

Forgive My Ex-husband Chapter 184

After Emily left, Sandy collapsed weakly on the chair. The old chair creaked, which made people more annoyed.

Everyone knew the report was same as Melinda's, but its influence hadn't spread much. Sandy continued to watch the trend of public opinions. Thinking of the threat from Emily just now, she thought that it couldn't continue to spread.

If things went on like this, it would be difficult to wind the matter up. Perhaps Melinda was ruined, but she would not have a good result. Both sides were injured in this battle, which was not what she wanted to see.

Sandy sat in the room, lost in thought. Unknowingly, she had put herself in a situation like a person who is going to lose her life.

The news was broadcast on the TV. It was neither hot nor cold, but Sandy felt as if she had been soaked in water, sweat all over her body.

Sandy gasped and drew a few tissues to wipe the sweat from her face. Emily's threat still echoed in her ears, as if reminding a fact that she was extremely unwilling to admit.

"It can't go on like this." Sandy thought that she could not be taken advantage of again. Otherwise, Emily would get more information that could threaten her. It was a bad circles for Sandy.

She didn't have to sacrifice herself like this.

When Sandy made it clear to herself, she let out a long sigh of relief. Then she began to think about what she should do next, as well as how to stay away from Emily.

In fact, Sandy had thought that she should be calm as she didn't want to threat Emily with her bad behaviors which can make a book.

But Emily was broad-minded and didn't care about that at all. Sandy had only one purpose now, and that was to make Melinda fall into despair.

"Melinda must have been bothered by that recently, too." It was self-evident. Melinda was the one who wanted this matter must have ended sooner than anyone else. Thus, Sandy thought it over to have a talk with Melinda and get a large sum of money from Melinda.

Sandy really admired herself. This was definitely a good way. As long as money came, everything would be solved. Even if Emily wanted to threaten Sandy, it wouldn't work.

Sandy said excitedly and played a joke with herself. Her dressing style was loose, but this time she put on a more powerful makeup, but her heavy bangs suppressed her momentum.

With a simple handbag on her hand, and only a cellphone in her hand, Sandy went out of the door. But when she arrived downstairs, she was surrounded by several people. Several people in black suits blocked her way.
