

Forgive My Ex-husband Chapter 163

"Mr. Cheng, is it funny?" Seeing that Victor was still grinning cheekily, Melinda was angry. He had no idea that he was the one to blame for what had happened.

Melinda's serious expression confused Victor. He poured water for her and seemed very pleased.

"This question is very serious. It's not funny at all. I came here today to talk about it. I have read the draft. It is not that bad. And it might be because the colleagues have higher requirement on you, right? You happen to have a gap in this period. Next time you improve it, it will be better. I believe in you."

Victor analyzed carefully, but found that instead of getting serious as usual, Melinda was mocking him, as if she had heard some kind of joke.

The smile at the corner of her mouth looked frightening.

A beauty who had always been graceful and sensible would become very powerful when she mocked someone. It was until this moment that Victor finally felt it.

"Higher requirement? Are they entitled to question me?" Melinda said in a sarcastic tone, and those vicious words were still lingering in her ears.

Victor became more cautious when she spoke like this.

"Melinda, we are so familiar with each other. What do you want to say? Just say it out." Victor hesitated. He didn't know how to deal with this woman, but the way Melinda looked at him made him timid.

"Mr. Cheng, we are not familiar," Melinda said with a smile. Though what her colleague said was harsh, she had to admit that there was something she did not handle well.

If she could be more tough, she wouldn't have been bothered by these things.

Victor's mouth twisted in disbelief. He wondered whether Melinda was at her period, where was the gentle and kind her?

"Mr. Cheng, if you want to talk about the manuscript, I have known it. Next time, I will not let everyone down." Melinda stood up, bowed slightly, and straightened her back.

"Mr. Cheng, I hope you will not do anything inappropriate anymore. I really like this job." Melinda turned around and said with a smile before leaving.

She was tired of those schemes. She didn't want to leave this place which she had been accustomed to for a long time for some ridiculous reasons.

Victor was still a little confused, but he also read some information from the attitude of Melinda.

"What's going on in the editing department?" Unable to think of an answer, Victor asked his assistant. The assistant had heard of it and told him everything he knew.

He even despised Melinda.

the office. Thinking of magazine." Victor sent Melinda a message. After a short while, he received have anonymously submitted it to the competitor company." A be no problem if her own company didn't use her article, she she just felt happy. She was a qualified woman, would she be afraid that she could not survive in this industry? Of even when her own company knew clearly it was hers. She knew that the company would not make a the finished draft was not as good as the last one which was denied. Since there was a dark curtain for the draft, be scolded by his leader the next time when he had a meeting. If this happened a few more times, he would also up in the end, no matter a crooked shoe." Melinda went to work every day as usual. Others' attitude towards her would be present, but Calmed down, she took out the folder from the table and placed it on the seat. She that she was really who had planned to tease Melinda got kept talking about the problems that they had encountered at work this week.

this week," Victor said. Those people were your talents in the company and make yourself more successful in the company. Just like Melinda, with her own talents, she our company to ask Melinda to write the article. So I hope everyone here will try to let that the reason why Melinda could become so successful now was her own talent, and the reason why they didn't foundation for himself and given a group of people a way out.

saying those words like a tongue twister, those people who were smart enough had figured out the purpose of

of her efforts and talents.

with big problems, but the rules cannot be broken. Since it was rejected raised her head and gave him a meaningful look. She felt that the message she had just received might not too shy, he would not stay in this known the reasons. I'll seriously tell someone that don't ruin the company's atmosphere. Don't bring any rumors or ruin others' reputation. We all know the law.

Elsa, Victor gave her a sudden strong pressure, and she froze in case was clear to all.

by Victor,

now on. Put such imagination easy-going leader. He used to make fun of his subordinates, but none their heads, except Melinda.