

Forgive My Ex-husband Chapter 253

"Dad, I believe in Jonas." She believed that Jonas was a person who knew how to cherish. If so many things had happened and he still didn't value her when she came back to him, she would definitely leave him.

"What's wrong with you, dear?"

Vern said helplessly. He had hoped that Melinda would care more about Jonas, but now he regretted.

He didn't know about the family of Jonas and these things, and was so silly to believe that Jonas and his daughter were a perfect match.

"Father, don't worry. I am not going to make a fuss. I just have suffered too much from the same man." Melinda said, pouting her lips. Such a childish behavior was so natural for her to do.

Looking at her, Vern felt more helpless. He sighed and said, "anyhow, remarry her is a big deal. I know that you have fallen in love with him since you know what love is. But I also hope that you can know that we can't live a life just with love for the rest of our lives."

Like and love are unreal, no matter how strong the feelings are, they will also become dull, and in the end, only the habit of companionship, and family affection.

Due to his high social status, Jonas liked young and beautiful women very much. Vern was worried that his daughter might win a favor from Jonas after his daughter lost her present appearance.

"Dad, I know."

Instead of deceiving her father, Melinda nodded solemnly. She grew up in a simple and pure environment, and she had never experienced intrigues.

It was the first time her father had talked to her about such a profound topic.

"That's good. You are my only child. I don't want you to get hurt anymore."

Vern had only one child, but he was unfamiliar with the relationship with Melinda, but he would also try to give the best to her.

Now that she had grown up and wanted to have her own family, he could not help but feel the stubbornness as an old father.

There was nothing that will be more worried than seeing his daughter get married. Vern thought.

As for his daughter, she had gotten married for three times. It was the same person, and both of them took their marriage as a joke. So no matter what, he would not let his daughter be treated so casually this time.

Melinda couldn't understand her father's feelings right now. After taking a rest at home, she felt much better. In the end, she decided to leave.

"It's so dangerous in the evening. I have your room." It was late. Hearing that she wanted to go home, Vern did not agree.

It was already very dangerous for a girl go out at night, not to mention that Melinda was pregnant.

"No, I left my calcium pill at home. I have to eat it every day." She smiled and said. Although her father had everything here, these tonics were not prepared.

ate were not then said like a spoiled child, "Dad, I haven't had dinner touched her belly to show that she was food. Well, his daughter had talked too much, prepared delicious noodles, which contained a lot of meat, eggs and her favorite cooked was light, but Melinda had a strong stomach. Can you bear it?" Vern looked woman can eat whatever her baby wants to eat." Said Melinda righteously and righteously.

baby is the best backer." Said her father, smiling. In front of his bone soup of the noodle. Seeing that Melinda added so much chili to the a strange habit. She preferred noodle soup, which was a typical type of person who could full herself with soup.

Vern felt

Thinking that her father's home not push yourself too hard. If you have any reminded her father before she left, worrying that he would only rely on himself and healthy recently. Looking at his daughter, who was pregnant but still your words felt helpless. She is pregnant but she doesn't gain much weight no matter how much she eats. If she doesn't have a prominent belly, people will home, just go.

Vern didn't want his daughter to leave, but he hoped that she could go back home father any more.

very bright outside. With so many and darker, she had a didn't take long before the tiny raindrops fell. The people in the standing under the

went wrong today.

but she began to miss Jonas. She also wondered how aunt Yao was the rain became more and more heavy, and her clothes were getting wet. She directly walked into the rain.

on her

can you promise that Jonas made her feel very confused. It was not easy but what her

suddenly felt that she had fallen into another dragged out of water. She wrapped herself with a towel, and didn't dare to be careless at all.

a hot shower, she drank a cup of ginger tea. She suffered a lot because she was pregnant and couldn't get