks less than forty.'

"That's right.Mr.Johnson is very fond of his precious son Visit to read the newest content, everyone! age.He was too nice to his son that his son was spoiled and turned into a debt collector.Bill must have come here for the compensation of this land.' Olivia didn't know what to say.

For a person who was idling around, drinking, whoring and gambling, he was capable of doing anything improper.

Olivia said, "Ms Parker, please keep an eye.I'll wait here."

She was an outsider, so it was better not to get involved in these matters.

"All right."

Ms Parker went outside the factory.

Olivia stood and Visit to read the newest content, everyone! taught her in the past two days.

Suddenly, an angry and powerless roar came from behind, "Stop!"

Olivia immediately turned around and saw Ms Parker holding the Old Master.

He was very anxious.

"Old Master, calm down!"

The Old Master bent down and pointed at Bill, who ran out.

His eyes were red with anger.

"You leave me the things!"

Olivia immediately looked at Bill, who was holding something in his arms.

She could not see it clearly, but it must be important according to the Old Master's reaction.

She didn't think much about it and immediately chased after Bill.

"Leave the thing behind!"

Bill wouldn't leave anything behind.

Anyway, his father wouldn't give him the money from selling the land, so he simply took the heirloom away.

This heirloom was worth more than the land.

Bill was about to get into the car with the item in his arms, but Olivia caught him.

"Give it back to the Mr. Johnson."

"Hi pretty girl! Who are you? Do you know what I have in my hand? The Johnsons's heirloom!"

If it weren't for Olivia being a beauty, Bill would have thrown Olivia away.

Olivia clutched his arm, her eyes firm.

"I don't know what this is only know it belongs to Mr. Johnson. You can't take it with you."

Bill smiled.

"Whatever belongs to my father is also mine. Who are you? Pretty girl, are you the old man's lover? Don't stay with him. Why not choose me? I promise that I'll offer you a comfortable life for the rest of your life. How about that?"

As he spoke, he was about to touch Olivia's face but was beaten off by Olivia.

"Give it to me!"

"Ah, you really want it the hard way?"

Bill pushed Olivia away and opened the door to get in the car.

Olivia immediately grabbed him and pulled him down.

The two fought on the road.

Bill did not expect Olivia to be so difficult to deal with, so he turned ruthless.

He put a palm on Olivia's shoulder and pushed her to the ground.

Olivia fell in the middle of the road. Just then, a luxury car drove by...

The screech of brakes pierced the sky.

Bill looked at the front of the car.

Olivia lay on the ground, motionless.

His face turned pale.

He got in the car and ran away.

In the luxury car, Everett leaned forward because of inertia, but in just a second he quickly opened the door and got out of the car.

Olivia lay on the ground, curled up, holding something in her arms, as if holding a child tightly.

Her eyes were closed and her face was pale.

And her hand was pressed against the wheel.

Everett's eyes were cold and he bent over to pick her up.

Olivia was waiting for the car to hit her, but the screeching of the brakes quieted down unexpectedly.

She did not dare to move or open her eyes.

However, as her body soared into the air, a strange and familiar air rushed in, and she opened her eyes.

The first thing that came to her sight was a cold and hard chin, thin lips slightly pursed.

And without looking up, she knew who was holding her now.

It was Everett.

Olivia immediately broke free of Everett and shook as she stood on the ground.

But she didn't stay any longer.

She looked at him coldly and turned around very quickly.

Just as Ms Parker was helping Donald out, she saw her and called, "Miss Hadley!"

Olivia trotted over and gave the thing in her hand to Donald.

"Old boss, take a look. Is Visit to read the newest content, everyone! hands and opened the box.

A beautifully shaped porcelain plate appeared.

Her eyes sparkled.

He could tell it was priceless at first sight.

"It...It's this..."

Donald's eyes Visit to read the newest content, everyone! well. Don't leave it where the young master knows about it in the future."

Donald nodded a few times.

"Thank you, Miss Hadley."

