

Forgive My Ex-husband Chapter 249

As long as one was alive, he or she would have many passersby. Kent was definitely an important part in Melinda's life even though he was just a passerby now.

"You don't like him, do you?" Jonas grabbed Melinda's arm and trembled with excitement. It was a sudden feeling of happiness.

"Yes,"

Melinda said firmly. She was no longer confused, so she could clearly see her heart. However, she also felt that there was a kind of feeling, which had nothing to do with love.

Probably that was how Kent was to her. He was important to her, but he was not necessary to her. As this time, Melinda could turn away arrogantly when facing Janet's abuse.

But all of this had happened to her when facing Queena in the past, and she bore it down without saying a word.

Her simple answer made Jonas act like a child happily. Unable to suppress his inner joy, he held Melinda up and spun around in the same place.

"Linda, I'm so happy," Jonas exclaimed. Frightened by his sudden movement, Melinda closed her eyes and wrapped her arms around his neck tightly. A smile appeared on her face.

"Stop it, Jonas! The baby!" Such simple happiness made Melinda a little absent-minded, but then thinking of the baby in her belly, she quickly reminded Jonas.

Hearing this, Jonas stopped and looked at Melinda anxiously. He was so excited that he forgot about the baby all of a sudden.

Thus, it showed that baby was really an accident.

"It's okay. Go downstairs for a walk with me." Gently touching her lower abdomen, Melinda looked up and couldn't help laughing when she saw the look on Jonas's face.

After this conversation, the two people became more intimate.

Now, Melinda couldn't hide her body, so she just stayed at home and went to the company when she had something to do. Queena was very diligent these days, and went to Melinda's house every day.

"Auntie Yao, you really don't have to buy so many things." Seeing that Queena always bought gifts, Melinda said reluctantly. The places where these things were piled up were not enough.

The servant didn't know what to do when she saw these foods. Melinda had a small appetite and she couldn't eat these tonics every day. The best choice was to eat healthy food.

"I don't think so. These are not enough," Queena said. If it weren't for Jonas's interruption in home, there would have been more than that.

Queena now had a kind of intention of compensation for Melinda, after all, she had been very hard on Melinda before.

"Please make a cup of green tea for Auntie Yao."

The servant took over the things and poured a cup of tea for Queena. Queena's eyes fell straight on the belly of Melinda, where there was a baby growing.

her eyes were so fiery that it was difficult for Melinda to ignore Queena asked in concern. When she heard Melinda mention the baby, she couldn't stop smiling. At the same time, she

"Yes,"

Jonas slowly became better. Now he would think of her all the time. Besides, he would always be free no matter how busy he was during the antenatal check. He listened more carefully than Melinda to what when she thought of all kinds of strange questions he asked the grew up now." Queena was also gratified when she heard that, and said a lot of things needing attention in pregnancy to now you know what's on Jonas's mind. Don't you want to go back to the Gu's mansion?" Queena changed the subject and asked the question that would be a joke because she knew that Jonas liked Emily. Besides, it was because she aborted in that house once.

from the baby gave Melinda subconsciously clutched her chest, which frightened Queena. In a hurry, she stopped her hand and said, "What's the matter?"

and then came

I just thought of some unpleasant experience in Gu's mansion,"

in her eyes,

Melinda was bothered by something else, but she hesitated and said,

Queena found what kind of girl Melinda was. She had done a lot of wrong things, and now Melinda wouldn't blame

I thought you didn't like Jonas. I always thought you approached him with a purpose. Now I know how wrong I was. I apologize for everything her heart and told her the truth, which surprised Melinda. She didn't expect that she misunderstood her words, but she didn't want to knot in Queena's heart. She would be fine if she said this out.

you will forgive me. But I understood the heart of a mother very much. It was normal for her to be misunderstood like this when she thought of the gap that she would do the same thing if someone approached her child with a purpose in

I don't blame

in this

she just wanted to

"Really?"

asked in surprise. She was a very extreme person. When she put herself in the position of Melinda, she thought it was was so calm.

all over." Those were her all these, you can go back to the Gu's mansion and live with us. Your grandfather misses you expectation, and her last words completely shook Melinda's a stubborn grandpa.

day like me, but he's getting old. Even if he's hard

ask the servant to pack up my belongings