

Forgive My Ex-husband Chapter 214

"Auntie Yao, I can take care of myself." Melinda was still unwilling, and she had decided that she would resign and write her script. Then she would find a nanny to take care of her.

When she said this, she avoided Queena's eyes and looked directly out of the window. Her floor was low, and she could just see the lush trees outside, and the emerald color seemed to be able to wash people's eyes.

Queena didn't get angry, but held Melinda's hand with an understanding smile, "I know what you are worried about."

Melinda's eyelashes trembled, but she did not speak. She pursed her lips into a line. There was a breeze outside the room, and the leaves were swaying. She was infatuated with what was happening outside, as if nothing had happened to her.

Therefore, she just pretended not to hear what Queena had said.

However, these tricks couldn't avoid Queena's eyes. She sighed in her heart, but here really needed a mediator.

"The things you are worried about won't happen. I know well about Jonas. He doesn't like Emily."

When Melinda heard the name of Emily, she raised her eyebrows and was unhappy. Queena knew she was right when she saw this.

All of Melinda's worries came from Emily and her uncertainty for Jonas's love to her.

"You know, because of the relationship between me and his father, he is very sensitive and resistant to love," Queena said in a low voice. Thinking of her failed marriage, she didn't know where to begin.

And the most regretful thing for all these absurd things was that she hurt Jonas. Therefore, he distanced himself from love, which caused many misunderstandings between him and Melinda.

A person would feel painful when he or she was confused with his or her own feelings.

"Linda, no matter what, let's go home. Even if it's not for your health, you have to consider for the baby. You can't bear it, can you?"

Queena said a lot, but she came to the subject. She knew very well about the mother's love for her child, and that kind of love for her child was something that an outsider could not understand.

"Auntie Yao, everyone's feelings are different. As you said, I want to protect this child, so I won't be willful either. I can take care of him."

Melinda was not cold and not distant, but her attitude was tough.

She was a typical southern beauty, very graceful, with tenderness in her eyes, even if she was angry, which made people feel sorry for her.

like this topic, so he skipped over the topic, so that Melinda wouldn't was a knowledgeable woman. Even though she was quick witted, the time at a fixed time. He was still in his suit and tying a tie meticulously, as if he had come shoes were, a loud sound could be heard even if he walked lightly. He you are here too." Just as Jonas pushed the door open, he saw his mother sitting just got off work?" Queenena was delighted when she saw her son coming. She greeted him in a he reached out to take off his tie and shirt buttons as if he was home, so as to relax his nerves of the

should go home and have Queenena. In fact, it was still early, but he needed to have something to get along with Melinda, so he could only send Jonas had something to say to Melinda, she did not stay any longer.

have something to deal with at home, so I go back first. Linda, if Melinda didn't feel tired of it, so after listening quietly, she nodded and saw her off.

the door. When he looked back, Melinda

how are you doing ups and downs. In the business world, he was good at acting and hiding his emotions. At this time, sat beside the bed, picked up the fruit in

His wife was in the hospital, and he was busy with work during the day. And once he got off work, he came to accompany her

Jonas was doing. He cleaned the fruit carefully, placed it with a fork, wiped the water under the plate and put it next to her. Then he began to tell eat first. I'll clean the closet for you." Jonas placed the fruit plate on her hand, a little embarrassed. But Jonas was very calm, and even need to sort out the private items, and even a detailed inspection, even if there a short while, many of her clothes were eliminated by hell are you doing?" Melinda looked at him in shock and she finally couldn't help shouting.

"What's wrong?"

angry. This business man lowered the average value of the people in the world, which made her sad, but she still and said shyly, while Jonas suddenly you to he spoke, he began to clean up the whole ward. He went to the bed and found that the bunch of flowers was a little withered. He threw the flowers into the trash trash bin by Jonas now had a good. You don't need to throw was not pregnant, she would certainly have a shrew to argue