"It's okay, I just..."

"Ah, Miss Hadley, you're hurt!"

Ms Parker pointed at her arm.

Olivia looked over and saw a large bruise from her elbow to her wrist.

Now the blood was flowing out.

A tingling pain passed through Olivia.

Donald hurriedly said, "Ms Parker, take Miss Hadley to the hospital immediately!"

Olivia waved her hand.

"It's okay, it's okay. It's a minor injury. Ms Parker should take the old boss home first. I'll go to the hospital myself"

She wasn't hit, but she was scratched by the car.

Fortunately, by the time the wheel was about to hit her, the car had slowed down.

“No, I insist that Ms Parker take you to the hospital!”

Donald didn't know how Olivia got this thing back from that scumbag.

But he knew that if it wasn't for Olivia, it would be gone now.

But before he could say anything more, Olivia said, “Old boss, I'm just helping you get this thing back temporarily, but I suggest you put it in a safe place now.”
Donald was silent.

Olivia said to Ms Parker, “Ms Parker, you stay with the old boss. I'll hail a taxi on the phone. The car will be here soon. I'm fine. You don't have to worry.”

Ms Parker didn't know who to listen to and looked at Donald.

Donald seemed to already know what to do.

He clenched the box in his hands and said to Olivia, “Miss Hadley, I know what to do now. I won't say much now. I'll thank you until I've finished dealing with it”

Olivia curved her lips.

“Okay.”

Ms Parker and Donald left.

Olivia took out her phone and hailed a taxi.

At this time, a driver in a suit stopped in front of her.

“Miss Hadley, please get in the car.”

Olivia looked at the driver, then at the car.

The car that had just parked in the middle of the road now parked on the side of the road.

The man who had been standing in the middle of the road was gone.

But she knew that Everett was in the car.

“No need”

Olivia rejected coldly and placed an order on her phone.

But the driver didn't leave and added, "I have to take responsibility for the accident that happened today. Please get in the car, Miss Hadley. I'll take you to the hospital."

Olivia looked up and said, "No need. It has nothing to do with you. It's my own fault. I'll face the music."

Even if it wasn't for her, she wouldn't let the driver take the blame.

Because she didn't want anything to do with Everett.

Unexpectedly, the driver said, "It's my fault. I have to bear it. Please don't make things difficult for me, Miss Hadley"

Olivia said, frowning, "I didn't make things difficult for you. If I do, I'll call the police now.'

The driver said, "If I don't take you to the hospital, I'll lose my job"

Olivia looked at the back of the car.

'Everett, in order to satisfy your own desires, you never consider other people's feelings" Olivia thought to herself.

Never.

"Okay, take me to the hospital."

"Thank you, Miss Hadley.' As Olivia got into the passenger seat, the driver got in and started the car.

The car headed forward.

The scenery outside the window flashed quickly, and the sun was scorching the ground.

But no matter how hot it was outside, inside the car was chilly.

It was so cold as if it was Visit to read the newest content, everyone! seemed to be unconscious.

She pulled out tissue in pain and wiped the blood off her hands.

She didn't want the blood to dirty Visit to read the newest content, everyone! her.

Everett sat in the back of the car with his legs crossed and his hands clasped on his legs.

He leaned back and looked at the person in the mirror, his eyes dark and cold.

Wiping off the blood, Olivia leaned back in her chair and looked out the window.

Although she looked out of the window, her eyes empty.

She had thought that she would not stay with Everett in peace.

But now, it was not the case.

They could live with each other in peace, but they are not even as good as strangers.

The car stopped at the hospital, and Olivia left without hesitation.

It was as if she was tired of staying a second longer.

The driver looked at the person in the back seat.

Mr. Weston said nothing more than to send Miss Hadley to the hospital.

Everett looked out the window at the person, who was thin, straight, stubborn, and cold, just like she left the civil affairs bureau two years ago.

Her eyes narrowed, her hands curled up on her knees, and blue veins stood out on the back of her hand.

