

Forgive My Ex-husband Chapter 160

After Melinda went to a gay bar, she seriously suspected that her superior was a gay, but she was not the kind of talkative person. On the contrary, it was Victor who asked her to observe others and remind her of something, which helped her to come up with some ideas.

However, this was her first time to try such a topic. It was inevitable that she was not confident. After coming back home, she recorded what she had talked with Victor in the bar.

This was the most contradictory article that Melinda had ever written. From the contradiction, homosexuality was a rare love in the eyes of most people.

Loving someone was something that seemed great but insignificant. No one knew who he would fall in love with in life. Falling in love was not a mistake. Every genuine love was worthy of respect.

However, at the same time, Melinda criticized many players who thought that they would not be accepted by others to abuse themselves, and they would hurt others.

The article was full of comments and praise, but she told everyone in details that they were no different from ordinary people. The family members were concerned about the descendants of the family and it was easy to solve the problem with the progress of science.

The article was pretty freely written. After coming to her sense, it was already three o'clock in the morning. Fortunately, it was weekend the next day, so she didn't have to go to work.

When Victor received Melinda's call while he was racketing around, he was so shocked that he almost fell down from the sofa.

"Do you want to make interview? Are you kidding me? You're not a journalist." Victor pushed the beautiful girl aside and drank a glass of beer on the table to calm down himself.

After listening to the sound of the karaoke over there gradually quieted down, Melinda continued, "That's right. Everyone can say the thing I write, but I think that there's no an example. You must have someone you know, and it's all up to you."

After thinking for a while, Victor agreed. With his help, Melinda soon completed her report. During the work day, she had passed the department review and was going to release it in the next magazine.

"Melinda, I didn't expect that you would write such a thing." Maggie took a cup of hot drink in front of Melinda. Holding the cup in her hands, Melinda found that her article had been forwarded widely.

It was not a big sensation, but was a sensation.

"I didn't know where to start. Mr. Cheng helped me a lot. I can't disappoint him, right?" Melinda continued, smiling.

Melinda also felt that Victor's attitude was strange, but she would take the work seriously.

"You wrote it very well and was emotional. I haven't told you that my elder brother is a gay. He has been living outside alone for many years." Maggie looked out of the window. Although she was smiling happily, her eyes were full of missing for her brother.

Looking at Maggie, Melinda didn't know how to comfort her. Because of the investigation, she knew that they were not the only suffering, but also the people close to them.

Sometimes the words were too easy to be described.

"You have a good relationship with your brother, right?"
