

Forgive My Ex-husband Chapter 169

For a moment, Emily felt that Jonas's antipathy and eyes were like nightmares in her heart. The people around her were laughing and talking, but in her eyes, they were all mocking her.

It was the first time that Emily had felt overconfident in the face of Jonas.

Her confidence all collapsed at this moment. She also realized one thing that Jonas was not the same person as she had known. There was a woman called Melinda in his heart.

"Clap." With a loud noise, the glass in Emily's hand was smashed to the corner. The sudden sound attracted many people's attention, and the girl who covered her eyebrows stood up from her seat with anger.

It was a lie hidden in the eyes of Emily.

She had many ways to separate them, just like this time, the divorce.

It didn't matter as long as she got what she wanted by hook or by crook.

Lowering her head, Emily walked out of the bar. It was a sunny day, which was rare to see. She looked up at the sky, only to find it dazzling.

'When did I become so unhappy with the sunlight?'

Ever since she chose to be an actress, it had become a required course for her to pay attention to privacy. Although she was eager to be paid attention every day, she was very cautious.

Now she was not that famous, but she still got in the car and left in a hurry. Recently, the company had signed a new comer for her agent, and the agent's attitude towards her became colder again. She had received so little work recently.

Emily controlled the steering wheel and drove aimlessly in the city. The last place where she stopped was the company of Melinda.

There was a cameraman and an assistant liked girl with lots of things in hand following Melinda. The three got on a commercial vehicle.

"Mel, give me that thing." The cameraman got on the car first. Seeing that Melinda could not get on with her luggage, the man offered to help her. Melinda handed the things to him, and looked around with suspicious eyes.

She felt like there was a burning sight behind her, and it seemed that the person who was staring at her wanted to swallow her.

At the sight of the car parking not far away, Melinda had an answer in her mind.

'What is Emily doing here? Does she come to make trouble?' Melinda muttered in her heart, but did not take it seriously. These people had nothing to do with her now.

"Mel, why don't you get in the car?" The cameraman yelled at the top of his lungs. After Melinda regained her composure, she held the car frame and got into the car. There were three rows of seats and a lot of food were placed at the back. Today, their destination was the orphanage.

These were gifts for the children inside.