Olivia registered for surgery to dress the wound.

As soon as she was done with the wound, her cell phone rang.

It was from Brayden.

Olivia answered the phone in pain.

"Brayden."

"Olivia, where are you now?"

"I am learning embroidery at the factory with my old owner."

"Are you still learning?"

"Well, what's wrong?"

"It's noon. Aren't you going to have lunch?"

Olivia was stunned and looked at the time.

It was twelve o'clock. It was so fast.

"I forgot the time. I'll eat later."

"You're doing it again. Eat on time. Go back to the hotel and get something to eat."

"Okay, I'll go back now."

After hanging up the phone, Olivia left the hospital, hailed a taxi, and went back to the hotel.

On this side, Brayden, who stood outside Olivia's room, with a disturbed look on his face.

She didn't take her health seriously as soon as he wasn't around.

Taking a look at the watch, he guessed that she would arrive in twenty minutes.

Putting the luggage at the door, Brayden looked in front of the corridor.

He was expecting how surprised she would be when she saw him later.

Brayden smiled at the thought of it.

But soon, Brayden's smile froze as he saw someone who walked down the corridor.

In a black suit, black shoes, white shirt, he had great charisma as if he just finished an international conference.

Everett.

Brayden's hand tightened in an instant.

Everett stopped and looked at him, who was wearing a white shirt, silver trousers.

With a suit jacket on his wrist, he stood beside a suitcase.

It seemed that he was busy traveling.

They look at each other, and the atmosphere was wired.

But in just two seconds, Everett walked over, stopped outside the door next to him, swiped his room card, and walked in.

Brayden watched the door close and his face sank in horror.

Why was he here? Brayden called Olivia immediately.

The taxi stopped just outside the hotel.

Olivia got out of the car.

“Brayden.”

“Are you there?”

“Outside the hotel. What’s the matter?”

His voice didn’t sound right.

“It’s okay. Come up,” he said.

“Up...”

She pushed the button for the elevator.

Olivia frowned as he asked her to come up.

Was he here? Olivia walked into the elevator quickly with nervousness.

The elevator stopped on the third floor.

Olivia went out, turned the corner, and saw Brayden standing in front of her.

She was surprised.

“Brayden...’ she exclaimed.

Brayden looked at her in an instant, and his eyes quickly fell on her hand wrapped with bandage.

His Visit to read the newest content, everyone! to your hand?” he asked.

Olivia was wearing a long-sleeved shirt and casual pants today.

But her hand was injured and bandaged.

Her long- sleeves Visit to read the newest content, everyone! clear at a glance.

Something occurred to Brayden as he clenched his fists and said in a deep voice, "Is it because of Everett?"

His face was cold and his eyes were burning with anger.

Olivia's eyes widened.

"How did you...?" she asked.

He quickly stopped talking, pursed her lips, and said, "It has nothing to do with him."

It had nothing to do with Everett.

Olivia didn't want to talk about it and asked, "How did you...?"

Before she could finish speaking, Brayden let go of her and went outside Everett's room to knock on the door.

"Open the door!"

Losing his mind, he cried out.

He said he would not allow her to be hurt by anyone again, especially Everett.

But he had only been gone for two days, and she was injured.

He could not bear it, nor could he! Olivia was stunned for a while before she figure out what he was doing.

She quickly came over and asked, "Brayden, what's wrong with you?"

It was the first time she had seen him who lost his mind.

As soon as she finished speaking, the door opened and Brayden punched in.

Olivia covered her mouth and exclaimed, "Brayden, you're crazy!"

There were guests living next to them.

It had nothing to do with them.

Did he know what he was doing? Olivia went to stop Brayden, only to be stunned to see the person inside.

Everett.

He rubbed his thumb across the corner of his mouth, his fingertips reddened.

That was blood.

Olivia's heart thumped.

Everett, why was he here? He...

Brayden raised his fist and aimed at Everett again.

