

Forgive My Ex-husband Chapter 230

Kent had got used to his working style now. So he didn't need to be as busy as he was before. He left when he said goodbye to his subordinates in the afternoon.

Kent had the freedom to work, so it was not a big problem for him to occasionally be late or leave early. Moreover, he was the leader of such a group who were always charmed by him.

Those who saw him busy were eager to see him skip work and have a good rest every day.

But when facing tough things, they hoped Kent would be on duty all the time.

All in all, in addition to thinking hard about news and articles every day, they were struggling about how to make Kent have the best rest.

Kent went to the pharmacy to buy some tonic and fruits, and then set out according to the address given by Melinda.

He was a little nervous. Having known Melinda for such a long time, he rarely saw her family. But this made him feel like meeting her parents before marriage. He hoped that he could get a good favor from her father and win a key for him to win the heart of Melinda.

In his impression, Vern was always serious with a poker face. Although he spoiled Melinda, he always hid that behind his sternness.

At the building where Vern was, there happened to be a parking lot. Kent always pursued perfection in doing things. So when a car was parked, it was in the middle of the parking space steadily.

As soon as he unfastened his seat belt, he saw a group of people walking out of the stairway. They were in black and looked fierce. Their eyes were still staring around.

They were all tall and strong. Suddenly, Kent's pupils narrowed sharply, and his eyes were full of shock. Among the big men, there was a man in tawny clothes, and he was Melinda's father.

After they had tied the man to the car, Kent had no time to think more about it. He fastened the seat belt, started the car and followed them. He quickly memorized the plate number and the specific features of the man.

"Hello, is it 110? I have to report a case. There were kidnapers in the Xia apartment located at the..." Kent told all the information he knew to the police and reminded the police to set out as soon as possible. He would follow them carefully to avoid losing their positions.

His car was relatively common and low-key, so those people did not notice that a little tail was following behind them.

In the CEO office of Soaring Group, Jonas was in a good mood these days, which was sensed by everyone. Although his face was still cold, he was not that indifferent.

William told Ted Guan that sometimes when boss was lost in thought, he would suddenly laugh out.

At first, he was scared of him, but later he found boss a little cute.

Ted was promoted to a personal assistant by a few accidental encounters, when he completed the tasks perfectly, and now he was one of the important assistant of Jonas like William.

Although they were doing different things, they were both equally important.

But at this time, the face of Jonas was quite gloomy, and the emotionless eyes made people tremble with fear.