Olivia shouted, "Brayden, stop!"

Her eyes were dazed, but it was only a few seconds.

Not knowing what happened, she saw that an Brayden was pinned against the wall by Everett in an instant.

With his arms around Brayden's neck, Everett looked at Brayden with anger.

It was also Olivia's first time seeing Everett in this way.

She rushed over and exclaimed, "Everett, let go of Brayden!"

Brayden stared at Everett with red eyes.

"Olivia, go back to your room. This is our business. Stay out of it," he yelled.

Men settled things between men.

How could Olivia let them go like this? Both of them, who were sensible, lost their minds today!

"If you guys sit down in peace, I will stay out, but what are you guys doing now?"

They were just messing around! Olivia looked at Everett with anger and hatred in her eyes, but she tried not to show it.

"Everett, do you need me to remind you, who are you grasping now?"

That was his nephew.

His nephew related by blood! Everett glanced at Olivia with a sneer in his eyes.

"Do you want me to remind you of your status now?" he asked.

The coldness and sharpness in his eyes pierced Olivia's heart like a knife.

Olivia's face turned pale in an instant.

He was reminding her that she was his ex-wife.

Ex-wife...

The heartbroken word for her.

Brayden roared angrily, breaking free of Everett, and attacked him.

He had gone too far.

But just as Brayden waving his fist at Everett, Olivia blocked Everett.

It was too late for Brayden to stop, and fist punched Olivia hard.

Olivia groaned in pain and fell to the ground.

But just as she was about to fall to the ground, a pair of strong arms held her.

Brayden looked at the person in Everett's arms.

Brayden's face then turned pale.

"Olivia..."

He squatted down and reached out his hand to touch her but it was beaten away, accompanied by a heavy roar of "fuck off".

Brayden fell to the ground and smiled at Olivia's pale face and trembling eyelashes.

He knew she loved Everett, but his heart ached to see her defend Everett so much.

He was heartbroken! Everett picked up Olivia and Visit to read the newest content, everyone! lowered his head, looked at the hand holding his shirt, and then to Olivia.

Olivia opened her eyes.

Her eyes showed painful feelings, but Visit to read the newest content, everyone! Everett's heart trembled.

It was like being held by a hand, out of his control.

"This beat, I'll regard it as a way to repay the kindness you gave me that year. From now on, we'll have nothing to do with each other, okay?"

The smile on Brayden's face disappeared and he looked at Olivia in Everett's arms.

His eyes gradually lit up.

Everett looked at Olivia, his palms tightened in an instant, and his arms wrapped around Olivia hard.

He wanted to strangle her to death.

Olivia smiled, "Is that okay? Everett."

Everett's eyes darkened, and endless undercurrents were surging.

For a few seconds, Olivia felt like he was going to eat her up.

But not at all.

Everett looked at her, his expression changing in a few seconds, returning to normal.

It was so heartless, so indifferent.

And it added a tinge of sarcasm.

"My kindness couldn't be repaid by such a small thing."

She was dreaming! He let go of Olivia.

Brayden immediately hugged her.

Olivia leaned in his arms, and her eyes were red with pain.

"Then what do you want?"

How could he stop interfering in her life and let her live her own life? Everett looked at the anger and hatred in her eyes, he curled his lips and said word by word, "Don't think about getting married. The woman once belonged to me could never marry others though I don't want her anymore."

Brayden roared, "Everett!"

Everett looked at him, his eyes half-narrowed, and a chill shot out.

"If you want to marry her, then be prepared to bet on your bright future." Olivia smiled.

It was so powerless and desperate.

“Brayden, let’s go...”

She didn’t want to say anything.

She really regretted marrying Everett before...

“Olivia? Olivia? Olivia!”

Olivia fainted, and Brayden’s face changed immediately.

He picked her up and ran out.

Everett looked at the person who ran out, and the calm in his eyes disappeared in an instant.

His eyes then revealed the possession and plunder desire that had never been seen before.
